REGISTRARS
Is 18 still too young?

by KATHY BEASLEY

The right of the under-age-2l student to vote has been curtailed in this county, according to Stewart Jenkins, chairman of the Young Democrats Club. Jenkins said that the lack of registrants to commit to registering students, especially those under 21, will be a definite hindrance to the newly enfranchised students.

Stewart Jenkins, chairman of the Registration Committee on campus, stated that they met "powerful opposition" to their request for appointment of student registrars when they talked to County Clerk Ruth Warnken two weeks ago.

"Our intentions (in going to Miss Warnken) were to get a proportional number of student registrars on campus as that number in the county," said Jenkins. Miss Green added, "It's very difficult to register any Peace Coalition activism on campus when there is a minimal number of active registrars committed to the work.

Both Jenkins and Miss Green said that a basic right that goes along with the right to vote is the right to register as a "Registrar. We just feel that if you're not old enough to vote, you're not old enough to be a Registrar," said Miss Green.

This year, operating expenditure will cover the costs of Personnel and the purchase of equipment and its operating expense. The estimated parking fee income for this year is $193,498. This breaks down into $87,094 for personnel service cost, $87,368, goes to pay 2.5 groundsmen, 2 parking officers, .5 clerical positions in the accounting department, and a 43 student position. The numerical breakdown of these positions is easier to understand if thought of as fractions of a 40-hour workweek.

The money under the personnel service cost, $87,368, goes to pay 2.5 groundsmen, 2 parking officers, .5 clerical positions in the accounting department, and a 43 student position. The numerical breakdown of these positions is easier to understand if thought of as fractions of a 40-hour workweek.

Under the student personnel position there is a variety of jobs. The breakdown is .3 positions in accounting, .3 in student building maintenance, and .3 in building maintenance. Consequently, the program usually employs 8-10 students.

Compared to last Fall, the number of parking stickers issued has dropped according to Ruth Warnken.

An antiwar resolution and a request for a downtown peace parade are expected to be presented to the San Luis Obispo City Council at its meeting tonight by the Peace Coalition.

This collection of pacifist organizations—representing both student and downtown organizations—is scheduled on the council's agenda for the meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Warnken chambers at City Hall. When the antiwar resolution is presented, petitions endorsing the resolution will accompany it. The request for a permit will be for sponsoring a march in connection with the national "Peace Parade" on Saturday, Nov. 8.

A quick game of Beat the Border is guaranteed to bring laughs into any meeting. Richard Birchler, head of Project 6, introduced the game to stimulate discussion and provide an education for those unfamiliar with the dope scene. (Photo by Kathy Beasley)

Beat the border

By BOB SCHEINBERG

Parking fees where it goes

The 90 campus parking fee is frequently the subject of heated discussions, but probably few people know the story behind it.

The college is required to have this program by the Education Code of California Statutory Law, and the fees are set by the California State College Board of Trustees. So the question should not be, "why pay the money?" but "how is it used?"

According to James R. Link, director of business affairs, the parking program is a revenue fund, meaning that the program gets no money other than what they collect through the sale of parking permits. This revenue goes into the Parking revenue fund surplus. The money from parking citation goes into the County Road Fund, and although there has been a proposal to share this money, it was defeated in the California State Legislature.

The equipment and operating expense covers such items as relighting, grounds materials, lights, signs, glass reflecting beads, and an Insurance policy which covers student and faculty vehicles against damage done by other vehicles or activities.

The program and operating expense covers such items as lighting, grounds materials, lights, signs, glass reflecting beads, and an Insurance policy which covers student and faculty vehicles against damage done by other vehicles or activities.

Lanphier commented on these things, saying "Signs are becoming hideously expensive" and "it's crazy, but we've found that we can buy cars (for use by the parking officers) cheaper than accountants. Also, the program recently bought a debris vacuum cleaner for picking up litter.

The money under the personnel service cost, $87,368, goes to pay 2.5 groundsmen, 2 parking officers, .5 clerical positions in the accounting department, and a 43 student position. The numerical breakdown of these positions is easier to understand if thought of as fractions of a 40-hour workweek.

Under the student personnel position there is a variety of jobs. The breakdown is .3 positions in accounting, .3 in student building maintenance, and .3 in building maintenance. Consequently, the program usually employs 8-10 students.

Compared to last Fall, the number of parking stickers issued has dropped according to Ruth Warnken.

An antiwar resolution and a request for a downtown peace parade are expected to be presented to the San Luis Obispo City Council at its meeting tonight by the Peace Coalition.

This collection of pacifist organizations—representing both student and downtown organizations—is scheduled on the council's agenda for the meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Warnken chambers at City Hall. When the antiwar resolution is presented, petitions endorsing the resolution will accompany it. The request for a permit will be for sponsoring a march in connection with the national "Peace Parade" on Saturday, Nov. 8.

A quick game of Beat the Border is guaranteed to bring laughs into any meeting. Richard Birchler, head of Project 6, introduced the game to stimulate discussion and provide an education for those unfamiliar with the dope scene. (Photo by Kathy Beasley)
I am sure that the farthest thing from the minds of Mr. Witten and his co-authors is to abridge the rights of any dorm resident by making the dorm an unlivable place to live. The rules on quiet hours are more than fair and make the dorms a place more conducive to study. But as you yourself said, Mr. Young "collegial men and women are assumed to be mature, responsible citizens." With that thought in mind, even John should agree that any violating hours at all or a sign-in policy are obsolete and restrictive.

