Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr. has approved construction projects for Cal Poly, totaling $14.5 million — over half of the $24,247.00 amount approved for all 19 campuses of The California State University and Colleges system. Included in the 1977-78 state budget for construction are three Cal Poly projects — $11.5 million for a new campus library, $2.7 million for a new faculty office building, and $350,000 to equip the recently completed Architecture and Environmental Design Building.

The library building had been omitted from the budget which the governor submitted to the legislature in January. Since that time, Cal Poly faculty, students, and staff, led by President Robert E. Kennedy, carried on a successful effort to have both houses of the legislature include it in their versions of the state budget. Dr. Kennedy gave Assemblywoman Carol Hallett (Atascadero) and Senator Robert P. Nimmo (R-Atascadero) much of the credit for that legislative success.

Nimmo and Hallett helped guide the special allocation for the library through both legislative houses to the governor’s desk. Following the oral testimony by President Kennedy, subcommittees of both the Senate and the Assembly voted unanimously to add the $11.5 million to the governor’s budget.

Assemblyman John Vasconcellos (D-San Jose), chairman of an Assembly Ways and Means subcommittee, and Senator Walter W. Stern (D-Bakersfield), chairman of the Senate Finance subcommittee were both exceedingly helpful in gaining unanimous committee support, said Dr. Kennedy.

In signing the budget, Governor Brown specifically mentioned that he recognized the high priority need for the Cal Poly library. Working drawings for the 205,000-square-foot library building have been completed and awaiting allocation of construction funds since 1971. The structure will be located on a site now occupied by a half-dozen wood barracks buildings and a mess hall used during World War II when Cal Poly had a naval flight preparatory school. These 36-year-old temporary structures have been used for years for faculty offices and laboratories for architecture students.

Included in the new library will be space for 3,000 reader stations, stack rooms and shelves for a book collection of 205,000 volumes, and space for administrative, book repair, and special collection functions that are normal for a large library operation. The five-story library structure will replace the present Dexter Library, which was first built in 1947 and received an addition in 1961 to accommodate 6,600 full-time students.

NEW O H DEPARTMENT HEAD NAMED
Appointment of Ronald D. Regan as the new head of the Ornamental Horticulture Department at Cal Poly has been announced by President Robert E. Kennedy. Regan, an alumnus of Cal Poly, has been supervisor of agricultural and environmental education for the Los Angeles Unified School District for the past 13 years. He will assume his new duties on Sept. 1.

Howard C. Brown, (Dean, Agriculture and Natural Resources) said Regan will succeed Anthony J. Amato, who has been acting head of the department since last July. Amato became acting head of the department when Brown, who had been head of the department for many years, was named dean of the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources. Amato will return to a full-time teaching assignment in the department.

Appointment of Regan to the Cal Poly post was based on the recommendation of a committee of ornamental horticulture faculty and endorsed by Dean Brown and Dr. Hazel J. Jones (Vice President, Academic Affairs).

A native of the San Gabriel Valley area of Los Angeles, the new department head is a graduate of Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte High School. He continued his education at Cal Poly, where he earned his bachelor’s degree; Los Angeles State College, where he completed study for his master’s degree; and University of Southern California, where he was involved in further graduate study.

The Puppeteers of America and Cal Poly have announced a series of eight public performances in connection with the 38th National Festival, to be held August 14-20, 1977. These specially arranged shows will feature outstanding puppet troupes from the United States, Canada, Germany, and Israel.

The festival will bring together for the first time in the history of San Luis Obispo and California major puppeteer-dramatists from around the world. They will gather at Cal Poly to attend workshops and professional seminars, exchange ideas, and perform.

Public performances will begin on Friday (Aug. 12) at 8 pm with a performance of "Le Grande Cirque" by Rene and his Artists, a troupe from California. The performance will take place in the Cal Poly Theatre, as will all the public performances. On Saturday (Aug. 13) there will be two public performances. The matinee at 2 pm will feature "The Fabled Mr. Aesop" by the Melikin Puppets of Illinois. The evening performance at 8 pm will feature the outstanding German Puppeteer, Albrecht Roser, with his performance titled "Gustaf and his Ensemble."

