South Vietnam, wounding SO attacks in almost a month. In initiated the largest number of proposed making it easier to other Americans.

Dr. Jon Ericson, dean of the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities, has a plan that may make this game a little easier for students and faculty alike.

A 1969 accreditation report criticized this campus as being under a school system, "was leading to a serious fragmentation of both teacher and student programs." Specifically mentioned was the three-uniform course structure on which our quarter system is based. This system forces a student to take as many as five, six, and sometimes seven classes each quarter. By the end of the academic year an average student has completed 15 to 21 courses of study. Ericson has observed, "That such fragmentation is one of the most serious problems of undergraduate instruction."

What he proposes is a planned change from the present curriculum pattern of two and three-unit courses to a larger number of four and five-unit programs. An example of his plan is a proposal now before the Academic Senate to change English Composition 104, 106 and 108 into two four-unit courses.

The new system would require a student to take fewer courses each quarter for approximately the same amount of units while having greater continuity than the present arrangement. Ericson said, "For obvious reasons, the faculty might be expected to perform at a significantly higher level in the new system which allows them to prepare for two or three courses each quarter, instead of four or five, and which limits their preparation to four or five courses a year instead of six or more."

In order to implement a credit pattern in which the greatest number of course offerings is five credits, departments would need to reduce the total number of courses presently offered. Such a move involves analyzing the existing curriculum, eliminating some courses, combining others and perhaps adding some, while maintaining a realistic ratio between the number of faculty and the number of courses offered.

Departments changing to a five unit module will likely wish to retain a few two and three-unit courses for special material that can be adequately taught in such a small fragment.

On Capitol

Anti-war march

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Anti-war demonstrations in the nation's capital today switched from the tactics of massive, peaceful assembly to more militant "direct action" including invasion of some offices on Capitol Hill. The actions by small groups of antiwar protesters kicked off the next two weeks of by a rally Saturday drawing a throng estimated by police at 176,000 and much more than that by protesters.

A group of 30 demonstrators at one point ran through the offices of Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, chanting "kill the gooks. Kill the gooks and staged a mock execution of "gooks."

They attempted the same thing at the offices of Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, but were locked out. They attempted to stage a demonstration in the hall outside his door, but police closed the doors by Capitol police, and they did so promptly.

The demonstrators disrupted Capitol routine in only a minor way, and there were no violent incidents.

Capitol police tightened security. Front entrances to the Old Senate Office Building were blocked by lines of policemen standing shoulder to shoulder, while small groups of demonstrators milled around the entrances demanding entrance.

A spokesperson for the Capitol building's police force said the building was not being sealed off, and police were simply trying to "screen" those who entered the building.

The activity today and over the next two weeks is principally sponsored by a group headed by Chicago seven defendant变态 Davis, called the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice. Its avowed purpose is to disrupt the capital city and to stop the functions of government.

It is separate from groups that conducted the peaceful protests of the massive rally on Saturday. On the steps of the Senate wing of the Capitol one small group of about a dozen demonstrators sang and chanted sporadically.

Washington - Senator William J. Fulbright (D-Ark.) proposed making it easier to impeach the President.

Indochina-The Communist initialed the largest number of attacks in almost a month in South Vietnam, wounding 31 Americans in six shelling attacks.

Pakistan-India has moved against West Pakistan diplomat, warning them of possible harsher measures to come as relations between India and Pakistan deteriorate.

Washington - The administration argued against government action against detergent phosphates, claiming alternatives might be more harmful.

Washington-A divided Supreme Court upheld the right of local communities to reject public housing on referendum vote.

The bicycle path calls for the campus to go from the city of Davis to the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice. Its avowed purpose is to disrupt the capital city and to stop the functions of government.

Will Cal Poly follow in the path of UC Santa Barbara and UC Davis?

Douglas Gerard, executive dean, hopes so.

The path is a bicycle path, hopefully to replace the automobile as a form of transportation on the college campus.

"We have had a 300 per cent bike population increase this year and expect it to go higher in the future," said Gerard. "To facilitate this increase, we hope to follow the example of Santa Barbara and Davis. Santa Barbara has an excellent bikeway on campus and the city of Davis has even instigated them downtown."

The whole idea for bikeway on campus came from the city of San Luis Obispo. Mayor Kenneth Schwartz has appointed a commission to study the idea. According to Gerard, the pathway will wind its way around the campus, 6-feet from the curb.

The stripe will be painted blue. The bicycle path calls for the elimination of all on street parking on Grand Avenue, California Boulevard, Outer Perimeter Road and College Avenue.

