Reagan's plan labeled racist

"Reagan is showing racism by not supporting the Economic Opportunities Program," said Julian Camacho, democratic congressional candidate from this district Thursday.

Camacho was one of the speakers at the MECHA-sponsored rally held last Thursday in the CU Plaza.

Talcott does not represent the people, but profit," he said.

Burt Talcott, the incumbent U.S. congressional representative from the 19th district, is Camacho's opponent from the Republican Party.

The Democratic candidates described themselves as a firm supporter of EOP. He said as soon as Gov. Ronald Reagan and Talcott are out of office more money can be channeled into the program.

"To get out and get the people to vote," was the way Camacho said, "to get the seat back for the community.

During his speech, Camacho outlined some of his goals if he is elected. He said he would support the "environmental issue" in keeping the California coast free of pollution, and "support for the end of farm subsides and use that money for the "real needs of the community."

SHUTTLE LAUNCH

Vandenberg one site

Cape Kennedy (UPI)—The space agency Friday selected Cape Kennedy as the initial launch and landing base for the 50.5-billion space shuttle rocket plane project.

Deputy Administrator George M. Low also announced that Vandenberg Air Force Base would later be used for the north-south polar launches of the shuttle. This type launch cannot be made from the Florida base.

The space shuttle is a reusable, winged spacecraft that will take off vertically like a rocket and return to the airport landing like a jetliner. It will be boosted into space by solid rocket, propellant that will be recovered in the ocean and used over again.

Law said construction of the shuttle facilities would begin in 1975 or 1976 at Cape Kennedy and "toward the end of the decade" for the California base. The first orbital flight of the shuttle is scheduled for 1983.

He said the shuttle facilities would cost $100 million at Cape Kennedy and 800 million at Vandenberg. The Defense Department will pay for the California base construction while the space agency will construct the Florida base.

Vandenberg is currently used by both the Air Force and the Space Agency for launching unmanned satellites into polar orbit. Planned and unmanned spacecraft, both military and civilian, are launched into equatorial orbits from Cape Kennedy.

The two-base decision, announced by Law, ended two years of competition and controversy—particularly between California and Florida.

Copperhead steals show

by MALCOLM STONE

One of the largest concert crowds of the year was treated to some fine entertainment by a local talent and three generations of San Francisco rock bands Saturday night.

Mark Terry, a soft spoken sophomore Farm Management major from Oakland, warmed up the 2700 paid customers (a few hundred more got in anyway.)

Terry played some easygoing listening music while the big crowd settled into the proper mood. He accompanied himself on the guitar, playing what he called "wooden music" since it was never electronically amplified.

The band was a group of friends, about a girl he had broken up with. He said later, "I don't know what I call it. I never thought about it."

Copperhead was the first of the San Francisco bands to perform. The group is described as a "third generation San Francisco sound."

'Sensible' students rally

The second campus election convention within a week is being headed for a Tuesday evening presentation, organizers of the Cal Poly Common Sense Rally said Thursday.

Gene McClure, Steve Pravel and Joe Pasley, the rally organizers, said it is to be held on behalf of all presidential candidates, Democratic Robin Baggett, and Alli vice presidential candidate Denny Johnson. All presidential candidates will be given the opportunity to speak.

"All interested students who are concerned in seeing some common sense put into student government are welcome to attend," McClure said.

The rally will take place in the campus Beef Pavilion. Doors will be open at 6:45 for the 7 p.m. event. The Counter Pride Band will provide musical entertainment, according to the three students.

The common sense rally will take place one week after the Student Rights Alliance conducted a convention in Chumash Hall. ERA candidates for Alli office were nominated at that time.

Think about both sides

Editor:
To comment on Mr. Joe Pauli's letter of April 13, I find that his reaction was not thought out very well. Regardless of whether or not an audience agrees with a speaker, there should be enough maturity in college students to at least be polite—which the "cowboys" were not. And your evidence of jail sentences and murder charges can be justified by asking whose laws have been broken? What would be your answer to hundreds of years of suppression and discrimination?

