Dorm complex finished early

Completion of the new dorm project may be finished earlier than the scheduled January 17, 1973 completion deadline.

The construction work is 80 percent complete. No major problems have been encountered and progress is well under way making it possible for an earlier completion of the dorm complex. The dorm complex, named the Sierra Madre, has a capacity of 800 students. Each of the six towers will house 133 students unlike Yosemite, which has 15 towers housing 80 students in each tower.

Vista Grande, the new dining hall is unique in itself. The hall is equipped with cafeteria, restaurant and banquet facilities. The cafeteria will seat 500 people. The restaurant built in the dining hall will accommodate 150 persons and the banquet hall will accommodate up to 40 people.

Will the installation of the new restaurant affect the other campus food service? Mr. Phillips, facilities planner for the complex said, "No, all the food service will be the same on campus and the restaurant will just be more convenient for the students."

When the project was started in April 1972, the cost of the dorm complex was $3,100,000 and the dining hall $1,084,000.

Prices have increased since that time to approximately $3,170,000 for the dorm complex and $1,100,000 for the dining hall.

Gay students to receive help in case

The American Civil Liberties Union has indicated interest in filing a suit against the AII vs. Kennedy et al, which seeks to gain recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

Attorney Richard A. Carsey said in a letter dated July 7, that it should be impossible for him to stay within the litigation stages authorized by Students Affairs Council the ACLU has indicated they are interested in pursuing the matter.

Carsey indicated that in view of the June 30 Supreme Court decision that lifted the state college from the recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

Carsey believed that in view of the June 30 Supreme Court decision that lifted the state college from the recognition of the Gay Students Union, he feels he has a strong case.

He indicated that the ACLU believes that the issues in this case are of sufficient constitutional importance to warrant their intervention and that they would be willing to follow the case through the Appellate Court if necessary.

The U.S. Supreme Court case that Carsey cited was over the recognition of the AII vs. Kennedy et al, which sought to gain recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

When the project was started in April 1972, the cost of the dorm complex was $3,100,000 and the dining hall $1,084,000.

Prices have increased since that time to approximately $3,170,000 for the dorm complex and $1,100,000 for the dining hall.

 Gay students to receive help in case

The American Civil Liberties Union has indicated interest in filing a suit against the AII vs. Kennedy et al, which seeks to gain recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

Attorney Richard A. Carsey said in a letter dated July 7, that it should be impossible for him to stay within the litigation stages authorized by Students Affairs Council the ACLU has indicated they are interested in pursuing the matter.

Carsey indicated that in view of the June 30 Supreme Court decision that lifted the state college from the recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

Carsey believed that in view of the June 30 Supreme Court decision that lifted the state college from the recognition of the Gay Students Union, he feels he has a strong case.

He indicated that the ACLU believes that the issues in this case are of sufficient constitutional importance to warrant their intervention and that they would be willing to follow the case through the Appellate Court if necessary.

The U.S. Supreme Court case that Carsey cited was over the recognition of the AII vs. Kennedy et al, which sought to gain recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

When the project was started in April 1972, the cost of the dorm complex was $3,100,000 and the dining hall $1,084,000.

Prices have increased since that time to approximately $3,170,000 for the dorm complex and $1,100,000 for the dining hall.

Gay students to receive help in case

The American Civil Liberties Union has indicated interest in filing a suit against the AII vs. Kennedy et al, which seeks to gain recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

Attorney Richard A. Carsey said in a letter dated July 7, that it should be impossible for him to stay within the litigation stages authorized by Students Affairs Council the ACLU has indicated they are interested in pursuing the matter.

Carsey indicated that in view of the June 30 Supreme Court decision that lifted the state college from the recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

Carsey believed that in view of the June 30 Supreme Court decision that lifted the state college from the recognition of the Gay Students Union, he feels he has a strong case.

He indicated that the ACLU believes that the issues in this case are of sufficient constitutional importance to warrant their intervention and that they would be willing to follow the case through the Appellate Court if necessary.

The U.S. Supreme Court case that Carsey cited was over the recognition of the AII vs. Kennedy et al, which sought to gain recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

When the project was started in April 1972, the cost of the dorm complex was $3,100,000 and the dining hall $1,084,000.

Prices have increased since that time to approximately $3,170,000 for the dorm complex and $1,100,000 for the dining hall.

Gay students to receive help in case

The American Civil Liberties Union has indicated interest in filing a suit against the AII vs. Kennedy et al, which seeks to gain recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

Attorney Richard A. Carsey said in a letter dated July 7, that it should be impossible for him to stay within the litigation stages authorized by Students Affairs Council the ACLU has indicated they are interested in pursuing the matter.

