In the noble spirit of learning-by-doing, O.B. attempted to absorb enough algebra on his own to get him through his agricultural engineering courses, but he failed. "I don't think it was the school's fault," he tells. "I should have gone to a junior college first." "A wiser man, O.B. attempted Cuesta College subsequent to his withdrawal from this college, but never completed his first semester there. His tale is not without a punchline. "They didn't help much. They told me I could probably get by without it (algebra)."

"I wasn't emotionally mature enough to handle classes and everything. I didn't apply myself like I should have," Susan further confessed that she could see no future use of her agriculture-oriented major.

When Susan G. disenrolled in March, 1968, she gave no reason. In retrospect, she now admits that her problems were "part financial part emotional." Susan, at the time an Animal Husbandry major in her Sophomore year, had set no future goals for herself. This coupled with financial problems at home convinced her to return to Eureka where she could trade labor for money. At the time, she couldn't see any future use of her agricultural science major before March 17, 1970.

The music that has been chosen for the concert is both highly entertaining to the listener and very challenging to the performer. Many hours of rehearsal and practice have gone into the preparation for the Winter Concert, and with our three specialty groups providing a great deal of variety, our concert is sure to be enjoyed by everyone," Johnson said.

Most of the phantom alumni interviewed were asked to identify the body they felt contributed most to their apparent lack of success at this college. In the case of Susan G., she and her husband run a ranch in Honeydew, California. "I was very interested," is the answer Gene M. gave the registrar at his withdrawal two weeks ago. A junior college transfer student, Gene decided he could no longer take the load work of a beginning agriculturist architect. So, he packed up his drawing board and returned to his native Santa Barbara where he is awaiting travel reservations to Europe.

The travel "bug" bit another student. John B. claimed "weariness" got the better of him, and he is presently seeking a cure in Honolulu. He held out longer than the Europe-bound phantom alumni, however. John's mental cantilevers did not begin cracking until his junior year in architecture.

"I was interested in learning about culture," John B. included in the program will be "A Wiser Man," the Dixieland Band, the Percussion Ensemble, and the Symphonic Band.

Tonight the Men's Gym will ring not with the thump of basketballs, but rather with applause of people attending the Fourth Annual Winter Band Concert presented by the Symphonic Band. "Careful selection and keen competition have been involved in forming the new Symphonic Band," a 71-piece ensemble that was selected from the most talented musicians from last fall's 100-piece Mustang Marching Band," said William V. Johnson, conductor of bands.

This year's concert program will cover a wide range of music. Included in the program will be "March of the Flamingo" and "A Wiser Man," the Dixieland Band, the Percussion Ensemble, and the Symphonic Band.

The specialty groups are the Dixieland Band, the Percussion Ensemble, and the Brass Quintet. The Dixieland Band is a six-member group that specializes in New Orleans' Jazz as played in the first half of this century. They provide a very light atmosphere with original comedy and fun.

The Brass Quintet is a newly formed group made up of five of the top players of the brass section. This chamber ensemble specializes in serious works for the brass quintet.

The Percussion Ensemble is a specialty group made up of the entire drum section of the Symphonic Band. A special soloist with this year's group is Jack Densch, trumpeter.

The 71 piece Symphonic Band will go on its annual tour Tuesday through Saturday, March 17-21. They will perform at high schools in Goleta, Thousand Oaks, Simi Valley, Fillmore, Baldwin Park, San Marino, San Bernadino, and Riverside.

The 8 p.m. Winter Concert, held in the Little Theater, will be $3.50 for student and $1.25 general admission.

Pre-scheduling for all students

Pre-scheduling for all students planning to attend Spring Quarter will be held at 11:00 a.m. Thursday, March 5, 1970. Failure to attend the meeting is a missed Administrative Appointment and a $2.00 fee may be charged.

Location for the meeting will be posted on department bulletin boards, in the El Corral Bookstore and the snack bar.

On Monday, March 2, a list will be posted in the foyer of the Library of all students who are eligible for early registration. Any undergraduate currently enrolled or previously enrolled in 601 or 602 (senior project or dissertation) course is eligible for preferential registration. All students are encouraged to review the list and report omissions to the Registrar's Office in the Administration Building, Room 219, before March 17, 1970.
SAC asks for change in parking regulation

Student Affairs Council will be recommending to President Kennedy that all staff and faculty priority in parking on campus be eliminated.

