Responding to questions concerning married student housing in the college residence halls, College President Robert E. Kennedy sat in the microphone hot-seat during the "Study Break," a forum on the campus residence halls' "open-door policy." College President Kennedy explained that the residence halls government groups on such a plan, and that he had rejected it after studying its proposals. The president explained how he would handle a student petition.

"I'll call in those who I'll deal with," Kennedy said. "If I get a petition like that, I will go through the petition and I will take off of that petition the names of every student under 31 years of age and I will send to the parents of those students a questionnaire asking them what in fact they want to do regarding this issue, where in fact they are paying for the room and board of that particular student. I don't intend for a minor to make the decision."

Rodeo team rides to victory

The men's rodeo team continued its winning streak with a 428-point victory at the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association rodeo meet in Chico last Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 30-31.

Melvin Dick of Lakeview, Ore., a member of the team, won the all-around cowboy honors at Chico. Rated as the second best collegiate rodeo cowboy in the nation, he won both the bareback and bronc riding at Chico.

Larry Ferguson, San Martin, Calif., also of Cal Poly, won the ribbon roping, and Jim Ingram of Baker, Ore., a newcomer to the Cal Poly team, won the calf roping.

The second place men's team at Chico was University of Nevada, 318 points.

Central Arizona College, 289 points, and Arizona College, 253 points, followed.

In the women's team contest, the university of Arizona won first place with 185 points. Central Arizona College was second with 147 points, and Arizona College finished third with 130 points.

The Cal Poly teams will compete at Prescott, Ariz., next month, and will have the opportunity to compete at the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association rodeo meet in Chico next month.

Rights committee set to hear cases

Students who feel that they have been discriminated against because of race, sex, ethnic origin and religion may now present their case before the College Discrimination Committee.

Everett M. Chandler, dean of students, said that the committee examines only problems that are actual, potential, or alleged problems of discrimination. Other discriminatory factors, such as appearance, education and experience qualifications for employment, are not the concern of this committee.

"The value of the committee is that people can come and talk to a student, rather than the administration," he said. Before, students used to come to me. A committee is better because you have more than one person, giving a chance for several opinions to be registered, especially when there is some doubt concerning actual discrimination."

Chandler stated that there have been "quite a few" complaints from students concerning discriminatory practices with many of them concerning landlords in San Luis Obispo.

Students who believe that they have been discriminated against are urged by the 5-year-old committee to present their case. If there is a problem, all that is required is that the student contact any member of the committee at any time.

"This committee gives us a greater access to present problems in discrimination," said Chandler. "It gives the student somewhere to go and a better opportunity to get action."

"The Oakland Coliseum was the scene last Sunday when the Mustang Marching Band rocked the stadium with an outstanding halftime show..."
Letters

Concert popularity questioned

Editor:

I would like to firmly disagree with the opinions of Paul Banks concerning the popularity of rock concerts on this campus.

Banks feels that because rock groups are not crowd concerts given by mediocre students choose not to attend the rock groups. As these groups are outside the spectrum of quality rock music, I feel that they should not be used as a basis for judging the popularity of rock music.

It is my contention that in the last four years the only real rock concerts were those given by The Doors, Canned Heat and the Moody Blues—all of which without question were successful concerts. I understand that this college passed up the opportunity of getting Chicago, Neil Young and John Sebastian and now Banks recommends not obtaining Richie Haven. If Smith can bring out 1,500 people, a little simple logic says that a talented group could easily make more than pay for itself.

Poly has shown their appreciation of rock groups like the Moody Blues. Also they have demonstrated their good taste in the rejection of groups with less than adequate ability. Good rock groups do bring in money and for so many of us in the throes of a painful reading schedule the undying treadum that characterizes BLO. True rock concert represent the only alternative to smoking oneself into a blissful stupor.

D. Munson

Banke bucks

Editor:

ASI President Banks’s economic analysis of rock concerts (Mustang Daily, Oct. 30) indicates that he has dollars for brains. Then again, his lack of concern over the economic losses of other ASI funded activities causes one to wonder if his head is even on.

