SNAP sets off on social trail

Students for New Action Politics (SNAP) will be embarking this quarter on a program to help make students aware of the social problems existing in the world, according to Navnib Doshi, a member in the group.

SNAP held its first meeting Tuesday, with talk centering around the group's opposition to a Homecoming requests about plans for money raising activities.

Doshi said future meetings, to be conducted by a rotating chairman during the present quarter, will involve consideration of broader topics.

SNAP is currently planning to participate in the National Moratorium taking place on Oct. 15 in conjunction with the San Luis Peace Coalition. The day will be observed by "no business as usual" which means no attendance at classes for those planning to take part. Instead, will known speakers and teach-ins are scheduled to be held in Chumash Hall.

In regards to the Tom Hayden talk last year, Doshi said that there was a good response in the knowledge that "Cal Poly is not a little pond disassociated from the rest of the U.S."

When questioned about further goals and plans for SNAP, Doshi declined to comment specifically until the subject can be given the time and discussion he feels it deserves.

U.S. bases shelled

In Indochina (UPI)-North Vietnamese forces again shelled South Vietnamese and U.S. bases along the Cambodian border. Reports in spite of claims by Vietnamese generals that the Communists were withdrawing, U.S. B-52s retaliated with powerful raids.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Senate voted down Wednesday a proposal to cut off money for fighting the Vietnamese war by next February in absence of a "free election by South Vietnamese. The proposal was an amendment to a bill that would have provided $21 billion of military weapons and equipment purchases.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Nixon will go on television and radio at 7:30 p.m. Eastern Time Tuesday to tell the nation what economic controls will replace the wage-price freeze ending Nov. 15. Although details of Nixon's long-expected "Phase II" plans to control inflation and stimulate the economy were not disclosed, they were widely expected to provide for limited wage and price increases pegged to productivity and the cost of living.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said only that the speech, to be delivered, "will describe what further steps will be taken to stabilize the economy."

The President worked on his speech Wednesday in his private office. The White House said after studying recommendations of the Cost of Living Council during the weekend and consulting Friday with Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and his budget director, George P. Shultz.

The House meanwhile showed approval of Nixon's $21.4 billion in the next three years and sent them to the Senate, where hearings will start Thursday. For business, the bill reinstates the 7 percent investment tax credit to encourage business expansion, on top of previously ordered acceleration in tax write-offs for plant depreciation.

The 7 percent federal excise tax on all trucks capable of carrying 10 percent excise levy on light trucks would be repealed.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The dorm boondoggle

Editor: Mr. Steve Witten's article on dorm visiting hours was entirely excessive and creating smoke-screen among the 3,000 residents on campus.

As a resident for the past four years, I know how wrong Mr. Witten was in accusing the administration of the past four years. I lived as free as a bird in the dorm; there wasn't any hassle nor restricted rules as Steve was mouthing out loud. All the rules and regulations were set up by a special committee of the INTER-DORM-COUNCIL, and members of the committee were many elected dorm officers from each dorm.

Visiting hours are different from dorm to dorm, of course, with the approval of the dorm elected officers. There wasn't any influence or pressure exerted by the power-club-in.

Mr. Bostrom, the Housing Director, was our advisor—serving only in the advisory capacity, and only in time when the council needed him to interpret certain legislation. As far as the HEAD residents are concerned, they serve as guidance, or may say they are the "mother-away-from-home" in the dormitory semis

Steve, think constructively, there aren't any cells or iron bars or any restrictions to any of these dorms as in San Quentin. The dorm residents are intelligent and responsible citizens; they are the nation's intellects, and please don't tell them they are being caged or overgrown pre-schoolers that they believe they can only run an endless marathon after their hassles.

I don't know. What I do know is that this time they went too far. I saw a girl get smashed in the mouth by one of the members of this far out group. I'm sure he can chalk that one up as one of his most decisive victories - he emerged from the battle without a scratch. But the battle is just beginning. From what I understand, the girl is pressing charges against him. I sure hope she does.