This would mean staff zones would be eliminated and that staff be on equal ground with the students when it comes to parking on campus.

The resolution was submitted by John Robinson, representative from Architecture Council. "I have heard all of the reasons that are given as to why the faculty and staff have the best parking spots on campus," Robinson said, "and I think that it boils down to the fact that they think they are better than the students."

SAC also rejected the recommendations of the Fact Finding Committee on Campus Parking, with the exception of two points listed in the committee report.

The points on SAC agreed with the committee were that parking violations should in some way be handled on campus instead of by the county, and that the possibility of students being able to purchase a parking sticker for a whole year at a discount be looked into.

On the point of handling traffic violations on campus, Dick Barrett, ABI vice-president, said, "The judge and the police are not happy in having to handle all of the violations that are cited on this campus."

"Also," Barrett continued, "students are not happy about having to go downtown and give their money to the county for violations that they were charged with while on campus."

The point about students being able to buy year-long parking stickers was brought up by Jack Curtis, Applied Science representative.

"It would be my understanding that this would be handled like the sale of health insurance is at this time," Curtis said. "Students should be able to have the alternative of buying a sticker by the quarter for the regular price, or by the year at a discount."

"We would like to stress, in recommending that priority parking be eliminated, that we don't want to eliminate the visitor or paraplegic parking," Barrett said.

Confused over the draft? Guidance can help

Draft counseling and advisement are services available to students on this campus through the Dean of Student's Office and the Counseling Center. These services are also offered by independent and off-campus persons.

However, according to a state law, the college cannot permit outside individuals to offer advisory services on campus.

According to Dan Lawason, acting dean of students, Fraternity or any other off-campus groups are not eligible for draft counseling. Lawason says nonsenior students involved in the Free University are not qualified to be members of on-campus groups, such as SNAP, which proposes to offer draft counseling.

Dave Freeman, a non-student involved in SNAP, says he was quoted as saying that his group plans to have a draft counseling center on campus, which is false, and that his group plans to have a Free University course on draft counseling which will attempt to guide young men on the college campus in making the best decision when it is time to enter the military.

Fred Rizzo, an instructor in the English department, has been offering year-long draft counseling since the national moratorium may not use counseling.

"We feel it is the duty of a draft counselor to tell the students what to do; but to provide answers to questions about the service and offer guideline. A misconception about student deferments Rizzo wants to clarify is that deferments will be given by draft boards if a student completes 45 units per quarter. Three quarters of 12 units each will not meet this quota.

In dealing with conscientious objectors, Rizzo attempts to clarify to the student that legal alternatives are available and leaves the decision-making to the student.

From the administrative viewpoint, draft counseling is a project which law has established as a welfare of the person as a whole which branches into a specific problem — the military and home. There are professionals who desire to have workers with students and are trying to remain unbiased by offering guidance without pushing personal values.

The draft counseling services rendered by the administration take two forms — draft advisement and draft counseling. Draft counseling involves supplying information and general advising, while draft counseling involves expert guidance for those students who have great difficulty with draft pressure which may affect their career or home life.

The student who needs technical information regarding Selective Service or college endorsement of his academic standing before his local draft board is directed to the Dean of Student's Office. Here, Bob Timone, as a new addition, provides services on campus. Draft counseling is very successful, many as 30 students will be advised counseling or deferments depending on the action of their draft boards. If the boards are reclassifying, there is a great demand for help than at any other time.

When asked about his positive draft counseling from developing outside, Timone says he feels the cause must be led under shell. The changes in the draft lottery system are looking for answers to answer the needs of the intensified.

George Mulder, head of counseling, believes that outside counseling is fine as long as a counselor remains unbiased.

Although the administration cannot guarantee each student will receive the aid he needs, the administration welcomes the interest of suggestions of qualified states who can increase the effectiveness of the administration's response to student needs related to military service obligations.

Snack Bar turns to vice

When is a snack Bar not a snack Bar?

When it is a Speakeasy.

The Roaring '20s come alive again on Saturday, Feb. 28 as the Snack Bar is transformed into a Speakeasy every night club by the Special Events Committee, from 9:30 to 1 a.m.

