Archies top major totals

When late registrants come in, the dropouts drop, and the computer gets it on, the campus this year will have 13,400 bodies buckling the boots.

Gerald Holley, director of admissions, records and evaluations, said that 11,873 registered last week. He said that approximately 100 students will register during the late registration period.

Counting on the usual drop-out rate, total enrollment this year will be the projected maximum of 13,400 students.

The architecture majors at this college are the largest single group of majors with a total of 1541 students enrolled. Business administration runs second with 870 majors. Home economics is third with a total of 708 majors.

Engineering has the smallest enrollment with its 31 majors.

The largest percentage changes of majors is to be found in both agriculture and architecture. There is a 311 percent increase in Agriculture majors with 27 enrolled this year, as compared to zero the year before.

The School of Architecture and Environmental Design has the sixth largest total number of majors with 1478 students enrolled.

The School of Communications Arts and Humanities is the smallest school at this college, having 882 majors enrolled.

Trustees tighten rules

Governor Ronald Reagan has given blessing to a proposed set of tougher rules on the state college system's campuses, which he termed "essential for the continued use of our state colleges."

The rules will tighten procedures for use of college campuses by outside groups and Environmental Design has a loss of 29 architectural engineering majors, which is a 28 percent decrease from last year's 103 AE majors.

There are seven majors in which there are no new students enrolled this quarter. These majors are construction engineering, landscape architecture, economics, political science, industrial arts, engineering science, and physics.

The School of Engineering and Technology has the largest total number of students with 2680 majors enrolled. Agriculture and natural resources is second with 2708 majors. Human Development and Education is third with 2194 majors. Business and Social Science, with 1961 majors, is fourth. Science and Mathematics is fifth, having 1461 majors.

The School of Architecture and Environmental Design has the fourth largest total number of majors with 1478 students enrolled. The School of Communications Arts and Humanities is the smallest school at this college, having 882 majors enrolled.

US agents in campus checks?

Washington—UPI—President Nixon has asked Congress to authorize prompt federal intervention in cases of bombing or arson on university or college campuses.

The request was disclosed after a three hour conference between Republican legislative leaders, Nixon, Attorney General John N. Mitchell and J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI.

Legislative leaders also said that the President would ask for an additional 1,000 FBI agents to deal with campus disorders and in programs designed to thwart aerial hijackings. These men will join the existing 7,000 agents.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said Hoover told the White House gathering that the radical leftist group, Students for a Democratic Society, had been directly involved in 347 arson cases, 483 personal injury incidents and 200 other episodes of racketeering, during the past academic year.

Ford and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania emphasized that federal agents will intervene only after actual bombings or other major terrorist acts, and will not be used to forestall disturbances.

Under the President's latest anti-crime proposal, federal agents would be permitted to intervene in cases involving bombing or arson on campuses of institutions receiving federal financial aid. Nearly all universities and colleges receive federal aid in one form or another.

Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem-N.Y.), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said that his committee will add the President's proposal to a Senate-passed bill designed to crack down on organized crime.

Under present law, federal authorities can assist in investigating major campus disorders only if asked by the university or college officials or by local civil authorities.
Dear Editor,

Please refer to last Wednesday's story on page 6 concerning the proposed road to the proposed Disney development in the Sequoia National Game Refuge (Mineral King). The State Division of Highways doesn't expect construction to proceed until the 1973-74 fiscal year.

In my opinion, this "State Highway" should not be built at all. It will cost California taxpayers between $85 and $80 million (depending upon the estimate consulted) to build this dead-end road to the Disney private development. The Disney corporation won't pay a dime, even though the only purpose of this road will be to serve their development.

There is already an access road into Mineral King, but Disney Enterprises decided that a new road is needed (hence more ugly scars on hill-sides and more silt pollution of the Kaweah River). This request for a new Mineral King road comes at a time when many desperately needed projects throughout the state go unfunded (have you been in a traffic jam recently?).

If the Disney Company wants a road to serve their development let them build it. The proposed road will have to go through a segment of Sequoia National Park, and was approved by the National Park Service despite glaring illegalities. For instance, the Park Service violated its own regulation that motorists shall "not be routed through National Park Lands to reach ultimate destinations."

Also, the required ecological determination of the road has not been made. In fact, the entire Mineral King project is shrouded in illegailties.

Governmental agencies have consistently violated their own regulations in catering to the Disney Company. It will take an even greater public outcry than has already been raised against this project to stop this kind of thing.

Sincerely,
Bruce Patrovsky
Member of the Wilderness Society

New members are needed for A.S.I.'s Fine Arts Committee. According to Mike Nelson, chairperson, there are several positions open and not enough people to fill them. To become a member, one must attend at least three consecutive meetings, and work on the various projects.

Planning for this year began Tuesday when the committee met for the first time during the Fall Quarter. Plans for the year include the Fine Arts Festival in January, Mustang Almanac during Spring Quarter and various films and performers throughout the year.

