Reagan fills last vacant board of trustees seat

Gov. Ronald Reagan filled the last vacant position on the Board of Trustees of the California State Colleges and University System Tuesday when he appointed Frank P. Adams to replace the late E. Guy Warren.

Adams, a Republican from Placentia, is an attorney with a law office in San Francisco. He is a graduate of Stanford University, with a law degree from law office in San Francisco. He has been an attorney with a Senate, as will three other appointed members. His term will expire March 1, 1973.

Adams' appointment will have to be confirmed by the State Senate, as will three other appointments to the board the governor made last week.

Robert F. Beaver was appointed to fill the late Dudley Swain's term until 1974. Beaver is a businessman active in Orange County civic and service organizations.

Jeanette Ritchie, who lives in Menlo Park and serves on the State Board of Education from which she is expected to resign, was appointed to replace Phoebe Conley. Mrs. Conley's term expired March 1.

Roy T. Brophy, a former student here who visited campus for the Founders Day activities Tuesday, was appointed to replace William A. Norris, whose term also expired March 1. Brophy lives in Sacramento, and is expected to resign his position on the Board of Governors of the California Community College.

Nixon and Muskie lead in first primary returns

by JOHN MILNE

A large surge boosted Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of neighboring Maine scored a victory but failed to poll a majority Tuesday in New Hampshire's primary, seriously threatening his role as the leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In the Republican primary, President Nixon was a prohibitive favorite to crush two GOP congressmen, liberal Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr. of California and conservative Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio.

founders day Talk

'Money not the answer'

by PAUL SIMON

Editor-in-Chief

"We will not solve the problems of higher education today simply by asking for more and more money to do the same old things the same old way."

The speaker was Glenn S. Dumke, the occasion was Founders Day and the topic was higher education in California.

"We must devise better and more effective methods of doing our academic job so that the high academic quality that we have already achieved can be maintained in the face of increasing pressures upon the public dollar from all directions."

"We have to be disturbed in the even temper of our professional lives, and yet the hour has struck when we must be willing to accept new ways of doing things."

Dumke, chancellor of the California State Colleges and Universities, faced over 1,500 students, faculty and townspeople in Men's Gym Tuesday in honor of the 50th birthday of this college.

Founders Day activities also included a dedication of Polyhouse, presentation of a plaque in Poly Grove and appearance of Dumke to make five press conferences, a special luncheon and the Academic Senate.

The Men's Gym address, preceded by a brief Concert Band rehearsal, featured Dumke and remarks by Pres. Robert E. Kennedy. Student representative Favorable Educational Opportunity Program (EOP) were present.

The opening half of the session addressed the address Kennedy refused questions from the floor and the least that a press conference had been conducted earlier. He then closed the program amid a chorus of boos from the student-filled bleachers.

The opening half of Dumke's talk was devoted entirely to the history of this college, dating from its founder, Myron Angel, through the Julian A. McPhee.

"I don't think the governor's against EOP."

Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke faced a barrage of questions covering such topics as the governor's proposed budget, the affects of the system-wide name change and problems in the overseas study program—during two press conferences Tuesday morning and afternoon.

In discussing Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed education budget, Dumke touched on the discrepancies between the recommendations of the trustees asked for and what the governor is willing to give for the Educational Opportunity Program (EOP). Fund for Educational Development (FED), salary raises for teachers and additional administrative personnel.

"I recommended to the trustees that EOP be at the top of the priorities and that we ask for $35 million. It is the trustees position and it is my position and we are fighting for that position."

Dumke said that the governor wants to control funds for student by asking that funds not be used efficiently. When asked if more money would be available in other programs to make up for the lack of EOP, Dumke said that he could not really answer for the governor.

"It is my understanding that many funds for many purposes will be brought together for more effective use."

FED: The trustees originally asked for $600,000 for new study program.

Three groups seek approval

Student Affairs Council is expected to deliver the verdict on the bylaws of three student groups tonight, at the last meeting of the Winter Quarter.

The Gay Students Union, Poly Wheelmen and Student Human Relations Committees (formerly Leadership Conference Committees), have all submitted bylaws to SAC for approval. If approved, the bylaws will be sent to the college administration for final approval.

Also on the agenda is a proposal to have all candidates for student assembly cleared by council prior to the election.

Study program studied

by JANIS GLOCKNER

With the recent adverse publicity about the California State Colleges International Program, many are left wondering about the worth of the overseas study program.

