Vietnam memorial on tap

A four-member faculty panel planned upon and reacted to President Nixon's Vietnam policy speech Monday night in the Administration Building.

Led by moderator Dr. James F. Hensley, associate dean of the School of Applied Arts, the panel members opened the 8 p.m. forum by contemplating what the President's speech would—or should—contain.

Col. William Boyce, business administration instructor, said: "We are facing a world communist movement. If we give into aggression we will promote aggression. We are paying a heavy price for what we call freedom." But he admitted that "Vietnamizing" the war, i.e., turning the combat chores over to the enemy, might be a valid comment would be possible.

Several times during the Nixon address a member of the panel made errors in pronunciation or misplaced important nouns and adjectives—the audience broke into laughter.

The President issued a strong warning to Hanoi regarding increased levels of violence. "Handco could make no greater mistake," Nixon said. And if this increased fighting should occur, Nixon said he would take "tough, effective measures to deal with that situation. This is not a threat," he continued, "but rather a warning to Hanoi that the U.S. is prepared to defend our national interest.

"I respect the idealism of Youth," the President said. "But this goal can be achieved only by adherence to the rule of law. We are not going to solve world problems by force. We must avoid the miscalculation that led to the war in Vietnam." Nixon added, "People will still be able to express opposition to the war. This time will be given over to an open forum. In this way, Kragge said, "people will be able to express opposition to the war. This is better than asking for an end to the war." Right now speakers are being sought and Kragge has contacted Rev. Bruce Tjaden, Father Bob of the Newman Center, Councilman Donald Q. Miller and several faculty members. Students interested in giving formal speeches should contact Kragge in the Temporary College Union.

President Kennedy was also approached this week by Congressman Brown, who asked that the college provide facilities for a rest stop for the cars caravanning from Los Angeles to San Francisco to participate in the National Action Movement.

The facilities in the Men's Gym have been approved for use for the activity by Dr. Kennedy but, according to Kragge, a group is needed to coordinate the rest stop.

What? Another concert? This time rock-blues

Taj Mahal, a "down-to-earth" Negro blues musician, and the Steve Miller Band, a rock-blues group with such songs a "Quicksilver Girl" and "Living in the USA," will appear in concert at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 13, in the Men's Gym.

The concert, sponsored by the College Activities Committee, will feature the two groups playing three hours of music.

Both artists and their groups are known around the country with a number of albums to each group's credit.

Newscaster chides tv for emphasis on image

A Los Angeles newscaster told campus chapter members of Sigma Delta Chi Friday night that television news attempts "to be the mirror of society."

Jess Marlowe, newscaster for NBC's afternoon newscast, told members of the professional journalism society in Santa Barbara that television attempts to present news as "...a mirror of society."

However, Marlowe conceded that same mirror can also be distorted and "...bring things to a point where they will burn."

Replying to questions, Marlowe commented mistakes appearing in print are blamed by readers to the newspaper as a whole.

But an error made by a newscaster is attributed to him by the viewer—even if the newscaster didn't write the story himself.

Marlowe also said television news suffers on "independent station where the majority revenue is spent on a news personality.

He explained, "...revenue should be spent on equipment and the improvement of the newscast program."

Rieger, Publicity Director for KBC in Burbank, outlined proposals for the national convention slated for Nov. 15-18 in San Diego.

He said the admission of women to the society was the number one item on the agenda for the conference.
Rash of breakdowns plagues 'Pride of Pacific'

Against seemingly insurmountable odds the Mustang Marching Band suffered no injures or casualties that could have resulted from a series of vehicle breakdowns as they traveled to Northridge for the San Fernando Valley State football game.

In letters to President Robert Kennedy and other college officials, Bill Johnson, band director, outlined the vehicle problems starting Friday afternoon and ending on Sunday afternoon; October 24, 25, 26.

The band traveled in two yellow buses leased from Atascadero Schools, one grey campus bus, a one-ton luggage truck, a five-ton equipment truck, and an ASI stationwagon.

The plague of mishaps started on Friday afternoon. The truck carrying the band equipment broke down on the way from the Auto Shop to the Music building.