Erotic "Monika"

"Monika" is Bergman's most erotic film, a passionate testimonial to the theme that, for intellectual modern man in search of meanings, sex is not enough..... Harriet Anderson is the most remarkable Swedish actress since Greta Garbo," Bo says critic Eugene Archer for "Film Quarterly" about the first various films and performers throughout the year.

Pollution pole

UPI-Hans De Jong, 26, Tuesday won a pole sitting contest in Brasemer Lake with a clocking of nearly 67 hours. The contest, with a dozen participants, was organized to draw attention to water pollution.

Honolulu UPI-Hardly had an all-out Coast Guard search for a missing 31-foot trimaran begun, when it was called off Tuesday. It turned out that the trimaran had been safely moored in Kahului Harbor on the island of Maui for two days.

Snap programs farm workers strike support

Emerging from its usual summertime dormancy, white radicalism is back at Cal Poly. It began with the only white-oriented radical organization on campus, Students for New Action Politics, and its first meeting of the year.

Snap coordinator Sue Malcolm began by explaining that the function of the organization is primarily one of education and of offering the students at the college a radical, or as she explained it, a more realistic point of view. Realistic or not, some 80 to 70 students gathered in a science classroom all with one thing in common; they were dissatisfied.

A program of seminars, speakers and discussions was discussed, as well as active participation in projects in the community. Immediate participation in the present farm workers' strike was planned, as two of the local representatives were at the meeting urging student support of the strike.

Organized by Caesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers Union, the strike is aimed at lettuce growers in the Salinas Valley and the Santa Maria area.
Fire destroys homes

OAKLAND, UPI-A wind-whipped blaze destroyed 30 expensive homes and damaged 30 others Tuesday before firefighters, aided by hippies controlled Oakland’s worst fire in nearly half a century.

Arson is a possible suspect.

Flames broke out about midmorning, raced through tinder-dry grass and brush and leaped through tree tops before being brought under control. A five-hour battle in 90 degree weather.

Contributing to firemen’s problems was the dryness of 13-foot high fields of grass. It has not rained in this area since June 9.

Hundreds fled their homes, which overlook San Francisco Bay in a four-square mile area of the Oakland and Berkeley Hills, as sheets of fire up to 200 feet high swept towards them.

Oakland Fire Chief James J. Sweeney said the fire was either carelessly or deliberately set.

Sweeney praised the “street people” for their help. About 300 to 350 helped extinguish the blaze. Many of them were from UC Berkeley.

There were no deaths, but four firefighters, one policeman and one woman were overcome by smoke.

The damage was set at $1.6 million.

Committee spots open

At the first meeting of the year yesterday, the Applied Science Council discussed the major student committees on campus.

Committee spots open

Chairman Nick Garcia announced that positions on the 13 committees needed to be filled by members of the council. The committees include the Communications Board, the Student Planning Commission the Finance Committee and the ad hoc Committee on Student Resistance.

Clyde P. Fisher, dean of the School of Applied Sciences and advisor to the council, emphasized the fact that the student government of this university is run mainly through these 13 committees. He urged all council members to join one of these organizations.

UFWOC strikes again

SALINAS (UPI)—The United Farm Workers Organizing Committee members today struck two produce firms with which they had been conducting negotiations for a labor contract.

The firms—Freshpict and D’Arrigo Bros.—both had rescinded a previous Teamsters Union Contract and were attempting to settle with the UFWOC.

Negotiations were recessed until Sept. 30, but an estimated 350 workers elected to leave their jobs this morning. At the top of the season Freshpict employs about 400 workers and D’Arrigo, about 200.

Harry R. Davis, representing D’Arrigo, said negotiations had not been broken off.

“We are rather surprised,” he said. “There have been some hangups. We had come to the point where we no longer were exchanging ideas on a settlement and so we recessed.”

There is an urgent need for talented artists, writers and photographers to work on the “El Rodeo” yearbook. Satisfaction is guaranteed at the end of the school year when the publication is released.

The first meeting of the staff will be on Tuesday, Sept. 29 at 7 p.m. in the Graphic Arts Building, room 303. If additional information is required contact Don Holt in Graphic Arts, room 220.

Mieuli finally wins one
Thurmond inks pact

San Francisco UPI

SOMETHING has finally gone right for San Francisco Warrior owner Franklin Mieuli.

He announced Tuesday that he had signed pivot man Nate Thurmond for two years at an undisclosed salary rumored to be around $180,000 a year.

In recent months, Mieuli had seen Pete Maravich, Rick Barry and Zelmo Beatty slip through his fingers while Thurmond had peeled with the Warrior owner while demanding a five-year pact.

"I'm ready to sign when he shows up," Mieuli said Tuesday. "I've had it. The man is ready to play 48 minutes of man over."

"Thurmond is as good or better than any other NBA pivot man—when he is healthy," Mieuli declared. "But that's the problem."

