CAREER-ORIENTED UNIVERSITY ENROLLMENTS INCREASING

Career education is "an idea whose time has come," according to Cal Poly President Robert E. Kennedy, and the proof is in growing enrollment. Dr. Kennedy said that state and national trends toward increasing offerings in career-oriented programs have not yet affected Cal Poly's position as a pioneer in career education. But, he added, increasing competition for career-oriented students is becoming evident.

Addressing the annual Faculty-Staff Conference, Dr. Kennedy pointed out that a recent Gallup Poll asked the question "Should public schools give more emphasis to a study of trades, professions, and businesses to help students decide on their careers?" Ninety percent responded "yes," 7 percent said "no" and 3 percent were of "no opinion."

Dr. Kennedy said educational publications are filled with coverage of experiments, models, and newly-initiated programs in career education, and that he expects this national movement to have an appreciable effect on colleges and universities.

President Kennedy, who serves as chairman of the advisory committee on career education for the 19-member California State University and Colleges system said a preliminary analysis of a systemwide survey undertaken by his committee reveals that 16 of the 19 campuses are planning to increase their emphasis on career education programs, as distinguished from liberal studies, liberal education, vocational education, or continuing education.

Committee Definition

The committee's definition of career education is: "a comprehensive education program of instructional and counseling activities that better enables students to maximize their occupational understandings, skills, and choices in order to obtain, hold, and advance in a job or series of jobs that constitute an occupational/professional career."

He asked faculty and staff members attending the Cal Poly convocation: "Is it possible that some of the 9 campuses of the University of California, some of the 108 private colleges in California, and the 96 community colleges of the state are likewise planning this very moment to increase emphasis in an area in which Cal Poly was for 70 years almost the only institution in the state which frankly admitted that its primary objective was to educate students for occupations? Is it possible our copyright has expired?"

Nationally, career education is also in the forefront of planning for higher education. Dr. Kennedy, as a member of the board of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, is also the liaison person between the board and its standing committee on career education, chaired by President Adron Doran, President of Morehead State University in Kentucky.

FALL QUARTER PROGRAMS FOR ARTS, HUMANITIES SERIES ANNOUNCED

The School of Communicative Arts and Humanities has announced the first of five Arts and Humanities 1973-74 presentations for the Fall Quarter. Scheduled for Thursday (Sept. 27) at 11 a.m., will be "Tarzan of the Apes; or Through the American Mind with Camera, Gun, and Knife," a lecture by Michael Orth. Orth's presentation will concern Edgar Rice Burroughs and his famous character Tarzan.

A member of Cal Poly's English Department faculty, Orth is currently working on a critical evaluation of Burroughs and his literary character for his doctoral dissertation. Along with his presentation, he is expected to announce the showing of three old Tarzan movies to be shown on the campus either Thursday evening or at a later date.

Other Fall Quarter presentations in the series will be: Oct. 4, "One Artist's Approach to Painting," a lecture by Robert Reynolds (School of Architecture and Environmental Design); Oct. 25, "The Big Red Schoolhouse," a lecture by Max Riedlsperger (History); Nov. 8, "Literature in Revolution," a lecture by Michael J. Wenzl (English); and Nov. 29, a concert of The University Singers with John Russell (Music) conducting.

The Arts and Humanities Committee, which is headed by Alfred Landwehr, also a member of the English Department faculty, expects to have as many as 12 more presentations during the remainder of Cal Poly's 1973-74 academic year.

"Year after year we have had to defend our early specialization and our two-year technical program in agriculture in which about 300 students are enrolled. Now we find that long-time Cal Poly methods such as early choice of career goals, early work in the chosen field, close work with instructors in practical situations, are being hailed as educational innovations, funded as experiments, and launched with great fanfare," Dr. Kennedy said.

He pointed out that Cal Poly's advocacy of career education recognizes the value of other approaches as well. "We never suggested that institutions with programs based on the liberal arts were wrong or were not needed -- we only insisted that not all students were alike, and not all institutions should be alike.