For the gamblers from Stuffy's Pool Room or the Las Vegas Sands Hotel, there will be a crap table, blackjack, Texas hold'em, and roulette. Delta Chi has offered the services of their "experienced" dealers.

In the adjoining night club, entertainment will be provided by Dave Paddock, who will be singing songs during the evening. A 5-piece jazz combo will play dance music throughout the night, along with a relaxing atmosphere to sit and enjoy the three beverages available.

"The Speakeasy was a huge success last year. This time the show is a non-alcohol show. The patrons can gamble, watch the show or dance," explained Bob Predmore, chairman of Special Events.

Admission is $1.00 per person or $1.50 per couple, which includes $1.00 worth of playing money. More will be put up and there are prizes for the most money won during the night.

The decorations have improved 100 percent since last year," concluded Predmore, "we expect a large turnout.

The student-controlled Events Action Committee recently staged a Morro Bay Dunes cleanup day which was so successful it will be repeating another cleanup day this weekend, according to the publicity chairwoman for the group.

Little urges all interested people to meet in the gravel parking lot between the Science North Building and the Fire transportation will be provided and the group will have use of the parking lot at 8:00 p.m. Saturday. They will congregate in the parking lot off the campus, about two miles south of Baywood Park. They will then be hauled away by park rangers.

During the last cleanup day truckloads of old car bodies, bottles and cans other trash was hauled away and was handled by park rangers according to Little. There's an event for this weekend, Little.

Committees are formed to fight campus pollution

The specific recommendations were made by President Robert E. Kennedy's Ad Hoc Committee to Promote Elimination of Environmental Pollution.

The committee stated that they "would, like environmental pollution activities to be included in Poly Royal," they further stated that "It is the consensus of the board that we should urge the meeker in the area of environmental pollution.

Recently there has been criticism about soil erosion from a swale pipe on the highest part of the reservoir above the dorm area. A member of the committee and Chief Engineer Arthur Young cleared up that problem. He said, "We have never had a severe surface problem again."

Further insults were: numerous dumps of debris and obsolescent equipment along Bienen and Briatolari Creeks. Unfenced reservoir dams which permit flooding by livestock, thus preventing establishment of vegetation which results in soil erosion.

Other insults according to the report are: inadequate precautions at construction sites to prevent soil erosion, soil slumping behind brick buildings and erosion on firebreaks along ridges.

A special report was distributed from the California Regional Water Quality Control Board. According to the report, there are several proposed Fort portion Control Acts which require the board to allow the dumping of waste material, fill soil areas and areas.

Foundation Manager Gene Breden is chairman of California Regional Water Quality Control Board. According to Breden, "Audience seating should always be provided for people from our area who might wish to attend.

The chairman of the maintenance board said, "People have been in the habits of dumping their waste anywhere. We mean, either surface or subsurface."

Lorrie Raggard from the Division of Architecture stressed that his department is attempting to solve some of the Poly Royal problems that will bring action. Their exhibits are set up to get people to do something positive and get involved in solving the pollution problems.

A special report was distributed by Dr. Rubin Greffenius. It listed 21 campus environmental insults observed by members of a site ecology class Nov. 18, 1969.

The report included: Soil compaction and lawn trampling by people cutting across sites to prevent soil erosion, soil slumping behind brick buildings and erosion on firebreaks along ridges.

Other insults according to the report are: inadequate precautions at construction sites to prevent soil erosion, soil slumping behind brick buildings and erosion on firebreaks along ridges.

Chairman of the committee, Lechlan Macdonald, recommended reading "The Environmental Activist's Handbook." According to Macdonald, it was written mainly for the youth movement toward eliminating environmental pollution. The book is available in the library.

Fitz on Friday

He sang shirtlessly

Fitzgerald on Friday

by JOHN FITZERANDOLPH
Staff Writer

Dustan's slumbering sonata ended abruptly. And Nalid, the spotted pony, was now weeping excessively and was dangerously suffering from growth.

A magazine writer (who had heard through the American grapevine) stopped by. Dustan with nuclear testing dust, moon rocks, and a weeping, strangely enlarged pony set out for Xitan territory to "write" about the unusual activity "there."

In the sprawlings of Xitan devastation, Dustan was now copulating peacefully with the sorcery remains of moon rocks and disruption.

