The inevitable: bike, car crash

The inevitable meeting of car and bike took place yesterday in front of Yosemite Hall. And thankfully, luck was with the cyclist.

Janet Lehman, a coed who lives in Yosemite Hall, was struck down yesterday by a car driven by another student, Ronald Lee Harris. According to Harris, he had stopped his blue Ford Mustang at the stop sign in front of Yosemite on his way off campus when he noticed Miss Lehman in the bike lane next to him. Harris stated that just as he started up, Miss Lehman cut in front of him in the crosswalk. Miss Lehman was struck from behind by the car and hurled to the ground, suffering head and back injuries.

Witnesses to the accident called the campus security and Officer Winnis was dispatched to the scene. An ambulance was called, and Miss Lehman was taken to the campus Health Center.

According to Dr. R. Wayne Bell, Miss Lehman was "tucked in for observation," and should be released within the day.

SAC alums election bill

Two proposals to change the present Ad Student's voting system were presented to the Student Affairs Council (SAC) Monday night.

The majority and the plurality voting systems were introduced to the council in an effort to establish a direct representation of the student body vote. The majority system was presented on the original bill authored by Joe Martinez, Agriculture Council proxy. Martinez introduced the bill by saying, "I think it should be the decision of the student body."

The student body vote will be heard by the Senate Education Committee first, which Schwarts wanted. "We should ream p the Ad Student's voting system in this bill and..."

A roll call vote revealed a unanimous support for this committee, which Gurnee hopes will meet as soon as possible to begin work. The audience stood up, for and against Gurnee's proposal. Some of their comments:

Kick out the old cans and bottles

by WARNER CHARBON

One of the problems of being an Ecology Action Chairman when returning from a summer vacation is finding out that all your friends have been saving cans and bottles for the last three months and they all want a place to take them. One of my friends has them stuffed under her sink, in her closet and everywhere else except the backpack.

So if you partially fit this description, here’s what I can offer: anyone aluminum (can), lawn furniture, old senior projects) can be deposited behind the Chevron station on Santa Rosa Street, right across from Taco Bell. Our local Camp Fire Girls are running this project to raise funds for a swimming pool so drink up and give them a hand. For those of you that have been building walls out of your empty Coors’s bottles, you can turn them in for $0.1 a piece at the local Gateway Market.

The next two items are tin and glass. Both of these commodities must be shipped up to the Bay Area and we have most of the arrangements worked out except a local collection center. In the mean time, here’s what to do: Raze out the tin cans. You can even leave the paper label on and not crush them, but all of the food content must be removed. Those of you living in apartment complexes should try to organize and put a little pressure on the landlord to supply a few large containers that everyone could use. Make a deal, if he supplies the collection containers, you’ll haul loads to the center. Don’t wait for the other guy to do it, it’s your environment.

For the recycling center, we need a location, any large empty lot or back yard. If you know of anyone that might be willing to supply us with a space or if you have any experience with recycling, or if you just want to help, come by the Ecology Action meeting Thursday night at 7:30 in the College Union and have a message in Box 188 in the Student Activities office.

Wanted: status quo reactionary

Editorial

This is in reference to the Letter to the Editor submitted by one Pete Evans (Mustang Daily, Thursday, Sept. 30) in which he stated the “old line, status quo reactionaries need not apply” for positions in the student government. The ASI President has vowed to appoint only dedicated, responsible and progressive students in his fight for new studentistic programs. He asks us if we are “happy there is no ASI money available for a program just because we just paid $10 each in ASI fees; double the amount paid last year.”

Evans and Dobhi have been bad-mouthing ASI-funded programs which directly benefit a limited segment of the student body, yet they are pushing a child-care center which would do just that; benefit a very small percentage of the students. Granted there may be some inequities in the budgeting of ASI funds but how can the promotion of three new programs with no means of funding and dependent on a volunteer labor force relieve the situation.

The California College Republicans of Cal Poly barely welcome all old line, status quo reactionaries and all other interested and dissatisfied students to join us in our campaign to insure the wise spending of our money and that radical changes do not destroy the entire system.

In CCR, we have pledged ourselves to no active interest in all political activities at Cal Poly, and are endorsing both Dave Glasser and Pete Evans and Joe Martinez (Majority) in their efforts to let the student body vote on changing the preferential vote system of the ASI. Join our fight now before all is gone and let’s not lose thousands already taken in the Indochina war.