"We are having trouble with bike thefts," said Gerard. "Therefore, if we can get the money, we hope to buy more bike racks. The new racks would have provisions for locking the bikes to the racks."

The final decision lies with Dr. Robert K. Kennedy, college president. If the proposed pathway gets the go ahead, no changes will be made until the beginning of Fall Quarter. "Of course, one of our big problems will be to replace the parking that the bikeway takes away," said Gerard. However, there is enough parking, except that it is "in the wrong place."
Forum faces flat interest

by Bruce Kyse

Coming up in the near future will be the second in a series of open forums sponsored by the ASI to inform students of campus problems. Tentatively scheduled for Monday, May 10, the forum will have its share of big name performers doing their little Forum faces flat interest on....Zssszx.

As to the first meeting, well, a funny thing did indeed happen on the way to the forum. No one came. In fact 21 people were able to fit comfortably into one of those hidden rooms lost somewhere in the hallowed halls of the CU.

However, don't lose any sleep feeling deprived of a chance to voice your views to the scheduled guest of honor President Robert E. Kennedy. For you see, the President was one of the many not present. But the show must go on, and it did go on and on and on....Zssszx.

The remaining guest list included Mayor Kenneth Schwarts, Executive Dean Douglas Gerard and Director of Housing Robert Bostrum. Presiding over the forum was ASI President Paul Banke.

The forum went as forums will and everyone was impressed with the impromptu subjects as campus annexation and transportation. Conversation went around in circles until Banke noticed people doing off, and politely suggested that the forum turn its attention to other subjects.

The problem of editorializing for policy was brought up. Some people wanted to imply certain positions and good questions were few and far between. Not enough questioners, I suppose. But two items listed on Banke's agenda for the evening did create some adverse discussion, with potential of uncovering a new treasure of information regarding the administration's policy for policy. Those two items involved housing and parking--a couple of words hitting close to home, eh kids?

Robert Bostrum rather explicitly informed his audience of 21 of the reasons for the House Sign-in policy. Listing examples of past disturbances such as "Jesus Freaks" kidnapping two students, male student baggers proselytizing through female housing, and drunk intruding into the private lives of Santa Rosa State students, Banke held everyone spell-bound with his knowledge of dorm life. Everyone agreed that there is a problem and Banke quickly moved things along. Case closed.

Meeting of this type, seldom amount to anything, and except for a couple of eye-brow raising remarks this one was no exception. One of the brown raisers came from Dean Gerard's off the record mentioning of credit fixing for traffic violations. (Yes, if you can't afford a dime for the car you may end up a fresh man again.)

As the forum progressed, ASI Pres. Paul Banke offered two reasons for the lack of faces at the meeting taking place and the lack of interest by students in ASI government: Mustang Daily and attempting to reach a large student body. Banke stated that the meeting was the Mustang Daily at least twice a week, to inform the paper of the meeting taking place and the lack of interest by students in ASI government.

The Consequences of passage of such a bill is almost to imagine. It would sanction discrimination. Police would be able to eliminate 'undesirables' from their area, or put them in jail. It would remove the sole means of transportation for untold numbers of people. In short, it would be a mistake.

Senator Donald Grunsky, who represents this area, is still thinking on how he is to vote on the bill. Does he know how students, many who hitchhike, feel about it? Let him know. Sen. D Grunsky (R) 17th Senatorial District, State Capitol Office No. 5079, Sacramento, CA 95814.

Campaigns for ASI offices on tomorrow

Active campaigning for ASI offices begins with an 11 a.m. assembly in the College Union Plaza tomorrow. According to ASI Vice Pres. Tony Turkovich, the campaigns will continue until the ASI General Election on May 13 and 15.

The Elections Committee is in the process of screening the candidate's nomination petitions. Those students who turned in petitions by last Friday's deadline were Pete Evans, Skip Bailey, Mike Jones, and Joe Martinez for the position of president; Mike Bohl, Marie Ann Dostal, Tim Prater, and Russ Hurley for the vice president's office; and Peter Chamberlain and Thomas Hammam for chief justice. Debbie Meadows is the only candidate for secretary. The candidates will be presented to the student body at the assembly tomorrow.

Thumbs up?

Since the time of the wheel, man has solicited rides from his more mobile brothers. Accounts of hitch-hiking goes back hundreds of years, when a ride was on the back of an animal.

But now times have changed. A hitchhiker today faces not only the temptation of hours on his feet, but added dangers of homicidal maniacs or seething rapiests taking them for a final ride. He also faces constant harassment from both police and disgruntled drivers, who, on occasion, will spit on them and shower them with everythtng from bottles to epithets.

