The City Council of San Luis Obispo has approved a resolution designed to give the air one day off each month. The controversial resolution, initiated by Councilman Donald Q. Miller, asks for all citizens to leave their cars home one day each month, and walk. Miller requested that the twenty-second of each month be set aside for "Give the Air a Rest Day." Designating this particular day of the month would allow it to coincide with the Earth Day, scheduled for April twenty-second. Miller hoped that by setting aside a day for ecology people would be more frequently reminded of the problem of pollution.

The final vote on the resolution was 3-2, with Mayor Schwartz, and City Attorney Tom Miller and Graham voting for and Councilman Blake and Spring against. The resolution followed a unanimous vote by the council creating a new city ordinance on the maintenance and protection of trees in San Luis Obispo. The new ordinance allows the city to enforce the overall condition of trees in the community, with the intention of improving the beauty and environmental quality of the city.

The ordinance went with the approval and support of several community groups, including the Cal Poly Ornamental Horticulture Club, the California Native Plants Society and the local chapter of the American Society of University Women.

Rackers of muck move it

When the mud flats of Morro Bay mirror the muck of mankind, there is a group of do-gooders willing to take up the cry of "Ecology now." This week marks the midpoint of a two week effort by the students of Alpha Phi Omega to preserve what Project Chairman Bruce Irvine calls "one of the few unpolluted bays on the coast," neighboring Morro Bay.

Unpolluted? With sand dunes draped with trash, litter, discarded kitchen stoves and dead automobiles, one would think the port-side community would be a den of pollution. However, according to Irvine, the ecology of the bay is not yet affected by the accumulating congestion of discards, at least not to the effect of such bays as Bolinas near San Francisco.

"Up there a lot of birds are dying off of DDT." Irvine reports. To prevent a similar occurrence in this county, he and his fraternity brothers are attempting to assure the feathered society a place to "stop, nest and eat.

"As a service project to the community, we decided to take a lot of the garbage out of the bay," commented Henry Bertram, also of Alpha Phi Omega. "Since we are the national service fraternity, this is the sort of thing we do."

Last Saturday, the students of APO and interested others gathered in front of the Administration building on campus to form a bay-bound caravan of willing workers. Among the volunteers were members of the Ecology Action Club.

For this coming weekend's sailing party APO will seek financial assistance from the city of Morro Bay. Irvine also expressed hopes of promoting additional assistance from other local service groups.

The brothers of Alpha Phi Omega will again depart for Morro Bay from the Administration building this Saturday at 9 a.m. Ecology minded citizens who have an afternoon to spare are encouraged to join the service fraternity in stamping out pollution.

Service hot-shots can get their gang-hooves in the act by one further step if they wish. APO will have its next rush tonight at 7:36 p.m. in room 214 of the Ag Eubank building.

Penguins plot Enduro race

by Zenaida Martin

A test of endurance will be applied to 500 motorcycle riders and their machines February 14, by the Penguins Motorcycle Club, during their 21st Annual Hi-Mountain Enduro.

The competitors come from throughout the state and a few from Arizona and Nevada.

Riders enter in one of two classes: class A are expert riders and class B are novices. After several enduros or a certain amount of points the novice transfers to class A.

The course is approximately 100 miles long running through Los Padres National Forest, and the Pomo area, on trails, fire breaks, and county roads.

Dennis Warren, Penguin president, describes the course: "there are dirt roads that wind into smaller trials, and hills that are so steep you couldn't stop. Many of the riders will have to stop and push their bikes. Their bikes will have to be very versatile because the course goes through small-type trailings and the riders will be speeding through dirt roads up to 60 miles an hour. There is one section where the riders will have to cross six creeks consecutively, about ½ mile apart." There are creeks where the water will go over their engines and if their engine isn't water proof it will drown out." Each rider starts with 1,000 points. They must try to maintain an average set speed. Hidden check points are placed throughout the course to enable the rider to check to see whether or not he's maintaining the average. Riders on time will not be deducted points.

The Penguins are finding it more difficult to run their Enduro because more restrictions and requirements are set by the forestry. "The run use to start from here on campus," Dennis stated. "Four years ago due to complaints we moved to Pomo where the population is near zero."

This year, the forestry required a special use permit set with requirement: an insurance policy that required a $10,000 property damage, with $100,000 personal body injury, and a $200,000 for each accident. "They never required this in the past year," Dennis said.

Earlier this year at Upperclear Lake, there was a Corebell Enduro with 16,000 some entrees. They ran the race under heavy rain conditions which they could not withstand. Six hundred of the riders got stuck in a muddy marsh, many of the bikes were not retrieved until a couple of weeks later. It cost $25-35 per bike to retrieve them by helicopter. This got the forestry upset, I guess."