I myself was involved in a fight while trying to discover the name of her assailant. I backed down repeatedly from one member of the wrestling team, who wanted to hassle. The reason or reasons of his violence are my own and I don't really care what anybody else thinks. The point is that I did not want to hassle and said so. Disregarding this, I was tackled by a member of the jock group whom I have seen in action before—against a whipped me, and I'm sure he's proud. I hope so because it could be one of the last wrestling matches he'll be in as I'm pressing charges against him. And I'll do anything necessary to see that this person doesn't represent our school in any sport and if possible, even belong to our student body.

TG's not for fighting

Editor: I attended last Friday's T.G. and have come to the conclusion that certain people do not seem to be allowed to put theTG out in public. It seems that it always turns to a group of overgrown pre-schoolers that cause the trouble. Maybe it's because they are big or maybe it's because they are members of that elite fraternity called TG. I know as jocks, that they believe they can run an endless marathon after their hassles.

I don't know what I do know is that this time they went too far. I saw a girl get smashed in the mouth by one of the members of this far out group. Bowl to win

Editor: It's a funny thing about a make... you never know when they'll strike. Take Joe Martinez. During Mr. Martinas's A.S.I. Pre-campaign, he said that he would bow to the will of the people. After Pete and Marianne were elected by the largest margin in the history of Cal Poly, because they actually stood for something, he spoke out as a member of the A.S.I. against everything that the majority of the student body wanted. Pete & Marianne would have won by more than the 3 to 1 margin they did win by.

Outside agitation a possibility in New Mexico prison strike

SANTA FE, N. M. (UPI) -
Two-thirds of the 1,700 inmates at New Mexico's state prison staged a "sit down strike"
Wednesday in what Warden Felix Rodriguez said was stimulated by outside agitation.

Rodriguez said the protesters refused to leave their cells early Wednesday for breakfast. He said about
the sit down at lunch.

The prisoners presented Rodriguez with a long list of demands, asking for a new parole board, better meals, longer visitation and permission to grow long hair and beards.

"I think you can definitely say this was caused by outside agitation," Rodriguez said. The warden said the prisoners had assured him
"this is a peaceful demonstration. Period."

October brings summer warm

Here comes the sun. It's beach time, let's take a walk time, and it's a great day for anything time. It may be October already, but the sun has given summer a reprieve and everyone is out to make the most of it.

The lucky souls who can are heading for the beach and hills to frolic and tan in the sun. Even the prisoners of campus schedules are doing their best to be cheated of the enjoyment of the final burst of summer.

Those who love the big yellow ball of heat can be found around campus playing frisbee, relaxing on the grass, and soaking up the rays. Even when stuck in classrooms, teachers and students conspire to let the sunshine in; doors are left open, lights are turned off, and windows are all but knocked out of the panes. The laws are even truned into big airy classrooms - great for nature study and learning.

The heat's on, that's for sure. According to the Security Office, the temperatures have risen steadily over the past few days. The high for Monday was 89 degrees, while Tuesday's high jumped to 90 degrees. Yesterday was the biggest scorcher of them all, when that little red line reached an even 100 degrees.

Even the dogs can groove in the shade. For a few minutes' break between classes, there's no better place to be than stretched out on the grass. (Photo by Mike Hodgson)

Peace Corps Project Report From Thailand

Thailand, and this college's agriculture projects there, will be the subject of a slide show and talk by John L. Merriam, Agricultural Engineering Department, at a Peace Corps meeting today at College Hour, 11 a.m. in Ag. 111.

The highlight of the second in a series of weekly Peace Corps Seminars, this program is open to everyone, according to Mike Orogan, of the International Education Office on campus.

Guests are invited to bring their lunches and chat informally following the presentation with returned Peace Corps volunteers who will be there until 1 p.m.

Already experienced in engineering irrigation systems in Nicaragua and Saudi Arabia, Merriam spent the 1969-70 school year developing plans for the irrigation of each of the 10 agricultural schools where this college's Thailand AID (Agency for International Development) team members are now working.

For further information on this and other Peace Corps and Vista programs, contact Orogan or Mike Worth, International Education Office, 646-1411.

New faculty announced

Seven new appointments to the School of Human Development and Education faculty here on campus have been announced by Dr. Carl C. Cummins, dean of the school.

