Budget approved

An $18,307 budget estmation for Mustang Daily was approved by Student Affairs Council as recommended by Finance Committee. The recommendation tentatively approved the extension, contingent upon a financial report of Mustang Daily to Finance Committee, at the end of Fall and Winter Quarter, when final determination will be made for Spring Quarter. Debate on the matter in Finance Committee lasted almost an hour.

According to George Yee, chairman, Finance Committee, the pay staff, including three state, duty and university police, were expected to be very small due to quick action by the Cal Poly fire department.

Election null for pusher

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—The Kansas attorney general Thursday nullified the election of hippie dope pusher Phillip C. Hill as justice of the peace.

Hill, who admits to selling "all kinds of dope except heroin," promptly announced he would take the matter to the courts.

He said the court action would be made for himself, because the decision by the attorney general "leaves a lot of bastards children running around.

About the only authority left to justice of the peace after an earlier trial in the law was the power of the marriage.

"I get a letter from a Washington law firm saying they'd handle it (court action) for nothing—that all it would cost us would be a 5-cent filing fee," Hill said and delayed accepting the offer until he found "how things came out.""Attorney General Kent Frisilling informed the Kansas secretary of state that the 1968 legislature effectively abolished the office in first and second class cities.

"There being no office to fill, in my opinion," he said, "purported elections for such office were a nullity." Primos said local election officials should decline to certify results of "such purported elections and where such certification may have been made it should be disregarded."

Douglas county attorney Dan Young announced earlier this week that he was requesting election officials to delay certification of Hill's election and was seeking a ruling from the attorney general.

Hill, a former college dropout, was elected because most voters did not know who he was.

"Secrecy was the secret of my success," Hill said after the election. "I had the support of the Democrats and the United States of America." Primos said a ruling from the attorney general was not promised.

Hill polled some 6,000 votes in the same city where hard line law and order candidates were the winners of more important offices.

Fee petition

A petition requesting the Board of Trustees to reconsider its stand on foreign student tuition is being developed by the International Student Council for presentation to the faculty, staff and students of this college. International Student Council is planning to present the petition to the board at its Nov. 16 meeting.

During the summer, the board increased foreign student tuition from $360 per year to $1,000 per year. This will raise the cost for new students.

"If California legislature does not increase foreign student tuition fees until a prohibitive level is reached, only those students from other countries and knowledge they have acquired in the United States will be assured that these students will return to their countries and that their countries will develop a higher standard of living, using skills and knowledge they have acquired in the U.S. colleges," he continued."
Help make boycott effective

Editor:

For some time a group of people has been struggling to be free from the clamps of misery that these people find themselves trapped in. I am referring to the farm working community that makes it possible for us to enjoy the comforts that we sometimes seem to take for granted. Yes, I am talking about the forgotten segment of our society that until recently has been able to catch our attention.

In the Nov. 10 issue of the Mustang Daily, Mr. Bruce Shaw made an indirect plea to the students to reject the boycott that the farm workers are effectively waging against the growers. Reasons: 1. his apparent concern for the non-union farm workers. The impression I get is that his main concern is for the welfare of the growers and for the effective damage that the boycott is making to them.

By asking us to reject the boycott, Mr. Shaw is not only asking us to deprive the farm workers of the right to bargain collectively (the boycott is their only means to obtain that right), but he is also asking us to compromise with the growers against the helpless farm workers, who has been denied access to our democratic process, and whose suffering and misery have been advantageously exploited for many, many years.

A free man cannot conceive of living without justice just as he cannot conceive living without liberty. It is time for us, students, to stand up and take a firm stand against such injustices. Let us help to bring the desperately needed justice to these people. Let us help make the boycott more effective. Demand that your lettuce and grapes carry the black eagle label.

I'm happy to see the ROTC program on this campus so ably defended itself and is now doing defend freedom. Indeed, isn't that what they are trained to do?

"Yes sir! I'm a defender of freedom, trained and slide, ready to fight on a moment's notice, pure and clean, also I don't strike or use mommy's name in vain."

Yes indeed, isn't that what they are programmed to do, and the computer center being only a short convenient march away makes a wonderful working arrangement. "I'd like one defender of freedom programmed, please. He must not think, but follow order, also I'd like a cake and French fries."

-Gentlemen in uniform, you wonderful defenders of freedom that make you monuments proud of your terriffic! You have ably defended your programs and the Republic. You were fair, but firm, and you have shown everyone the important issue is not if one is right or wrong, if one is moral or immoral, but that everyone is given a choice. (What's your draft card number?), and by God, that your opinions don't contradict the majority (Whatever that is). The American Republic has been saved! Rejoice in your freedom! (And boys and girls, if you ask a decent boy or girl, he may kill a Viet Cong just for you.)