To assist Banks, I propose an extension of his economic policies beyond the musical activities. The basis of my plan is the profit motive—dollars for Banks, of course. Sound “consistent” application of Banks’s economic criteria of success for rock concerts will be applied to all ASI funded activities—no profit, no activity. Further, the measure to alleviate Banka’s concerns that more meaningfully analyzes expenditure of student monies which may (painfully) eliminate much more of our “traditional”, irrelevant, expensive, garbage! (B. B. ymours)

Altered view

Editor:

I hope through this letter that I can possibly reach more people than otherwise and give them some new thoughts concerning the ROTC.

First, I would like to point out that the U.S. Army is currently run by professional soldiers. All Army officers I have had contact with are professional soldiers, whether graduated from the Military Academy or ROTC or OCS programs. Any graduate of ROTC who did not conduct himself as a professional officer would not be a very valuable addition to the Army.

I have serious doubts about the civilian influence that the ROTC program exerts on the military. Any ROTC graduate is faced with a maximum two year active duty obligation. He starts at the absolute bottom of the hierarchy of officers. His best expectations are to move up one step in that hierarchy near the end of his term of service. It does not really seem possible that he will exert much influence on the mass of more experienced officers ranking above him.

It is tempting to hypothesize about why ROTC has experienced a decrease in enrollment. It is more enlightening to explain an individual’s experience as one of decrease of 41 credits in the program since the start of Spring Quarter.

One of the proudest days in my life was in the spring of 1968 when I received a letter telling me that I had just been awarded a four-year ROTC scholarship. I no longer believed in my membership in ROTC. I no longer believed that the U.S. was wrong to be in South East Asia. I could not accept the Army’s money. Long months of evaluating my membership a ROTC finally came to a climax. I asked to get out of the program.

It is still frightening to remember that day. When I went to be released from the program I learned that I was being kicked out of the program.

My crime was that on the previous day I had criticized U.S. entry into Cambodia at a public rally. I spoke at that rally as an individual citizen, with full knowledge of ROTC membership. I had dared to think differently and so I was being purged from the organization.

I am not now and never had taken any action to have ROTC taken off this campus. I hope that people realize that it is a somewhat less than open-minded program whose purpose is to train men to support our attempted dominance in the world. Perhaps someday enough people will understand this and find a better way to live together.

Raymond De Greis

Chorus needs do, re, mi-ers

Singers, particularly tenors, are needed for the Oratorio Chorus, a community rock group which works under the direction of Dr. Earle Blakensie. If you like to sing, contact Dr. Dickey at E/E 106, Dr. C.T. Rakall at MHE 214, or Mr. Halp at EE 125, or just come to the next meeting.

Dive during the Week

40% off

Rental diving equipment

Monday-Friday

Except a complete free dive

Package already discounted to $4.00

Poly students only

A.B. card required

Al’s Sporting Goods

Everything for the Scuba Diver

in front of Pier

Cayucos, CAL. • Ph. 995-3748

Woodstock will back me up.

These choices may mean the scabbing of fee paying students (Woodstock will back me up). They do, re, mi-ers...
SDS tagged in anarchy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators were told that Bernadine Dohrn of the FBI's most-wanted fugitives list and her leader compañero in the Democratic Socialists are plotting "anarchy which will surpass all levels of revolutionary activity seen in recent decades," it was reported Thursday.

Charles Biragusa, chief investigator of the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission, testified last June that the Venceremos Brigade of 900 Americans went to Cuba under SDS auspices last summer not to harvest sugar cane but to "study methods of guerrilla warfare and Communist teachings by veterans of the Cuban revolution.

Biragusa submitted a letter written by Pham Than Van, a woman on the Viet Cong delegations to Paris peace talks, congratulating Miss Dohrn on her anticommunist activities. Dated Jan. 9, 1969, the letter acknowledged Dohrn's Chicago apartment was recovered from Miss Dohrn and a woman on the Viet Cong delegation to the Paris peace talks were told that Dohrn's Chicago apartment was recovered from Miss Dohrn and a woman on the Viet Cong delegation to the Paris peace talks was recovered from Miss Dohrn and a woman on the Viet Cong delegation to the Paris peace talks.