Why fight a war that the people in Vietnam do not favor? Why fight a war that a majority of the people in this country are opposed to? Why help President Thieu in his dictatorial rule, fighting his battles while he stabs us in the back?

Thieu’s presidency remained in prison. That man, Truon Dinh Dru, had been imprisoned shortly after he ran a strong third in the 1967 election.

Where does that leave things? For one, it leaves the United States giving military and economic aid to South Vietnam. Much of that economic aid probably never reaches the needy Vietnamese—never makes it past the outstretched grip of Thieu. As for military aid, well, why fight a battle that cannot be won and only results in the deaths of additional American lives, and in the thousands already taken in the Indochina war.

Hail ‘Connie’

A situation in San Diego involving nine men jumping ship as the U.S.S. Constellation prepared to return to Vietnam provides an interesting study in a wierd turn of events.

Early in the summer peace groups in San Diego launched an all-out campaign to prevent the “Connie” from returning to action off the coast of South Vietnam. Rallies and speeches led to daily leafleting of the harbor area and peace boat maintaining a constant propaganda swing near the ship to reach the men aboard.

Last week two lawyers succeeded in bringing suit to court to keep the Constellation from returning. However, when the lawyers failed to appear the presiding judge reset the hearing for last Friday afternoon—30 minutes after the ship was scheduled to show.

Although the peace groups did not prevent the departure of the carrier, they did persuade the nine sailors to jump ship and take sanctuary in a Catholic Church. Presently different groups are feeding the men. A friend involved in the situation that the community is rallying support behind the “Connie nine,” who will eventually face punishment for going AWOL.

During previous hearings they would have been treated no better than traitors or the like. Times have changed, however, and the nine men from the Constellation seem to support and are supported by the community behind them. Considering the sincerity of their opposition to undeclared Vietnam War and to participating in the debacle, we commend the men for their actions.
Relevancy is overwhelming

...After seven years of discredited student disputation, the Seventies bрезен ш. In and with them, the War continued and we demonstrated. . . And we continued to demonstrate vehemently for and against what we did and didn’t believe in. And the nation listened. Not to the message of the student protests, but only to the message of the medium—the screaming headline, the loud newscast, the arduous editorial about the student protests.

And then along came Now. A feeling of futility has set in, bred out of frustration and exhaustion. Last academic year was a prophetic indication of this Campuses were clamor. An occasional rally. An occasional march. But quieter. Why the change? The problems still are there, but our tactics have changed, if not vanished, according to Drew Olim, a National Student Association senior staff member. Olim said he sees definite symptoms of “withdrawal, defensiveness, lack of direction and dropping out.” He said he sees two possible reasons for all this.

“Money is getting tighter. Prices are going up and parents are complaining. Students now are understanding the plight of the working-class man, and so they are dropping out and trying to find jobs,” he said.

The Afrika incident, and the continuing War are a few of the ongoing frustrations that, Olim said he sees these as feelings brought on by a national student feeling of inescapability. Students have retreated within themselves in a quiet-dissent, self-exploratory way. And the result is a new individuality, a new problem-orientation that might yet solve the problems the violent protest couldn’t.

Individualism shifts rampant through the student lifestyle. Give Peace A Chance chants have evolved into a new soft music, a new gentle sound of manifesting grand in quiet love stories in song. Small shops and co-ops have opened, selling handmade, back-to-earth clothing and organic goods, a reaction against depersonalized mass-produced culture.

“Do-it-yourself attitudes accompany the do-your-own-thing philosophy. We grow our own organic food, make our own clothes, build our own furniture, plan our own curricula, ride our own bikes instead of driving a car...and the list is as long as the list of problems.

But our newly-discovered Student Age of Individualism isn’t beneficial if it isn’t channeled in a positive direction. Hopefully, it isn’t self-indigent, isolated individualism. Hopefully, in developing ourselves as individuals, we’ll create the impetus to get back together and then get it all together.

There seems to be a change in consciousness, but hopefully, not in lack of it. Students are looking for new kinds of solutions. Hopefully, they are no less concerned about the problems. But if — through the vote and working within the system rather than without it—students can’t be effective in changing our environment, another stage of disillusionment—one punctuated with apathy, discouragement and 1960's nostalgia — may set in.

The list of Relevant Issues is growing longer and longer.