Tenure abused

The article in Mustang Daily having to do with the firing of Willard Dean once again demonstrates the bankruptcy of the tenure system at Cal Poly.

Tenure was intended to protect instructors from political pressures, which it succeeds in doing, but how are the new instructors to be protected from the encroachment of many faculty?

It has become evident that in order to achieve advancement and tenure here it is only necessary to dress "correctly" and to occasionally polish the boots of the department head and tenure faculty. It seems that the "old timers" feel threatened when an instructor comes on the scene who turns the student on to learning or wants to improve the system. The numbers of students who congregate about a teacher like that, discussing and questioning, are considered by the old guard to be an affront to them.

There is only one way to turn this situation around. Bankroll Co. should involve themselves in the primary goal of this college in the stand of concentrating on flag waving and sending a bull riding team around the country.

This goal is education, which consists of teaching and learning, and is made effective when student and teacher are on the same wavelength. To accomplish quality education, the students must be involved in the advancement and defense of freedom. After all, who knows better than the student if an instructor is competent? The Academic Senate has departed from this time honored tenant and encroached on an area not supposed to be in its domain. Although this would have little effect on the present quality of teaching, in ten or fifteen years of student involvement there would be a lot less to complain about in the classrooms.

SAC backs annexation

The Academic Senate has carefully considered proposed improvements of Mustang stadium according to Cal. William M. Boyce, Chairman of the Student Affairs Committee. Authorizing legal and contractual matters which would protect the interests of the college can be resolved, SAC endorses the concept of city annexation and the reconstruction of the stadium.

The committees also made several general recommendations regarding stadium improvement in its monthly meeting last Tuesday, which included recommendations for artificial turf utilizing space under the bleachers for certain athletic coaches offices, storage areas, and dormitories for athletes; and housing the entire ROTC department under the Después.

In other action, the Academic Senate recommended that President Kennedy forward to the Chancellor's office a statement regarding Title I of the California Administration Code Dealing with Grievance Procedures and Disciplinary Action Procedures for California State College Academic Employees.

According to William M. Alexander, chairman, Academic Senate is "opposed to permanent adoption of the Title I changes which authorize the Chancellor to establish Grievance and Disciplinary Action Procedures for Academic Employees and Board of Trustees approval."
Drug problem and the law

The Honorable Judge Fred Schenk of the County Justice Court, Morro Bay, cleared the air concerning illegal drug use and the law last Thursday night. The Conservation, county key

Conservation was the key words at the San Luis Obispo County Development and Planning Conference held Wednesday in the College Theater. Kenneth Schwartz explained that the purpose of the conference was to "give cities and communities in the county of San Luis Obispo an opportunity to present their aims and goals for their future development with the theme of the conference to be, "Tomorrow as We See It Today."

The conference opened with a brief welcome by Pres. Robert E. Kennedy, followed by an orientation speech given by Ned Logue, county planning director. Rogoway said of the county, "we must take inventory of the things that exist in San Luis Obispo County. We must compile a list of needs of the community, then we must use resources to improve the country."

The bulk of the conference consisted of presentations given by the county area concerning their needs and assets with an emphasis on conservation and the preservation of the natural beauty in the county. Schwartz presented a slide show for the central county area showing a brief history of San Luis Obispo brought up to date by pictures of the pollution in the city of San Luis Obispo.

Schwartz outlined the city's assets and its drawbacks and said, "The single greatest economic asset of our community happen to be the natural resources. The county should be careful not to destroy it."

The mayor viewed San Luis preparing for the future by giving priority emphasis to: trade and service, recreation and tourist development, and industrial development in that order.

A panel discussion concluded the conference with the mayors of each city in the county taking part. Members of the audience then asked questions concerning pollution, community communication, airport planning, and taxes.

Guidelines abandon

UPI—A former National Association of Broadcasters official told the government Thursday the tobacco industry has quietly abandoned its code for regulating advertising and is pushing more television placing cigarettes with health, fresh air, sports and sex.

Judge Schenk discussed recent statements and rulings, and referred to Section 1130 of the State Health and Safety Code. Section 1130 provides for the enforcement of drug cases. It is usually applied to the lesser type of offenses, such as possession.

In most cases the District Attorney's office makes the distinction whether to charge an offender with a felony or a misdemeanor. If an accused decided to be considered a misdemeanor, it will be processed in the Justice Court; if it is a felony it will go to Superior Court.

Expressing a desire not to incarcerate first time offenders, Schenk said, "I basically do not like to send people to jail initially. He usually will employ a form of probation, other summary suspension, or a fine. The emphasis is upon control rather than on stiff punishment." He reiterated the Judge while explaining the purposes of the distinctions.