Biragusa told a Senate judiciary subcommittee studying administration of internal security laws that the letter was recovered from Miss Dohrn's landlord after she vacated her Chicago apartment in October, 1969. The subcommittee, headed by Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., drew no conclusions about the letter in its published report of a closed hearing June 16.

Biragusa said SDS leaders are in constant communication with the radical groups that are surrounding the particular period.

"There has been a strengthening of security for a great many people and this has been offered to our opponents also," he said.

He told newsmen that there have been threats "on the part of these radical groups nationwide" that election time "was going to be a time for increased activity on their part." He said the threats have been made "for over a year.

Asked if he took the threats seriously, Reagan said, "In the job I'm in I'd be a damned fool not to." He compared it to a bomb threat, saying, "It may be a phony, but who can ignore it? You have to empty the building and search.

College Special With Coupon

by Jonnie Puentes

Staff Writer

Like a girl rolled out candle, dark and dreamy, the evening descended quick and quiet as if it were anxious to get on with the black. I was struck dumb with fright. I was alone and it was Halloween.

"Jack, Jack, where are you Jack?"

"Aghast I said to myself. "What is happening?"

The round form looked up. "I am Jack's lantern," it said. "I am in search for Jack who has been lost from me. He needs me for light to find his soul."

Looking down upon this queer orange ball, I was struck dumb with fright.

"Very well then, human, if you will not speak, at least light my Wick that I might find Jack's soul."

With numbing chills, I stopped. I listened. "Poor Jack where you?"

Trembling with fright, I found my senses and hurried home. Off in the distance I heard the orange pumpkin call, "Light a Wick in your window for poor old Jack's soul."

And down the dusty road he rolled.

In a minute he was gone and I was alone in the midst of the mist. There I stood glancing at the black wall wondering where poor old Jack could be, and where poor Jack's soul could be. I thought to myself, "Somewhere out there he has a troubled and lost soul that roams the earth searching for a place."

So I picked up my feet and swifter that you can say Jack-O-Lantern ran across the field hoping I wouldn't run into Jack or his soul.

When Halloween comes and dark is all around, make sure you speak low, look behind you, and watch for wandering bemoaning souls.

Gus' Grocery

If you liked Alice's Restaurant You'll love GUS'S GROCERY

Hot Sandwiches 1630 Oats (at Left) 5.00

Bring this ad For 10 cents off

On any sandwich

BASIC SUPPLY

2146 Broad St.

Has a complete line of body tools and automobile paint-factories colors and mixed to match any color. Also custom colors.

Open 8 days a week!

Get expert advise on painting and metal work...

28 Years Experience!

NOW WORLD WIDE!

THE MAIL BOX

SUPER DISCOUNT SOLVENTS

lowest overall prices anywhere on 8 track tapes, cassettes, & provocative & groovy posters at super-low discount prices. Speediest delivery & completely guaranteed. Send for our current catalog at super-low prices. We have a complete line of rock, pop, blues, soul, country-western, folk, jazz, classical, gospel & soundtrack. For free catalog mail your request to:

The Mail Box, P.O. Box 2247

San Francisco, Calif. 94136

Do-it-yourself auto painters!!

28 Years Experience!
Ethnic study: Where are we?

by Keith Wells

How does a minority student go about setting up a class he feels he needs? David Sanchez, Ethnic Studies department head, used a class currently being offered in the Business Administration Department as an example of how an ethnic student needs can be met by the college.

Legal Problems of Minorities, a class of about 40 percent Anglos and 60 percent ethnics, was proposed by the Chicano group called MECHA. The group wrote an outline of the course, outlined the objectives, and presented it to Sanchez. Sanchez then took it to the Business Administration Department and found an instructor for the class. Business 470X is now a class designed to equip the minority student with the tools necessary to function effectively within the American legal system.

Some of the ethnic studies classes offered are on the border line of being dropped from the schedule. Classes like Teaching the Chicano Child or Chicano Culture in Spanish are low in student enrollment not because of lack of interest but because not enough students know of their existence. Ethnics are not the only students who take the classes. Unlike some other campuses the ethnic studies program here welcomes Anglo students in hopes that it will make the entire college community aware of the problems of minorities and that the problems can be solved.