Carsey indicated that in view of the June 30 Supreme Court decision that lifted the state college from the recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

Carsey believed that in view of the June 30 Supreme Court decision that lifted the state college from the recognition of the Gay Students Union, he feels he has a strong case.

He indicated that the ACLU believes that the issues in this case are of sufficient constitutional importance to warrant their intervention and that they would be willing to follow the case through the Appellate Court if necessary.

The U.S. Supreme Court case that Carsey cited was over the recognition of the AII vs. Kennedy et al, which sought to gain recognition of the Gay Students Union on this campus.

When the project was started in April 1972, the cost of the dorm complex was $3,100,000 and the dining hall $1,084,000.

Prices have increased since that time to approximately $3,170,000 for the dorm complex and $1,100,000 for the dining hall.
Taxpayers pay for Reagan's trip

by PAUL EDMON

Ronald Reagan, in the best tradition of traveling Los Angeles Mayor, was off on another jaunt plugging Richard Nixon

The taxpayers—yes, they're paying for Reagan to travel through Western Europe on behalf of Nixon's reelection campaign. Reagan seems to specialize in this definitely hard-to-learn field and it's not surprising to hear his comments before foreign audiences.

In Rome Friday he told a news conference Democratic Presidential hopeful George McGovern is leading an isolationist sentiment through the Democratic Party. "Isolationism is a new thing for the Democrats," he is reported to have said. "I think that if they had their way and their proposed to reduce forces, to remove us from our alliances, it would be catastrophic for the world."

Scare tactics to align European nations behind Richard Nixon? Last Fall Reagan toured South Vietnam, also on behalf of Nixon, and called Press, Thies the "George Washington of his country." He further committed the United States to uphold the freedom of the Vietnamese people against the Communist aggressors.

That is the same Press. Thies that all but eliminated any opposition in his bid for reelection and then told the people to mutilate their ballots if they did not support him. Reportedly, elected by a reported nearly 56 percent, he interpreted that as a great victory for his policies.

Now Reagan is warning our "allies" McGovern and the Democrats would be catastrophic for the world if elected to office in November.

Anyone can criticize a political candidate in the system we still call democracy. You can't reveal a government faking six years ago (Pentagon Papers Case) or U.S. involvement in a foreign war (India-Pakistan) or corruption in the Air Force (Col. Herbert) but you can use public funds to build foreign sentiment against a presidential candidate.

It is precisely these type of public-financed political gain junkets that characterize Reagan and the Nixon Administration, and that the "new" voice of the U.S. is up in arms against.

At the present time there is little American can do to halt the secrecy and waste of funds for personal political purposes that has become so rampant. Reagan has over two years remaining in his term as governor. Nixon, however, stands for reelection in November.

The domestic problems that face this nation are many, ranging from environmental pollution to poverty and servers inflation. Yet taxes continue to rise with the majority of the revenue going to what is misleadingly labeled as defense—most used mostly to continue polluting the world.

This, apparently, is what Reagan so blantly broadened the Western European nations that have been our friends for so long; that the "new" voice of the U.S. by spelling out the peddling in our defense budget, are attempting to align themselves with the rest of the world.

It is within the practical realm of the voters to continue disenfranchised and the "new" critics, to explore between now and November their beliefs and hopes for themselves and for America, and to decide if they wish to continue in office the philosophy of such as Pres. Nixon's enmity to the money-hungry nations of Western Europe.

STUDENT PRESS

Baggett platform goes

by ROBIN BAGGETT

During every campaign, the people hear the traditional platform of promises and more promises. The question then arises, "If elected will you fulfill these promises?" The All officers who elected last quarter are doing just that and our goal is to have all of our new programs in full force by Fall Quarter.

Testing-Center-This program is already in place. Last Monday was the opening day and the Center will be open daily from 8-4 p.m. in CU 220. If you need any help in any subject please come to the Center. There will be tutors always available to help you.

Community Advisory Board

During every campaign, the working relationship between students of this university and our surrounding community. Once May we've been trying to formulate a committee composed of interacting interest groups from the community and the university.

This committee will: 1) Promote the mutual benefits and betterment of the university and the community, 2) Act as a mediator between campus and community problems; and 3) Make recommendations to students, merchants, and landlords concerning their welfare. The question then arises, "If elected will you fulfill these promises?" The All officers who elected last quarter are doing just that and our goal is to have all of our new programs in full force by Fall Quarter.

