ASI Events Presents Comedian Daniel Tosh in Chumash Auditorium March 1

SAN LUIS OBISPO -- Associated Students, Inc. (ASI) Events presents comedian Daniel Tosh Monday, March 1, at 8 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium.

Tosh's casual style and sharp material are greatly enjoyed by his audiences, young and old alike, said Brian Bosch, student supervisor of special events. He is one of the most popular and successful college acts, performing at more than 100 campuses each year. Tosh has made numerous television appearances including Comedy Central's "Friday Night Standup" and "Premium Blend," "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno," "The Late Show with David Letterman" and MTV's "Punk'd."

"We know the students crave big comedians, so we are excited to bring someone with as much television experience as Tosh," said Bosch.

Tosh has also performed at some of the most significant comedy festivals around the world. He participated in the prestigious Just for Laughs International Comedy Festival in Montreal in 1998 and was invited to return two years later. Tosh also turned in triumphant festival performances in New Zealand and at Europe's largest comedy festival in Kilkenny, Ireland.

Doors open at 7:30 p.m. Seats are limited for general admission and entry will be on a first come first served basis. Student admission is free with a Cal Poly ID and general admission will be $5 at the door.

For more information on Tosh, visit his website at www.danieltosh.com. For interviews, contact Tosh's managers Eric Kranzler, Bradley Lefler or Christie Smith at Management 360 by calling (310) 272-7000.