Other college ethnic study programs are fraught with battles. Why is this campus so much different? Sanchez believes that we have good students who understand the problems in setting up a new program and they see the small progress being made as encouraging. Unlike many other campuses we have a college president who understands the problems and listens to students. "We have learned a lot from other college mistakes so we are starting small and working up," says Sanchez.

Although a major is not offered and may never be because of the employability of students with such a degree, a proper selection of courses from this area may provide a student with an interdisciplinary minor acceptable in some programs. Courses from the ethnic studies area can be used to supplement the requirements for many degree programs and some courses will satisfy the general education breadth requirements.

Ethnic studies is something that is up to all instructors to include in their courses if applicable. It is the community's responsibility to hire teachers responsive to the needs of society and it is the teacher's responsibility to seek out the needs of others and incorporate them into their courses. David Sanchez has the job of acting as a middleman between students and experts qualified to teach the classes. Minority needs in just ethnic studies are not the total scope of Sanchez's job. While I was in the Ethnic Studies office talking with Sanchez about this story a woman wanting to set up a program in Ecology came in and got some help in her struggle for progress. Getting a new course offered and into the catalog is more work that one instructor can handle.

Sanchez is here to help all the minority students meet their needs for courses that will give them understanding of their culture and give them insight and motivation to improve their position, as well as the world we live in.

The Ethnic Studies department does not use its own instructors but relies on finding qualified instructors in other departments to teach classes. Most of these instructors are not minorities, yet the minority students do not seem to mind. The leaders of the BSU and MECHA have talked to President Kennedy for more minorities in staff positions, yet unlike many other colleges they have not demanded more jobs, just requested.

The ethnic population on this campus is not a large one, composing only about eight percent of the total enrollment. If the ethnic study program is going to succeed it is up to everyone to help. Both minority and majority students alike are encouraged to take some of the classes and improve their understanding of the problems our society faces and how each of us can improve on them. The courses in the Ethnic Studies Department are designed for all of the college community and its department head is an ethnic who listens to ideas from all sides.

Romadan

Ramadan, which begins Sunday, is the ninth month of the Mohammedan year, and it is a sacred month in which dawn to sunset fasting is observed. Special arrangement has been made, for those who have meal tickets, with the college cafeteria. For this and fasting schedule, and confirming the date, contact Mohamed Fatani at 544-2250.
Program for overweight students is developed

The college Counseling Center has announced new programs for students interested in weight reduction and control, and students who seek to become more assertive.

The weight reduction program, which is designed for students who are 20 or more pounds overweight, will utilize methods recently proven successful in helping students lose weight and maintain the loss over a long period of time.

This program will require about six group sessions over a two to three week period. Students who participate will receive follow-up attention at intervals throughout the rest of the academic year.

Mrs. Nancy Jorgenson of the Counseling Center staff will conduct the groups.

Interested students should sign up, leaving a copy of the times they are free during the day and early evening hours, at the Counseling Center, Room 311.

The College Store
Scent - Sounding Festival of Christmas
on the Campus
Open Mon. - Sat. 9:30 am - 5:30 pm

The Gypsy
The nation's most beloved film in 50 years!

The minister's daughter.
Her father taught her about God.
The gypsy taught her about Heaven.

"No story--and no film--better reveals Lawrence's moral absolutism than 'The Virgin and the Gypsy.' Between its boundaries is sown the seed of the Lawrenceian canon--the familial conventions, the social hypocrisy, the annealing force of sex. An exemplary case." - Time Magazine

THE GYPSY
THE VIRGIN AND THE GIPSY

D.H. Lawrence

ON SALE NOW!

Older titles:
"Rider on the Rain"
Charles Bronson

"Run to See It!"
Based on London Underground
Mustangs meet 49er’s

by Eric Michelssen
Sports Writer

The Mustangs travel to Long Beach State Saturday night for a game that will feature the nation’s second most productive offense (Mustangs) and All-American running back Leon Burns of the 49er’s. The game, which has all the elements of a hard-hitting, aggressive contest, is scheduled to begin at 8:00 p.m.