Testing Center-This program is already in place. Last Monday was the opening day and the Center will be open daily from 8-4 p.m. in CU 220. If you need any help in any subject please come to the Center. There will be tutors always available to help you.

Community Advisory Board

During every campaign, the working relationship between students of this university and our surrounding community. Once May we've been trying to formulate a committee composed of interacting interest groups from the community and the university.

This committee will: 1) Promote the mutual benefits and betterment of the university and the community, 2) Act as a mediator between campus and community problems; and 3) Make recommendations to Nixon or McGovern: Will it really make a difference?

by PAUL TUKINAGA
(staffed on the University campus)

Thomas Barabars—Phys. Ed.—Sr.: "I think I'm going to vote for Nixon. He's been there for four years. He knows what he's doing. He's going to get us out of the war. McGovern—he's too radical, he's all theoretical."

Boner Mann—Bio.-Ed.—Sr.: "If McGovern was elected, it wouldn't make that much difference. He might do things differently but he won't get any war done."

Bertha Delgado—Phy.-Jr. : "I don't really know. I'd vote for Nixon. I'm a Republican. I don't agree with many of the things McGovern says. He contradicts himself. He's too liberal for me."

Wayne Reh lifes—Speech—Sr. : "No, I think he won't make a difference. The candidates play as close as possible to their platforms—then the pressure comes and they drop. Then I don't think the President makes the decisions anyway—it's the Cabinet!"

Bruce Corellt—Soc. Sci.—Soph.: "It won't make a difference because 'they' have control of all political candidates."

Larry Rowe—Ed.—Grad.: "Nixon is doing a good job in foreign policy. McGovern can't do the things he says he can do. He has no control over the POW's, for example."

Susan Kaiser—Bio. Chem.—Pr.: "I think it will because it will get the progressive movement going again and get the people back into government. I'll take time but it's a start."

Maggie O’Reilly—Eng.—Sr.: "Neither of them will. I support Muskie, but he's not running. If McGovern makes it, which sounds like a possibility—his plan doesn't sound too feasible."

Ed Harris Gr. Gr.—Not at all. No way, can't possibly make a difference. George McGovern will probably sell us out, like he's done everyone else."

Jill Martone—Bookstore Cashier. "McGovern's my man."

John Pruitt—Bus Ad.-Grad. Sr.: "McGovern is going to jump out and modify his policies. So it will be more acceptable to the establishment. But there is more hope with him. I'm a loyal Democrat."

Bruce Cornwall—Social Sci.—Soph.: "It won't make a difference because they have control of all political candidates."

Jim Pruitt—Bus Ad.—Grad.: "McGovern is going to jump out and modify his policies. So it will be more acceptable to the establishment. But there is more hope with him. I'm a loyal Democrat."

Jinny James—Speech—Jr.: "Yes, it will. McGovern is too socialistic. Nixon will make a difference because I'm a Republican."

Becky Brow—Bio. Sci.—Pr.: "I want McGovern, but I don't think he's going to win. Nixon's a phony he won't get us out of the war. I think McGovern will do it for the principle of it!"

Larry Rowe—Ed.—Grad.: "Nixon is doing a good job in foreign policy. McGovern can't do the things he says he can do. He has no control over the POW's, for example."

Becky Brown—Bio. Sci.—Pr.: "I want McGovern, but I don't think he's going to win. Nixon's a phony he won't get us out of the war. I think McGovern will do it for the principle of it!"

Larry Rowe—Ed.—Grad.: "Nixon is doing a good job in foreign policy. McGovern can't do the things he says he can do. He has no control over the POW's, for example."

Ed Harris Gr. Gr.—Not at all. No way, can't possibly make a difference. George McGovern will probably sell us out, like he's done everyone else."
Meat prices could be worse

by JOHN HANBURY

In a recent article I wrote about beef, I stated that the California Cattlemen’s Association conducted a survey in which 18 million households reported that they did not consider the price of beef out of step with the cost of living. Since that time, facts have come to my attention, facts concerning beef, as well as food brought to my attention, facts from the California Beef Industry, from the California Beef Council, from the Department of Agriculture, the University of California, Labor, and in particular California’s leading industry is beef, followed by dairy products, grapes, hay and chicken eggs. One out of every three jobs is directly related to agriculture.