Drugs are a serious social problem, according to Schenk, causing a serious "social drop-out problem." "They're a retreat from reality, I think you need to be independent. I think that marijuana and drugs are a crutch," he continued.

Asked whether he thought marijuana was worse than pills, Schenk answered that pills are definitely more unpredictable than grass.

Asked whether he thought marijuana was worse than pills, Schenk said that pills got a person "drastically more unpredictable than grass." "I was greatly disturbed with Operation Intercept," said Schenk, mainly due to the nature of the added emphasis placed on pills as a result of a grave shortage of grass.

When asked what the Judge positions himself as an opponent to legalization saying, "I don't favor legalization at this time."

Jobs to open

The opening of the new College Union Building next year will result in a limited number of part-time student jobs. These descriptions will, hopefully, be posted in the College Placement Office before the end of November. At that time, the Placement Office applications for the advertised jobs. However, since the completion of the new building will not be until February, hiring will not begin until that time.

Generally, the jobs will fall into several categories. Since the school Foundation will be contracting with the AFI for custodial and food service operations, hiring for these jobs will be filled through the present system of hiring such personnel.

by the Foundation. In addition, personnel will be needed in the union recreation area, the information area, building operations and possibly other positions at a later date as the building program enlarges.

During the interim, interested students should refrain from inquiring about the above positions until they are announced. The open jobs will fill these positions after the new College Union Building is completed.

Mayor works toward goals

“...a great deal of faith in what the city could be, and hope to continue that work for it and help guide it.”

In a publication called “Voter’s Guide,” the following questions were asked of candidates Schwartz and the incumbent, CVell W. Whalen, who had served two two-year terms as mayor of San Luis Obispo.

What method do you advocate in planning for capital improvements, and which improvements do you think should require priority at this time?

Schwarts: “A long-range capital improvement plan which establishes basic priorities subject to critical annual review should be adopted. Projects be funded in established priority order. Vital public utilities and protective services carry top priority. Street system most important. Schwartz: “The city’s recreational resources is deserving of greater consideration.”

Do you think that the city has a large role to play in providing recreational facilities for members of all age groups in the community?”

Schwarts: “Yes, the city does have a large role to play in providing recreational facilities simply because more people have more time to recreate than ever before. We must be especially concerned with the recreational needs of our older people as they represent the fastest growing age brackets in society.”

Some citizens have expressed concern about air pollution in San Luis Obispo. What action do you envision to ensure clean air in the city?”

Schwarts: “Pollution is an area-wide matter. We must do our part by enacting and enforcing ordinances which will insure that pollutants are not dumped into the air. We must insist on county-wide controls as well. We could get started tomorrow by prohibiting trash burning.”

Now that the voters have spoken on Mission Plaza, what do you see your role as in the completion of the Plaza development?”

Schwarts: “A master plan must be adopted. Hopefully, that work can begin. The citizens have spoken. The city should execute the ‘framework’ of the voters’ plans and call on citizens’ groups for embellishments. A good-faith show by private citizens, merchants across the crest of 1354 to 1183, Professor Schwartz became Mayor Schwartz, the first man to run an im­

In response to the last question regarding progress on Mission Plaza, Schwartz replied, “It’s there. The master plan is completed. The first phase is now being prepared by a landscape architect.”

New budget

“One of the efforts is to provide the campus with a new daily publication. We are going to have to dig into other areas such as Morris Brown and Grand and direct advertisers, said McCabe.

“We realize that the financial situation is very difficult for the people controlling the finances of the Associated Students to share our optimism in the area of the budget but through our daily publication we have already shown them that we can increase advertising magnificently without sacrificing editorially, in the paper, he went on.

“I am very happy with the unanimous approval that the Publisher’s Board, the Finance Committee and the Students Affairs Council gave the budget and every effort will be made to perform the budget in such a way that any advertiser could make,” said McCabe.

“I will strongly resist any ef­

DALLY asked Schwartz for a progress report on his goals: “In regard to the first question, Schwartz answered, “The city has adopted a capital improvement plan.” He added that the projects with top priority were funded.

Regarding the recreation problem cited in the second question, Schwartz stated, “I believe that we have been able to take positive action: we have finally cleaned the red-tape with Meadow Park on the south side of the city. It will be completed in six months.”

Schwarts said that the recreation elements rank very high on the priority list. He added “The Park and Recreation Department has been working actively on a senior citizens program.” Considerable planning is being done for the youth, though more can be done here. We are also making a survey of the creek system in San Luis Obispo.”

He said that the Income will be met and the project finished. The first phase will be finished. The master plan is completed. All the landscaping has been done. The second phase is now being prepared by a landscape architect.”