He panned Nalid. He sang sweetly to Nalid. He helped.

All things which Dustan had endured—and had endured with a stationsmaster's sanity, a watchman's vigilance—gave experienced impetus to the brown, thick-haired farmer's quest for non-political pacification.

He sang happily, knowing Nalid, his pathetic pony, would return to the music.

Dustan ignored the queries of his new visitor. The writer was impressed by Dustan's peaceful plowing and hammering—he was moved to report the macabre pony and Xitan song messages in his "article."

Mesmerized, enchanted, spiritually touched by the sight of Xitan neutrality and forensic friendliness toward land and animal, the magazine writer wrote...

SAC pow-wow on Indian’s plight sought

By Tim Long
Staff Writer

Brad Brown, a sophomore English major, has asked Student Affairs Council to adopt a resolution in support of the American Indian in his fight against U.S. colonization.

That point was one of 21 parts of the resolution that Brown brought before SAC Tuesday night. The resolution demanded better treatment for the American Indian and asked that this college support the resolution that Brown brought the Indian nations in their struggle to better their lot in the United States.

The reason that I brought this resolution to SAC, Brown said, is that SAC is in touch with student thinking and can create and build trends in student thinking by passing bills and resolutions.

Before Brown stood up to offer his resolution to the council, there was some laughter over the resolution as the members of SAC. Evidently, some of them thought that this resolution was funny and thought that its presentation would provide them with comic relief.

“I have seen people on the council laughing,” said Brown, “this is a serious resolution people are dying.”

“If you have concern for anyone in your family,” Brown said, “you have concern for the Indian...they are human beings.”

“People don’t take the Indian movement seriously,” Brown continued, “they don’t destroy the city. They could destroy the city, but there is not much there for them to destroy in the first place.”

The resolution cites 28 of the thousands of injustices that have victimized the Indians during the last 100 years. These examples were picked, according to Brown, to show the kinds of injustices that the American Indian has been and is still subject to in the United States.

The resolution cites the deplorable conditions that exist on the reservations, such as lack of pure water sources and families living in gutted automobile shells.

The resolution also points out that the average life expectancy of the American Indian is 44 years, more than 25 years lower than the national average, and that education of the Indian has been third-rate.

The average income of the Indian is $1500 a year, the lowest of any group in the United States. The official poverty level designated by the Federal government is $3,000, twice the average Indian income.

Brown’s resolution, which will be voted on in the next SAC meeting, calls for the improvement of the facilities that exist on reservations and a commitment on the part of the government to honor the treaties which it signed with the Indian nations. Further, the resolution demands that federal land not be used to give back to the Indian under the Sioux, Nation treaty of 1868, which provides for the return of land to the Indians.

The resolution also asks that a committee of students be set up that will offer their services to the Indians and that this committee be allowed to raise money for the Alcatraz Relief Fund without having to pay a percentage to SAC.

Brown’s resolution, if passed by SAC, would be sent to President Nixon, governors of all the states and to all the members of Congress urging them to take action to alleviate the problems faced by the American Indian.

One member of the council questioned whether SAC had the power to pass such a resolution and whether or not passage would set a precedent for future bills of this type in the future.

Jack Curtis, applied science representative, said, “We already have set a precedent with our decision to support the Vietnam Moratorium earlier this year, and I feel that this is another issue of the same kind.”

“I hope,” Brown concluded, “that there is concern for the problems of the Indian on this campus and that we are willing to do more than recognize the existence of a problem if you don’t intend to take action to end that problem.”

For the Mustangs the two games mean a chance to stay over the .500 mark. Stoner's troops currently will end this Saturday night in the hold a respectable 12-12 record and Men's gym. The 1969-70 Mustang have already doubled their win output for last season. But, the Mustangs are not interested in past records, they want to be winners.

If the Mustangs can manage to win both contests it will be only the second winning season in the last eight years for the Green and Gold. The last was in the 1966-67 season when the Mustangs then coached by Stu Chestnut finished with a 15-11 mark. The Mustangs will hopefully be aided by the home court advantage, if their is such a thing.

In the Mustang's last encounter with Fullerton and Irvine, the Titans succumbed to the Green and Gold 84-76 when the Anteaters downed the Mustangs 73-65.

