Live pleasures, pure temptation

by MALCOLM STONE

Two full houses, one for each show, should dispel any doubt about the drawing power of the "Temptations" and their Motown sound here.

The crowd started lining up for the 7:30 show about 8 p.m. and by the time the doors opened at 7 p.m. there were two columns of fans reaching to the corners in both directions in front of the Men's Gym.

The first early crowd was relatively quiet, reflecting curiosity and subdued excitement. Not all the fans were "temp" fans, but rather a kind fringes group that enjoyed the sounds on the way to one of the dances.

In the way of any of the shows, there was only a general feeling. There were a few "together" people at the first show who arrived after Brenda and the Tabulations had come stage and came in "movie and groovin'" to the beat.

But, this was only a general feeling. There was a few "together" people at the first show who arrived after Brenda and the Tabulations had come stage and came in "movie and groovin'" to the beat.

Brenda and the Tabulations, three girls vocalist and a four piece band, warmed the crowd up slowly through tunes by the Beatles, Burt Bacharach, a "Temptations" hit, and some of their own including "Right On the Tip of My Tongue" and "Don't Make Me Over."

Then they declared they were going to take the audience "higher and higher." That one brought the crowd to its feet and paved the way for the "Temptas."

The "Tempta" came on like a whirlwind and continued as a perpetual motion machine, showing a great deal of class as they overcame a brassy stage and a dead microphone without a hitch.

The bulk of the questioning centered around Talcott's voting actions in regards to Vietnam. He said that he would like to see total withdrawal but thinks Nixon's present plan of deescalation is going quite well. "We ought to be grateful for what progress we've made..." Talcott felt that by withdrawing immediately we would leave the South Vietnamese unable to properly defend themselves. He also stated that on a graphic scale we would find "cost and troop involvement in the war have gone..."

The resolution of the peace problem in Vietnam are reduced-contributing to world peace".

Further questioning tackled the United Nations debate over (continued on page 2)

The "Temps" got it on for capacity crowds at Saturday's Homecoming Concert, the show also featured Brenda and the Tabulations.

United Nations (U P I) - Communist China acknowledged its acceptance by the United Nations Friday and said it would send a delegation to the General Assembly in the "near future."

No date was specified in a cabledgram received by Secretary General Thant from Chi Pang-Fei, acting foreign minister in Peking. But an informed diplomatic source here said, without confirmation, that a feasible delegation could be expected about next Thursday.

A U.N. spokesman said there was no confirmation "in the house" for this report. In a separate statement which was transmitted by the New China News Agency (NCNA) but not sent to U.N. headquarters here, Peking demanded the expulsion of Taiwan from all agencies of the United Nations.

"All the representatives of the Chiang Kai-shek clique must be expelled from the United Nations organisation and all its bodies and related agencies," said the NCNA in a dispatch from Peking. The transmission was monitored in Hong Kong. As did the cabledgram to the U.N. the NCNA dispatch said China would send a delegation soon to the U.N.

The cabledgram from Peking, a message in English, was the first communication received directly by the United Nations from Communist China.

A spokesman was sent here in 1950 to discuss the Korean War.

The General Assembly, by a 76-35 vote last Monday night, approved an Albanian resolution to give China's seat in the United Nations and its affiliations to Peking and to expel Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese nationalists.

That sent Peking a message immediately advising it of the assembly's action. He followed up with another cabledgram Wednesday, urging immediate appointment of a representative to the Security Council.

This could have been achieved, if the requirement for presentation of credentials to Thant 34 hours before had been observed and Peking had signified that it wanted to be known here officially as the "People's Republic of China".

There had been speculation that Peking would designate Huang Hua, its ambassador to Canada, to be its first representative here. But the last cablegram said the representative could have taken over at Sunday midnight as November president of the Security Council.

By BRUCE WM. MUNN

United Nations (U P I) - The United Nations Security Council (SAC) and the San Luis Obispo city council president.

Coalition, according to Bronwen Daily Mustang Daily

Starting at 7:30, the SAC agenda will be discussed.

The bulk of the questioning centered around Talcott's voting actions in regards to Vietnam. He said that he would like to see total withdrawal but thinks Nixon's present plan of deescalation is going quite well. "We ought to be grateful for what progress we've made..." Talcott felt that by withdrawing immediately we would leave the South Vietnamese unable to properly defend themselves. He also stated that on a graphic scale we would find "cost and troop involvement in the war have gone down since the election of November."

Talcott disagreed with the "(United States) running of the war", and with "the (United States) running of the war," and with the idea of a sanctuary area believing it was wrong not to involve South Vietnamese in "their" war soon enough. He said he realized these things and spoke out about it, but we must "respect the views of the other persons who initiated this thing".

Referring to a questionnaire we must "respect the views of the other persons who initiated this thing".