Sunday (Aug. 14) will also feature two performances. A repeat performance of "Le Grande Cirque" is scheduled for the matinee at 2 pm. The evening performance by Paul Vincent-Davis of Massachusetts at 8 pm is titled "The Frog Prince." On Thursday (Aug. 18) there will be a single matinee performance at 2 pm when the Puppet-mongers Powell of Canada will present "The Miller and his Wife."

The public performances will conclude on Saturday (Aug. 20) with two performances. At 2 pm, the matinee will feature "Stories of King Solomon" by the Nesher Puppets from Israel. The final public performance will be "Aladdin" by the Canadian Puppet Festivals at 8 pm. All performances, with the exception of the one by Albrecht Roser, are appropriate for children six years of age and older. Roser's performance is for adults only.

Single performance admission tickets will be $3 for the general public. A reduced price of $2 is available for children, students, and holders of Golden Age cards. Several series tickets are also available. The festival series ticket, including all performances except the repeat of "Le Grande Cirque," will be $15 for the general public and $10 for children, students, and senior citizens.

The four matinee performances can be attended on a matinee ticket, priced at $8 for the general public and $5 for reduced price categories. The evening series ticket includes the four evening performances at $9 for the general public and $6 reduced price. Additional information may be obtained, and reservations can be made, by calling the festival box office, Ext. 2486.

Three faculty members at Cal Poly, and their spouses have been named as Danforth Foundation associates according to an announcement from the foundation's headquarters in St. Louis. David H. Chipping (Physics and his wife Katheleen, Allen D. Miller (Mathematics) his wife Trudy, and Elizabeth K. Perryman (Biological Sciences) have been appointed to six-year terms with the Danforth Associate Program.

The program is designed to encourage the humanizing of the learning experience in colleges and universities and increase the effectiveness of learning and teaching on college and university campuses. It involves associates working directly with students on a personal basis in an effort to improve student-faculty relationships and to strengthen the teaching-learning process.

Associates are eligible to attend Danforth Foundation conferences which address various topics related to their roles as teachers and citizens. They can also apply for grant funds up to $2,000 for projects to enhance faculty-student relationships through new teaching methods and improved communication. The program is unique in that it includes the faculty member's spouses as full associate members.

A Santa Maria area farmer has established a scholarship fund to help further the education of students at Cal Poly. The Ferini-Ardantz Scholarship Program has been started by Milo Ferini, a Guadalupe produce grower. The scholarships are to be awarded to an applicant who has been employed by the Bonita Farms of Betteravia Farms of Santa Maria, or whose parents or guardians have been employed at the farms.

The $450 scholarships will be awarded on the basis of grade point average, financial need, and personal goals to cover such educational expenses as tuition, fees, and books. An award will go each year to a freshman, sophomore, junior, senior, and graduate student. They will be renewed annually as long as the recipients remain at Cal Poly and are eligible for scholarship aid.

Ferini established the scholarship fund to help his employees and their children further their educations. The Ferini family has been farming in the Santa Maria Valley for more than 100 years. With over 100 employees, the Bonita and Betteravia Farms produce cauliflower, cabbage, lettuce, celery, and other vegetable and specialty crops such as sweet anise, on over 1,500 acres of prime agricultural land. Students interested in applying for the scholarship can contact the Financial Aid Office.
HARMON GAINS NATIONAL AWARD

Executive Vice Chancellor Harry Harmon of The California State University and Colleges has received the Distinguished Service Award of the nationally prestigious Association of University Architects. The award is a large silver tray with an inscription honoring Harmon "for his contribution to higher education and services to the Association." It was presented at the Association’s annual meeting at Vanderbilt University in Tennessee.