Bombing ban

by JOHN HALL

Washington (UPI) — The Senate rejected a ban-the-bombing amendment by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who charged that massive U.S. air strikes in Indochina constituted a war crime comparable to Hitler’s "final solution" for the Jews.

Gravel’s amendment to prohibit further bombing in Indochina, except in cases where it is directly necessary to protect U.S. troops, was defeated as the Senate continued work on a $31 billion weapons procurement bill.

Gravel charged that 100 tons of explosives per hour were being raised on the population of Indochina in a "nightmare of wanton destruction.

He said he saw no difference between that and Nazi Germany’s mass execution of Jews.

“But we have a criminal who is President of the United States, we should have the moral resolve to point it into and correct it,” he said.

I-D cards required for staff, faculty

All students, staff, faculty and personnel of auxiliary organizations who have not had photos taken for the new ID cards should do so as soon as possible. According to Jerald Holley, Director of Admissions and Records, "It should be noted that it will be necessary to have ID cards in order to utilize some of the campus facilities." Holley added. He mentioned the Health Center and the Dexter Library. "The cards also provide positive identification in relation with your association with Cal Poly." For persons who were photographed during registration, the cards will be available during the week of October 26, and students may pick theirs up in the CU plaza. If the picture was taken late, the cards can be picked up four weeks from the date it was taken, in the ID Card office. Staff and faculty cards will be distributed through inter-campus mail by department.

WASHINGTON (UPI)-The Selective Service System announced its first "cut-off number for the final call of qualified men with numbers over 120 for the year. This means that all registrants with numbers over 120 are safe from induction this year, said Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr.

However, because the number of men with numbers 120 and below exceeds 10,000, Tarr said some would be drafted in the first three months of next year.

Tarr said that local Selective Service Boards would deliver the 10,000-man quota for October, November and December in two segments—4,000 during Nov. 1-15 and 6,000 during Nov. 16-30.

This will be the first induction since June when the old draft law expired. The new law, part of a drawn-out debate in Congress, was not signed into law until Sept. 28.

It was first estimated that the cut-off number for the final 10,000 call for 1971 would be 120 and below, but this was later changed to 120 Tuesday.

Tarr also announced that Selective Service Boards and appeal boards will defer all decisions on classifications, personal appearances and appeals until new regulations controlling draft reform have been published.

Council vs creek...

Before his proposal for a resolution got bogged down into the creek problem, Schwartz said there was considerable merit in Gurney's proposal. "But, it seems to me that we're in a position where everyone talks and nobody does anything.

"People got together, people called themselves ecologists, and tried to do something about the creek. They failed one time after another, and I think the number of people ever turned out to help. It looks like we're getting somewhere.

"It seems to me that we're In a position where everyone talks and nobody does anything."

At this point the majority proposed his compromise which the Council found acceptable.

In other council action, private developer Donald E. Stickler of Sherwood Drive, proposed his compromise which the Council found acceptable.

Before the Council's meeting the plan had been cut down from 46 units to 40, they accepted his plan and it must now go before the Council once again for further action.

Numerous bids on city construction were approved, including Phase II of the Mission Plaza to O.K. Industries for $8,992; $25,000 extra for remodeling Fire Station No. 1 (total of $75,000); various pay increases to various civil servants (after the wage-price freeze).

Voting...

If SAC accepts the bill, it will be put both of the proposals on a special ballot.

The next SAC meeting and the scheduled meeting time for the remainder of the quarter will be Monday - 7:15 p.m. in the Student Council Chambers, CU 220.
Last weekend Steve Peterson, a Mustang Daily photographer, accompanied an Outings Committee journey to Mineral King. Peterson reported the group packed in about four miles to Mosquito Lake, meanwhile recording pictorially the natural splendor of the wilderness. He said some swam at the lake while others sailed a raft they found there. The second day of the trip, Sunday, over half of the 22 participating students climbed a nearby ridge to take in a view of the picturesque valley.

Returning late Sunday, the committee immediately set about planning for the next trip. Final preparations will be made tonight in the College Union at 7:30.

Student Housing Service serves as mediator in tenant disputes

Out of the San Luis Obispo Tenant's Association, a need for funds and an on-campus location, the Student Housing Service was born. It came with lowliness of birth and quietly began its life Summer Quarter when the Summer Interim Committee (SIC) voted to provide the fledgling organization with the necessary finances.

