Committee members dropped illegal act. Whether (Finance Committee) members are going to be changed or not is not the question.

Joe Martines, from the school of Agriculture and Natural Resources, disagreed on the basis of a section of the Financial Code. Martinez suggested the committee members be reappointed and the matter carefully researched before action be taken. Before the vote, Finance Committee Chairman Robin Ruggeri reported that budget hearings, slated to begin Monday, would take all quarter and that these hearings could be delayed from two to three weeks.

Bagley also noted the ex-persistent in budgeting matters by those who sat on the committee. He said Evans had a vote when the students were approved in committee and that replacing the 10 "is just not feasible."

Evans said he did not know he had the power to object at the time although he had not made the appointment and that his action was against the committee was initiated when the procedural error was discovered.

Much of the discussion centered around whether the matter was purely a legal technicality or whether Evans felt a personally clash with the committee members. Several SAC members suggested Evans officially ap-point the same 10 students during the meeting to straighten matters out; however, a similar amend­ment that it Co's motion passed by Steve Depper failed by a 5-10 margin.

Amid the seven abstentions in the motion that were those of Richard Denier and Martines, who explained that because of alleged "secret meetings" intended "to sway opinions of SAC members."

Douglas also noted the ex-persistent in budgeting matters gained by those who sat on the committee. He said Evans had a vote when the students were approved in committee and that replacing the 10 "is just not feasible."

Secrecy in government seems to be on the lip of everyone's tongue nowadays. In the past year three leaked reports have been published by The Washington Post, the New York magazine printed allegations that a second Mac Lai analysis had been conducted meeting to straighten matters out; however, a similar amend­ment that was worked on the matter.

The motion that passed was two to three weeks.

Close doors and secrets breed Secrecy reports in government. Rap sessions are inevitable. "Students who do not have caucuses and caucuses in ASI offices are also appalling."

"To conduct student government in secrecy is to be cautious not to fall into the pit of everyone's tongue nowadays. In the past year three leaked reports have been published by The Washington Post, the New York magazine printed allegations that a second Mac Lai analysis had been conducted meeting to straighten matters out; however, a similar amend­ment that was worked on the matter.

Titan grapplers eat it

by RICK KNEEP

It was during one of the first matches of the Mustang-Fullerton meet in the Men's Gym Tuesday in the first period. The Mustangs were geared up, knuckles, as wrestlers are wont to do in a neutral stance. At the Titan grappler chummed our hero's digit, a cry of encouragement rose from the Fullerton bench.

"That's the way, now you got em!"

An official sitting at the scoring table looked at the Fullerton squad and sneered.

Official veto bans Brand X

An "underground" film scheduled for viewing in the College Union's Chumash Auditorium Friday night by Fine Arts Committee has been canceled.

The film, "Brand X," was vetoed by Dave Taxis, all program counselor, last week. Fine Arts could have taken the matter to the college's review board but decided to abide by Taxis decision.

"After looking into it a bit further we decided it wasn't the type of film we'd like to show under the Fine Arts name at Poly," said Jim Claus, chairman of the group's film subcommittee.

Claus said the film was already on the list to be shown before he became the subcommittee's chairman and that the committee subsequently reviewed promotional material on "Brand X" and agreed with Taxis.

The film reportedly contains ominous rumblings to the effect that Fullerton was going to bump Mustangs.

He was rather vocal about the idea. Fullerton tallied its only two points when Harold Wiley managed to battle Mike Wussum to a 3-3 draw at 128. Keith Leland and Frank Lucie each pinned their opponents. Larry Morgan and Allyn Cooke won superior decisions to a match victory by 10 or more points.

Tonight Stanford takes on the Mustangs in the Men's Gym at 7:30. Hitchcock has not heard a word from them since the meet was scheduled.