In numbers of cattle produced, California is number seven with 4.8 million head. California is number four in the production of grain-fed cattle—two million head of 450 feeders. Sixty per cent of the beef cattle consumed by Californians is slaughtered right here, 85 per cent of the dressed beef is tranced to the American just 15 per cent. How much beef does your money buy today? In 1968 a family of five spent 8.7 per cent of their disposable income on 600 pounds of meat. In 1961 the same family spent 5.8 per cent on 800 pounds of meat. In 1971, a family of five had to spend only 4.9 per cent of their disposable income to return received 800 pounds of meat. Let’s look at beef in particular, and in particular, California’s beef industry.

What is the end result of these tabulations? It spells out 1131 pounds of beef per person in the U.S., up over a 1966 total of 81 pounds, and a whopping 141.4 pounds per Californian, over a 1966 total of 100 pounds.

Outings club set to go

The College Union Board of Governors have granted the Outings Committee with a tentative location for their center. The center will be moving to College Union 104 from Hillcrest Cottage. The state is reallocating the center’s space at Hillcrest Cottage.

The Outings Center will be open for student use during the month of August. The Center will have a reading room containing such items as topographical maps, road maps, and outdoor magazines. The Center will be renting out backpacking and other camping equipment.

In the past the Outings Committee have gone to such places as the Grand Canyon, the Trinity Alps and the rock musical, “Hair.”

The Outings Committee meet every Wednesday at 7 p.m. at C.U. 230. The chairman of the Outings is Jim Kelley while Leslie Griffin is the adviser.

Students are denied summer job

by DAVE CHERRY

At least one student here was involved in a minor hassle between the California Department of Human Resources Development and various other governmental agencies last week.

The conflict arose when a number of young people, including me, applied for a part of the Summer Youth Program of the state agencies, a program under which many financially disadvantaged young people are given jobs each year, were informed shortly before they were to start that they could no longer have the jobs.

Atascadero state hospital, the employment most involved, needed certain individuals that their jobs were no longer available under the Summer Youth Program because they were not financially disadvantaged, and could not be certified as such by the Department of Human Resources Development. A number of these individuals were unhappy with this development.

For another matter, the MUSTANO consulted Robert Wadstrup at the Department of Human Resources Development. Wadstrup did, in fact, clear up matters by saying that the entire purpose of the summer youth program was to grant job opportunities to disadvantaged youth.

Youth who were not financially disadvantaged, of course, would have a lower priority on the hiring list than those who had been certified as disadvantaged by HRD.

Wadstrup stated, also, that HRD had “absolutely nothing to do with the firing. We simply refer the persons to the employment officer.”

“Any of the agencies who hire persons who are not certified would not be complying with the purpose of the program,” Wadstrup said.
Tjader captures crowd

by CYNTHIA LYBARGER

meeting with jazz, but with a single-lover at heart, I took my position on the floor of Chumaah Auditorium last Sunday night to hear the jazz sound of Cal Tjader and his quartet.

Although I'd heard some of Tjader on records, I wasn't quite what I was to expect. I came prepared to experience—end visit an atmosphere

From the minute they walked at stage they evoked an immediate sense of enthusiasm area as well as in the majority of the audience, both young and old.

Tjader's group consisted of five, congas, bass drum, electric piano, bass, and of course Tjader on the vibes. It took no time at all for the quintet to get us thoroughly engrossed in their version of Michele Legrand's "That Are You Doing the Heat of Your Life?"

The ringing momentum was carried out into a piece focusing on rhythm section-highlighted by the less player's particularly intriguing style of and the imaginative things the drummer only could do with a pair of drum sticks and set of drums. Both less players and drummer con-

Rodeo Club

Alan Long of Orange Cove has been named president of the Rodeo Club for the 1973-74 academic year.

Long, 22, is a junior animal science major. He is the son of Mrs. Harold Long of (3047 E. American Orange Cove.

The Rodeo Club membership is composed of Cal Poly students interested in fostering and encouraging the sport of rodeo. It supports the Cal Poly Rodeo Team, conducts two intra-mural rodeos, and hosts the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association competition held on the university campus during Poly Royal each April.

Put Something Nice Between Your Legs

Volkswagen & Porsche Repair Specialists

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

wholesale prices

TV-RADIO-STERO-EVI-HI-FI-PARTS

picture tubes-television & radio tubes & parts
phone needs-recording tape-test equipment tools-citizen's band equipment-antennas-masts

MID STATE

Electronic Supply Inc.

1441 Monterey
San Luis Obispo

MID STATE

Electronic Supply Inc.

543-2770

SONY TAPE RECORDERS, TV'S RADIOS

PUT SOMETHING NICE BETWEEN YOUR LEGS

NEW YORK - At the going-for- broke prices, another advertised a 870 materials and services fee, and the third, an additional $1 for parking fees.