"Congressman Burt Talcott, of the 12th District, was a guest of the California College Republicans Friday morning in the CU Plaza to answer questions on an open forum with students.

Talcott related that his main objective was "to talk, to listen, to share views, and to have an open discussion about federal legislation and foreign affairs."

Among the questions asked by BRUCE WM. MUNN
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

‘Card pays for itself’

Editor:
Cal Poly’s health program has been and remains totally student-financed. The after hour (nights and weekends) portion is been and remains totally student-provided by student participation per academic year or $10 per student. The supply of these books is limited.

Hasseled?
Hassled? Need help? Call 945-980 or drop in to CU 214 from 8 p.m. to midnight, Monday through Thursday.

Concert choice reflects changing school attitude

Editor:
I would like to address my remarks to Mr. John R. Mitchell and others that think like him. There is no additional charge for after hour visit or campus.

Pozo alive and kicking

Editor:
The rumor spread in the Mustang Daily about the closing of the Pozo Saloon is inaccurate. The proprietor who previously leased the premises moved to Atascadero with his beer license. The owner of the property is now operating it and all its rustic charm and atmosphere is still there. The only difference is that after a long day or hard riding in the mountains one must be content with root beer rather than beer.

Mustang Daily

The two Chinese, Talcott answered that he personally favors a ‘two-China policy’—the admission of Red China and the retardation of the Republic of China. ‘It is wrong to expel a member of the United Nations, as it may mean the demise of the United Nations’, said Talcott. He regards the United Nations as no longer a “peace-keeping” organization but primarily a “forensic” forum for international affairs.

Editorial

Trials of our coast’s beauty

The California Senate Committee on Natural Resources is slated to discuss today a bill ensuring coastline protection bill still alive at the 1971 legislative session. Already approved by the Assembly, AB 1417 provides a general vote in the upper house.

Since being authored by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty (D-Beverly Hills), the bill has picked up an impressive list of sponsors from both sides of the aisle. By all rights, it should clear the legislature easily, yet it stands a distinct possibility of dying in the senate committee.

The natural resources committee has killed three other similar coastline protection bills a year—all seemingly weaker than Sieroty’s bill. Since then, however, public support of the measure has magnified and there is an added possibility of passage.

Unless altered by the committee, the bill would create the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission and six regional commissions. The intent would be to control development along the state’s 1,100 mile coast. A plan would be presented to the legislature in 1973 regarding long-range coastal development.

But more importantly, in the meantime any development that could cause permanent damage to the coastline area would be prohibited.

Opponents of the bill point out the subsequent loss of local control by local agencies should the commission assume power. True, however, local agencies have held power to this point and a review of the history of pollution along the coast bear strong testimony to their actions—or inactions.

The Sieroty bill would not halt development along the coast but would insure an orderly development of the coast until a comprehensive plan could be acted upon.

One does not have to be an artist or poet to appreciate the beauty and splendor of the California coast. There is no reason this beauty and splendor should eventually become part of the litter and pollution of the coast until a comprehensive plan could be acted upon.

Friday an aide to Sieroty told Mustang Daily in all probability the bill will not come up for a vote in the senate natural resources committees Monday. Changes are the vote will not be taken until Wednesday at the earliest. That means the public has only a few more days to have its say on this crucial issue.

‘To talk, to listen’

Mustang Daily

Editor-in-Chief
Paul H. Simon
Managing Editor
Claudia Galloway
News Editor
Paul Tokunaga
Business Manager
Thom Hannum
Head Production Manager
Michael K. Seaton
Advertising Manager
Don Turk
Photo Editor
Kathleen Beasley
Sports Editor
Carol Chadwick
Day Editor
Thom Hannum
SUNDAY
Advertising Representative: Carol Chadwick, 741 N. College Ave., San Luis Obispo, Calif. 93401 Phone: 781-1371
Published Wednesday and Friday by San Luis Obispo Mustang Daily, Inc. San Luis Obispo, Cali. 93401
ISSN 0316-2710. Subscription rates: 1 year $5.00 on Saturdays. The opinions expressed in this paper are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the editor. Classified display advertisements accepted in the name of students, 18 and over.
To change abortion laws

Abortion laws were discussed at length at a gathering co-sponsored by Sisters' United and SANP. Guest speaker at the affair was Judy Kleinberg, representative of the Women's National Action Coalition.

Miss Kleinberg is touring Northern California in an attempt to make people more aware of the reasoning behind changing abortion laws. The slogan of WNAC is "women's right to choose for herself how many children she wants to have and when she wants to have them."

The WNAC is conducting a national campaign to turn public opinion in favor of repealing abortion laws and restrictive contraceptive laws. The WNAC feels that success in their goals will help all women because, as Miss Kleinberg said, "As long as there is a restriction on them, women are going to feel like criminals."