The equipment truck was quickly repaired to meet the departure schedule. The next mishap occurred when the Atascadero bus broke down on the Hollywood Freeway on Saturday afternoon. To make matters worse the ASI station wagon could not be shifted into high gear "about the same time", it was reported.

Johnson said, "Although the Atascadero bus was 'repaired' by Auto Shop personnel on Saturday night and given an 'O.K.' by the mechanics, it would not start on Sunday morning, dead battery". The same "repaired" but suffered another blow when it broke down on the Ventura Freeway. The California Highway Patrol came to the timely rescue of the now crippled marching band. Johnson stated, "Two vehicles went out of control on the freeway and one of them plowed into the side of one of our buses, which was legally parked off on the side of the freeway, totally demolishing the car and smashing the left-front corner of the bus. By some miracle no one was injured."

On the trip back to campus the luggage truck had a right-rear flat tire and one of the buses had "maintenance" problems with its headlights.

In the conclusion of the letter, Johnson said, "Had a car crashed into us during those times (when students transferred from the broken down bus to two buses sent down from SLO) several bandmen would have been killed".

Johnson said that the inadequacy of transportation was tremendously inconvenient and in his opinion "dangerous". It was for this reason that Johnson called for an increased band budget from the ASI next year. This would make the Mustang Marching Band travel in "modern buses".

Arguing is not in debate squad

Arguing or debating is something that everybody does, but sanctioned arguments aren’t too common.

But, if you have a knack for debate or even if you don’t, Dale Mardiros, head of the campus debating team, says you’re welcome to try your ability at this activity.

Speaking in either individual competition or as a squad, members travel throughout Southern California, and occasionally to the northern part of the state.

Mardiros said solo performances are given in Original Oratory, Oral Interpretation, Impromptu, Expository, and Persuasive Speaking. Topics for these areas are chosen by the speaker.

Federal grants of income tax revenue to state governments is the national debate topic, Mardiros said, and discussions include states rights, economics, income tax, and state and federal fiscal policy.

Coach for the debate squad is Jim Conway. The squad is supervised by Speech Department.

Meetings, Mardiros said, are 8 p.m. Mondays in room 130 of the Music, Speech and Drama building.

Clean up project

On Veteran’s Day, Nov. 11 the newly forming chapter of YAF will be busy cleaning and beautifying creek beds and adjacent area in and around San Luis Obispo.

People interested in helping this effort are urged to contact Dave Bassey at 488-5642.
UMAS aids Headstart program

As the first project in an ambitious program of community service, United Mexican American Students (UMAS) members have given up part of their past three weekends laboring to refurbish Headstart headquarters in Atascadero.

UMAS crews have cleaned the grounds, erected fences, repainted and painted facilities and generally worked on the school located at 969 El Camino. The building houses a Headstart class of 20 students and is sponsored by the Economic Opportunity Commission. The school has the support of federal and state funds but relies much on community aid and donations for its revenue.

The Chicano's work time is recorded but rather than paying UMAS, the city of Atascadero will give the amount earned directly to the Headstart program.

Other projects planned by UMAS for this year include a Yule food and clothing drive and sale of food at Poly Royal. The Mexican students also have hopes of bringing a pre-Columbian art collection here according to club President Oscar Quinada. UMAS also works closely with One-to-One in tutorial help for students.

Monthly student awards made

Tom Corls and Bruce Whitlock are sharing co-honors as outstanding students this month. Corls, a WOW week counselor, has been recognized for his outstanding administration of the Welcome Week booth, for his contributions to student registration and processing, and for his aid in the preparation of materials for new student use. Because he exemplified himself in these duties, Corls was selected to receive the Student of the Month Award. He was presented with a plaque and certificate by the Awards Committee and will receive recognition in Mustang Daily.

Bruce Whitlock received a trophy and a certificate in honor of the Mustang Award. Whitlock took upon himself to barricade the road leading to the Aero-Hanger where a dance was being held. Not only did he prevent a traffic jam, Whitlock also prevented a potential fire hazard which would have affected the 1200 students attending the dance.