I think this is the basic stand taken by advocates of dorm rules changes. I certainly would not want to ignore the advantages of campus housing, but like most other institutions, campus housing can be better, and we as residents do have something to say about it.

I hope that all campus residents will explore their own attitudes toward housing regulations, whether they be good, bad or indifferent. If you're not content with the rules and want to do something about them, go to the ASI Housing Office and talk to John Dewing of the Tenant's Association.

Just watch, Mr. Young. "Responsible" change is not only possible—it is happening.

Steven Albers

---

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

I read Mr. John Young's letter of the October 16th Mustang Daily with an equal mixture of amusement and dismay. I sincerely hope that campus residents are not taken in by Mr. Young's serious defense of Cal Poly's dorm policies or his tirade against those who advocate changing those policies. Mr. Young's position typifies that of the Old Guard Polytechnic Student who cries, "My College—right or wrong.

Responsible' change

I am sure that the farthest thing from the minds of Mr. Witten and his co-authors is to abridge the rights of any dorm resident by making the dorm an unlivable place to live. The rules on quiet hours are more than fair and make the dorms a place more conducive to study. But as you yourself said, Mr. Young "collegial men and women are assumed to be mature, responsible citizens." With that thought in mind, even John should agree that any violating hours at all or a sign-in policy are obsolete and restrictive.

I think this is the basic stand taken by advocates of dorm rules changes. I certainly would not want to ignore the advantages of campus housing, but like most other institutions, campus housing can be better, and we as residents do have something to say about it.

I hope that all campus residents will explore their own attitudes toward housing regulations, whether they be good, bad or indifferent. If you're not content with the rules and want to do something about them, go to the ASI Housing Office and talk to John Dewing of the Tenant's Association.

Just watch, Mr. Young. "Responsible" change is not only possible—it is happening.

Steven Albers
Honored dean to speak

George J. Hasselrn, recently honored for his "innovative pioneering and leadership in modern architectural education" will be the guest speaker of the Architects' Wives Club Tuesday. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Ag Hart 211.

Hasselrn, dean of the School of Architecture and Environmental Design, received the Architect's Service Award from California Council, American Institute of Architects (CCAIA) for his "leadership in architectural education and how it has elevated standards of student performance in California," according to the CCAIA Awards Committee.

Hasselrn received the award during the annual conference of the California Council, held Sept. 30 in Coronado, near San Diego. The committee recognized the dean's contribution to successful student participation and annual conferences of the CCAIA and his "recognition of the practical, as well as technical requirements to prepare a student for entry into a demanding and publicly responsible profession."

Hasselrn received his degree in architecture from the University of Southern California in 1940. He joined this school's faculty in 1960, and has been dean since 1966.

Club vice-president Penny Shusta urges all wives of architecture students to attend the admission-free meeting and become involved in the club's activities.

Almanac plans

A committee to produce "The Almanac," a musical program scheduled for Spring Quarter, is forming now. The committee will meet at 6:30 p.m. tonight in the Mustang Lounge at the College Union. The planning group is a subcommittee of the Fine Arts Committee.

The objective for the musical production, "The Almanac," is to stage a well rounded program of all types of traditional American music. Tentative plans are to sponsor 10-15 noncommercial artists for the event. However, the format, arrangements for equipment and stage production, and the program of artists to perform have not been decided. Students are needed to organize the details for the "The Almanac."

Art grab bag

Free arts and crafts demonstrations will be given by the Crafts Center Committee through Oct. 24 in the CU Crafts Center.

Planning a Merger?

You could tell your world about it with a stunning DIAMOND from BRASIL'S. Join the growing number of happy people we've helped solve the problem.

BRASIL'S is at 720 Higuera St. next door to Cigar Factory!

HOURS: TUE—SAT 10:00 to 17:00

3M Boodshelf Games & Gamettes.

Available at the

EL CORRAL SUNDRIES STORE
Bulldogs take it

The Fresno State Bulldogs went to work in the fourth period to take a come-from-behind victory over the Mustangs Saturday night, 13-10 before 8,000 fans at Mustang Stadium.

Trailing 10-0, Fresno quarterback John Behrens came off of the bench late in the third quarter to replace starter John Inglehart, who suffered a total of two pass interceptions, a bad pitch out, and a fumble. Behrens led a 79-yard drive to gain a touchdown on a four-yard pass to Herbie Phillips with 12:17 remaining to play. The visitors later marched 57 yards in 15 plays for the final score of the evening when Behrens threw five yards to Daren Gee. The Mustangs were penalized twice for illegal procedure during this final scoring drive.

Poly was hopeful of another score when it advanced 61 yards to the Fresno 12 yard line with less than three minutes to play, but sophomore tailback Matt Cavanaugh then fumbled the ball to finalize the Fresno victory.

Fresno State had a 318-yard total offense while Cal Poly gained 240 yards.

Tickets ready

Tickets for the Temptations concert Saturday, Oct. 30, are now on sale at all College Union information desks.

Prices for students are $3.50 for reserved seats and $2.50 for general admission, while the general public's rate is $4.80 and $3.50, for reserved and general admission, respectively.

The Recreation and Tournament Committee (RAT) announced that a hot pants division will be held to accommodate the ladies. Other sections are stock, for those with regular tricycles, and modified for homemade three-wheelers.

Rules and entry blanks can be picked up at the CU recreation desk. Entry fee is $0.50.