Non-retention case heard by Kennedy

Pres. Robert E. Kennedy promised a group of 30 students, "I won't drop it," in regard to the non-retention case of a professor in the Biological Sciences Department.

Tuesday's two-hour conference between the students and the administration ended with the unanimous plea by the students for the retention of Dr. William Dean.

"I don't think there is anyone at this school more concerned," Kennedy stated in reference to the faculty evaluation hassles. He added, "I don't like the idea of putting people on trial."

Becky Williams, one of five girls backing Dr. Dean, stated, "We want Dr. Dean back." She said that Dean has already submitted his resignation, but if he is offered his position back, "he will consider it.

Miss Williams then read a letter of recommendation dated June 3, 1969, from an associate of the University of Arizona, where Dean had taught previously. Directed to Texas Technological College, the letter read, "With qualifications, Dr. Dean is one of the finest people with whom I have had the pleasure of working. Both as a person and as a research investigator, he is tops.

Kennedy talked of the problems encountered when screening prospective instructors. "With recruitment and selection we are as careful as we can be." In reference to an article appearing in Tuesday's Mustang Daily, regarding Dean, he stated, "One of the points is that we only keep people who don't rock the boat!" To this, the 30 chorused, "It's true!"

Del Cervantes, another of the five coeds, retorted: "What is more important, colleagues-to-colleague relationship or instructor-to-student?"

Dr. Glenn Noble, head of the Biological Sciences Department, answered her question, "I try to take an overall picture. I have never evaluated an instructor without talking to him—and I mean many students."

This was met by an unappreciative groan from a few students. Dr. Clyde Fisher, dean of the School of Science and Mathematics, reassured them the statement that anything has never been done about the dean.

Kennedy then felt out the students to respond by asking them what they thought of Dean. "On a five-point scale, A, B, C, D, F, would you give him?" A student replied, "A 'B' or better—at least for what he has done for me."

A student added, "I resent the idea of going out of the course."

Eva Kohod, an Animal Science major, told Kennedy she went to one of Dean's classes, curious to see how his teaching methods were. "I really realized he was a fantastic instructor.

Another student smiled and added, "Dr. Noble raised him above— that indicates he is a good teacher."

Kennedy put the lid on the meeting by stating, "I know what you people are thinking. I put myself between a rock and a hard place when I do this. I don't know how I will handle it, but I won't drop it at this point."

I don't know how I will handle it, but I won't drop it at this point," Pres. Kennedy stated at Tuesday's meeting held for the non-retention of a Bio-Sci instructor.

Justice Michael Jones defines a point of law to the body is composed of students only. The first-year law student and his associate justifiably, "in a case, go into a closed session to discuss relevant matters pertaining to the case and from the student of their decision. Jones emphasized that the emphasis is not only a "recommen­dation to the Dean of Students, but is usually always upheld. The decision may be appealed through the Dean of Students or the President of the college," the Chief Justice explained.

After being personally involved with Student Judiciary for three years, the decorated Vietnam War veteran feels that the system is an excellent method of being heard by a peer group of students. Jones believes students will be at a disadvantage under the newly proposed procedures. "I believe the Hearing Officer concept is a derivative of the previous inadequacies of the student hearing at San Francisco and San Fernando Valley State. Now, (Continued on page 4)

Free concert, chamber music

The Chamber Orchestra will present its first concerts of the 1971-72 music season in the campus Theater today and tomorrow, Nov. 13-14.

Featured soloist David Mallory, presently a member of the Ohio State College faculty, will join the Senemember campus orchestra for its performance of J. S. Bach's Violin Concerto in A Minor.

The Thursday concert, scheduled as part of the College hour Concert series, will start at 11 a.m., and the Friday program, at 8:30 p.m. Admission will be free and the public is invited to attend the programs.

Mallory has studied violin under such well-known teachers as Harry Farberman, Frank House, and Louis Kaufman, all former concertmasters of major symphony orchestras. Says Clifton Swanson, conductor of the campus orchestra, "Mallory is an enthusiastic performer of chamber music who has a particular interest in 20th Century music for the violin."