SEPTEMBER SALARY WARRANTS WILL BE AVAILABLE AT 4 P.M. ON FRIDAY

September salary warrants for faculty and staff of the university will be available at 4 p.m. on Friday (Sept. 28). Warrants batched by department may be picked up at the Cashier's Office, Adm-131-E, and those picked up on an individual basis will be available in the Business Affairs Division Office, Adm-114, after that time. With the end of the pay period falling on Sunday (Sept. 30), as it does, there is some possibility that the warrants will not arrive in time for distribution on Friday. In that case, they will be distributed at 8 a.m. on Monday (Oct. 1).

Employee parking permits for the Fall Quarter are being sold now at the Cashier's Office, Adm-131-E. Cost for the quarterly permits is $10. An annual permit covering the Fall, Winter, and Spring Quarters is also available at a cost of $30.
CLASSROOM MEDIA WILL BE EXTENSION COURSE TOPIC

Teachers, corporate training officers, and aspiring writers and photographers will have a chance to produce their own audio-visual programs this fall, and earn university credit while they're at it. The opportunity is being presented by Cal Poly Extension through a three-unit course titled "Developing Classroom Media" (Ed 470-01).

Scheduled to begin on Wednesday (Sept. 26) it will be offered on Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m., in Room 13 of the Business Administration and Education Building at Cal Poly. It will continue through early-December.

The course is expected to provide each participant with an opportunity to develop his or her own sound-slide program while receiving instruction in script writing, storyboard preparation, photography, and graphic art. Those not planning their programs for classroom use will have an opportunity to learn from a segment on freelance markets.

Instructor for the Cal Poly Extension course will be Steven C. LaMarine, production supervisor for Cal Poly's Instructional Materials Program. LaMarine's credits include a five-part filmstrip series, Ecology in Agriculture, which won a gold medal at the 1971 International Film and TV Festival in New York.

The course on educational media is among 30 courses being offered by Cal Poly Extension during the Fall Quarter which began this week. Others are in architecture, art, biological sciences, education, foreign languages, history, home economics, mathematics, psychology, and social sciences.

Enrollment in the extension courses is open to any resident of the Central Coast area who can meet course requirements. Enrollment and payment of fees are taken care of at the initial meetings of courses.

Additional information about the courses may be obtained from the Continuing Education Office, Adm-309, 546-2053.

Special operating hours for the first week of Fall Quarter classes and an improved layout designed to accommodate the growing number of items being offered by the store have been announced for El Corral Bookstore.

The new hours, which will continue through Friday, will find the store open for business from 7:45 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. The store, which will return to its regular hours next week, is closed on Saturdays and Sundays. Normal hours for the store during the Fall, Winter, and Spring Quarters are 7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on weekdays.

Added convenience for students, faculty, and staff who use El Corral is expected to result from the new layout for the store's sales areas. A floor map showing the new layout has been placed at the store entrance and pamphlets providing general information on the store, including a smaller floor map, are also available.

CRUCIAL LEAGUE ENCOUNTER AWAIT MUSTANG GRIDMEN

Although the football season is only in its third week, a crucial game that could decide the California Collegiate Athletic Association championship for 1973 is in prospect for Coach Joe Harper's Mustang football varsity this week. The Cal Poly gridmen, victors in their first two games of the campaign, will meet the Highlanders of University of California at Riverside in Riverside in a 7:30 p.m. contest on Saturday (Sept. 29).

The Cal Poly and UCR teams, which have never met in football before, were both undefeated in CCAA play and tied for the CCAA crown in 1972. The Highlanders opened their 1973 season by beating University of San Diego and were beaten last week by University of California at Davis. The Mustangs opened their season with a 65-20 victory over California State University, Northridge and beat Idaho State University 20-10 last week.

NEW PROCEDURES FOR OFFICIAL TRAVEL REQUESTS

Effective with the beginning of classes for the Fall Quarter, the "Request for Travel Advance" form was eliminated and all requests for travel advances are being incorporated as a part of a revised Form 1A - "In State Official Business." James R. Landreth (Director of Business Affairs), who announced the change, said arrangements have also been made to include the "Request for Travel Advance" with Form 257B - "Request for Authorization to Travel Out of State."

According to Landreth, it is hoped that minimizing the number of forms by consolidating necessary official travel authorization data with the request for obtaining travel funds will benefit both the traveling employee and those responsible for maintaining travel accountability for the university. Supplies of the revised forms may be requested from Maria Gomez of the Accounting Department, Adm-131, (546-2291).