Another problem the Penguins encountered: the forestry wanted to limit their entrees to 200 riders. In the past five years the club has had self-limitation with no influence from outside sources. The Enduro has a very narrow profit, according to Penguin President. "A cutback in riders would mean a large cut back of money. We wouldn't be able to do it- we'd be in the red. This year we are on probation of 500 riders limitation."

Rain or shine, the 1971 Enduro will take place. The first rider will leave at 8:01 a.m. at the National Forest. Five riders will proceed on each minute until all five hundred leave the starting line.

Some of the star riders this year include: Terry Romero, brother of the National No. 1 rider, Gene Romero, of San Luis Obispo; Mike Patrick, one of the team riders that broke the last speed record at the Baja 1000; Joe Parkhurst, publisher of Cycle World Magazine.

TG's vs trees

It appears that nothing is sacred when it comes to the matter of ecology. At the Monday night meeting of the City Council, certain complaints were made against a traditional college function namely the TGIF party. During the discussion of a proposal that the city plant 3,300 young trees at Laguna Lake Park, Councilman Myron Graham voiced the opinion that if trees, which would only be about 18 inches tall when planted, and mini-bikes being used on the park grounds. Graham felt that the only metal that is sacred when it comes to the local youngsters riding motorcycles, it would be a waste of money to plant trees. He proposed that the area be posted to prohibit vehicles from entering.

At this point a resident of Laguna Lake addressed the council on what he felt was the real threat to vegetation at the park. He claimed that the problem was not so much one of local youngsters riding motorcycles, but the frequency and magnitude of the TGIF parties held at the park. Instances were cited in which several TGIF's were compared against a traditional college function namely the TGIF party. Several TGIF parties were prohibited by mayor Kenneth Schwartz, to plant only a portion of the park with the provision that vehicles be prohibited from leaving the established roads while on park grounds.

Mercury is the only metal that is liquid at room temperature.

Kenny's try leads Groggs 14-8 victory by Bill Matthews

Phil Kenny former all-league football player provided the impetus for winning for the Rugby Club, as he snatched up a kick and dashed fifty yards for a try. The ensuing kick failed, but the Groggs went on to win, 14-8.

This put the matches, as the Groggs had been unable to score for 15 minutes, in a very physical battle with the tough Fullerton Finlanders.

Once again player-captain Dave Ritchie set-up several tries and penalty kicks, with his masterful play.

After a long break Ritchie passed to standoff Bill Matthews, who scored the try. Jan Juric, placing the last two games has sealed the Groggs' victories, added the point after. This put the San Luis side out in front 6-0.

The Finlanders came back to score a try and point after, and the game was never in danger, and the talented "Jury" sealed the verdict with penalty kicks of 30 and 15 yards.

The Groggs did not play one of their better games, allowing themselves to become involved in a physical battle. This restricted their wide-open attack, resulting in a low scoring contest. Still, the finesse of the Groggs overcame a much stronger team.

The Seconds lost to the Finlander's Seconds 16-8.

Mustang 118-pounder Gary McBride in this week's "Wrestler of the Week." McBride scored impressive 6-4 victory over Oregon's Dave Luke last week—only the third loss of the year for the Duck strongman.

"McBride has to rank with the nation's best 118-pounders," said coach Vaughn Hitchcock. "If he continues to improve, he should place in the University nationals as well as the College Division," he said.

McBride, a sophomore, is far from satisfied with himself despite a 8-1-1 record because he does not have a pin this season. "When I was in high school I pinned about three fourths of the men I faced," he said. My best skill is leg riding."

The Mustang lightweight will face a formidable challenge this season, as he will face Michigan State's national champion 118-pounder Greg Johnson and Jerry Hoddy of Michigan, owner of a 6-1 record and fifth in the NCAA last year.

Suffering two home swim losses, as in many Saturday's, the Mustang swim team will travel to Santa Barbara for the U.C.S.B. Relays all day Friday and Saturday.

The best Gauchos, San Car­

Sonia Valley State, Cal Poly Pomona, University of the Pacific, Fresno, Los Angeles State, Claremont-Mudd, University of California at San Diego and the University of California at Irvine will also vie for the team championship.

"This is going to be a very good meet," advised coach Richard Anderson, "out of some 20 swim events, we should have our best luck in the 400-yard butterfly relay, the 400 and 800 yard freestyle relays and the 800 yard individual medley relay, we're a little more advanced in these events than we were last season at this time," he added.

In assessing the upcoming relay meet, Anderson noted, "as far as I can tell, U.C. Santa Barbara and San Fernando, will probably have the best chance of winning the thing, with, U.O.P. and U.C. Irvine giving them the most trouble. The Mustangs will finish somewhere near the middle of the pack, as they did last year."

San Fernando Valley State defeated the Mustangs last Saturday in a dual match by an overwhelming score of 83-30. "I can only say, I only wish the meet could have been a little closer. We did have some ex­