U.S. in court over weapons explosion test

Washington (UPI)—Charging the Amchitka Island nuclear explosion could trigger an earthquake and tidal wave like that which struck the Hawaiian islands in 1946, conservationists made a last-ditch legal attempt Friday to halt the underground weapons test the United States is set to carry out next week.

The government decided early Friday to abandon its claim of executive privilege and turn over to court review secret documents which conservationists say will prove their claim that the blast will cause serious environmental damage.

David L. Slve, attorney for the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility and six other groups opposing the test, promptly asked U.S. District Judge George L. Hart to let him see the documents and to grant his plea for a preliminary injunction to halt the explosion.

The government promised to hand over the documents by the end of the day. It seemed unlikely Hart would have a chance to examine them and render his decision until sometime this weekend or possibly even today.

An adverse ruling could again be appealed to the increasingly-complex legal maneuvering intended to prevent the five-megaton explosion, the biggest ever detonated by the United States.

Miss Kleinberg suggested that anyone interested in seeing the present abortion laws changed in California should sign up as a co-plaintiff in the class action suit, soon to be filed by WNAC. Petitions are available in the ASI office.

According to the petition, "The law suit would be filed by a group of California women, representing all California women." Any woman of childbearing age is eligible to sign the petition.

As part of the national campaign the WNAC has scheduled two demonstration marches for Nov. 20 to show how many people are interested in changing the present abortion laws. The marches will take place in San Francisco and Washington D.C.

Jobs in math

Dan Stubbs, a Computer Science instructor at this college, will be the guest speaker for the Math Club meeting Wednesday.

Stubbs will speak on "Change Majors and Get a Job." He will have information on the job market in the 1970's for pure mathematicians versus applied mathematicians.

Now working on his doctorate, Stubbs received a B.S. in Aeronautical Engineering from Purdue and an M.S. in Mechanical from Rensselaer University.

All interested students and faculty are welcome to attend the Math Club meetings. The meeting Wednesday will be held in Rm. 133 of the Agriculture Engineering Building at 7 p.m.
Mustangs fall to ‘49ers

Long Beach State tailback Terry Metcalf scored two fourth quarter touchdowns to lead the ‘49ers to a 20-7 victory in spoiling the Mustangs’ homecoming Saturday at Mustang Stadium.

The ‘49ers were slow in getting started as they tried to put together a passing attack but were held to low yardage. The Mustangs offense took command of the first half with a well balanced rushing and passing game, while the Poly defense held Long Beach to outside of the 40 yard line throughout the first half.

Control changed directions, however, as Long Beach switched to a ground game and gained nearly 300 yards in rushing during the second period. Metcalf led loose for 136 yards rushing in the half after only 45 yards in the first. The ‘49ers, 8-1, 18-7 junior scored all three of the ‘49ers touchdowns.

Mustang quarterback Steve Brenahan was hit hard in the abdomen with four minutes left in the third quarter but was able to return to the game. He was hit again, however, and was taken by ambulance to the Cal Poly Health Center. Mustang Daily contacted Coach Joe Harper, yesterday, who reported that Brenahan was "improving." "It's too easy to tell whether or not he'll be able to play next Saturday at Las Vegas," said Harper. "We'll just have to wait and see."

The Mustangs had two golden opportunities in the first quarter. to build a sizeable lead. They reached the Long Beach 16 yard line and missed a field goal attempt and later reached the ‘49ers 11 yard line where they ran out of downs, wasting a drive of 48 yards.

Cal Poly’s only score came with 3:18 remaining in the second quarter when tailback Darryl Thomas ran three yards for a touchdown, capping a 50-yard drive. This was Thomas’ first score since the season opener when he injured his rib cage.

The first Long Beach score came with three and a half minutes gone in the third period when Metcalf capped a 71-yard drive with a three-yard run for a touchdown. The Mustangs could not generate a lengthy drive in the fourth quarter when tailback Darryl Thomas capped a 71-yard drive with a three-yard run for a touchdown. The Mustangs could not generate a lengthy drive in the first half when they injured his rib cage.

The French have a saying, "Toiles Niagenes, Toiles Magazines" which means "Any Snow, Any Mountain." Thrash your mind and body to the limit of its ability, then add about fifty pounds of camera and a tripod, and chase some of the world’s best alphas around all winter.

Condensed all this into a ninety minute, fifty minute, fast-action, fantastic color film and that’s “Any Snow, Any Mountain," produced by Warren Miller. This new winter action film produced by one of the world’s leading ski film producers will be shown at Chumash Hall in the CU on Saturday, November 9, at 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m.

The program will also present a picture show featuring ski fashion from local merchants, announced by Jennie Hobel at 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Tickets are available at the CU at the following prices: children under 13, 75 cents; students, $1; and adults, $1.75.