Mr. Pauli, you had better open your eyes too. There's more to being arrested and jailed than breaking the law. There are reasons and causes for it. Fighting back at people who put you down is not being a racist as you so call Bobby Seale and the Black Panther Party!

Three-ring circus seen in current government

Editor:
The current ASI Government has just completed its three ring circus. The first being the Student Affairs Council which is run by our own pernambulent Marianne Deod. Consisting of meetings that last until 11 a.m. and complete two items of business. On stage two is Mr. Evans appearing in two cages. In the left cage he appears as a lion growing through a newspaper at the administration. The right cage shows the true form, a mouse who runs scared not meeting the administration face to face.

The final performance was last Tuesday night at Chumash Audition when Evans was nominated by a far-leftest political party who would like to see this school torn apart piece by piece.

How can the students allow people of this caliber to come to Poly? Remember Cal Poly belongs to you, not a few radical politicians. This year let's get it together and elect someone who will be more concerned with the students.

'People who left were cutting their own throats'

Editor:
It seems to me that the people who walked out of the ASI convention because they didn't agree with ASI policies were essentially cutting their own throats. Is it true that they came to disagree with the policies but they didn't come to make the policies. At 3 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, caucuses were held at which time the platforms were discussed and changed without any time threat. Everyone was invited and everyone who came was heard. I was.

The athletic council is a team that interested me and I met many of the players. We put the time and thought into it especially Max Bevert, chairman of the athletic council. I though the policies we drew up really represented the majority of the people. Yet, it was these policies that seemed to give the impetus for people to walk out of the convention. Why didn't they stay long enough to come to the conclusion?

Board waives room—policy

Two campus groups requested the waiver of a Collage Union policy, allowing the programming of only one upstairs lounge per night for organized college activities, at Thursday's meeting of the College Union Board of Directors.

One request was modified and the other denied.

The athletic council, representative for Women's Heritage Week, requested the University of California to allow programming of only one upstairs lounge per night for student activity. In order to use an upstairs lounge for a student's use, a request was made to hold one lounge as a classroom for Women's Heritage Week, April 17-23. Conflict resulted and the request was modified and the lounge was reserved for a women's lounge for student activity.

Because CU 230 has already been programmed for activities concerning Women's Heritage Week during this time period, the athletic council, representative for Women's Heritage Week, requested the use of CU 113, currently being used as a ping-pong room. The request was modified and the lounge was reserved for a women's lounge for student activity in another lounge. The proposal was accepted by Miss Bendor.

In a similar request, Rocky Bawden, representative for the Student International Meditation Society, requested the use of CU 230 for a lecture to be held on April 30. Conflict resulted and Bawden was advised to find another campus facility to use for the lecture.

ASI President / Vice President

Two changes for change.

There's a heavy driving sound carried by a strong drum rhythm. Their forte is no nonsense instrumental music very seldom interrupted by vocals.

The piano playing of Pete Sears and Jim McPherson gives Copperhead music a distinctive bluesy sound. The clear sound of the piano class on the guitar sets.

The crowd was slow to accept them, but by the time they had finished their last number it was raucously demanding more.

"Keeper of the Flame" got next to them, and then Sears' bass solo during "Big Change '69, '00" aroused them. Copperhead thought it was finished after "Roller Derby", but a demanding audience brought the group back one more time. The crowd stood all the way through "Wing Ding Do."

Big Brother and the Holding Company is the first generation band trying to survive while it lives down a legend that is still young. The band rose to reputation on the voice of the late Janis Joplin.

Now the group has another lead singer who seems to have a voice in Kathy McDonald who has been around and performs like it.

Miss McDonald is a small thin woman with a startling voice and a lot of energy and enthusiasm like hanging on all of the band's numbers. Among the tunes she did were "I'll Be There", "Put a Little Loving in Your Soul", "Superfly" and "Bridge Over Troubled Waters."

The audience was warmly enthusiastic, but it never came up to the level it reached for Copperhead. As the road manager for Copperhead said, the band sounds good but it may be difficult for Miss McDonald to gain acceptance in the shadow of a legend.