Monday, Oct. 22, will be Veteran's Day and as such will be an academic holiday for Cal Poly students, faculty and staff. Classes will not be held, offices will be closed, and only emergency and necessary services will be provided.
James R. Emmel (Head, Speech Communication) served as a resource consultant to the University of Guam's College of Language Arts and attended the first International Symposium on Computer Systems in Taiwan during a tour of the Orient in August. Dr. Lambert was involved in conservation projects located in Glacier and Canyonlands National Parks, the Ozark National Scenic Riverways and Chamizal National Memorial.

Edward Jorgenson (Men's Physical Education) conducted a summer tennis camp in Wuerzburg, West Germany, for three weeks during the summer. The week-long camping sessions were for dependent children of Americans employed throughout Europe. Boys and girls from 12 to 18 years old from as far away as Spain, Italy, and Belgium were involved.

An exhibition of recent paintings by Robert Reynolds (School of Architecture and Environmental Design) opened last week at the Red Door Art Gallery in Morro Bay and will continue through Oct. 18. Some of his drawings and paintings will appear in a forthcoming issue of Ford Times, the monthly magazine published by Ford Motor Co.

Although 13,229 students had entered the registration area by close of the period on Friday, some 200 of that number had not paid their fees and completed their enrollment. Registrar Gerald N. Punches said this week that many of that number will probably not complete the process, but late registrants are expected to boost the final total for the quarter over the 13,200 mark.

All prior CARE grantees are reminded that one provision of getting a grant was to submit to this office a report on the work accomplished, and a fiscal report showing how the money was spent. These reports are due by the last day of the quarter following the expiration of the grant. Thus, if your grant was for 6/15/73 to 9/15/73, your reports are due December 31, 1973, unless an extension in time was made. Without your reports, the Research Committee and the University have no way of determining the value of the CARE program.

The Office of Water Resources Research, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240 is now accepting research proposals in the field of water resources for consideration for FY 1975 support. To provide time for requisite review, proposals should reach the Office of Water Resources Research by January 11, 1974, although special proposals may be submitted to OWRR at any time. OWRR Procedures Memorandum No. 73-2 gives detailed instructions and forms for the submission of proposals and should be available in the office within a few days.

The research program of the OWRR will be directed primarily toward the support of certain current priority objectives of the Department of Interior. These include:

- Solving Energy Problems.
- Encouraging Indian Self-Determination and Improvement in the Quality of Life on Indian Reservations.
- Solving Land Use Problems.
- Promotion of Efficient Allocation and Conservation of Scarce Water and Water-Related Resources in a Manner Compatible with Environmental Considerations. Developing means of achieving more efficient resource management such as reuse and recycling of water, reassessing the economic value of additional agricultural development and improvement of irrigation efficiencies in order to save resources, thus reducing the need for large capital investments of the future.
- Improving the Quality of our Physical Environment.

The OWRR has listed certain priority research subjects as guidelines: Improvement of Water Resources Planning, Managerial, Financial, Operating and Regulatory Policies; Water Resources Policy and Political Institutions; Hydraulic Systems Analysis; Urban and Metropolitan Water Resources Management; Ecologic Aspects and Environmental Considerations of Water Resources Planning and Management; Evaluation of Economic Importance of Various Uses of Water, Cost Allocation, Cost Sharing, Pricing and Repayment; Analysis and Evaluation of Water Resources Projects; Ground-Water Supply, Management, and Protection; Water Demand Considerations.

Also: Protection and Rehabilitation of Estuarine Resources. Research is needed to develop criteria, standards and guidelines for including ecological effects in planning for water resource development of estuaries and coastal bays, such as: dredging, filling, dams, diversions, land-cut canals, hurricane barriers, and waterfront finger-type developments. Thermal Loading Problems. With the expected increase in number of electric generating plants and the consequent thermal loading of rivers, lakes, and estuaries, increased research attention is needed to develop new or improved approaches to physical mixing and thermodynamics of the heated discharges; development of economically competitive alternatives; biologic, ecologic, environmental, and sociologic impacts; adequacy of regulations and procedures for site selection; possible ways of beneficially utilizing the heat for food production, recreation, or other purposes.