Long Beach is “the most talented team we’ve faced thus far,” said Harper. “They have bigger backs and a bigger line than Fresno State and defensively they have practically everyone back from last year,” he added.

The 49er’s attack centers around a very familiar figure, well known by the Mustangs of last year. He is big, bruiser Leon Burns, who ran all over the Mustangs in last year’s game, won by Long Beach 22-20. Jim Kirby is currently the team’s leading rusher, having amassed 489 yards and a 5.4 yard average. Kirby is a 9.6 sprinter, and provides the 49er’s with an explosive long-range striking capability.

Quarterback Randy Drake adds a fine throwing arm to the 49er’s arsenal, connecting on 53.8 per cent of his passes (56-105), for 489 yards and two touchdowns. The mistakes that plagued the Mustangs last week although relatively insignificant must be eliminated if the Mustangs hope to pull off a win against Long Beach.

Last year, victory was stolen from the Mustangs 22-20, as Burns and company capitalized on numerous opportunities afforded them through timely Mustang gifts. Coach Harper emphasized the importance of a clean game commenting, “I’ve felt we’ve given the game away the last two years and its not our intention to be quite so charitable again.” The Mustangs also lost in 1968 to the 49er’s, that time 15-7.

The key to success for the Mustangs resides in the strength of the defensive line, led by strongman Mark Sindel. The rushing of Burns must be stopped. If the Mustang offense is called upon to hold back Long Beach again, and again, the power of Leon Burns will overwhelm them. The Mustangs have not played a consistent game since shalacking San Francisco. As against Fresno two weeks ago, the team that makes the fewest mistakes will win.

Frosh invade Stanford

The Freshman football team will leave San Luis Obispo early this morning for a long bus ride to Palo Alto and a gridiron clash Stanford University.

The team that makes the fewest mistakes will win.
Emotional John Madden

Photos by Rich Palmer
A different breed of Coach

by Richard Rosenetti
Sports Editor

At 6'4" and 260 pounds you could well imagine yourself in the saddle of John Madden.

He was a Small College All-American tackle when he played for the Mustang slaven in the late 1960's. Madden has since changed roles and is now a coach of one of the most successful teams in the National Football League.

After graduating in 1964, Madden was drafted and signed by the Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL. But due to a leg injury which he received before the season started in his rookie year, Madden was never to play professional ball.

Madden took over the coaching position at San Diego Junior College after his disappointment, and then moved on to coaching duties at San Diego State College from 1964-67. In 1968 he was offered a job as assistant coach of the Oakland Raider football team and he held the head coach in 1969.

Typically, coaches today are of an unemotional breed who rarely let themselves get excited. But Madden is a different breed of coach.

Spikers run at Mt. Sac

Competition in the Mt. Sac Indian Student Association

The Indian Student Association on campus is sponsoring an Indian film which is to be shown at 8 p.m. in the A.C. auditorium.

Directed by ViJay Anand, "Superstar" is a different breed of Coach

John Madden is a different breed of coach. Madden admits that he gets just as fired up for a game as his players do.

In warmups Madden can be seen on the sidelines yelling encouragement to his players; Madden gets very emotional during the game and can go into a fit of a rage as a bad call or play is made as easily as he can get excited and jubilant at a favorable play or call.

During last week's clash with the Pittsburgh Steelers, Madden was continually pacing and down the sidelines boding and twisting his massive frame with all the emotional flare of a Marcel Marceau. Madden explained his actions, "If you want your team to be fired up for a game and you're its leader, then you have to be fired up too."

Wanting to find out how coaching a professional football team affected his life, I asked Madden if there were any differences between college and professional coaching. "There is no difference other than the people you are dealing with. At Tuscaloosa you have to rely on people because you get up at 7:30. On Friday I wake up at 7:30. On Saturday we have some of the damndest wild get ups you have ever seen. It's a nice to know that a man in the position of Madden with all his responsibilities can take time out to do a favor for a college reporter."

A different breed of Coach

Golfers start practice soon

Everyone who intends to try out for this year's varsity and freshmen golf teams should go to the Mustang cross country team to provide final meet practice for Rich and Russ Walline.

