Concert test of system

What one member of the campus Fine Arts committee has called the system's "greatest test of the year," recent events have joined with the original concept of the "Ethnic Almanac of American Music" and the "Mustang Almanac of Western Artists" to form a system that features the best of American and Western music. According to the spokesmen for the event, they have done everything possible to get approval of the project and get as many of the best artists as possible.

"Our first idea was to do as much as we could and still retain some of the violence that may be involved," said Mike Zander, chairman of the Fine Arts Committee. "But we have been able to prove that it can be done."

The committee has been laying the groundwork for the event for the past two quarters, and they recently culminated the work with an extensive report that was submitted to the administration for the approval of the event. This report touched every possible area that they felt was applicable to the subject, from security precautions to the budget.

Security was one of the most important areas related to the event, according to the spokesmen of the committee. Their main objective was to convince the administration that the possibility of violence wasn't as great as it could be and that anything that could happen could be dealt with.

The committee has decided to give the groundwork for the event to a "sponsored" group that could still appeal to the entire student body at this school. This objective is proven just as vital to our cause as the other objectives of the event.

Banker opposes war

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Louis A. Landburg, board chairman of the Bank of America, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that he opposes the Vietnam war both as a citizen and as a member of the committee that is considering the war as a matter of national policy.

"In my opinion, the war is a major contributor to inflation—and our most crucial economic problem. It drives the prices of resources that could help us to work towards solving the economic problems facing this nation at home," he said.

He cited historical research that he believed would have "positive results" to the entire war. "Applying the principle that war is a positive economic problem, the war is a positive economic problem. It drives the prices of resources that could help us to work towards solving the economic problems facing this nation at home."

"Unlike Korea, this war does not represent the banding together of the major nations as a group, under the leadership of the United Nations. It represents any established principle. It is a unilateral action, which, in turn, is an attack on the economic security of the world."

The California banker appeared before the committee to meet the impact of the Vietnam war on American society. According to Mr. Landburg, the war ended the peace, and the world was not yet ready for war. But he was satisfied with the results of the EOP election. He cited the overwhelming public support for the war as a prime reason for its acceptance.

The results of the election have been approved of by the EOP Committee and the campus Senate. The results were presented to Chairman Steve Greenberg. He said the Senate Affairs Council will be expected to ratify the results at the SAC meeting next Tuesday night.

Leslie Griffin of the Election Committee said the figures will be posted for two weeks, and if they are not contested, a new election will take place.

EOP passes

The Educational Opportunity Program was given support by the student body in a special election yesterday. A total of 1406 ballots were cast, and 1004 were yes votes, or 71.4 percent. The 74.3 percent figure was exceeded by the third-year majority needed for the issue to pass.

"The results of the election have been approved of by the EOP Committee and the campus Senate. The results will be posted for two weeks, and if they are not contested, a new election will take place," said Leslie Griffin of the Election Committee. The figures will be posted for two weeks, and if they are not contested, a new election will take place.

Deadline Set

The deadline for the Poly Royal Photo Contest has been extended to Tuesday, April 30, at 5 p.m. Entries are presently being accepted at the receptionist’s desk in Graphic Arts 128, and a fee of 50 cents is required for each entry.

Applicants may enter an unlimited amount of entries in each of the divisions. The major divisions are Color Prints, Color Slides and Black and White Prints. Subdivisions in each of these are Spot News, Portrait, Landscape and Special.

All prints must be mounted on 18 inch by 24 inch board. More than one print may be mounted on one board, but each board must be considered to be a single entry. Slides may also be entered as a series, but they will count as only one entry. Slides must be mounted on two-inch squares, and linen trim will be accepted.

This year’s contest is offering many awards. All of the top entries will be published in the Spring Activities Calendar. The best color entry will be reproduced in full color on the cover and others will be reproduced in two-color dialogues on the inside.

The top black and white will be reproduced in the San Luis Obispo Telegram-Tribune. Cash prizes will also be awarded. Ten dollars will be given for the top entries in each of the three major divisions, and $15 for the best over-all entry.

The schedule of election deadlines released by ASI is:

- April 10—Petitions circulated and forms completed.
- April 15—Petitions and applications due at TCU by 5 p.m.
- April 25—Meeting of all candidates, campaign managers and Election Committee in Science North 306, 7 p.m.
- April 30—Election Assembly (time and place to be announced) Active campaigning begins with this assembly.
- May 5—ASI Election, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

QUESTION OF MUSIC
Folk, not rock, music

University of California at San

Daly. "My experience with folk audiences is that they are similar to rock audiences in that they are

unruly; thus making them a problem that seems to rise in rock festivals. Folk music wasn't even born on the same era."

The committee went into great detail trying to erase the idea of rock performers. "There are no performers who even could call themselves rock performers.

Music will be entirely ethnic,

"said Zander.

Concern for the audience the Festival would attract was also important to the committee, and

they agreed to set the admission

prices at a figure that every

Audience member would attract was also the Almanac will draw. That's why

the campus is exempt from meeting the recent county
ordinances controlling large
crowds of people at events of this

nature, they have practically

accomplished their aim of creating a non-commercial atmosphere in the festival.

Concern was also expressed in the data chosen for the event

because it coincided with a traditional Future Farmers of America state judging competition. Kennedy stated that the events may not be 100 per cent compatible. Zander attempted to strengthen the committee's position by stating that even though the campus is exempt from meeting the recent county

ordinances controlling large
crowds of people at events of this

nature, they have practically
done this to the letter with the precautions already stated.

During a period of discussion,

Pres. Kennedy said, "I don't want to be unreasonable. I just want to be sure. I want to cover

all the bets."

Valley holds key to golfing success

Latham Marsh struck three hits to spark a 13-2 Mustang triumph and a doubleheader split with Fresno State Tuesday.

Marsh, a part-time outfielder, belted a double and two singles, triggering an explosive 13-hit Mustang offensive, after Fresno claimed the first game 3-2.

Looking ahead to an all-important series with San Fernando Valley State College this weekend, Coach Augie Garrido employed four pitchers in Tuesday's games.

Bill Hall saw action first, hurling four innings. Allen Noble took over in the fifth and retired six men in a row.

Centerfielder Dave Yeasell led off the game with a home run, but the Bulldogs countered with a pair of runs in the bottom of the inning. In the third the Mustangs tallied their other run when Yeasell was hit, moved to third and then put in an appearance and finished the game.

Lathan Marsh started the second game, giving up only three hits and a run in five and one-third innings. Larry Silva then put in an appearance and finished the game.

The Mustangs started slowly, nabbing solo runs in the second and third innings. In the fourth, though, they totaled three hits for three runs, in the fifth they added two more tallies, and in the sixth four hits brought in three more.

"All our players are playing well now," Hicks reported. "The key to our whole season will be how well we play today against Valley State on their course."

In last week's win over Fullerton Perry Pederson and Jim Kiger who played No. 3 and No. 6, each fired 72s while sixth man Greg Stafford had a 72 and No. 2 golfer Steve Lockyer had a 73. Lockyer, a senior from Long Beach, has the best men's average for the season, 78.0, earning a 7-6-1 record in play.