Often the Student Housing Service is confused with another on-campus group, the Student Tenants Association (STA). Jim Dewing, chairman of both groups, explained that STA is a club responsible for its own funds, while the Housing Service is a function of ASI, and funded as such. Another difference is that STA represents both students and non-students, while the Housing Service exists to aid students of this school with their housing hassles.

Exactly how does the Housing Service serve students? Dewing, a fourth-year Social Science major, said over the summer a rental how-to pamphlet "The House Plant", a model lease, and a cleaning deposit checklist were compiled. The pamphlet and checklist are now available to students at no charge. They may be obtained in the Housing office, CU 217B.

A rental referral service is also offered to help students find satisfactory housing and roommates. This is presently located on a bulletin board across the breezeway from the college bookstore entrance.

Office hours for consultation and action concerning housing-related matters are offered Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Dewing invited anyone having housing problems to "come in and find someone in 217A or B."

A major function of the Housing Service is to stimulate arbitration between the two sides involved in a housing dispute. When a tenant has a complaint someone from the Housing Service will either phone the landlord or go with the complainant to talk to him. Dewing commented, "I'd say we're very successful in this area. For example, we've settled several arguments over cleaning deposits, gotten refunds for tenants, and helped tenants whose landlords were uncooperative about making repairs."

In the future Dewing said the group hopes to secure a student legal-aid center as an outgrowth of the Housing Service.

The group also hopes to sponsor more legal forums similar to the ones offered over the summer. To inform students of their legal rights and restrictions, several lawyers were invited to participate in a weekly series.

Why is Dewing, who boasts of never having had a housing hassle, in the business? "I like working with people," he answered. He added that people with a knowledge of the law are needed to staff the housing office and help with arbitration. Help is also needed with publicity and distribution of the rental handbook and checklist.

The Housing Service committee officially meets Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. in CU 311. The only real qualification for getting involved is a "sincere interest in helping others."
ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

New food stamp qualification

by JOHN HANSBURY

Here you got those ol' hammer-in'shows! Does your stomach or your waistline ever land on you? Then it's time you qualified in a program. According to Mary McCready, food stamp super-visor, the following conditions are to be met in order to join the program: You must meet the requirements of the federal food stamp program. For a single person—amounts of less than $118 per month with liquid assets of $100 or less; two persons $240 per month with liquid assets of $180 or less; three and four persons $380 and $494 per month respectively. Liquid assets for the last two groups is $180 or less.

As adjusted net income is arrived at by taking the gross income, for example of $1,000, and subtracting federal and state income tax, if any, the result is $900 per year. Also, if your wife works, you are allowed to deduct cost in child care, but the only part you can deduct is one to two hours per day. If you work 10 hours or more, you are no longer eligible. If you participate in the welfare program, you must also be eligible for welfare. The result is you must pay the set-aside amount per year.

For your first visit to the Welfare Office, you receive an application form, usually filled out in the office. You are told what items to bring with you to your first meeting, such as bank statements and receipts, and all other information which will affect your case.

You still may find yourself ineligible for stamps. Liquid assets in excess of the total allowed is one reason, but a bigger reason is that many people fail to bring the items required to the interview and some even fail to make the appointment at the specified time.

"We tell the people that if they don't make the time specified because it will inconvenience us all. Also, we will adjust the meeting to fit their schedule," said Mrs. McCready.

On your first visit to the Welfare Office, you receive a list of rules and regulations for stamps. Some are too much money, all are ineligible. There is a term you must understand, called household. How many persons do you consider, called household. How many persons do you consider, called household. How many persons do you consider. Also, you must be able to prove your income. For example, a bank statement can be used, but we won't really know until the meeting to fit their schedule."

The program began nationally as a trial effort March 7, 1961. Congress passed the program in the Fall of '64 and ELO joined in November, '65. According to Mrs. McCready, there has been widespread growth countrywide.

"Sometimes we feel students are responsible for the increase," she said. "But I believe that this feeling is wrong. Students join the program in blocks, at certain times of the year. But the rest of the year there are other people joining too.

If you live in the city of ELU you purchase your stamps from the County Treasurer's Office in the County Court House. In Grover City and Alexandra they may be purchased from the Mid State Bank.

About 80 per cent of the grocery stores in the county accept stamps. The only items to be bought and foodstamps, American grown or manufactured, except certain imported items such as tea, coffee and bananas. The reason for this is that the basic provision for stamps is to help the American farmer. If you have a sweetheart, take good care—since you are allowed two luxury items, candy and soda pop.

