Spike-tingling ghouls haunt 25th Rose Float

The Rose Float theme has been changed from "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines" to "Monster Matinees" according to Keith Little, head of the Rose Parade Float Committee.

"Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines" was submitted to the Tournament of Roses in June. Little said that in June, the Rose Parade Float Committee was notified that this theme was already taken by another organization.

The new theme still had to be based on "Memory," the basic theme set by the Tournament of Roses. Despite the obvious hassle in changing the theme, Little was quite optimistic about the new theme. He wants to make this float a memorable one because this will be the 50th anniversary for this campus in Rose Float competition. Better still, for the first time in six years the Rose Parade Float Committees has the facilities to work with the Rose Float inside. This will help the builders avoid the usual hassles with the weather.

The Cal Poly Pomona Campus is building the floats for the first time. The direction of Dennis Wilberg, head of the Pomona Rose Parade Float Committees is building the framework of the Rose Float. The building will discuss final criteria and procedures to Kennedy.

Little said that when the float is finished, it will have a mummy, a cyclops, a tree stump, a vampire, a witch, Count Dracula, a spider web and a ghouls to entertain the audience.

Veterans that are not certified soon needn't fret about putting on pounds

If you've been sitting around waiting for your first check from the Veteran's Administration to start rolling in, you may be sitting quite a bit longer.

All veterans must be recertified for fall quarter in order to receive G.I. benefits. According to Sharon Faust, veteran's clerk, "Fall is the initial quarter, and all veterans, whether new, former, returning student, must be recertified even if they attended school during the Summer Quarter."

When the exception of Fall Quarter, it is not normally necessary to be recertified if you attended school during the previous quarter.

If you plan on receiving G.I. benefits for this quarter, the first step is to be recertified by Mrs. Faust in the Records Office, room 216, of the Administration Building. "There is an increase in enrollment this year and it takes 3 to 4 weeks after the papers are filed for the checks to start arriving. For veterans who have already been recertified and were former students, checks should start coming around the 7th or 8th of November. For new students, already recertified, late November or December," said Mrs. Faust.

She encouraged veterans to get in to see her as soon as possible to get the process started.

"If any veteran withdraws from classes, and drops below twelve units he should let me know so that I can notify the VA," she said. If any veteran withdraws from classes, and drops below twelve units he should let me know so that I can notify the VA.

EOP allotted $20,000 by SAC

The Student Affairs Council (SAC) voted 14-3 in favor of continuing the Summer Internship Program (SIP) at Wednesday night's SAC meeting. A remaining $14,800 of an original $44,800 appropriated by last spring will be allocated to the EOP General Fund. The reason for the cut is due to an unexpected deficit of $34,000 which EOP has received from the state. When last year's EAC was already appropriated $34,000 for EAC grants, EOP was not expecting the money from the State of California.

SAC defeated an amendment proposed by Brad Isaacson, architecture and environmental design representative, who submitted a motion to allot EOP the full $44,800 originally allocated by last year's SAC.

"We are playing with peoples' lives," Isaacson said. "We should give them the chance to pull themselves up by their own bootstraps."

Former ASI Pres. Pete Evans reminded the SAC members before the roll call vote that they were a predominantly white group making a decision on a program that affects mainly nonwhites. "EOP has a very high priority among students on this campus. When last year's SAC made raises to the general fund, there was a large increase in the EOP students' numbers," Evans said. "This was shown in surveys done here last year."

Ray Righetti, from engineering and technology, opposed the Isaacson amendment because of the increase in EOP students on this campus from last year's 200 to 348 for the 1972-73 school year. EOP has expanded even with the cut back in funds," Righetti said.

Ron Martinelli, from human development and education, proposed a balloting plan to the SAC, allowing students to check the EOP expenditure of EOP funds.

According to Mary Eyer, associate director of Financial Aid, all financial aid records are confidential and are used only by authorized personnel. Lack of manpower forbids the Financial Aid and EOP office from making the recording of EOP student expenditure fee.

Drinks and smokes may halt campus concerts

"Concerts at this school are in jeopardy of becoming a thing of the past," stated Dean Galvin, chairman of the ASI Assembly Committee.

The problem began last year when the campus invited the group Boneyard to play in a rock concert. Despite warnings from local media, signs on the walls of the Men's Gym and pleas from the master of ceremonies, drinking and smoking were still in abundance.

"Our concern this year is students under 18 years old or those in high school and junior high who attend our concerts," Galvin said. "We have members of the faculty who observed blatant smoking and drinking at concerts despite repeated warnings.

The warnings have to do with preserving the gym and it's expensive equipment, sprinkler systems, cigarette burns and broken bottles have taken their toll on the varnished wooden surface. Damage reports following each show are usually extensive, not only concerning the floor, but the bathrooms and foyer as well."

Blood drive under way

Editor:
In the summer of 1971 this school did a good thing. Don "Dino", a member of the staff of the Mustang Daily, became aware of the Don Christian family whose young boy (Christ new I) was a hemophiliac. In simple language a hemophiliac is a "bleeder", the clotting element in the blood is insufficient, prevent precluding bleeding from the slightest cut or scratch. This condition presents an extremely difficult situation to the family, especially as far as obtaining enough amounts of blood to keep Chris in good health.

To alleviate the tremendous economic burden on the Christian family Don Politanni enlisted my aid (then A.S.I. Director) to make a mass drive for Chris. This condition presented an extremely difficult situation to the family, especially so far as obtaining enough amounts of blood to keep Chris in good health.

