Jesse Fuller:
One man band

It doesn't seem too difficult to combine the sounds of a guitar, a harmonica, a bass fiddle, does it? All it takes is four performers and the instruments, right?

Well, somebody forgot to tell Jesse Fuller that he needed three other people to perform with. Fuller has become a skilled musician with all four instruments and plays them equally well, at the same time.

The southern-born folk singer one-man band is performing this Sunday night at 8 in the College Theater. The concert is free to students but $1.00 for general admission.

The proposal, aimed at helping foreign students, appeared for all (or part) of the $60,000 now allotted to complete construction of an ice cream parlor in the CU.

Unfortunately, contracts have recently been negotiated to convert the onco proposed CU barber shop into an Ice Cream shop. This seemingly duplicates the facilities now available at the McCab bar, CU burger bar, and vending machines scattered throughout the campus.

This state of affairs makes it possible for students to perform with the Foundation providing the necessary funds. Both these groups seem to prefer their favorite flavor to encouraging foreign student interaction-education.

SIC: ice cream, rock and games

by Grff Beyers, Staff Writer

The Pete Evans administration, doing all it can to avert a crisis in the Fall, proposed a Foreign Students Emergency Loan Fund Resolution, as the first act of the College Union (Summer Interim Committee) meeting. Many important items confronted the passive council, including a plan for assessing student desires concerning ASI funds, pricing of College Union game facilities, "Jungle dorms" for a possible sixty foreign students and the benefit concert of Sept. 12.

The proposal, aimed at helping foreign students, appeared for all (or part) of the $60,000 now allotted to complete construction of an ice cream parlor in the CU. The plan cited article II from the Articles of Incorporation of the Cal Poly Foundation which reads:

"The purpose for which this corporation is formed are as follows: To promote and assist the educational services of the California State Polytechnic College or such institution as shall succeed to the properties and functions of said College, and to apply the funds and properties carried on or approved by the administrative officers of the California State Polytechnic College for such purposes for which this corporation is formed." Student blood ’Spirit of love’

Editor:

We understand some of you ask: "why?" you gave blood for our son Chris. We want to thank you all no matter what the reason and only hope it’s because you’re the real heart of the young world that truly want to help. We’ve read so much bad about young people, that we were really thrilled to see your response to our need. They also vote, fight to keep their freedom, and are called upon to make sense out of the messy world we are in the act of mishandling.

Sincerely,
Ralph Vreman

Women’s Lib is not all that good

by Pat Therme Staff Writer

Legislators have been pondering the status of all women’s minority groups in the country in recent years. Pushing towards more equalized and advantageous laws have been lobbyists for blacks, homosexuals, and women.

The blacks are leading the three where civil rights legislation is concerned. The Day Liberation Front is just beginning to gain impetus. Of the three, it appears Women’s Liberation, however, is spinning its wheels.

State Senate Bill number 1447 may change this. It was introduced with amendments by State Senator Mintz on July 20, and adopted by the State Senate on August 14. The bill was finally on to the Senate with a majority of 20 votes.

A question of balance?

Editor:

Since I am not attending Summer Quarter, the only campus news I hear is what I read in the Mustang which a friend sends me each week. I have been following the actions of the Summer Interim Committee and am rather puzzled by a recent action of ASI President Pete Evans.

As I understand it, Evans recently refused to sign a contract finalizing a $8,000 expenditure for providing pre-season meals for the football team. His action was met with opposition by SIC members who voted to allow Roy Geraten to sign the contract. Evans reportedly vetoed that action and an attempt to override his motion failed. The final result was, apparently, that members of the football team will have to provide their own pre-season meals.

What I don't understand was why Pete Evans is involved in an action that was settled last spring by the Student Affairs Committee and earlier in the summer by SIC.

The pre-season meals were provided for by SAC in the form of a budget appropriation in the amount of $7,600. It would take a two-thirds majority vote of SAC to change the budget, and since the matter of pre-season meals was discussed by SIC members at one of their first meetings and the expenditure was not questioned at that time, I doubt if an attempt to amend the budget would succeed.

So, if I may ask, just what is Pete Evans doing? I realize that I am at a disadvantage by not being there to see first hand what is going on. And I would appreciate it if you would fill me in if some new rule has been created which would allow the ASI president to completely disregard the expressed opinions of the chief governing body and the bylaws of the ASI which gave the responsibility of creating this year's budget to last year's SAC.

