Nixon presents justice nominees

by CLAUDIA GALLOWAY

Washington (UPI)—President Nixon announced the nominations Thursday night of assistant attorney general William H. Rehnquist and Richmond, Va., lawyer Lewis F. Powell to fill the vacancies on the Supreme Court.

In a brief appearance on nationwide radio and television, Nixon said Powell, 44, and Rehnquist, 47, would bring stature to the court in filling seats left by Justices Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan.

"The choice was not generally a surprise. They had not been among those often mentioned as Nixon sought nominees and they did not appear on a list of six that was sent to the American Bar Association's screening committee for clearance.

Rehnquist has been the defender of Nixon's four previous nominees. He is a staunch proponent of wire tapping, surveillance of criminal suspects and the needs to balance the rights of the accused against the rights of accused criminals.

Lewis Powell, Powell Jr., is listed as a Democrat. Born in Suffolk, Va., Sept. 19, 1907. Powell has his law degree and was admitted to the Virginia Bar in 1931. He has been a partner in the Richmond, law firm of Hunton Williams, Gay, Powell, and Gibson since 1927.

Harper, James named in $700,000 damages suit

Neither the junior or senior Akin declined to discuss the matter. He stated that his husband was not home yet and her son was "at college" (he is no longer enrolled here) and that further information could be obtained from the local police.

Specifically, the action charges "a breach of medical, professional, professional obligation and negligence."

Akin, a defensive and on last year's economic slump has made the repayment difficult.

The defendants, he charges, were negligent in treating him and failed to warn him of the consequences and hazards in the administration of drugs and other treatments.

Further, the complaint says, the Akins did not have the opportunity to give their consent on the treatment or the question of their son's ability to con-

Students delinquent in loan payment

by RICHARD GROVE

With the nation in the throes of an economic decline, colleges are finding it more and more difficult to reclaim long term loans to students.

Though some campuses suffer more defaults on payments than others, the problem stretches across all ethnic and social lines to affect nearly every major college.

The Guaranteed Student Loan Program (GSLP), the nation's largest program of student aid, is presented in red ink to the tidy figures of more than $50,000,000.

The GSLP helps students at more than 4,000 institutions, ranging from trade schools to universities. Though these loans are administered from banks and commercial businesses at commercial rates, they are guaranteed from loss by the state or nonprofit agencies or by the Federal Government.

The National Defense Education Act loan (NDEA), carries the burden of most default losses in loans obtained directly from the college. The NDEA default rate is up to $50,000 to an undergraduate at 3 per cent interest, less than half the rate of GSLP.

The student does not begin to pay back the loan until nine months after graduation.

The U.S. Office of Education recently reported that of the $37.2 billion lent to students since the NDEA's formation in 1958, the default rate is less than 1 per cent. This statistic, however satisfying it seems, is optically misleading.

Of the $2.7 billion in student aid that has been given, 10 per cent is not yet due for payment, suggesting that 10 per cent default rate is more realistic.

This college is not without its repayment hassles. According to Mary Eyler, Financial Aid Counselor, approximately 13 per cent are new past due, compared to less than 8 per cent recorded for last fiscal year.

All in all, Eyler feels that "Poly does real well." She went on to explain that in the past the default rate was only "1 or 2 per cent."

But the last couple of years' economic slump has made repayment difficult.

San Francisco State College was unable to collect $77,900.00 in loans last year. Granted, the number had more than its share of economic and political upheaval but that figure represents 20 per cent of the total aid allotted to the institution.

Delinquency rates are especially high at small, predominantly black colleges. Most of these colleges lack the people and facilities for collecting loan procedures. Another main factor

Law opens meetings

Editor:

"Public commissions, boards and councils and the other public agencies in this state exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business. It is the intent of the law that their actions be taken openly and that their deliberations be conducted openly." That is the law, quoted from California's Brown Act, the anti-secrecy legislation enacted in 1963 to make certain the public's business is conducted in public.

This law guarantees the right of knowledge through first hand witnessing of all meetings dealing with the public's business. It is AGAINST the law to refuse a citizen the right to attend a meeting of public concern unless it is dealing directly with the hiring, firing, continuance of tenure, etc. of state personnel, and these meetings must be opened to the public if the personnel in question wishes it so.

Why this law? The best answer is contained within the law itself: "The people of this state do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them: "The people of this state do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them."