You may, after being on the program, receive a visit from a food stamp worker, who will be checking you out to see if what you have declared is true, that there is no one living with you whom has not been declared, and that you have cooking facilities.

And now the here. These rules and regulations will probably be changed when the new regulations are cut, possibly by December, roughly by January, according to Mrs. McCready.

The biggest change will be in the definition of the word 'household.' said Mrs McCreavy. "This may change the eligibility of unrelated groups, but we won't really have until the Maa plan is written. Also, if the parent claims the child (student) they will not be eligible for stamps for the one year he is claimed plus an additional year. For students not carrying at least a half load, there may be employment requirements." According to Mrs. McCready, an article worth mentioning is that in August of this year, 150 people who could have had taken advantages of the program, didn't, either because they missed the deadline (stamps must be purchased between the first and twenty-fifth of each month), didn't purchase stamps for three consecutive months (therefore becoming ineligible) couldn't afford to purchase them or in some cases the person was too ashamed to go and buy food on the stamp program.

Just in case you wonder what your chances are for getting stamps, here are a few statistics: August—out of 376 applications, 132 were certified, 98 denied. July—out of 296 applicants, 111 were certified and 79 denied. In April there were 297 applications filled with only 107 certified and 150 denied.

So how do you fit in the program? Just in case you wonder what your chances are for getting stamps, here are a few statistics: August—out of 376 applications, 132 were certified, 98 denied. Crafts workshops begin

Students searching for a creative outlet from mundane study tasks may discover the solution to their problems at the Crafts Center in the College Union. A series of informal crafts workshops are currently offered in the center through a program sponsored by the ASI. Workshops, ranging from jewelry making to macramé, are on a one-week basis.

The program is designed for students who have the desire to explore their creative abilities but are unable to fit regular classes into their schedules. Workshops vary in time, and an individual finds he cannot attend an afternoon session, others are available in the evening.

Students who miss a particular workshop may sign up for a later one as most of the training sessions will be offered every week during the quarter. No limit or minimum number has been established for the number of workshops in which the student may enroll; therefore, they may sign up for as many sessions as they wish.

For a minimal cost of $1, a student may sign up for any of the following training workshops: batik, jewelry making, lapidary, leather, macramé, photography, silk-screening, or tie-dye. Another workshop in wood carving is tentatively planned.

Participation in the Crafts Center programs is not limited to students involved in the training programs. Students who have experience in working with craft tools are welcome. No charges will be made to students using the tools and facilities. The only expense a student will incur are the materials used, such as leather, ink, jewelry settings, clay, or whatever is needed to complete his project.

Photographers must supply their own film and flash bulbs, but are not expected to pay for film developing chemicals and processing. A member of the Crafts Center staff is on duty at all times to assist students with any questions or problems occurring while working on a crafts item.

Craft Center hours are noon to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and noon to 1 a.m. on Fridays. On Sundays, hours are from noon to 11 p.m.

The fee includes six to nine hours of workshops. The fee includes six to nine hours of training workshops. The fee includes six to nine hours of training.

Sprinkle spice and ants split

Nobly likes ants. A simple organic way to eliminate or reduce the number of ants to negligible amounts is to sprinkle cinnamon around the counter edges, doorways, and wherever they may appear. Cinnamon is not a poison, it's a repellant, the same stuff you buy in the store, sprinkle on your morning toast, and use as an ant repellent. The scent drives the ants away without killing them, or poisoning the environment. If you don't believe it, try it. Don't expect miraculous results immediately. Wait an hour or three and watch the ants disappear. You can hurry the process if cinnamon is put on the nest and major trails which are readily visible.

Said Doshi, "Their remarks were generally directed toward emphasizing the importance of women taking more verbal and active roles in the electoral system; moving out from behind the ballot, running for office themselves."

"Workshops on topics ranging from issues and guidelines to candidates criteria and electoral politics were held all day. At a closing plenary session, reports from the workshops were heard, and a final discussion was held despite the unwieldy size of the group," said Doshi. She added, "The following resolutions were passed at the meeting; the demand for immediate withdrawal from Southeast Asia of all U.S. cease to and never again violate the right to self-determination of any nationality within and without the U.S., the NWCP recognition of Angela Davis as a sister in struggle, demanding her immediate release on reasonable bail, a change of venue and a trial by her peers, endorsement of Shirley Chisholm's candidacy for President in 1972, endorsement of the Women's National Abortion Action and its actions, and the condemnation of Governor Reagan's Welfare Reform Act called for immediate firing of the State director of Welfare. According to Doshi, the assembly was largely made up of older women who were Democrats. It was openly opposed by the few blacks and chicanas who had not been invited, and it appeared that the Socialists, Communist, Peace and Freedom Party women had been invited.