Constitution revised

The California State University and College Student President Association (CSUCSPA) is gearing itself to gaining more momentum and All Prof. Rob Baggett seems to be "far mental to this cause.

Baggett and Willis Edwards, student president from Cal State University, Los Angeles, have revised the constitution for the five year old CSUCSPA.

The constitution was presented to the group at its July 10 meeting in Los Angeles.

According to the new constitution proposed, the purpose of CSUCSPA is "to coordinate and promote the intercampus communication directed towards a united effort in dealing with individual and statewide problems" within the 14-school California State University and College system.

"One of the basic functions of CSUCSPA is to provide for the communications between the campuses," Baggett said.

During a special, three hour discussion on the day before the July 10 meeting, Baggett said a representative from 13 state universities and colleges exchanged ideas on budgeting, bylaws, services and programs, new programs, relationships with the administration, and developed an organization chart for the group.

Baggett described Joe Hay, CSUCSPA legislative advocate, as one of the organization's greatest assets. Hay helped to halt the passage of three bills in the state legislature which have saved the college student 1971 a half the paga of three bills in the state legislature which have served the college student 1971 a

At the end, a good share of the crowd was automatically drawn to the main event. The group took a break. A local guitarist, drag Carr, came on the stage. My first thought was "oh no, what a let down." I'd heard Carr before and was dissatisfied. He just

But as Carr proceeded with his new compositions inter-cited with some humorous small talk, I got the impression that even those who had just come in were fascinated by Carr's mastery of the guitar.

But the last tune, however, was all exciting and impatient for Tjader's group to come back on the scene. The initiation was great. We were ready to be sapped by his sound again. And we weren't disappointed.

It was announced that it was Tjader's birthday which prompted a spontaneous singing of "Happy Birthday" from the audience... Then they got back down to business—the jazz business with music from the soundtrack of "Black Mar-porch... We were once again carried out of the present state of things by the mystical and melodic vibes.

By this time Tjader had us definitely under his spell. He ended the concert with two Dizzy Gillespie numbers with the vibes ringing into every fiber of the body.

Each a fresh, new pitch was reached in the middle of the last number that the group just had to do something with the best pulsating inside of them. Fortunately the piece was receptive to hand clapping—and vigorous and enthusiastic and clapping it was.

At the end, a good share of the crowd was automatically drawn to their fast-clapping and shouting for more. But there wasn't anymore.

As the crowd reluctantly left the auditorium, I sensed an indescribable emotion in the almost trance-like state of my fellow concert-goers. We were still somewhere along in a land of vibes, congas and a unique Latin atmosphere.

Baggett described Joe Hay, CSUCSPA legislative advocate, as one of the organization's greatest assets. Hay helped to halt the passage of three bills in the state legislature which have served the college student 1971 a half the paga of three bills in the state legislature which have served the college student 1971 a

One bill proposed a 870 materials and services fee, another advertised a 870 materials and services fee, and the third, an additional $1 for parking fees.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

wholesale prices

TV-RADIO-STERO-EVI-HI-FI-PARTS

picture tubes-television & radio tubes & parts
phone needs-recording tape-test equipment
tools-citizen's band equipment-antennas-masts

MID STATE

Electronic Supply Inc.

1441 Monterey
San Luis Obispo

MID STATE

Electronic Supply Inc.

543-2770

SONY TAPE RECORDERS, TV'S RADIOS

PUT SOMETHING NICE BETWEEN YOUR LEGS

NEW YORK - At the going-for- break prices, another advertised a 870 materials and services fee, and the third, an additional $1 for parking fees.

Constitution revised

The California State University and College Student President Association (CSUCSPA) is gearing itself to gaining more momentum and All Prof. Rob Baggett seems to be "far mental to this cause.

Baggett and Willis Edwards, student president from Cal State University, Los Angeles, have revised the constitution for the five year old CSUCSPA.

The constitution was presented to the group at its July 10 meeting in Los Angeles.

According to the new constitution proposed, the purpose of CSUCSPA is "to coordinate and promote the intercampus communication directed towards a united effort in dealing with individual and statewide problems" within the 14-school California State University and College system.

"One of the basic functions of CSUCSPA is to provide for the communications between the campuses," Baggett said.

During a special, three hour discussion on the day before the July 10 meeting, Baggett said a representative from 13 state universities and colleges exchanged ideas on budgeting, bylaws, services and programs, new programs, relationships with the administration, and developed an organization chart for the group.

