Pakistan relief fund for disaster victims

A drive for relief funds for the survivors of a recent cyclone and tidal wave disaster in East Pakistan is in full scale on this campus. Over 40 Pakistani students at this college have responded to news of the devastation by organizing a relief campaign. Maazoor Bhatti and Asghar Malik both of Karachi, Pakistan, are spearheading the drive.

On Nov. 15, the eastern part of Pakistan, one of the most densely populated areas of the world, was struck by the greatest tragedy in its history. Cyclonic winds up to 180 miles per hour and 30 foot tidal waves swept 10 to 20 miles inland, leaving destruction, hunger and suffering in their wake. Estimates show that as many as 280,000 people may have perished. Some have estimated a figure as high as 500,000. All forms of life have been completely wiped out from nearly thirteen off-shore islands. More than half-million head of cattle have been lost. The entire rice crop, which was ready for harvest has been destroyed and the fields are now flooded with sea water standing ten feet high.

More than two million people are without any food or shelter; their entire belongings having been washed away. Thousands of families have been broken up, many have lost their loved ones and still more stand waiting helplessly as thousands more die due to hunger, cholera epidemic and other diseases which now infest the countryside.

Mass graves have had to be dug for burial last more disease spreads out, but corpses still litter the paddies and flooded irrigation canals.

The Government of Pakistan has sent an urgent plea for help for the suffering people, as has the International Red Cross.

The Pakistani students here wish to help their brethren in Pakistan as much as they are able to, but not much can be done without the help of the campus and community.

The American Red Cross said it is standing by to provide information concerning what can be done and where to send money and other donations can be sent to Pakistan through the San Luis Obispo office.

Tenants barred from room

Approximately 85 persons attempting to hold a meeting of the newly formed Tenants Association, found themselves barred from the use of an on-campus room by armed guards.

The meeting was to be held in Science E-27 at 7:00 last Thursday night, but those who went with the intention of participating were confronted by Bob Timone, assistant Dean of Students, and two members of the campus security force.

Timone explained to those who came that no such room had been reserved for their use, and that the college refused to allow state facilities to be used by an organization that is not recognized by the college.

According to Pete Evans, the meeting for the Tenants Association was being sponsored by SNAP, which is a college recognized group, and therefore entitled to a room. He added that while no formal reservation of the room had been made, he had made arrangements for the use of the room with the Home Economics Club, who did have the room reserved.

Timone, however, stated that such arrangements in no way changed the situation; the room would remain locked and he had no authority to open it.

Meanwhile, during the exchange between Timone and Evans in front of E-27, a large group of persons had moved to another room down the hall.

They were holding a meeting of the Tenants Association, and listening to attorney Harry Woolpert speak.

The question of room E-27 was settled, Timone and the security guards proceeded down the hall and ordered the rest of the people to leave. After some discussion, the room was vacated.

The whole group then moved to the Snack Bar, where they concluded their meeting without further trouble.

The actions on the part of the Administration angered most of those present, including Woolpert, who stated that he was "amazed at the hard-nosed attitude taken by the Administration."

Evans indicated that this action would have no way affect the Tenants Associations' meetings.

He stated that a meeting would be held on Thanksgiving, either on or off campus, and urged all tenants in the community to watch for the announcement of time and place.

Comedy satire of ‘Hamlet’ play

Who is who? I'm lost. No, you're lost. We're all lost! A form of lunacy with a sad, wry purpose was presented this weekend in the form of an English play by Tom Stoppard entitled "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead." The play, a delightful prank played upon the minds of the viewers, is a satirical revenge comedy based upon Shakespeare's revenge tragedy, "Hamlet."

This greatly entertaining three act comedy about a pair of famous walk-on paraphrases "Hamlet" to the tee. The unique staging provided everyone with a fine semi-even Rosencrantz, and as he took a breath in the first act.

In Shakespeare's theatrical production, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are incidental characters of slight importance. However, in their humorous

As chairman of Architecture Council, I am very pleased to see that Richard Palmer (in his Mustang Daily) has taken the time to enlighten the students of SAC's activities and the function of Architecture Council.

Mr. Palmer, certainly has done his bit for encouraging student participation, hasn't he? When I talked to him, I explained some of the reasons Architecture Council was somewhat disorganized at this point, but as you can see, he apparently isn't as interested in trying to formulate or support student governance as he is getting good copy.