Cal Poly's participation in the anti-war moratorium Oct. 18, was hearteningly unusual in that a much larger percentage of our population participated than in any other action around the country. The lack of participation across the country can be attributed to several things. Many people have lost hope in marches and rallies and have no conviction that "working through the system" will ever work. The same people, although they favor an immediate complete withdrawal from Indochina, are afraid to take their thoughts to the logical conclusion. And that is that Vietnam is set a "horrible mistake" which our government is bumblingly trying to amend. Vietnam and the Thieu regime is only one of many unpopular, puppet governments which the U.S. government supports throughout the world; in Iran, Guatemala, Haiti, Jordan, Ethiopia, Taiwan, Cambodia, Greece, and elsewhere.

As long as self-determination is contrary to corporate interests there will be conflict, war and death. But whose profits will we be drafted to die for? Who of us will benefit from these wars? Is it not the people who want the Vietnam war to end have to see that just hoping won't do it. Very powerful forces spend every day making sure we stay there and in future Vietnam. Now more than ever the anti-war movement must see the real enemy for the powerful, intelligent and calculating force it is. Our enemy is not the Vietnamese people. It is the men and families who own and control the wealth of this country and make its policies. From now on, the anti-war movement must orient its actions around the goal of returning control over our foreign and domestic policies back to the people where it belongs. Marianne DeShi

Betsie is gone

The college dairy unit lost its beloved Holstein cow last Wednesday night when "Betsie," a registered Holstein-Friesian cow, died of natural causes.

Betsie was born and raised on the College Union Board of Governors (CUBG) dairy farm in Santa Barbara. She was the college dairy unit's most successful cow, earning numerous honors throughout her career.

Betsie earned several notable titles during her time with the dairy unit. She was named the University of California Dairy Show Reserve Champion and the Great Western Dairy Show Reserve All-American Cow in 1962. In 1963, she was named Reserve All-American Cow at the Livestock Exposition and Reserve Champions Cow at the American Dairy Science Association Show.

Betsie was known for her exceptional milk production, consistently producing 33,020 pounds of milk and 1,144 pounds of butterfat in one year. She was also noted for her high butterfat content, earning the award as the Most Butterfat Holstein Cow in the nation.

During her seven-year career, Betsie was often the center of attention for students, visitors, and faculty alike. She was considered the "headliner of the college dairy unit" by Harmon Toone, head of the dairy science department.

Betsie was also well-known for her role in the dairy unit's artificial insemination program. Polytechnic Banana, Betsie's last son, is now a junior herd sire for the college's dairy unit.

The college dairy unit is filled with song by both the guitar above and in the background as Betsie's legacy lives on through her sons and grandsons.
Mustangs aim for title

Mustang football players are ready to prove that they still possess enough power to come out on top of the CCAA conference as they visit the Matadors in San Fernando Valley Saturday night.

The Mustangs have won two straight CCAA titles and have put together a string of six straight conference victories. Harper's three-year league log reads 7-2.

He has never lost to Valley State's Matadors.

Those still on the doubtful list are a good deal more concerned in releasing the components who are a good deal of the mighty freshmen. Those still on the doubtful list are a good deal of the mighty freshmen.

The Colts will have the services of quarterback, but the Colts may still have overlooked the fact that Cal PolY has eluded an opponent who are a good deal stronger than those faced by other CCAA members. Furthermore, the Mustangs should have beaten both Boise State and Fresno State.

A fumble lost during the Boise game after an 80-yard drive permitted the Idaho team to hold on for an 18-16 win. Last week Cal Poly paraded 51 yards in the closing seconds only to lose a fumble on the Bulldog's 17. Moments before that a 53-yard pass from Dave Bresnahan to ace receiver Mike Amos on the Fresno 3 was disallowed.

Sicilia said Amos was out of bounds but game movie revealed he had his right foot in bounds than stepped out.

Last week Cal Poly mixed the Washburn formation in with its customary Slot-I. Four fumbles, three of them lost, and a stout Fresno defense, limited the Mustangs to only 179 yards rushing and just 61 yards in total offense.

Cal Poly, ranked 10th nationally in total offense with 460.1 yards a game going into last week's contest, dropped all the way to 364.3 yards and out of the national rankings. Quarterback Steve Bresnahan, sixth nationally before last week with a 238.3 average, produced only 119 yards last week.

What could be uglier than a muck-a-muck?