Is hitchhiking dangerous? Senator John Nejedly, who recently introduced Senate Bill No. 92, which prohibits soliciting rides or cars stopping to pick up riders, seems to think so. In testimony, he cited a letter from San Francisco Police Chief Alfred Nelder, who reported that hitchhiking rapes in his city went from 3 in 1965 to 10 in 1970 and an increase in hitchhike robberies from none to 28. What the Senator left out was incredible: like how much hitching is done in California or the number of rides and distances travelled. The true danger of crimes are measured in ratios, like murders in a city are gauged in amounts per thousand.

The consequences of passage of such a bill is almost to imagine. It would sanction discrimination. Police would be able to eliminate 'undesirables' from their area, or put them in jail. It would remove the sole means of transportation for untold numbers of people. In short, it would be a mistake.

He's only begun to live

This is the story of a most excited and happy individual—the kind of story everyone likes to hear—something that used to be called a fairy tale.

Dr. Willard Dean, a professor in the Biological Sciences Department, resigned earlier this academic year, their six-month closed-mouth policy they have today agreed to discuss his plan—far bigger and better things. Page one came to light on June 18, 1971, when Dean received a letter from Geoffrey Stanford, previously connected with this school in the area of sewage reclamation and recycling. Stanford's letter invited three instructors from this campus to look into a new area for senior-projects—dealing with all digestion with the use of free-water. Drilled bacterial cultures for sewage, the air was once again breathable and enjoyable.

The letter from Geoffrey Stanford, closed-mouth policy he has today. Following a six-month period of investigation, the answer left the office on the third day of last week. Reaction to the offer?—"The first time I've had a job without a ceiling—there's nothing to hold me down now."

The offer was originally set to begin "immediately," but Dean felt a "moral obligation to complete my agreement with Cal Poly."

Following spring quarter finals, Dean will no longer be responsible for all matters from the schools. Including tests on products, wastewater samples and helping to develop recommendations for the use of our products with our customers.

The offer came from Bower's office on the third day of last month. The answer left the office on Thursday, August 19, 1971, Dr. Willard Dean will officially be on the Bower team. Reaction to the offer?—"The first time I've had a job without a ceiling—there's nothing to hold me down now."

SAC representatives to be chosen at large

This year for the first time, representatives to the Student Senate Affairs Council will be chosen at large from the school instead of from the members of each school council. According to All Vice President Tony Turkovich, this change was made by a student referendum at the All General Election last spring. Students interested in running for SAC seats should contact one of the following people, depending upon which school they are enrolled in: Russ Allen, Business and Social Sciences (544-7868); Jack Bracken, Arts and Humanities (544-4639); Ralph Allen, Engineering and Technology (544-3583); Randy McLaughlin, Agriculture and Natural Resources (544-3588); Harold Hildebrand, Human Development and Education (544-7988); Nick Garza, Math and Sciences (540-3306); and James Masani, Architecture and Environmental Design (544-1388).

Turkovich said interested students are urged to get in touch with the representative of their school council as soon as possible, as each council has different deadlines and requirements for candidates.

Marks fall to Mustangs

Two Mustangs set recent records last weekend at Mt. San Agustin Relays college division competition - Raymond Brown and Molinder Gill led the way for the Mustangs in their specialty while several others gained places.

Brown was able to go only 5-10 in a cold wind to break the old mark of 5-6. The wind and cold hampered Gill also as he was unable to break his old mark of 6-0 to break the old mark of 6-10.

Another mark was lost by a baton. The 440-relay team of Lowell Henry, John Rayley, Evansen Bennett and Bobby Turner will well within reach of the record when Rayley and Turner missed the handoff.

The Mustangs were just three years from the lead at the time of the mishap. UC Santa Barbara won the event with a time of 43.2, just one-tenth of a second better than the record. The Gauchos have lost three times to the Mustangs this year.

That same team came back to win the 800-relay by a wide margin. Its time of 1:08.7 was well ahead of second place Pismo Pacific's 1:10.3.

The mile relay team had the same time as the second place team but had to settle for third. Haley Ed Kolofer, Henry and Bennett raced to a 3:19.4 clocking, their fastest time of the year.

The 440-relay team anchored with a 50.8. Fullerton State won the race with a time of 1:00.7, to break the old record of 1:02.3.

Bob Jennings continued to improve in competition as he sailed 46-7 to finish second behind Gill. Jennings' mark was just two inches off the record that Gill broke.