The recent faculty additions include Dr. Roy H. Marlowe of the Child Education Department, Nancy F. Johnson of the Home Economics Department, Willie A. Green of the Psychology Department, Dr. James M. Crobe of the Men's Physical Education Department, and Anthony L. Theis, all of the Education Department.

Dean Cummins added that the seven new members were among a total of 33 new teaching staff members to join this campus in recent weeks.

Foreign Students

Foreign students are invited to be guests at a picnic to be held at Poly Grove, Sat. Oct. 9, at 11:30 a.m.

Faculty, staff families and present or future host families in the community will provide the food. Dishes and drinks will be furnished by the Foreign Students section of the Cal Poly Women's Club.

Jerusalem (UPI)—Prime Minister Golda Meir said Wednesday an unlimited cease-fire and no return of Egyptian troops to the east bank of the Suez Canal are key factors in achieving any special agreement on reopening the waterway.

Mrs. Meir said the canal, moreover, would have to be open to all shipping, including Israeli, under such an arrangement.

In a wide-ranging, two-hour exclusive interview, she also stressed that "Israel will never return to the pre-1967 war borders—there must be a change."

Mrs. Meir's policy outline followed the presentation of a six-point plan by Secretary of State William P. Rogers before the U.N. General Assembly Monday. Rogers mentioned possible compromises both on the length of the cease-fire and on the opening of the canal by Egyptian soldiers.

She ruled out as totally unacceptable any return of Egyptian troops to the Israeli-held east bank of the canal.

"I cannot for the life of me understand the objective logic of anything of this kind," she said. "We Israeli and Egyptian troops will be closer together than we are now. Now there is the canal between us."

"Civilian personnel, technicians, engineers and so on naturally will be allowed to cross the canal for its operation, but troops will not be allowed to cross to the presently Israeli-held east bank in the event of a Suez Canal agreement," Mrs. Meir added.

Mrs. Meir said Israel stands ready for negotiations on a special Suez Canal agreement and is for the good offices of the United States in this matter.

In speaking of a "special agreement", she was referring throughout to Rogers' so-called interim Suez settlement. She underscored that the acceptance of American good offices in the search for agreement does not imply the United States itself is taking a position on the issue.

"We hope the United States will not take a position of its own," Mrs. Meir said, adding that Israel does not consider a special Suez Canal arrangement as the final settlement of the Middle East conflict.

Vietnamese newspapers said Ky as having told members of a National Economic and Social Council he headed that, "I will not resign my post, I will stay."

President Thieu has boon rumored to resign for health reasons, "It is not serious... It is just a possibility of automation," he said.

"I did this in March and got no reply. This was understandable."

Mansfield says he sought visit

Washington (UPI) - Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield confirmed Wednesdays that he twice sought permission, with President Nixon's encouragement, to visit mainland China.

The overtures for a Mansfield visit, first in mid-1965 and again last March, were made after full consultation with the President.

Mansfield said the first request was rejected and the Chinese never responded to the second. Four months later, White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger flew secretly to Peking and won approval for a Nixon visit.

Mansfield said that with Nixon's blessing he wrote an old friend, Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk, in mid-1965 suggesting a visit.

Later that summer, Mansfield saw Sihanouk in Phnom Penh while touring the Far East at Nixon's request, and talked to the prince about a visit to Vietnam by Thieu.

Mansfield said Sihanouk had contacted Chinese Premier Chou En-lai but that the reply was negative.

"It is not serious... It is just a possibility of automation," he said.

Mansfield said he could not confirm a report in Newsweek that Chou had asked French Ambassador Etienne Manac'h of the United Nations to try to persuade Sihanouk to visit China.

Mansfield said that with Nixon's blessing he wrote an old friend, Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk, in mid-1965 suggesting a visit.

Still too young

Edinberg, Ind. (UPI) -- The birth date on Levi Records' driver's license is listed as "10-05-71."

"I am 10-05-71," the birth date would appear to stamp Levi as a precocious infant who obtained a driver's license on the day he was born.

The "10-05-71," however, stands for 1971, not 1911. And Records was quietly celebrating his 10th birthday Wednesday. When the abbreviated dating system was set up, apparently no one considered the possibility of a 10-year-old driver, but Records, who had been driving since 1961, passed his license renewal last summer with a perfect score last summer, he says.