Awards Committee. To qualify for the Mustang Award, the nominee should be a dependable person whose performance always exceeds the expected. The nominee does not have to be an elected leader or an appointed chairman.

Hitchhiker injured

What probably started out as a joke, left Steven Schulte in critical condition in the Sierra Vista Hospital.

Schulte and Michael Erkel, both students, were walking home from classes last Tuesday night when two men in a flatbed truck offered them a ride. With Schulte and Erkel aboard, the truck immediately speeded up and made a fast turn. Schulte panicked and jumped off the truck striking his head on the pavement. There he lay unconscious as spectators gathered.

The truck continued south with Erkel aboard. When it slowed for a stop at the Higuera freeway on-ramp, Erkel jumped to safety.

An exhibition of “Tae Kwon Do”, or Korean karate, will be given tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the Men’s Gym for 50 cents.

The exhibition is being sponsored by CASPER, as part of International Week to introduce the Korean form of self-defense. The four-man team has been touring the United States as good-will ambassadors under the Campus Crusade program. The group is headed by one of the top three Korean karate experts. He has been studying karate for 20 years and is a sixth degree Black Belt which is the highest one can go in karate.

The other three have each been studying for 20 years and are all fifth degree Black Belts. The four are chosen for the tour by a committee and are considered the best in KOREA. This was confirmed by the local Korean students who added that these men are very highly respected.

Hooters face Grand dilemma

Creating Grand Avenue presents a everyday challenge to students living in Yosemite Hall. Patience, persistence, and intestinal fortitude are necessary for those who make the trek.

Students driving cars to school create a bottleneck in front of the hall, while students on foot do so in between cars, both pacing and stalled, in order to pass the street.

According to Al Klann, chairman of the Student Planning Commission, SPC is now considering possible solutions to the Grand Avenue crisis to present to the Campus Planning Commission.

Klann explained that when students have problems or proposals concerning campus planning, they must present their plans or proposals to SPC for consideration. SPC then presents solutions and proposals that are in accordance with the campus master plan to the Campus Planning Commission.

He said the SPC met with concerned students on Monday, Oct. 3, to watch a film on traffic congestion on Grand Avenue. The film generated a discussion that led to the list of possible solutions to traffic congestion:
- Build a sidewalk along the east side of Grand Avenue.
- Construct a pedestrian bridge across Grand Avenue by Yosemite Hall.
- Use traffic monitors at peak hours to control pedestrian and vehicle traffic.
- Install a traffic control light at Yosemite Hall with push button for pedestrian crossing.
- Reduce the number of crosswalks at Yosemite from three to one.
- Eliminate all parking along Grand Avenue, form two "in" lanes and two "out" lanes, coupled with safe pedestrian crossing at Yosemite.
- Eliminate all parking along Grand Avenue between the hours of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. and provide safe pedestrian crossing at Yosemite.
- Eliminate parking along Persister Road in the vicinity of the Administration Building. Extend the visitor's parking lot for the Proposed area as 15 minute parking spots.
- Provide a tram, elephant train, or bus that would circulate from parking spots to dropoff points.

Underdog Poly faces UM

Poly's twice-beaten Mustangs find themselves in the spoiler's role-tomorrow as they invade Missoula. Poly's starting backfield for the Montana game will find junior Joe Nigos at fullback, Nigos, who has played number two tailback most of the fall, drew praise for his play last week at fullback.

Nigos has rushed for 420 yards in 67 carries, a 6.3 average. He has scored four touchdowns this season.

"They also have an excellent defense, which is big and fast. They've got it all," the Mustang mentor added.

The UM defensive line is headed by standout left end Jim Nordstrom, a 215-pounder. Nordstrom blocked a last minute field goal attempt to preserve the 7-6 win over Montana State. Earlier this season he blocked eight passes by Portland State. Left defensive tackle Larry Straubhan, a 6-4 and 250-pounder is another top line-man. Free safety Karl Stein has nine pass interceptions to lead the defensive secondary.