Architecture Council started this year with a chairman, vice-chairman, secretary and two SAC representatives. On the second week of school our chairman, Richard Palmer, moved to Los Angeles. As a service group for the school, our school and for our students don't want such a rule. As a newly elected officer of the council, and an interested member of the student body, our treasurer was completely in the dark when he suggested using the keys for selling coffee and donuts. However, again as stated in the meeting there are certain complications in selling food on campus. As we to be condemned under the clause or library license, for not knowing, "Robert's Rules of Parliamentary Procedure," Dennis Wilkinson, chairman, Architecture Council.

The new registration routine for next quarter will begin with a prescheduling time beginning at 11 a.m. on December 3, according to Gerald Holley, Admissions and Records Director. Failure to attend the meeting will result in $1 fine, since the missed meeting is a missed administrative appointment.

The location of the meeting will be posted on department bulletin boards in the El Corral Book Store and the Snack Bar.

On Monday, Nov. 30, a list will be posted of all the students who are eligible for early registration in the foyer of the Library.

Students who have completed 130 units prior to the beginning of Fall Quarter and are currently or previously enrolled in 461-463 senior project courses (or any part of 461-473 design project courses) will be eligible for early registration.

Guinea requests UN intervention

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Guinea Sunday requested immediate intervention by "airlifted troops" of the United Nations to help its forces fight back what it called an invasion by Portuguese mercenaries commanded by El Hadj Abdoulaye Toure, Guinea ambassador to the United Nations, requested the action in a letter to Security Council President George J. Tomeh of Syria who called an urgent meeting of that body for 6 p.m. EST, but 90 minutes after the scheduled start members were still meeting behind the scene.

Toure said "the national territory of Guinea has become the object of an attack by Portuguese forces which disembarked at several points of the capital," Conacry.

"To help the national army of Guinea, my government requests the immediate intervention by airlifted troops of the United Nations," he said.

There are no United Nations troops because the Security Council has not yet attempted to create a standing force have not produced any results.

At best, a U.N. peace force could be organized from contingents contributed by African states willing to do so, provided that the Security Council agrees to mount such a peace operation.

The council, summoned late Sunday, was slow getting to meet. After the hour for its meeting passed, there were still no speakers listed in the debate, even not requests for participation by either Guinea or Portugal who are not members of the body.

The council, summoned late Sunday, was slow getting to meet. After the hour for its meeting passed, there were still no speakers listed in the debate, even not requests for participation by either Guinea or Portugal who are not members of the body.

This was the fourth time in a year that African states have brought Portugal before the Security Council on charges of attacks by its forces on their territory. The countries involved in previous attacks were Zambia, Senegal and Guinea.

Portuguese chief delegate Antonio Patricio handed in a letter to Toumeh saying he was "authorized to categorically deny the accusations because they do not by any means correspond with actual facts.

"The matter does not concern Portugal," Patricio said, implying that several African states may have been involved in the attack. "Portugal is not willing to get involved in the internal affairs of neighboring countries which have been following the policy of blaming us for their internal difficulties, with which we are by no means connected.

"Patricio expressed the hope of the Lisbon government that the Security Council will "reject as groundless the accusations against us." He did not request participation in the council's debate.

Reds gloat over US loss

TOKYO (UPI)—Majority support for Communist China's bid for membership in the United Nations was a "serious defeat" for the United States, Radio Peking said Monday.

It added that Communist China rejects any "two China" solution that would preserve U.N. membership for the Taiwan based Chinese regime headed by President Chiang Kai-Shek.

In its first commentary on the results of Friday's voting at the United Nations, Radio Peking said:

"This is a serious defeat for the policy of U.S. imperialism, which, in its definite stand of hostility towards the Chinese people, has for the last 30 years manipulated the voting machine of the U.N. and installed the Chiang Kai-Shek clique, which has long been spurned by the Chinese people."

Radio Peking said the United States canceled its posture in the United Nations this year from one of attacking Communists China to defending the Nationalist Chinese regime.

"U.S. imperialism changed its tune for the sole purpose of misleading others, so as to facilitate its intensified pursuit of the 'two Chinas' or 'One China-One Taiwan' plot. This is what the Chinese people can never permit," Peking said.

"It has become increasingly difficult for U.S. imperialism to continue to manipulate the U.N. voting machine."

"An increasing number of countries have risen against the crime of U.S. imperialism and its accomplices in playing power politics and practicing hegemony in the United Nations."

"If U.S. imperialism and its accomplices continue their course of wilful action and conspiracy in the United Nations, they will either face an even more shameful defeat for themselves, or bring failure to the United Nations..."