CPR - BASIC LIFE SUPPORT COURSE

Donald L. Shelton (Director of Personnel Relations) has announced that a training course will be offered to campus supervisors during the 1977 Summer Quarter. This course is sponsored as part of the specialized training program and coordinated through the university’s Continuing Education Office. Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation - Basic Life Support Course is an integrated program designed to provide knowledge of and the capabilities to perform one-person and two-person CPR for infants, children, and adults. This course also provides instruction for opening obstructed airways for adults and children.

The CPR - Basic Life Support Course will be offered three times during the Summer Quarter and taught by French Morgan, American Red Cross CPR Instructor. Each course will consist of four classes during a two week period (six hours total) starting July 25. The first week session of the course will consist of one-and-one-half hour classes Monday, Wednesday, and Friday beginning at 10:30 am and ending at noon. Class participants will be divided into three groups for the session's second week class. This class will be devoted to practical application and testing, and each participant will be required to attend only one class during the second week session. The following class schedule will begin July 25.

First course: July 25, 27, 29 (Lecture session, must attend all three classes); August 1, 3, 5 (Practical application session, one class only). Second course: August 8, 10, 12 (Lecture session, must attend all three classes); August 15, 17, 19 (Practical application session, one class only). Third course: August 22, 24, 26 (Lecture session, must attend all three classes); August 29, 31, September 2 (Practical application session, one class only).

Extension course credit is offered on an optional basis to enrollees willing to pay four dollars for the one-half unit course. Those first line supervisors interested in participating in the course should contact their dean/division head for additional information.

FOUNDATION BOARD MEETING

The Board of Directors of the California Polytechnic State University Foundation will hold a regular meeting on (Wednesday) July 27 at 8:30 am in Administration 409 on the Cal Poly campus. This is a public meeting. For further information about this meeting, or to obtain a copy of the meeting agenda, contact Al Amaral (Executive Director, Cal Poly Foundation) in University Union 212, or call Ext. 1131.

FIRST P E WORKSHOP COMING

Junior high and high school teachers from throughout the state will come to Cal Poly for the 28th California Secondary Schools Physical Education Workshop. The workshop, formerly called the Physical Education Workshop for Women in Secondary Education, will cover all aspects of high school sports in two sessions scheduled during July and early August.

Teachers from California high schools, colleges, and universities will be on hand to present workshops and demonstrations in such subjects as disco dance, racket ball, and cycling. Other subjects to be covered are folk dance, tennis, backpacking, archery, self defense, volleyball coaching and officiating, golf, and weight training. There will also be classes in flag football, soccer, tap dance, gymnastics, bowling, and body mechanics.

Directing the first session, which will run from Saturday (July 9) through Friday (July 22) is Lila L. Farr, a teacher at Fountain Valley High School. Mrs. Peg Rombach will direct the second session, which will begin on Saturday (July 23) and continue through Friday (Aug. 5). Mrs. Rombach is a teacher at Novato High School in Novato. The workshop sessions are sponsored by the California Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation; the California State Department of Education; and Cal Poly.

Regan began his work with the Los Angeles city schools as an agriculture teacher at Venice High School in 1954. He also taught at Cleveland High School in Reseda and served as a consultant in agriculture education before becoming supervisor of the district’s agricultural and environmental education programs in 1964. He also owns and operates a small wholesale nursery in the Los Angeles area, has written professional journal articles and instructional guides, and is a textbook reviewer for two publishing firms.

The holder of four different California teaching credentials, he is a member of the California Agricultural Teachers Association, the California Association of Nurserymen, and the American Vocational Association. He is also a member of the board that tests and certifies professional nurserymen for the California association of Nurserymen.

Regan’s accomplishments as an agriculture teacher and administrator were recognized when he was honored as Cal Poly’s alumnus of the year in 1968. He was cited for reviving and expanding vocational agriculture programs in the Los Angeles city schools.
