Five coeds defend bio prof

by Paul Tokunaga

Five coeds—crusading to save the job of a Bio-professor—are scheduled to meet this afternoon with college Pres. Robert E. Kennedy.

Becky Williams, Charlotte Biddle, Rene Claeson, Lynn Gaither and Barbara Boyce are slated to meet with the president at 1:30 p.m. to hash over the controversial non-reappointment—or resignation—of Dr. William Dean, an instructor in the Biological Sciences Department.

Dean is not available for comment—now teaching his second year at this school, he was recommended for non-reappointment by the tenured faculty in the Biolodi Department.

On Dean’s “Academic Employee Evaluation Form,” Dr. Glenn Noble, the department head, wrote: “The tenured faculty voted overwhelmingly against retention: 10 against, 1 to retain and 5 abstained.”

Miss Williams’ report also stated: “The evaluation committee for Dr. William Dean, a group of five faculty members, reported evidence of a lack of ability to get across ideas to students, an explosive temper that interferes with the effective teaching, and they questioned his ability for sound judgment. However, they praised his competence as a scientist.”

Contrary to the evaluation committee’s remarks and his own concurrent with the recommendation for non-reappointment, Noble, according to the report, felt that Dean “meets the requirements of his present assignment quite adequately.” In his own personal evaluation, Noble graded Dean as being either “good” or “superior” in all categories of the form, with the exception of “tolerance” and his “knowledge of the entire college,” both receiving marks of “fair.”

In five other categories, Dean was given the “not rated or unobserved” score.

Both Miss Gaither and Miss Williams are students in Dean’s Biology 121 class. They outlined their actions leading up to their meeting with Kennedy.

Band to appear on TV

The campus’ 114-member Mustang Band will be featured in a 15-minute program scheduled for the 8 to 8:50 p.m. time slot on KCRY-TV, Channel 14, San Luis Obispo time slot tomorrow, according to program information released by the TV station.

Included in the program, will be an interview with William V. Johnson (Music Department head), and director. The show is being presented locally because it was raised in the program department.

The company then chiefs, and asked the audience to give a type of movie they would like to see performed. A voice from the audience yelled, “A Western!” From the other direction came a skin-flick!”

The result?: “Shoot-out Under the Sheets.”

Creating a “line-up” effect, the artists told the story of “Millhous,” and through experimentation, how he rose to become President of the United States. In one segment, one of the actors intoned, “They created a huge monster and they sent it to Richard Milhous Nixon . . . and it had long—.”

The company then chiefs, and asked the audience to give a type of movie they would like to see performed. A voice from the audience yelled, “A Western!” From the other direction came a skin-flick!”

The result?: “Shoot-out Under the Sheets.”

Using voice-substitution, the talented cast lip-synced the x-rated cowboy flick, asking the audience to “pretend hat all the people you see on stage are not wearing clothes.”

Shifting into fourth gear, they tore apart bawdy driving. Using the car-pool idea as their starting point, they took every-day components of driving such as bumper-to-bumper driving, brevity, No-Doz, and chewing gum and incorporated them into a huge mass of cracking nerves.

“The Wing” satirizes life

Last week, there was a call for a boycott of lettuce on this campus by the UFWOC. I am not sure how effective it is on this campus, but I would like to ask the people that support this boycott if they know of the far reaching effects it has on consumers as an end result? Unfortunately a boycott of any nature hurts literally thousands of people, starting with the farm workers and ending up with the consumer.

My point is this: The people that are not working for the UFWOC have a right to feed their families. If by calling a boycott, the UFWOC puts many farm workers out of work, then who are they helping, themselves? They are supposedly helping the entire farm working force, not putting them out of work, and in turn forcing them to join an unwanted union.

There have been union labor contracts in existence for the past nine years, in some of our valleys, that have offered the farm laborer a very fair deal. Some of the labor contracts were not as good as others, but apparently many were good enough for some of the farm workers, because in several places, like in the Salinas Valley, the farm workers have refused to strike. And that was the single largest reason that this blow is effective. So I urge you to find out as much about the situation before taking either side. At this point the people, you, as a consumer, are hurting the most, are the contributor to the violence in our country. And you, the public, are the one-half responsible for it.

I have only touched on one of many phases of the wrong doing of the UFWOC. If you are interested in learning more or interested in bringing this type of information to this college, join the C.C.A. Next meeting is Nov. 16, 7 pm, Room 153 in the Ag building.

Students having difficulty speaking up for themselves, asking questions in class, and talking to others are invited to attend a new program for students who seek to become more assertive.

Assertive training, according to Drs. Robert Alberti and Michael Emmons, counselors, is a relatively simple process for learning "how to stand up for your rights without stepping on the rights of others." Persons who have difficulty speaking up in class or in discussions, those who often let others take advantage of them, and those who at times aggressively dominate others without wishing to do so can all benefit from assertive training.

The program is sponsored by the college Counseling Center. Interested students should sign up, leaving a copy of the times they will be free during the day and early evening hours, at the Administration Building, Room 221. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 546-3511, Extension Z.

Funds for scholarship

MECHA (Chico Students) are having a donation drive for their scholarship fund. It is open to all students and staff and will be held in the Architecture Drawing Lab, Thursday, Nov. 19, during college hour. Tickets are 50 cents each or 3 for $1. First prize is 100 pounds of beef, second prize is dinner for two at La Plata restaurant.

"I found out"

Tickets for the Richi Havens concert scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 12, in the Man's Gymnasium are now available on an advance sale basis.

His personal philosophy is "shaped in his music." "I found out," Havens states, "there are just two places to be. Happy and unhappy. Everything I do is looking at that one big question: What are we doing here?"

Tickets for Thursday evening's 6 p.m. concert featuring Richie Havens are available at the Temporary College Union. They are priced at $3.50 for ALL card holders, $5.00 for all others.

Cal State Fullerton dethroned the Mustang cross country team as California Collegiate Athletic Association champion Saturday at the conference meet held at Fullerton.

Senior Greg Tibbetts and Cal Poly Pomona’s Liam Ryan were the only leatherlungers separating the first Fullerton Harriers.

The team championship was all but determined in the first mile of the five mile race, according to Mustang distance coach Larry Bridges, when Fullerton leaped to the first five places. Midway in the race Tibbetts and Ryan broke into the quintet to stop Fullerton’s bid for a slam.

Wally McConnell placed 11th and Dale Horton followed in 12th for the Mustangs. Rich Wallnne finished 22nd and Frank Uher crossed the line in 24th to complete the team’s scoring.

The Mustangs were stunned the night before the meet when the services of freshman Brian MacPherson and Richard Wallnne were lost on an eligibility ruling.

“MacPherson has been the number two runner all season, and has been a team leader,” said Bridges.

John Caseo of Fullerton captured the Individual title in 24:13, with Ryan 30 seconds back. Mark Covert, also of Fullerton, crossed the line in third, five seconds ahead of Tibbetts.

Bridges said, “Tibbetts has shown great maturity and improvement all season. He won against Fresno, then followed up with a record run in Reedley. He then chased two Broncos across the finish line when Cal Poly beat Pomona here. He placed fifth in the tough Mt. Sac Invitational one week ago which led him into the conference meet.”

Tibbetts will represent the Mustangs on an individual basis in Wheaton Nov. 11.

The final standings showed Fullerton with 22 points, Pomona with 84 points, Mustangs with 73 points, San Fernando Valley State with 88 points and the University of California at Riverside with 114 points.

Fullerton has gone undefeated this season. Bridges said the consensus among the coaches he has talked to is that the Titans are the best college division team in the nation and a contender on the university scale.