Free rock fest here tomorrow

"The Everlastin' Living Jesus Music Concert" has finally made its way to the coast San Luis Obispo.

Calvary Chapel in San Luis Obispo, one of the central starting points for the Jesus revolution, will be presenting a free concert tomorrow and Sat. night at the Cal Poly auditorium starting at 8 p.m. Two of the groups performing will be Country Faith and Sarah. Admission is free.

Divers to meet to see speaker

The Campus skin diving club will meet on tuesday at 7:30 in Science North Rm. 201. On the agenda will be a representative from the Port San Luis Harbor who will show plans and discuss future activities.

A 16mm film and open discussion is also slated. For information, check with acting Vice-President Zeb Concrow at MHC 453 or Bill Williams at MHC 503.

What's your reaction to the Jesus Movement?

David Frey—Jr. Mechanical Engineering

"I have been involved in Campus Crusades at another school. I really think that kids are bringing Christ on campus. When I was in it, I enjoyed the group and got a lot out of it. For me it did change my life and attitude."

Kirk Eppling—Sr. Mechanical Engineering

"I think that it's a good thing. I don't think people really like to be jumped all over about it. They want to find out for themselves. I think the best thing about it is not just going to church but practicing it in your life."

Daniel Pullen—Grad. History

"My first reaction is that the people I've met in the movement seem to be very happy people and don't try to hurt people and aren't dogmatic about religion. If it makes them feel good inside, if it makes them open inside, it's fine."

Eleanor Reisler—Fr. Henne

"I really like it because it's a change. I didn't really like it when people went around saying there wasn't a God because I believe there is one. It's a good change. I really like it."

Dick Robinson—Grad. IT Engineering

"I think it's a personal trip just like anything else. Drugs or whatever. It's fine as long as they don't push it on others."

Robertha Woods—Grad. Education

"For those that it's good for, it's O.K.—it doesn't bother me."

Roberta Woods—Grad. Education

"I guess it's fine. I really haven't thought about it. I haven't known anyone involved. It hasn't affected me personally at all."

Karen Howard—Fr. Henne Economics

"I really like it because it's a change. I didn't really like it when people went around saying there wasn't a God because I believe there is one. It's a good change. I really like it."

Dick Robinson—Grad. IT Engineering

"I think it's a personal trip just like anything else—drugs or whatever. It's fine so long as they don't push it on others."

Charles Dills—Chemistry

"Opinions on this are usually not based on logic, and I'm afraid that whatever I say would be reacted to emotionally. It's a question that takes 46 minutes to answer."

Carla Osier—Sr. Business Science

"I think it's just kind of a fad—just something that's popular right now, I doubt if it will last very long."

Enroll now if you want to get in Prospective students desiring to enroll in The California State Colleges next spring should apply prior to August 31 to receive maximum opportunity for admission, Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke announced today.

Chancellor Dumke said prospective students applying during August will receive equal consideration for admission within categories, priorities and quotas established by individual colleges and statewide policies. Systemwide policies assign highest priorities to veterans and to community college transfers. Prospective students filing on or after September 1 will be considered late applicants. They will be admitted on a first-come, first serve basis if space is available following processing of applications received during August.
Work program starts throughout the state

Two work experience education programs will be offered throughout the state this fall by the newly formed Work Experience Education Professional Development Program of this campus under the direction of Tony Thole.

The first program will be directed primarily to coordinate work experience activities among schools throughout the state. The second course is intended specifically to develop techniques of administration of work experience education activities in secondary schools.

Initial meetings of the two classes have been scheduled. The first will be offered in 15 cities throughout the state, beginning the first week of October. It will meet for three hours one evening each week through the first week of December.

The second class will be offered in two cities, one each in the southern and northern portions of the state, during October and November.

Since the classes are intended primarily for teachers with considerable experience in work experience education, the classes will be held on Friday evenings for five weeks beginning in mid-November.

Although the names of the teachers who will be involved have not yet been announced, Thole said that they were being drawn from members of colleges and high schools who are highly qualified in the field of work experience education.

The special courses are part of an effort to upgrade and coordinate the California high schools’ work experience education programs being conducted by the Education Department of this campus under terms of a $77,075 grant received from the State Department of Education.

The report covers special recruitment, employment, and training efforts being undertaken by individual colleges. Two programs are being initiated at this campus.