The program which involves sending students abroad for a year of study, has lately been the subject of much debate and investigations in Sacramento.

The controversy lies in the alleged misallocation of funds to a report of poor management. The Legislative Council's report released in December showed that students had been overcharged $1,210 in the last five years.

The University and Colleges Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke and Thomas H. Wilson, former director of the program, recently testified before a ways and means subcommittee in Sacramento on the use of state funds for personal use.

Lantos said that the money was not an "overcharge" but a needed reserve fund established to guarantee that all bills would be paid in the face of fluctuating costs. He said such a surplus is no longer needed because of lower air fares between the U.S. and Europe.

It had been suggested that extra money had been used to ship a personal car from Italy to Vienna, to buy gifts for foreign professors and to throw expensive parties.

Lantos answered these charges saying that shipping the car was for an art project, that the state money since they didn't have to rent the car, that alleged gifts were actually payments for services the professors rendered to the program; and parties were actually group dinners for the students at the beginning and end of their visits.

According to Dr. Paul Tellow, in charge of the program on this campus, the general feeling at the hearing was that the matters given by Lantos and Dumke were satisfactory and that their actions did not involve criminal intent. It was also generally accepted that the errors in the past will be corrected, according to Tellow.

Tellow went on to say that there were indications that "in the future, very careful budget language will be used for controls."

Tellow said that he felt that the publicity of late does not hold up throughout the hearing, it was also generally understood that the correction of the past errors was a good thing and should be continued.
Evans slams questionnaire charges as being unwarranted allegations

Editor: I would like to respond to Ron Martinelli's letter of March 4, wherein he stated that the questionnaire was "unwarranted allegations".

His unwarranted allegations stem from similar statements he made last week at the ASI forum. At that time Martinelli leveled ridiculous charges against me such as not being responsive to his "unwritten bookkeeper questionnaire". He accused me of not ignoring his request for help on this questionnaire, which is true: I told him (in public) that I would investigate his complaint, and I have. What I meant is not very complimentary to Mr. Martinelli, to say the least, he apparently stepped into his office one day (when I wasn't there), demanded to see me, and then presented his questionnaire to various administrators in the office.

He decided to write a book to print his questionnaire off campus; he was told that we couldn't spend All money for individual projects (his questionnaire was the outgrowth of an individual project), but that we do have the most responsive student government this campus has ever seen for some time. Martinelli and I are here to serve the student association; give us a chance to do it effectively by bringing you to our offices to help on those projects you feel are worthwhile.

Corruption by administrators

Editor: This letter is in response to the article that appeared in the Mustang Daily last week concerning the number of improperities of the Cal State International Programs. The article misleads readers to perceive the actual situation and these following facts might help better to explain:

1) On November 14, 1971, the State Legislature Audit Committee reported that foreign study students were being overcharged by $123,044 during recent years. Of this surplus amount, the state government has been (or is not aware of the growing pot, had taken $146,740 from the surplus in August, 1978.

2) Under the heading of "unproprietors" the survey committee report also cited such items as unrecorded bank accounts, gifts of state property and funds, extravagant expenditures and lack of bank statements and canceled checks, or copies thereof, for foreign bank accounts.

3) Lastly, the audit committee report showed that the Program Director Thomas Lantos (who has since forcibly resigned) and other state college officials, $44,997 on overseas travel during the past five years. The amount included almost $200 for three trips to Europe in 1968 and 1970 by the Chancellor of the California State Colleges, Glen R. Dumke. Mr. Dumke, you and your heading boys have every reason to be satisfied with ruining out the California State College System.

4) Malignant hands are now devouring to overturn the State I Central International Programs.

Make the choices count

It is indeed unfortunate that while the quality of education in California is sliding downhill Gov. Ronald Reagan finds it necessary to continue allowing personal political aspirations to influence his obligation to education.

Last week Reagan filled three of four open positions on the California state university, having attended this school in 1939-41 and San Jose State College after World War II. If confirmed he would become the only member of the board who graduated from a college in the system. Yet a lot of change takes place in a quarter-century.

And Brophy is, as is appointees Robert F. Beaver, 64, a California state land company. The third appointee, Jeanette Ritchie, 31, currently serves on the State board of Education. The fourth, Frank R. Adams, 38, a 65-year-old businessman.