According to Swanson, Beethoven's Elegant Overture, Pauze for a Small Orchestra and Hallowe'en by Charles Ives, and Ralph Vaughan Williams' Fantasia on Greensleeves, will also be on the program for these concerts.
Mustang Daily will feature weekly pot and pan suggestions that will satisfy both the student wallet and taste buds. The first recipe is one of those joys that can make you feel like the Gaultier Gourmet without even walking. It’s called the “90 Proof Breakfast.”

The items that you will need for the first adventure will include:

1 pound hamburger
(10 teaspoons) or reasonable facsimile
1 cup beef broth
1/4 cup sour cream

TOTAL COST: 50 cents per person.

You begin this one by placing enough butter (margarine for us college students) in a skillet to coat the bottom. Then saute (that’s a verb, by the way) the onions that you’ve sauteed in the hootch, put a match to it. The meat will flame up in a fiery creation that would make Chef Boy-ar-Dee jealous.

Transfer the meat to a platter. With the juices left in the pan, add 1 cup of beef broth, 4 teaspoons prepared mustard, and heat just to a boil. Stir a little of the sauce into 4 teaspoons of sour cream and beat the sour cream sauce into the rest of the sauce—don’t boil it. Pour over the steaks and you’re ready to chow down.

Serve with straight orange juice, fried eggs, hash brown potatoes, and toast.

Gastronomic relief

by Ann Newell

Problems confronting college students sometimes seem insurmountable. For instance: the daily ten mile trek to class from your parking space next to the student union or your three unit class load you created at a disastrous registration and those male-female relationships that offer all sorts of cute little complications.

But one problem has plagued the college canteen colleges first started planting by the kitchen. Due to the intersecting forces of monetary deprivation and the college canteen, the college cafeteria has been turned into an entity that is simultaneously a surmountable and an intractable load you created at a frenetic level of production.

The workshop is being presented by the Western Typographers Association and the International Typographic Competition Association along with representatives, tested and material from the Eastman Kodak Company. Students, supervisors, and technicians are expected to attend.

Mustangs to visit Titans

It will be a battle royale tonight when the Mustang eleven of coach Joe Harper will face the Cal State Fullerton Titans, for what in all likelihood will be the deciding battle for the league championship.

The Mustangs, who have been unable to win on the road this year, will have to travel to Anaheim Stadium to play this one at 6 p.m.

The Titans in only their first year in intercollegiate competition have greeted unapprehensive opponents with less than accommodating hospitality.

The Titans have bullied their way to a 6-4-1 wholesale record, and this season and lead the Californa Collegiate Athletic Association with a perfect 3-0 slate.

The Harpermen own a 5-3 overall record and an 1-0 league slate. The Harpermen have been scoring an average of 19.1 points per game to rank them third nationally in that category and lead the league's number one offense overall this season and lead the CCAA. The Titans have allowed only 297.9 yards a game and only 100 passes have found their mark against a strong defensive team.

The Titans will reign as champions in their first campaign, while the Mustangs to visit Titans.

The Mustang water polo team won their third straight match in a row last Saturday morning against the Cal State Fullerton Titans.

The Mustangs boast the offensive punch, averaging 401.1 yards per game, and their margin to 8-0.

Injuries may cause a few problems as all-league linenbacker Don Johansen is hobbled with a sprained ankle and defensive tackle Jim Fubusky is a hamstring pull.

Coach Harper was confident his charges would get back on the winning track and finish the season strong. "We haven't been down for any contest this season and it would be out of character to expect a letdown this week. We know that we are going to have to put together a good effort to win it," he asserted.

"The Titans play with a lot of enthusiasm and we're expecting a tight game," added Harper.

Poloists win

The Mustang football squad was forced to play catch-up football from the opening kickoff last Saturday afternoon in Berkeley, and eventually ran out of time as they went down to defeat 38-15 at the hands of the University of California at Berkeley, Bear-Cubs.

On the opening kickoff, tackle Blake Warhurst of the Bear-Cubs, took the ball on his own 12 yard line and raced straight through the middle of the Colt kickoff team, 88 yards for a touchdown and a quick 7-0 lead.

The Bears' quarterback Brad Brian led his team to their second touchdown late in the first quarter, moving 54 yards in 12 plays which was capped by Brian's one yard back to the TD. With the extra point the Cubs led 14-0.

Brian scored the third Colt TD late in the half to increase the Colb's lead to 20-7.

Rick Bammarger took it in from three yards out. Byrd hit Cavanaugh for a two-point conversion.