Five seniors end mat career

by TERRY COPPER
Sports Editor

Five seniors saw wrestling action for the last time as they ended their wrestling career in a 3-4 victory over Stanford University.

These five seniors have helped to make the Cal Poly wrestling team what it is today in the nation; ranked first in the College Division and sixth in the University Division of the NCAA.

Tuesday night five seniors wrestled their last dual match for the Mustangs. Two of them won by pins and the other three by decisions.

Terry Hall was the first senior to see action on Tuesday. A regular starter at the 118 pound class, Hall won his weight class to pin the 134 pounder, Charles Harris, in 4:30.

Don Biaza, who wrestled for the first time this season, ended his wrestling career with a 3-4 decision over Bill Ross in the 167 pound division.

In the past Arnold has been a 177 pounder, but this season he spent most of the team in the 177 pound division.

Greg Barnet is a small heavyweight. Barnet, a graduate of San Luis Obispo High School in 1968, has been wrestling for the Mustangs for the past five years. As a rather obscure hero, Barnet last year wrestled behind Dennis Petracek. Tuesday night Barnet went down one weight class and decisioned Bob Leeper in the 190 pound class by a score of 17-6. As a heavyweight this year, Barnet had a 13-3-1 record, with the win in the match Tuesday night, he finished in the winning note with a 14-13-1 record.

Another senior seeing action for the last time, heavyweight Hank Drabin finished his dual match career with a pin of Lee Fair in 1;3. In the last five years, Drabin and Barnet have been in constant contention for the right to represent this school in the heavyweight division. Drabin, like Barnet, had to wrestle behind

Dennis Petracek last year.

These five seniors are through with their dual match competition, but the most important events for them are still a few weeks off.

For the next couple of weeks these five wrestlers will be battling younger, spirited wrestlers for the right to represent Cal Poly in the national championships.

Larry Morgan in the 142 pounder class declaimed Jerry Beaudoin 14-2. Steve Gardner in the 150 pound class, freshman pinned Jerry Ross in 8:10.

Tomorrow the Mustangs travel to Pomona to participate in the CCAA championship tournament. The Mustangs are favored to take championships in each weight class.

Colts have best-ever season

by CAROL CHADWICK
Sports Writer

Friday night, the Cal State Fullerton freshmen come to town. These daring five halted the 11 game winning streak the Colts had. Will they do the same to a seven game winning streak?

One of the Colt’s top scorers, Billy Jackson, is back in action for this crucial league game. He has not played for the past four games because of an injury to his wrist. Jackson has averaged 19 points a game. For 16 out of his 18 games he has been top scorer.

Top scoring honors for the season, so far, go to Lenny Lowndes. Lenny has averaged 22 points per game, and about 13 rebounds a game are average for the 22 year-old forward. In his last game against Cuesta JC he scored 35 points.

During their last encounter with the Fullerton freshmen, trouble plagued the Poly yearling. Four Colts wound up on the bench, and Billy Jackson was ejected on a technical. That loss to Fullerton is the only league loss the Colts have incurred.

The final game of the season this Saturday night with the University of California at Irvine, Irvine freshmen lost their first bout with Lenny Lowndes and the mighty minors, 99-91.

If the Colts can successfully defeat both teams Friday and Saturday night they will have a season record of 22-4, and be tops in the league standings with a 1-1 record.

The Mustang’s attack will once again be spearheaded by Dennis d’Autremont. The versatile junior once again leads the Mustangs in scoring with a 14.7 average, an increase of .4 over last week.

Following close behind d’Autremont are junior Lew Jackson with a 12.7 norm, Gary Anderson’s 11.3 average is good enough to move him into third place in the Mustang scoring derby ahead of Doug Smith who is hitting at an 11.0 clip.

Playing his last games in a Mustang uniform will be senior Dirk Stone. The big 210 pound strongboy from San Diego is currently leading the team in rebounds, hauling down 7.3 a game.

Help the Mustangs end their season on a happy note, go to the game and cheer. Both games will begin at 8 p.m.

Lew Jackson, a regular starter, and Alan Gage have been suspended from the team and they will not see action in this weekend’s basketball contest.

Coach Neale Stoner was quoted as saying, “These two ball players are being suspended for their general attitude. We feel it is detrimental to the teams efficiency.”