Author pegged for slander

MOSCOW (UPI) — Andrei Amalrik, a Russian journalist who once exhorted the people of the Soviet Union to "survive until IBM," was sentenced to three years in a labor camp Thursday for slandering the state in his book "Will the Soviet Union Survive Until IBM?" and "stern regime" during his trial Tuesday.

He was arrested last May 21 and the prosecution based its case on five documents, including "1984" and "Involuntary Journey to Siberia," which also was published in the West, Amalrik's book "Will the Soviet Union Survive Until IBM?" and "stern regime" during his trial Tuesday.

Amalrik and Ubochko entered pleas of innocence on the opening of the trial Wednesday. The only witness in Amalrik's trial was his wife Gussel, who appealed to the world public to intercede for him.

She said that sometime before his state's Ministry of Internal Affairs arrested him in "anarchy, violence and intense national hatred."

The sources said Amalrik was convicted by a court in Novosibirsk of "preparing and disseminating falsehoods derogatory to the state" and specified that he be kept under a "material regime." The trial lasted five days.

A codefendant, Lev G. Uboshko, was sentenced to three years in a labor camp but under a more lenient "general" regime, the dissident sources reported.

The 31-year-old Amalrik, who had denounced his trial as illegal, is a historian by profession although he never earned a degree because his views conflicted with those of his professors at Moscow University.

He was arrested last May 21 and the prosecution based its case on five documents, including "1984" and "Involuntary Journey to Siberia," which also was published in the West, an open letter he wrote to writer Anatoly Kunetsov and two interviews with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Foreign loan must wait

Foreign students in need of money will have to wait a little bit longer, as Student Affairs Council appears to be playing bureaucratic football with the International Students Emergency Loan Fund.

At the October 27 meeting, SAC members voted to reduce the fund's loan-in-kind to aid foreign students who are suffering financial hardships from the increase in tuition. At last Tuesday's meeting SAC rescinded the move.

A hassle arose over the clause that says a foreign student must have a "responsible adult functioning as a co-signer, let alone be willing to do it."

In the early days of jet aviation, the important thing was thrust. But suddenly our skies are filled with jets. And, suddenly, jet pollution is a major problem.

General Electric tackled that head on when building the DC-10 engines. And we accomplished two things.

When you see the DC-10 take to the air, you'll see no black marks anymore. Because the engines make virtually no smoke.

Of course, there's more to jet exhaust than just smoke. Our goal is some day to make jets run totally clean.

Another problem with jets is noise. If you've ever lived anywhere near an airport, we don't have to tell you that.

General Electric has been working on noise, too. GE was chosen by the federal government to help solve this problem for the aviation industry. At present, we know of no way a powerful jet engine can be made noiseless. But we've made progress in that direction.

The DC-10 engines, for instance, are quieter than any jet engines on the passenger planes of the Sixties. Quieter, even though they're more than three times as powerful.

We have more work to do before we'll satisfy all the people concerned about jet pollution, ourselves included. But because we've been working at it since the mid-fifties, it's been generally recognized as much of a problem.
Mustang runners do their thing

They're off and running, with Greg Tibbets sprinting into the lead. Wally McConnell is close behind, and Dale Horton is behind and to McConnell's left. Within a mile and a half, however, Cal State Fullerton moved a troop of speedsters ahead and took command.

Rich Walline gives it all he's got as he nears the finish line. The anguish of a long-distance run is mirrored in his face as he strains to pass an opponent.

The Mustangs didn't retain their CCAA title last Saturday at the conference meet at Cal State Fullerton, however Senior Greg Tibbets did qualify for the NCAA College Division meet in Waco, Texas. Tibbets finished fourth in the race, while teammates Wally McConnell, Dale Horton, Rich Walline and Frank Uher crossed the line in 11th, 19th, 22nd and 24th positions, respectively.

Due to a minor eligibility technicality, Brian MacPherson and Run Walline were unable to compete in the five mile event. Distance coach Larry Bridges said the team felt the loss of the two leatherlungs, but would have been hard pressed to down the powerful Cal State Fullerton Titans even at full strength.

Soccer team wants victory against Loyola

The Mustang Varsity Soccer Team will be facing the 11 man team from Loyola University Saturday, at 1:30 p.m., on the soccer field behind the Men’s Dormitory.

The vastly improved Mustang team will be going for their first win after losing their last game to Santa Barbara in the final ten minutes of play. Coach Wannakul stated that “the team is finally beginning to function as a unit rather than individually.”

The Mustangs will wind up the season on the 21st when they will go up against Cal State, L.A. Due to a late appropriation of funds, the Mustangs started slowly and have just now reached their peak.