One program is in cooperation with a federal agency and provides 16 weeks of training for persons who have potential ability and skills.

The other permits the hiring of applicants at a junior clerk level whose scores on the General Clerical Test are below passing, but whose experience, education, references, and interviews seem to warrant a trial period of employment.

The new Employment Survey points out that 60 percent of all the ethnic minority group employees of the state colleges are in instructional, professional, or administrative positions and that, between 1968 and 1970, the number of minority group employee of the college system who earned $10,000 or more annually increased from 3.8 to 7.8 percent.

Day Center recognition considered

Replies to a questionnaire concerning the need for a children’s day care center are “pouring in” from many of the more than 360 married students surveyed, according to All vice-president Marianne Doshl.

“Many people have at least one child, while a lot seem to have one on the way,” Mrs. Doshl said.

“There are many married students in which one parent has had to forgo his education as a result of having to care for children.”

At present, an ad hoc committee, chaired by Mrs. Doshl, is working on a code necessary to gain the status of a campus-recognized group. They are also working on the bylaws for the proposed day care center. The group meets Tuesdays at 11 a.m. in CU 157B.

Mrs. Doshl emphasized “We don’t want a babysitting program — we want a children’s center.” She explained that the day care center would be primarily for the use of children of married students, but children of campus faculty and staff members would also be eligible to attend.

The Concert Under the Stars drew an enthusiastic crowd last Sunday despite the cooler weather. The evening began with the return of Gary Easter — this time with a female vocalist at his side.

A little jarring (while waiting for the next group) prevailed after the hit by Widow Maker, and introduced the audience to the harmonies of Kevin McCracken and his female partner, Marty Billietmatier, entertained with a country-folk style featuring “You’ve Got a Friend” by James Taylor and “Take Five,” among others.

Although this is the last Concert Under the Stars for this summer, Pat Modica, concert chairman, says that concerts of this type may possibly be arranged for the Fall quarter.

Moy said the primary purpose of the store is the “good experience merchandising” and to offer an outlet for the products being produced.

He said, “The students are in business to make money like anyone else. But the store and the dairy plant are not making money.”

“On this price business, the prices are the same as when I came here three years ago and our ingredient costs have gone up. We did raise our prices on Saturday afternoon, but Mr. Naim came on Sunday and that was the end of that.”

Moy said, “Our poultry prices are very competitive with downtown stores and he added, “on my own observation the crops are also.”

The State sets the price of milk in order to assure adequate supplies for all parts of California year-round, but as producer-distributor the campus store is allowed to sell for five cents less than downtown. “At all times our milk will be lower than downtown,” Moy said. “Our ingredient costs include milk and milk by-products from the dairy plant, and jams from Food Processing. The store does not sell its products, the dairy department prices the poultry department prices and Food Processing sets its price,” Moy said.

“However, the campus store operates strictly on a commission basis. We are paid for the services we render,” Moy said.

The offices of School Employees of San Luis Obispo County (SESLOC) will be moving this Thursday and Friday, but will reopen on Monday in their new location at 1775 Peach Street.

According to Miss Bertha Foxford of SESLOC, the organization had outgrown its present facilities and parking was a problem for the school employees that travel from other parts of the county. The new location on Peach Street is adjacent to the Fremont Medical Plaza and has 17 parking spaces and, with its corner location, it has curb parking on two sides.

Classical tunes will be played

Today KCPR Concert, heard from 4:00-5:00 p.m., will play Mussorgsky—Boris Godunov. Friday evening, KCPR will air List—A Faust Symphony and Tannmann—Banquet Music.

Legal notice

Notice is hereby given that California State Polytechnic College, San Luis Obispo, licensee of the educational FM station, KCPR, San Luis Obispo, is required to file with the Federal Communications Commission no later than September 1, 1971, an application for renewal of its license to operate KCPR on 91.3 MHz. The Executor of the license of KCPR is Dr. Robert E. Kennedy, president of California State Polytechnic College, San Luis Obispo.

Members of the public who desire to bring to the Commission’s attention facts concerning the operation of the station should write to the FCC, Washington, D.C. 20804 no later than October 1, 1971. Letters should set out in detail the specific facts which the writer wishes the Commission to consider in passing on the application.