Baggett described Joe Hay, CSUCSPA legislative advocate, as one of the organization's greatest assets. Hay helped to halt the passage of three bills in the state legislature which have served the college student 1971 a half the paga of three bills in the state legislature which have served the college student 1971 a

At the end, a good share of the crowd was automatically drawn to the main event. The group took a break. A local guitarist, drag Carr, came on the stage. My first thought was "oh no, what a let down." I'd heard Carr before and was dissatisfied. He just

But as Carr proceeded with his new compositions inter-cited with some humorous small talk, I got the impression that even those who had just come in were fascinated by Carr's mastery of the guitar.

But the last tune, however, was all exciting and impatient for Tjader's group to come back on the scene. The initiation was great. We were ready to be sapped by his sound again. And we weren't disappointed.

It was announced that it was Tjader's birthday which prompted a spontaneous singing of "Happy Birthday" from the audience... Then they got back down to business—the jazz business with music from the soundtrack of "Black Mar-porch... We were once again carried out of the present state of things by the mystical and melodic vibes.

By this time Tjader had us definitely under his spell. He ended the concert with two Dizzy Gillespie numbers with the vibes ringing into every fiber of the body.

Each a fresh, new pitch was reached in the middle of the last number that the group just had to do something with the best pulsating inside of them. Fortunately the piece was receptive to hand clapping—and vigorous and enthusiastic and clapping it was.

At the end, a good share of the crowd was automatically drawn to their fast-clapping and shouting for more. But there wasn't anymore.

As the crowd reluctantly left the auditorium, I sensed an indescribable emotion in the almost trance-like state of my fellow concert-goers. We were still somewhere along in a land of vibes, congas and a unique Latin atmosphere.

Baggett described Joe Hay, CSUCSPA legislative advocate, as one of the organization's greatest assets. Hay helped to halt the passage of three bills in the state legislature which have served the college student 1971 a half the paga of three bills in the state legislature which have served the college student 1971 a
The Bank Secrecy Act of 1970, intended to crack down on criminals and tax evaders, allows the Federal government to keep all banking transactions monitored, as these can have records exchanged for microfilm or other reproduction.Each check received by it for deposit of collection, together with an identification of the party who deposited or collected it, has been an invasion of privacy. However, there are other ways of investigating specific problems relating to this university has been indicated by Denny John, ASI vice-president. He said he is seeking students interested in one particular area—such as housing coordination, legal aid, income and budget information, and other "worthy programs.""

The act also states that businesses dealing with currency exchange can also have records and transactions checked and reproduced by the government. ASI positions

A need for students to investigate specific problems relating to this university has been indicated by Denny John, ASI vice-president. He said he is seeking students interested in one particular area—such as housing coordination, legal aid, income and budget information, and other "worthy programs.""

If this objective is decided on, the complex might be built adorning the Mission Plaza in the block between Broad and Nipomo Streets. The second site taken into consideration is at Cherry and Mill streets, and the third at the intersection of Bonner and San Luis Obispo creeks.

How might a complex such as this one enrich the community of San Luis Obispo? It is quite probable that with a small intimate theater with good acoustics San Luis Obispo will be able to attract performing companies enroute from San Francisco to Los Angeles as well as other touring artists. Furthermore, the large concert theater would provide a place for 1,800 citizens to attend symphonies which have previously not been possible. The civic center complex will also serve as an area for conferences, banquets, flower and art exhibits, and many other community activities.

The fourth year student architects which have been involved in the creation of the five designs are: Leonard Metcalf, Dave R. Patterson, Ronald Ronconi, Larry Pielman, Daniel Rossaia, Mike Poulaski, Chuck Roberts, Andy Quaresma, Garrett Anderson, Jim Quinn, Mike Underwood, Bill Blumsberg, Mary Schofield and Jeff Reid. The instructors supervising the project are Andrew Merriam and Ron Batterson.

EOP funds to face review

In the last academic year the EOP program at this university allocated $98,700 from the ASI fund. The EOP program submited a budget asking for $64,700, an almost double in increase for the coming academic year. All funds there is a need to do some research into the money that EOP is asking for because the directors received an unexpected $68,000 from Governor Reagan. This is the largest sum of money EOP has ever been funded on this campus since the program has been in existence. "It's not that we don't support EOP, it's just that we feel the situation should be looked into," said Robin Baggett, ASI president.

A sub-committee of finance committees is being formed along with some of the people from EOP to establish if there is a definite need for the money requested by EOP. Last year the EOP was the only organization on campus to receive ASI funding.
INITIATIVES

Nine quality for Nov.

by WILLIAM C. OWENS

Nine initiative measures, dealing with such issues as restoring the death penalty in California, the decriminalization of the use of marijuana, redefining the state school integration policy, promoting school integration on a county-wide basis, and controlling coastline development, for the November general election ballot.