Soundground was the headline, and it was the most closely knit group of the three. The music was intricately laced together and balanced through long association. The group's strength is the smooth blending of talents. Each really carried the lead individually, but the total effect was pleasing although Soundground seem to lack the drive of Copperhead.

Affirmative action chief is chosen

Sondra Deese has been named assistant personnel analyst of this college and will serve as coordinator of the affirmative action program.

In her position, Mrs. Deese will be responsible for recruiting minorities and women applicants for positions in the college. In addition she will be responsible for identifying and recommending applicants who are qualified for college positions.

Mrs. Deese said she will go into the community and actively recruit people to show that this college is complying with the equal opportunity employment policies.

The new coordinator, whose husband, Clyde, joined this college's Physics Department faculty in 1973, attended the College of Wooster, in Ohio and Flint University in Tennessee.

In addition to working as personnel management specialist for the Bureau of Fisheries in Washington, and as personnel staffing specialist and personnel analyst for the Bureau of Census, Mrs. Deese has participated in career day programs at minority high schools, on college recruitment for federal programs, and developing personnel procedures and publications.

Computer vote is 'OK'

Ray Boche, head of the computer center, is not in the least upset with the unanimous rejection by Student Affairs Council of his plan for computerization.

"I understand how they might fear the computer," Boche said. "That's the way people are about something mechanical that they don't understand."

"It was a fair decision," Boche said of the SAC vote. "They studied the proposal and rejected it."

The plan was released for study Aug. 6, 1971, and has since been under scrutiny of several groups. A four-step decision process including recommendations by Academic Senate, Academic Council and SAC, eventually ends at Pres. Robert Kennedy's doorstep, according to Hillary Findlay, SAC representative to the Academic Council.

Doesn't General Electric realize the days of enormous corporate profits are over?

There was a time, fifty or sixty years ago, when a major corporation might expect profits of twenty or even twenty-five cents on the dollar.

Those days are over. But not everybody realizes it.

What would you call enormous?

In 1970, Fortune's Top 500 industrial corporations realized an average profit of about 4 cents on the dollar.

General Electric fared slightly better than average. Last year, our profit amounted to about 5 cents on the dollar.

We are occasionally attacked, along with business in general, as being too-profit-oriented.

People argue that if social progress is to be made, business must make it. And that profits stand in the way of social progress.

We would argue quite the opposite.

The purpose of a business, as we see it, is to produce and distribute necessary goods and services to the profit of society... and the business itself.

A business must reflect society's economic, political, legal and moral, as well as social. It must change as society changes and, to some extent, influence those changes.

But if society profits and the business does not, the business will fold in the short run. It will have no operating funds.

How much profit is enough to keep a business operating? How much is too much? It's hard to say. They can't afford to.

No responsible company wants a return to the days of the robber barons. No responsible company wants 'enormous' profits. But no company can survive without the profit system.

Why are we running this ad?

General Electric is a big, technological company, with the capabilities to do a great deal of problem solving in this country.

We think profits have a direct effect on our ability to solve problems. But we realize the issue of profits is one with two sides. By telling you our side, we hope we've moved you to see our point of view. Perhaps even write us about it.

We'd like to hear what you have to say. Please write to General Electric, Dept. 601, 800 Lexington Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10021.

Netters host Pepperdine in match today

The Mustang tennis team will host Pepperdine College today after overpowering Cal State Bakersfield for the second time this season, 7-3 last Thursday. The singles competition matches held at Bakersfield were won by the locals.

The entire team of Dan Lambert, Tom Martin, Kent Cole, Harold Ertelt, Jack Loduce, and Kevin Kennelly picked up the individual victories.

Double action saw the duo of Cole and Ertelt come up with the only Mustang win.

Cal State Bakersfield enters the California Collegiate Athletic Association next year under the supervision of pro tennis star, Dennis Alston. Mustang coach G. Jorgensen said, "The addition of Bakersfield will make this one heck of a league."

The match with Pepperdine today gets underway at 2:30 p.m. on the tennis courts located behind the Men's Gym.
