Student Bug Hunter
Gives El Corral A Clean Health Bill

The El Corral staff is really on the ball, says Bob Keppel, KSHF, Biological Science major from Missouri. Bob, representing the student body, has resurrected the Student Bug Hunter Club, formerly known as the Student Bug Hunter Association.

The club is in charge of managing the health and cleanliness of the college campus. They are currently working on cleaning the sidewalks and streets, and they plan to start a recycling program next semester.

The El Corral Coffee Shop Reopens On Monday, Aug. 20

Duke Hill, El Corral managing editor, said the coffee shop will be closed until Monday, Aug. 20, for the professional basketball game against the San Francisco 49ers.

Purposes of the closing is to give El Corral students and employees a chance to clean and regroup, Hill says. He discloses that the coffee seller and Barista have both returned to their positions.

El Corral staff under Hill's direction is planning to host five more hours of continuous music, starting with the coffee shop's closing at 10 p.m. The coffee shop will reopen on Tuesday, Aug. 21, with a special music program.

Sat. Dances Resumed

"There's more to come!" That's the word passed out by Dana Peterson, chairman of the Coliseum Junior Committee.

Peterson announced on Monday, Sept. 3, that the Saturday night Junior Ball scheduled to be held on Saturday, Sept. 15, will be held instead on Saturday, Sept. 29.

Original plans to hold the all-week dance were dropped because of their success in the past.

Peebles outlined the series as a "means of recreation and relaxation for summer students." He reminded students that music is provided from recordings.

The series will continue on Saturday, Sept. 15, and on Saturday, Sept. 29.

The monthly prizes have not yet been determined.

Summer Paper is Top Student Project

"Hey, Jerry, insert these corrections while you're at it. We put to get El Mustang made up," says Jerry Shipp, junior printing major from Donson, starts inserting the last-minute corrections and 80 paper. Senior print shop, junior printing, major, made up the paper before, but started to put up to this position in the El Mustang forms.

As Jerry inserts the last-minute corrections, he is checking the problem of the paper as the corrections from the corrected papers in their proper position.

"OK, Jerry, pull a page proof for John Healy to check, we've got to get this on the press."

When the page proof is returned, "OK, with corrections it's time to school."

The papers are locked up and put on the press. With this, the press takes a press proof, checking to see if everything is printing.

"Let's run it!"

The stock is put in position on the feed board, and the press runs for the 100 copies of the summer issue of the paper begins. Four hundred plus copies, the press turns and runs through again to give the look back side.

After the paper is printed front and back, it's taken to the printer for folding. When the last page is folded, it's run back through the press, turned and run through again to give the look back side.

Driver Education

Confusion up those students who did not receive any driver training for the same age group.

As a possible future change in the safety precautions on the American road, Neufahr forecasts the teaching of formal driving instruction on the freeways and highways, the use of certain lane patterns, and the marking of drivers who are picking drivers on their routes to other drivers. In many states, Neufahr says, state police are asking drivers when they last slept, and worked in order to determine if a driver should be on the road.

Neufahr says that in his estimation there is not one driver qualification test in the United States that is good enough to screen out all the poor drivers. "It is not the fault of the tester," he explains, but rather the state's fault for not providing enough personal and equipment to develop such a program.

However, most states are developing well-organized programs for teaching students and the community for young people and adults, he says.

Mystery Is Who Built Bulletin Board; Students' Friend Will Have New Location In Hall

BY BOB SPINK

Cal Poly has its own "Whodunit"! Have you ever wondered when the bulletin board was put up in the basement of the administration building? The board that advertises conferences, announcements, and activities is a well kept secret.

During the last half hour, Chandler made a call on different instructors and persons who have been at Cal Poly for several years. There were many different stories.

One person said, "As I remember, it has always been there." Another replied, "Oh, I see now, I guess it has been there three or four years."

The only person who knew for certain was 1842. No one knew for certain just when it was constructed. Since 1842

By process of elimination it was determined the bulletin board had to be put up sometime since 1842, as that is when the building was constructed.

Then someone recalled it wasn't on the map until a few years was prior to 1842. Now we had it narrowed down to 1842 and

"Carl Beck should know," said Chandler. "When the Pan-American was held in 1842, it was held in an old building near the tennis court.

"Carl Beck should know," said Chandler. "When the Pan-American was held in 1842, it was held in an old building near the tennis court." Before that time Beck had been a part of the Pan-American team, and a member of the Pan-American and a member of the Pan-American.

"Carl Beck should know," said Chandler. "When the Pan-American was held in 1842, it was held in an old building near the tennis court.

"Carl Beck should know," said Chandler. "When the Pan-American was held in 1842, it was held in an old building near the tennis court."

Lawrence recalled it was in 1842 or 1843 when the students first started coming to Cal Poly that the bulletin board was constructed. The students had different lamps to trade and Oil, as they presented to build the bulletin board that hung in the basement of the administration building.

The board is to be placed at the top of the Poly Social Board (major activities board), in hall. The Poly Royal board will go across the hall from the student body office.

A push-button sequenced dispenser, small enough to be carried in a pocket, is now being used in some schools. It will allow students to serve themselves with an easy, effective device.