Other measures which qualified include those to raise the state's minimum wage to $2.50 an hour, to raise the salaries of state employees, to limit property taxes, to require uniformed highway patrolmen's salaries, limit property taxes, permit schools to provide junior high school students with extra time, and regulate farm labor practices. Initiative campaigns which failed to qualify were those to raise the state's minimum wage to $2.50 an hour, to raise the salaries of state employees, and to regulate farm labor practices.

Petitions to reverse the death penalty in California and revote the anti-revocation policy were also circulated. According to the County Clerk's office, the initiative to reverse the death penalty received 18,446 valid signatures. The initiative to decriminalize the adult use of marijuana received 1,867.

The initiative to peace with the Southeast Asia war, which was heavily circulated on this campus, received 1,146 valid signatures.

Another initiative measure, which was heavily circulated on this campus, was heavily circulated on the ballot. They will turn out hundreds of thousands of young voters for the November drive. College students, for the first time, will be depended upon to see a measure through.

Robert Ashford, a San Francisco attorney who is heading the California Marijuana Initiative, said 10,000 to 15,000 persons around the state worked to get the measure on the ballot. He predicted a strong registration drive among young voters for November.

"The most exciting thing about this is the nature of the organization created," he said.

"It's composed of heretofore alienated people, but just a bunch of dopers, but people who believe in personal freedom and the right to determine what goes into your own body.'"

Drug habits passed on in drug use of product of the "generation gap"? Or is our generation a product of drug using parents?

A two year study, undertaken by the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation, Toronto, Canada, has produced evidence that the drug taking is a form of learned behavior handed down from parent to child.

The study involved 1,866 high school students in Toronto and results showed that less than 20 percent of students who reported using tobacco, marijuana, barbiturates, heroin, speed, LSD, and other mind-affecting drugs was lowest if the parents used neither tobacco or alcohol. Those students who reported their parents to be regular users of tranquillizers were twice as likely to smoke marijuana, three times as likely to use hallucinatory drugs, and eight times as likely to follow the example of drug use set in their home environment.

In this positive link between parents who regularly use mood changing drugs and students who favor drug experimentation applicable to the majority of students at this university?

According to Larry Hutcheson of the psychology department, no similar surveys have been conducted on campus. As one of the reasons a study on influenced drug use has not been undertaken, he said, "I feel it's very difficult to find an adequate control group of parents who don't use any type of drug."
by KEITH ELDIDGE

Tennis star heads local clinic

by KEITH ELDIDGE

What does the second-ranked NCAA College Division tennis player do when intercollegiate competition is through? Does he take a long vacation and wait until next year?

The Mustangs' Dan Lambert does not seem to think that a long lay off would be advantageous to his playing career. In fact, most of Lambert's activities during the summer are tennis orientated.

During the mornings Dan and his brother Pete donate their talents to a Rotary Club-sponsored clinic at San Luis Obispo High School. "Everyone is encouraged to attend and it is not too late to sign up," says Lambert.

Further information on the clinic may be obtained by calling Barbara Loomis at 943-4404.

Lambert spends the afternoon running the tennis shop at Copeland's Sporting Goods in San Luis Obispo. He is a salesman and repairer tennis equipment.

His evenings are spent with Pete practicing on the university courts. An average day totals close to 10 full hours of tennis.

During the summer Lambert plans to compete in several invitational tournaments. Last weekend he lasted to the fourth round of competition in the Santa Barbara Invitational tennis tournament.

His defeat came at the hands of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NACA) champion, Dave Borelll. "I could have gone farther had I not met Dave so early in the tournament," Lambert said. "He was seeded, therefore, I should not have met him so soon due to tournament rules. There was some sort of futility in the pairings which led to my early finish."

Later this month Lambert intends to enter the Santa Ana tournament. The competitions are sponsored by the Southern California Tennis Association.

Lambert led the Mustangs to a fourth place national final at the NCAA College Division tournament held in Kalamazoo, Mich. earlier this month. "I was really proud of our players even though we could have picked up the national title," said Mustang tennis coach Ed Jorgensen.

Rollins and UC Irvine shared the crown with 21 points. Stanford University followed with 31 points and the locals mustered 19. Last year the Mustangs ended up sixth in the nation.

Most of the nation's points came by Sanford's Charlie George, who is ranked in the top twenty of the nation including professionals.