Injuries have dogged the big guy throughout his otherwise great nine-year career. Last year he played in only 48 games before quitting to have knee surgery. He had averaged 11.8 points per game and 11 rebounds until his injury, after which the Warriors collapsed to sixth place.

Fans and players agree the 6'11" Thurmond is as good or better than any other NBA pivot man—when he is healthy, but that's the problem.

"I wish he could have signed," said Frank Wilk, thrilled that his team had survived.

But Thurmond gave Mieuli indication that he was feeling fine about "Wing-ding" ready to sign when he showed up cut $1 million pact.

But that's the problem.

\text{Gretel faces impossible task; must fight for life}

NEWPORT, R.I. UPI-Gretel skipper Jim Hardy was faced with the almost impossible task today of winning four straight America's Cup races.

Defending Intrepid gained a 30 lead in the best-of-seven series for the coveted bottomless cup with a minute and 18 second victory Tuesday, but the margin isn't a dead-cut indication of the commanding lead since Gretel's second race victory was reversed in favor of the U.S. boat.

Intrepid's latest triumph as accomplished in heavier winds and the forecast for Thursday's fourth race indicates the same weather conditions.

Hardy's match race dilemma is one that few skippers, managers and coaches have surmounted in sports.

Orangemen blacks reinstated

UPI-Eight suspended black football players have been reinstated by Syracuse University Chancellor John E. Corbally, Jr.

The chancellor's action Tuesday night followed several meetings during the day and the recommendation of Coach Ben Schwartzwalder.

Two of the team's tri-captains said today the team approved reinstatement, not unanimously, mainly because they wanted to be allowed to play football.

Captain Paul Paolillo, senior quarterback from Weirton, W. Va., said the vote came after Royal O'Day, president of the university board of trustees, told players there were rumors that blacks might attempt to disrupt Saturday's home game against Kansas.

Paolillo said O'Day also mentioned that Syracuse Mayor Corbally's announcement of reinstatement came about six hours after the end of an afternoon meeting on campus of Schwartzwalder, Robert Mangum, head of the state Human Rights Commission, and representatives of the administration and black players.

The chancellor said the reinstatement will not have any effect on a faculty-student committee formed to investigate the charges of racism made by the blacks.

Corbally said the committee will be convened "as soon as possible" by Vice Chancellor Jim Carleton to "prepare a comprehensive."

Twins meet Orioles in best of five series

OAKLAND UPI-Amid the popping of champagne corks Tuesday night, the veteran on the Minnesota Twins, particularly those who played last season, said they looked forward to meeting the Baltimore Orioles in the American League playoffs.

Shortly after clinching the Western Division pennant, members of the Twins held the usual champagne pouring celebration in the clubhouse but it wasn't the typical wild affair.

Some of the younger players whooped it up, but the veterans-10 a.m., who vowed to turn the tables on the Twins, who advanced to the World Series last year by sweeping the Twins in three straight playoff games.

"We've got to get more hitting this time," said Tony Oliva, the hitting star of the division clincher. "Last year, we didn't hit in the playoffs. "We have to do better this year," he repeated.

Ron Perranoski, the stubby bullpen stopper, also said the team offense will have to come alive against Baltimore's 5-game winning trio of Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer.

As for himself, Perranoski, who picked up his 5th save in the 9-3 division clincher over Oakland, he feels just fine. Even after he pitched in his 60th game and 100-plus innings this season, he said, "I felt fine tonight."

But manager Bill Rigney, who got doused in champagne for the first time in his career, indicated that Perranoski would be among those rested for the balance of the regular season.

Rigney, who took over this season after Billy Martin was fired, did not elaborate further but more than likely, Stan Williams, another bullpenner, would be rested for the Baltimore sluggers.

Oliva is in the midst of a hitting title race so chances are that he will see action every day.

Harmon Killebrew quietly watched the celebration and said, "I hope it's a different story this year," referring to the playoffs.

After the champagne splashing, a drenched Rigney said, "This is the first time I've been doused. Let me tell you, it just feels real good. Now if we can do this a couple of more times in the playoffs and World Series, I'd be much happier."

Lee Alexander might try to stop the games in order to prevent violence.

"All we want to do is play football. We've heard three or four different stories about how they planned to disrupt this game," Paolillo said. "Mr. O'Day said that threat of violence would still hang over the game and it might be canceled by the mayor."

The eight blacks were suspended after they boycotted spring training in support of a demand that a black man be added to the coaching staff.

As part of the agreement, the black players said they would sign a pledge committing themselves to work to the best of their ability and play any position which best utilizes their talents.

Corbally's announcement of reinstatement came about six hours after the end of an afternoon meeting on campus of Schwartzwalder, Robert Mangum, head of the state Human Rights Commission, and representatives of the administration and black players.

The chancellor said the reinstatement will not have any effect on a faculty-student committee formed to investigate the charges of racism made by the blacks.

Corbally said the committee will be convened "as soon as possible" by Vice Chancellor Jim Carleton to "prepare a comprehensive."