A copy of the license renewal application and related material will, upon filing with the Commission, be available for public inspection at the studio of KCPR in Graphic Arts room 905 on the Cal Poly campus between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The man in MAHE II had light-brown hair falling straight from a center part to below his chin. His drooping moustache, wire-rimmed glasses, tall, slender build, and bright clothes confirmed the guess. “He must be just a student waiting to see Dr. Featherstone.” Wrong. It was Dr. Featherstone himself.

Featherstone relaxed easily. When asked if it was “Dr.” Featherstone or “Mr.” Featherstone he laughed, “Just call me Jay.”

Featherstone’s educational background includes attending Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in N.Y. where he received his bachelor’s and master’s degrees in electrical engineering. He also attended the University of Southern Calif., where he earned his master’s degree and PhD in mathematics.

Featherstone says students in his classes have become used to his appearance, and by now, have no reaction to it. However, he added, “I have gotten a bad reaction from a few students on the street. I have had no reaction whatsoever from the administration.”

Featherstone said his fellow-instructors in the Math Dept. give him no hassle about his appearance.

During his first year of teaching here, he has not been idle. Last Fall and Winter Quarters he helped co-ordinate the “Project P” drug abuse seminars sponsored by the Speaker’s Forum. He is now in charge of organizing a tutorial assistant’s program to help Equal Opportunity Program (EOP) students, poorly prepared in math, achieve the necessary mathematical background.

Featherstone muses on the intellectual climate of this school. “The state college system is very conservative, and this is the most conservative of the schools in the system. There’s a very anti-intellectual atmosphere here.”

This attitude, he says, is a factor in keeping a large teaching load on each instructor, and it cuts down on much of the time needed for preparation and additional study. Featherstone worries that 80 years from now, without additional intellectual pursuit, his knowledge and degrees will be outdated.

When asked his views on the new student body administration, Featherstone answered, “I sense that we are finally waking up. At least they want to do more than run the Senior Prom.” He said the Evening-Doily administration, while far from being extremely radical, was a step in the right direction.

Spotlight—Moody Blues

This week KCPR shines its spotlight upon the Moody Blues and their recent album “Every Good Boy Deserves Favor.” The group has continued their tradition of exploring new producing techniques and special effects in using a Mellotron, an orchestral key board that produces artificial instrument sounds. This synthesizer is used primarily as background in the majority of the cuts.

“Two songs, “Nice to be Here” and “Our Guessing Game,” feature Ray Thomas with his flute in a slow, melodic rock sound. One is backed by a soft string guitar. “The Story In Your Eyes,” a driving rock sound, has been released as a single.

The Moody Blues—“Every Good Boy Deserves Favor” is available on Threshold records, a division of London Records.

Vacation awaits station KCPR

On Saturday, August 28, at 3:00 a.m. KCPR will suspend broadcasting activities until fall quarter. It will return to the air at 3:00 Sunday, September 26. See the first fall quarter edition of the Mustang Daily for the next Concert Program Guide.
Pre-season goal scored by Harper

Joe Harper, athletic director and head football coach here may be over his biggest hurdle to a successful season before the players have even reported.

The pre-season training table which Coach Harper feels is critical to his team's success was challenged by Peter Evans, All-president. Evans questioned the merit of the $6,300 expenditure arguing that it was allocated by a lameduck administration.

The controversy was resolved when it was determined that Evans and SIC could not alter the budget passed by a duly elected body.

"The training table is an intrinsic part of the pre-season training period," Coach Harper said. "The ability to house and feed players during the pre-season training period.

"The effectiveness of the pre-season training period is critical to the outcome of the total season." Coach Harper said the training table was also important to the players financially. He said "most of the guys will quit their jobs about the middle of August to start running before they report so that actually they are giving up about a month of work.

He said he did not know if training tables were standard at other state colleges.

"In all of the instances I know of it is just a budget item like equipment. I know that all the time."

One aspect that has not been pointed out is that we look at this expense as part of the cost of generating about $60,000 of income. That is what we are expecting to make against a cost of $48,000.

Last season's expenses totaled $25,800 and total income was $64,800.

When questioned about football's value in a rapidly changing and socially conscious society he said his program would continue if it lacked value.

"I don't know how radical the real changes in attitudes are. I think that people are more honest in expressing their attitudes. I think this is healthy, controversy is new. That happens all the time."

As coach and athletic director, he finds no reason to be alarmed by the rising costs of college athletics as some of the larger institutions are.