Mustang back earns CCAA honors
as 'Offensive Player of the Week'

By MALCOLM STONE

Fullback Mike Thomas was named both Mustang and CCAA "Offensive Player of the Week" for his performance against Humboldt State.

Defensive tackle Wayne Robinson was chosen "Defensive Player of the Week," and tailback Mike Foley was picked as "Specialty Team Player of the Week."

Thomas became the first Mustang to score two touchdowns in a game this season on runs of 1 and 39 yards. He carried the ball 11 times for 117 yards in the 29-17 victory over Humboldt. Thomas missed the Montana game with a hand injury, losing his starting position to Tom Klemens. Though able to return to playing time, Tom Klemens. Though able to return to playing time, he was limited to playing in the North Park Junior Made Five tackles behind the line of scrimmage and assisted on four other stops.

Robinson led all defensive players with a total of 15 points for 114 yards in the week.

"I was surprised at my performance because I didn't know how to prepare myself for the contest as I didn't know whether I was going to play or not," Robinson said. "I just tried to do the best I could, but you miss a lot not having contact and participating in things which lead up to a game."

Robert Lane, defensive line coach, said Robinson has been the Mustang's most consistent defensive lineman.

Robinson is a converted linebacker who gets the most satisfaction from a "good hit."

He has a 3.8 grade point average in speech. He changed majors from English to speech "because I'm equally interested in oral communication."

"I like playing with the special team(s)," Foley said. "I've been playing football for three years and I've had to pay for the insurance to cover injuries.

Coach notes progress

In casting a reflective eye on last week's game, Coach Joe Harper assessed his victory with a sigh, "We've just a block away from springing some of our players for some long gains." After reviewing the films of the Humboldt game, Harper noted that the squad has made some progress in a number of areas. "We're a long way from being a solid fundamental football team," Harper noted, "and with an open date this weekend we have to work to improve on everything." Despite the Humboldt victory, the Mustangs' defensive tackle Dan Graham is out of action with a dislocated elbow. Graham was taking the place of sidelined Wayne Robinson for the game. Robinson is playing again, and will probably start in the Fresno game next week.

College offers job placement

Need a part-time job? Are you a graduate student looking for full-time employment? If so, go to the Job Placement Office in the Administration Building, Room 313, and talk to either Jojob Van Loben Sels, in charge of part-time and summer employment, or Carol Bomers, in charge of full-time graduate employment.

Adding to Mike Van Loben Sels, there are quite a few job openings and many students applying for them. If a student is willing to make an effort to get a job, which may mean going to the office more than once, he will more than likely get the job he is after.

At the beginning of the year many students apply for jobs in the area, but as the time goes by, the number of students seeking employment drops off. All students are reminded by Mike Van Loben Sels that there are job opportunities later in the year as well as early in the fall. The reason on campus jobs are not always available is that they are fewer in number than off-campus jobs, and the students who apply first are usually the ones who are accepted for employment.

So, if you are interested in a job during the year go to Room 313 in the Administration Building and fill out an application card.

After a disappointing loss to Western, College 8-0, the Mustang soccer team looks for a win this week against UCLA's soccer squad.

Crivello's Frosh open action against tough San Jose team

The Colt football squad begins its full season this Friday against the San Jose State freshman at 3 p.m. The contest will be held on the Sparks' field in San Jose.

Coach John Crivello feels Friday's clash will give his young squad a chance to play ball in a real game situation. "We plan to run just a basic offense and defense against San Jose," the Colt mentor explained.

Last week the San Jose frosh trounced the Santa Clara frosh 46-30 in their first game of the season. "They may of had more experience, but we're looking for a win," Crivello stated. The Colts have been practicing for only one week.

Offensively for the Colts, at quarterback will be Rolf Girtz, who also plays with the varsity. According to Crivello, Girtz is a good option quarterback and is helping the offense to pick-up a bit.

In the defensive line-up, Brian Baer, U.S. Grant and Gary Starkey help to anchor the strong Colt secondary. "This game will be a good test for our young secondary," concluded Crivello.