We encourage women serving on the board of trustees. Mrs. Ritchie, though, replaces Phoebe Conley and if she is confirmed the 21-member board will still only include only two women.

It is time the board of trustees began reflecting a more progressive attitude toward education.

Edward R. Ehrlich

Washington (UPI)—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Thursday he would propose a constitutional amendment calling for a nationwide presidential primary.

He denounced state primaries as "useless and worthless."

"I want to do away with conversions," Mansfield told reporters. "They are a product of the state college system, having attended the state college system, having attended the state college system, having attended the state college system.

Of state primaries, he said, "I'd like to see them all abolished."

"If we're going to have them, let's have them as the same day and make it applicable to all states in the union."

Recalling that he first proposed a national primary in 1959, Mansfield said: "State primaries are a waste of time, a waste of money and a waste of energy. Here, we Democrats are the majority, but we lose."

"The primary campaign money is flowing— I don't know, somewhere."

The appointments must be confirmed by the state Senate, via the Senate Rules Committee. Before any such confirmation is made the background of the four should be thoroughly researched to determine their qualifications to follow the Master Plan for Higher Education.

It is unfortunate ethnic minority persons with backgrounds directly involved in education or the college system couldn't have been named to fill the open positions.

Of the four appointees of Reagan, one, Roy Brophy, is a product of the state college system, having attended this school in 1939-41 and San Jose State College after World War II. If confirmed he would become the only member of the board who graduated from a college in the system.

It is time the board of trustees began reflecting a more progressive attitude toward education. It is time of minority groups were reflected on the board. It is time for Gov. Reagan to appoint trustees who hold doctorates rather than real estate or bar licences.

The Senate Rules Committee should keep in mind the concept of progressive education while considering approval of Reagan's appointees. The background of all candidates should be thoroughly researched, because, after all, it is the future of higher education that is at stake.

Unity through sports

Editor:

We are writing this article mainly to the 40 percent of the student body who have little interest in sports. We are looking at the other 60 percent of these students feel that the athletic program here is a waste of time and money, and that the funds going towards these sports should be cancelled. These 60 percent also feel that there is no justification for sports on this campus.

Well, we feel that there are numerous reasons why the athletic program should be kept going strong by the student body. Number one justification for the program is that it provides educational and academic training in such fields as coaching, professional sports, sports publicity, and athletic business administration.

Number two reason is that it provides a vehicle for student body unity on a campus of different students. Athletic teams are representative of the entire college and tend to develop the spirit of the "most" around the general body. The involvement of students as spectators, broadcasters, journalists, equipment managers, participants, cheer leaders, song leaders, trainers and commentators demonstrates the attractiveness to the student body at large.

Number three reason for having athletics is that it provides a vehicle for self-realization and self-improvement. It can provide a United for investigating one's inner self and driving forces through competition among the participants.

We feel that the athletic program here should have a better support to back the quality teams that the college is producing. We also feel that the student body should become more involved in different sports going on during the year.

Zoning change allows for conferences

An amendment to the San Luis Obispo city zoning ordinance could benefit students here in the future by stabilizing prices for off-campus dormitory housing.

The city council approved the amendment on Monday night which will allow Banner Glen to proceed with efforts to promote educational conferences for its facilities.

"If this can be made into a profitable operation maybe it can generate a reduction in rates for students," said Councilman Emmons Blake during discussion of the matter.

The educational conferences would help offset revenue lost through vacancies, especially during summer months. The facilities would be available to high school, community college, athletic and religious groups, for example.

One of the conferences already planned is a statewide meeting of Educational Opportunity Program Directors.

Jeff Bybee, general manager of Banner Glen, said he could not see any reduced rates coming about, but he did say "I think it would stabilize prices."

The council also heard several complaints from citizens about unattended dogs roaming about the city.

One citizen urged the council to allocate more money to Wooda Animal Shelter with the stipulation the funds be used for services within San Luis Obispo. The man said one of the problems Woods has is in rounding up stray dogs in the use of a tranquilizer gun. Once the animal is shot with the gun it is three minutes before the drug takes effect, and the dog is usually long gone.

Mayor Kenneth Schwarts said Woods was doing a good job and the council would consider the situation during budget session. The mayor suggested that in the mean time the dogs continue to be reported to Woods, and also reported to the city administrator. Schwarts said when enough complaints came in from a neighborhood a "raid" would be arranged to pick them up.