Horton, Brian McPherson and Greg Tibbetts will be captains. Greg Tibbetts at Mt. Sac and became head coach in 1989. In 1988 he was offered a job as assistant coach of the Oakland Raiders after his disappointment, and then moved on to coaching the Pittsburgh Steelers. Madden has since changed roles and is now a coach of one of the most successful teams in the National Football League.

Madden was never to play professional ball.

Spikers run at Mt. Sac

Competition in the Mt. Sac Indian Student Association

The Indian Student Association on campus is sponsoring an Indian film which is to be shown at 8 p.m. in the A.C. auditorium.

Directed by ViJay Anand, "Superstar" is a different breed of Coach

John Madden is a different breed of coach. Madden admits that he gets just as fired up for a game as his players do.

In warmups Madden can be seen on the sidelines yelling encouragement to his players; Madden gets very emotional during the game and can go into a fit of a rage as a bad call or play is made as easily as he can get excited and jubilant at a favorable play or call.

During last week's clash with the Pittsburgh Steelers, Madden was continually pacing and down the sidelines boding and twisting his massive frame with all the emotional flare of a Marcel Marceau. Madden explained his actions, "If you want your team to be fired up for a game and you're its leader, then you have to be fired up too."

Wanting to find out how coaching a professional football team affected his life, I asked Madden if there were any differences between college and professional coaching. "There is no difference other than the people you are dealing with. At Tuscaloosa you have to rely on people because you get up at 7:30. On Friday I wake up at 7:30. On Saturday we have some of the damndest wild get ups you have ever seen. It's a nice to know that a man in the position of Madden with all his responsibilities can take time out to do a favor for a college reporter."

A different breed of Coach

Golfers start practice soon

Everyone who intends to try out for this year's varsity and freshmen golf teams should go to the Mustang cross country team to provide final meet practice for Rich and Russ Walline.

Horton, Brian McPherson and Greg Tibbetts will be captains. Greg Tibbetts at Mt. Sac and became head coach in 1989. In 1988 he was offered a job as assistant coach of the Oakland Raiders after his disappointment, and then moved on to coaching the Pittsburgh Steelers. Madden has since changed roles and is now a coach of one of the most successful teams in the National Football League.

Madden was never to play professional ball.

Spikers run at Mt. Sac

Competition in the Mt. Sac Indian Student Association

The Indian Student Association on campus is sponsoring an Indian film which is to be shown at 8 p.m. in the A.C. auditorium.

Directed by ViJay Anand, "Superstar" is a different breed of Coach

John Madden is a different breed of coach. Madden admits that he gets just as fired up for a game as his players do.

In warmups Madden can be seen on the sidelines yelling encouragement to his players; Madden gets very emotional during the game and can go into a fit of a rage as a bad call or play is made as easily as he can get excited and jubilant at a favorable play or call.

During last week's clash with the Pittsburgh Steelers, Madden was continually pacing and down the sidelines boding and twisting his massive frame with all the emotional flare of a Marcel Marceau. Madden explained his actions, "If you want your team to be fired up for a game and you're its leader, then you have to be fired up too."

Wanting to find out how coaching a professional football team affected his life, I asked Madden if there were any differences between college and professional coaching. "There is no difference other than the people you are dealing with. At Tuscaloosa you have to rely on people because you get up at 7:30. On Friday I wake up at 7:30. On Saturday we have some of the damndest wild get ups you have ever seen. It's a nice to know that a man in the position of Madden with all his responsibilities can take time out to do a favor for a college reporter."

A different breed of Coach

Golfers start practice soon

Everyone who intends to try out for this year's varsity and freshmen golf teams should go to the Mustang cross country team to provide final meet practice for Rich and Russ Walline.

Horton, Brian McPherson and Greg Tibbetts will be captains. Greg Tibbetts at Mt. Sac and became head coach in 1989. In 1988 he was offered a job as assistant coach of the Oakland Raiders after his disappointment, and then moved on to coaching the Pittsburgh Steelers. Madden has since changed roles and is now a coach of one of the most successful teams in the National Football League.

Madden was never to play professional ball.