"I got this license the attention of the two of us at the house on Wednesday. I was encouraged again to make my request," the Democratic leader said. "I did this in March and got no reply. This was understandable."

You've Just Found A Square Deal

VATICAN CITY (UPI) -- Pope Paul VI said Wednesday that no "changes, evolutions or transformations" of Roman Catholic doctrines of faith would come from the current International Synod of Bishops meeting in the Vatican.

"In this aspect the church is tenaciously conservative," the Pope said.

Vatican sources said the Pope apparently was not referring to the worldwide debate over married priests because, they noted, he spoke of changes in the faith.

"It is a matter of church law rather than faith," instead, the sources said, the Pope apparently was reminding persons outside the synod that their pressures for changes in the teachings of Catholicism would meet with no success.

The 76-year-old Pontiff told synod delegates last week when he formally opened the meeting of 319 cardinals, bishops and other churchmen to resist or ignore outside demands, "persuade them to heed teachings in doubtful conformity with the faith."

The Pope's remarks were made during his weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica. It was his first official engagement in three days following what Vatican officials called a slight cold.

NL crown to Pirates

PITTSBURGH (UPI) The Pittsburgh Pirates won the National League pennant Wednesday, riding the brilliant relief pitching of young Bruce Kison and three-run homers by Al Oliver and Richie Hebner to a clinching, 6-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Pirates, trailing 4-1 when San Francisco rocked starter Steve Blass for eight hits, including two home runs, in the first two innings, tied the game with Oliver's homer in the second and put it out of reach with Oliver's homer in the sixth.

But the real hero was Kison, a funny-checked 31-year-old whose gutsy pitching performance came when the Pirates needed it most.

They will go into the World Series against the American League champion Baltimore Orioles with the health of two regular starting pitchers, Cock Ellis and Nelson Brutus, in question, and may have to call on Kison again.

Kison, who was pitching for the Charleston, W. Va., Charlies of the International League until July 3, chocked off the Giants on two hits in four and two-thirds innings Wednesday and, in one stretch, he retired 16 straight batters.

Dick Heaton, intramural director on this campus, sets posters to draw interest in activities to start next week.

Intramural sport sign-up set with Friday deadline

Sign-ups are now being accepted for all intramural sports activities to be held on this campus during the fall quarter, according to Dick Heaton, intramural director.

A group of students representing any organization relating to this campus may sign up for team sports in room 104 of the Men's Gym, providing all members are students here. The tentative schedule finds team competition in football, basketball, volleyball, and bowling with hopes for singles and doubles tournaments in handball and tennis.

A maximum number of 15 players for football, 10 for basketball, and two or six for volleyball will be accepted, and a five-dollar fee will be charged to each team to cover materials and trophies. Each bowling team will require four members.

Heaton reminds all students that Friday is the final day that team registrations will be accepted. League play gets underway next week and will continue through the end of the quarter with playoffs at that time.

Help needed by track team

More track team members are needed, and interested students are urged to try out for the squad, it was announced this week by head track coach Steve Simmons.

Weightlifters, sprinters, and half-milers are mainly needed, but Simmons assured interested participants would be considered in all events.

Anyone wanting to attempt to make the squad may contact Simmons in the Men's Gym on this campus.

Raise in vote spending approved by committee

Washington (UPI) The House Commerce Committee over rode Republican opposition Wednesday and approved a 5-cent-per-voter limit on broadcast spending by candidates for president and congress.

Republicans fought for an overall 10-cent campaign ceiling on communications media spending, but on a 32-30 vote the committee agreed that only half the limit could be spent for radio and television commercials.

Thus members reversed two earlier votes in favor of an amendment by Republican Rep. Steve Blass, R-Pa., which would have set a 10-cent spending limit for newspapers, magazines and broadcasting which the candidate could spend as he wished.

Unlike the bill by the House Administration Committee, the Commerce measure would repeal the equal-time requirement which has inhibited television debates between presidential candidates. The Commerce measure would only apply to candidates for president. A Senate-approved measure would preserve the provision for all federal campaigns.

Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers said he did not know how the differences between his panel's bill and the one approved by the Administration Committee could be reconciled. He indicated the House might be asked to vote separately on each measure.