Math Club postpones drawing

A Math Club-sponsored drawing for a Mini Electronic Calculator has been postponed from Thursday to 11:00 a.m. May 11, according to Tom Calking, coordinator of the drawing.

Calking said the postponement will give tickets to be available during Poly Royal. Excess funds over the purchase price of the calculator will support the club's future expenses.

The calculator, manufactured by Dictaphone, is battery-powered and is set up for addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. Prices for tickets for the drawing are 80 cents for one or $3 for five, according to Calking.

Judge asked to be sensitive

A third candidate has joined the race for county supervisor from the Fifth District.

Donna M. Bourne, seeking the support of middle-of-the-road voters, has joined the race from San Luis Obispo City Councilman Emmons Blake and former Councilman Donald Q. Miller, for representation of a district stretching from San Luis Obispo to Atascadero.

Mrs. Bourne sees Blake as conservative and Miller as liberal, according to an article in the Telegram-Tribune. "What really is needed is somebody in between," she said.

VA benefits clarified by club speaker

Veteran Club members got the latest information on veteran benefits from John Knox, county veterans service officer last week.

Enos told the group that the Veteran Administration would be sending out IBM cards in May to verify the number of units completed during the year. He said the computer "locks in" and it would not send out anymore money until the card comes in. "And the VA does lose $4 per cent of these cards," Enos said.

He said veterans who indicated they would attend school through the summer quarter would receive IBM cards in July.

Enos said there were 50 or 30 bills in Congress that would raise veteran benefits, and one, HR777, would result in a 10.1 percent increase.

"I don't think it has a chance of passing," he said. "It sounds like the basic rate will go from $170 to $200, and the other rates will be adjusted accordingly."

He said a six to eight percent increase plus an advance payment would probably be set by next September. He also expects VA service-connected disability payments to increase six percent.

Mobile home loans were added to the GI bill last year at 1 5 percent simple interest, and if sold eligibility for home loans can be restored.

U.S. charged with bombings

Saigon (UPI) — North Vietnam charged that the United States has launched a major, wide-scale bombing campaign in the north. The U.S. command declined comment on the charges and said it had established a new policy not to disclose information on future air raids for security reasons.

Earlier, about eight U.S. warplanes destroyed five Soviet-built MIG fighters.

As estimated 1.1 million young people who were granted "instant adulthood" last Saturday will feel the effects of adult privilege and responsibility under the new law.

The law which lowered the age of majority from 21 to 18 still freezes the age at 18 for drinking alcoholic beverages.

Young adults will now be allowed to serve on juries, obtain credit, conduct driver education classes and record cattle brands, among other things.

One of the primary changes already noted by City Clerk Ruth Warnken was the number of inquiries made by males under 21 as to when the law was effective so they could marry without parental consent.

Warnken said, "the bill is 30 pages long and runs from the agrarian code to Welfare."

Wins put batmen in second place; top spot Matadors next opponents

by TONY DIAZ

The Mustang Baseball team, coming off two important league wins over Cal Poly Pomona, increased their season record to 19-5 as they defeated Santa State last Sunday and Monday by scores of 3-1, 4-1 and 9-5. The locals now in second place with a 3-1 league record.

In the first game of the series, pitcher Carl Hathaway was both the pitching and hitting star as he whiffed 13 batters and scored the winning run in the seventh inning as he walked, Oliver followed with a double and Knuckles drove them both in with a solid double to left center field. Third baseman Dave Snow followed with a double to drive in Knuckles.

In the first inning Clark started the rally as he walked, Oliver followed with another walk. Joe Zagarine, who turned in his best performance of the year in the Sonoma series. We must have a good season out of them to be a contender for the CCAA crown.

He added, "I was impressed with the pitch of Carl Hathaway and Dave Brummi, who turned in their best performances of the year in the Sonoma series. We must have a good season out of them to be a
contender for the CCAA crown."

The Mustangs took charge in the fifth inning as they scored across three runs in the frame. Center fielder Greg Clark started it all with a walk. Oliver followed with a long double, and Knuckles drove them both in with a solid double to left center field. Third baseman Dave Snow followed with a double to drive in Knuckles.

In the seventh, the locals knotted 1-1, Hathaway singled, right fielder Dan Marpje was hit by a pitch. Junior Gary Knuckles delivered a key single to score Hathaway and win the game for the locals. In the second game of the series, right-batter Dave Brummi scattered three hits as he picked up his second win of the season.