The doubles team of Lambert and Tom Martin was eliminated in the quarter finals and Martin was defeated in singles competition early by Owens.

In preparation for next season Lambert is helping Jorgensen look over possible new players. The Mustangs are losing the services of Martin and Kent Coble. Returning to the line-up are Pete Lambert, Harold Ernst, Dennis Scullion, Jackiodus, and Kevin Kennedy.

Tennis star heads local clinic

by KEITH ELDIDGE

What does the second-ranked NCAA College Division tennis player do when intercollegiate competition is through? Does he take a long vacation and wait until next year?

The Mustangs' Dan Lambert does not seem to think that a long lay off would be advantageous to his playing career. In fact, most of Lambert's activities during the summer are tennis orientated.

During the mornings Dan and his brother Pete donate their talents to a Rotary Club-sponsored clinic at San Luis Obispo High School. "Everyone is encouraged to attend and it is not too late to sign up," says Lambert.

Further information on the clinic may be obtained by calling Barbara Loomis at 943-4404.

Lambert spends the afternoon running the tennis shop at Copeland's Sporting Goods in San Luis Obispo. He is a salesman and repairer tennis equipment.

His evenings are spent with Pete practicing on the university courts. An average day totals close to 10 full hours of tennis.

During the summer Lambert plans to compete in several invitational tournaments. Last weekend he lasted to the fourth round of competition in the Santa Barbara Invitational tennis tournament.

His defeat came at the hands of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NACA) champion, Dave Borelll. "I could have gone farther had I not met Dave so early in the tournament," Lambert said. "He was seeded, therefore, I should not

Tennis star heads local clinic

by KEITH ELDIDGE

What does the second-ranked NCAA College Division tennis player do when intercollegiate competition is through? Does he take a long vacation and wait until next year?

The Mustangs' Dan Lambert does not seem to think that a long lay off would be advantageous to his playing career. In fact, most of Lambert's activities during the summer are tennis orientated.

During the mornings Dan and his brother Pete donate their talents to a Rotary Club-sponsored clinic at San Luis Obispo High School. "Everyone is encouraged to attend and it is not too late to sign up," says Lambert.

Further information on the clinic may be obtained by calling Barbara Loomis at 943-4404.

Lambert spends the afternoon running the tennis shop at Copeland's Sporting Goods in San Luis Obispo. He is a salesman and repairer tennis equipment.

His evenings are spent with Pete practicing on the university courts. An average day totals close to 10 full hours of tennis.

During the summer Lambert plans to compete in several invitational tournaments. Last weekend he lasted to the fourth round of competition in the Santa Barbara Invitational tennis tournament.

His defeat came at the hands of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NACA) champion, Dave Borelll. "I could have gone farther had I not met Dave so early in the tournament," Lambert said. "He was seeded, therefore, I should not have met him so soon due to tournament rules. There was some sort of futility in the pairings which led to my early finish."

Later this month Lambert intends to enter the Santa Ana tournament. The competitions are sponsored by the Southern California Tennis Association.

Lambert led the Mustangs to a fourth place national final at the NCAA College Division tournament held in Kalamazoo, Mich. earlier this month. "I was really proud of our players even though we could have picked up the national title," said Mustang tennis coach Ed Jorgensen.

Rollins and UC Irvine shared the crown with 21 points. Stanford University followed with 31 points and the locals mustered 19. Last year the Mustangs ended up sixth in the nation.

Most of the nation's points came by Sanford's Charlie George, who is ranked in the top twenty of the nation including professionals.

The doubles team of Lambert and Tom Martin was eliminated in the quarter finals and Martin was defeated in singles competition early by Owens.

In preparation for next season Lambert is helping Jorgensen look over possible new players. The Mustangs are losing the services of Martin and Kent Coble. Returning to the line-up are Pete Lambert, Harold Ernst, Dennis Scullion, Jackiodus, and Kevin Kennedy.

Tennis star heads local clinic

by KEITH ELDIDGE

What does the second-ranked NCAA College Division tennis player do when intercollegiate competition is through? Does he take a long vacation and wait until next year?

The Mustangs' Dan Lambert does not seem to think that a long lay off would be advantageous to his playing career. In fact, most of Lambert's activities during the summer are tennis orientated.

During the mornings Dan and his brother Pete donate their talents to a Rotary Club-sponsored clinic at San Luis Obispo High School. "Everyone is encouraged to attend and it is not too late to sign up," says Lambert.

Further information on the clinic may be obtained by calling Barbara Loomis at 943-4404. Lamb