To alleviate the tremendous economic burden on the Christian family Don Politanni enlisted my aid (then A.S.I. President) and that of Dr. Billy Mount (Director of the Cal Poly Health Center) to assist him in a massive drive for Chris Christian. It was a tremendous group effort. The Cal Poly foundation (headed by Mr. Al Amarel) provided us with free assistance and refreshments to keep things going. And the result was, as anticipated, successful.

I managed to get enough blood to supply Chris for a year—now he is in need again. His mother wrote to us all via this paper a few days ago about the current need. Once again we can raise to supply that need, in fact we need.

A freshman pre-med student here was moved by the letter from Mrs. Christian and began talking to classmates and friends—all of us. I had rounded up about seventy-five donors.

Horn honking proves fatal

Lee Angeles (LUP) — David Manzer, 25, and his fiancée, Gerda Allen, 25, had a little trouble collecting morning. Manzer would drive to work on the Golden State Freeway and look for Miss Allen who was to be married in the opposite direction in her way home from her nearest job.

When he saw her, he would honk his horn. She would beep back.

There was no exchange of beeps Tuesday morning. Manzer caught sight of Miss Allen, but as he watched, a car in front of her changed lanes and she hit

Practically, Manzer got off the freeway and circled around the other side. He found his fiancée holding wreath of her car.
Mustang rooster objects to yell leader's antics

Robin Baggett

Editor:

After attending three tremendous Cal Poly football games and having listened to the yell leader, I am not only embarrassed by the spectacle, but the team, as well as the school.

He apparently knows nothing of football and could care less. His yells are not only inappropriate, they are at times disgusting and obscene. He does not even consider the yells as vulgarity.

VULGARITY IS IN THE MIND.

The band and team do such a tremendous job for Cal Poly. It seems a shame the rooters aren't doing their job. I suggest that the boys are in there giving their best.

What about financing? The budget is structured toward the state universities and colleges. They were 1) A tuition bill that would cost the students $800 per year; 2) A raise in price of our materials and services fees to $170 per year; and 3) A raise in our parking fees of $8 per year. Add all of those up and you get $878 per year per student.

CSUCSPA worked hard and feels responsible for having these bills defeated in the legislature. On an average the costs approximated 3 cents per cent per year for the lobbying program and has saved $878 per student per year.

A bargain you can't beat!

As you can see, this is quite an outstanding organization for the students. I would encourage anyone who wanted information or would like to become involved with the lobbying program to see me or Pete Evans, who is the ABI's legislative coordinator.

Also, I will regularly keep the student body informed about the legislative program at the State Capital.

Archpal cheers not the answer

Editor:

In reply to Mr. Jenkins' letter, I must disagree. As yell leader (1971-72) and head yell leader (1971-72), both at Poly, I feel you have no grounds what-so-ever to ask for a new yell leader. The yells are not only inappropriate, they are at times disgusting and obscene. I heard many comments in the stands to this effect. Even some of the team players on the side line have heard some of the yells and cannot figure them out!

I shudder to think what affect these yells will have on the people in Reno, Pomona or any "out of town" games we will have.

There should be some "red and frolic" at a game, but there also should be some true backing for our hard fighting team! These boys are in there giving their best!

The band and team do such a tremendous job for Cal Poly. It seems a shame the rooters aren't doing their job. I suggest that the boys are in there giving their best!

Whatever happened to the good old days of the "Rah Rah," and good sportsmanship of giving a yell for an injured man, be it our own or an opponent? Isn't there something you can do? I beg of you to try!

G8U court rule is for everyone

Editor:

Your editorial on the G8U court case of October 3 is a piece of editorial junk. You display no sensitivity whatsoever about the的看法, bigotry, or prejudice that homophiles are subjected to by the public, police, and especially the administration of our school. Neither do you recognize the threat to freedom of speech, assembly, and association that exists in this case.

All students at Cal Poly will win a victory when the court rules in favor of the G8U, because if the G8U loses all students will be subjected to the whims and prejudices of the administration for their freedom of association.

An Ethnic Board has been formed and funded through the ABI to better the cultural meetings Internationales peted Saturday

The International Student section of this campus' Women's Club will host a picnic for International students at noon Saturday in Poly Grove. Host families will be there to greet the new students.

"It is an excellent opportunity to renew former acquaintance or for students from other countries to make new friends," said Mrs. Douglas Generaux, chairman of the International Student Section, said. For further information call Mmes. Douglas Generaux, N-474 or Robert Walker, 644-0881.

Minority cultures funded

An Ethnic Board has been formed and funded through the ABI to better meet the cultural needs of students. According to Robert Bonds, coordinator of Student Community Services, the board has emerged out of a need for American minority students to have the chance to put on programs that display the various aspects of a culture.

The Ethnic Board has been given $6,000 with the agreement that 25% of this amount will be utilized to fund ABI budget at the end of the school year. Under the chairmanship of Fred Johnson, the board is presently devising a calendar of events that will determine how the money is distributed. BBU, MECHA, Native Americans, and Asian students are all represented on the board. The Ethnic Program Board meets every Tuesday at 5 p.m. in CU 316.

The money will be used to sponsor various events, such as the upcoming Asian festival. These events are a time of cultural exposure where the audience, history, dance, food, sports, music, and language are being exposed to the campus community.

Bonds pointed out that in most cases a minority culture, such as the Taos Obliao, is isolated from its cultural background and environment, which further emphasizes the need for these groups.

Editor's note: California voters will face 18 propositions on November 8. The following propositions concern such diverse subjects as tax relief, coastal protection, medical facilities and the like. Staff writer Claudette Galloway will be presenting the arguments for and against each proposition in a series of articles.

Prop. 1

According to the state's legislative counsel, a "Yes" vote on Proposition 1 is a vote to authorize the building, construction, and for equipment and site acquisition needs of California's public community colleges.

A "No" vote is a vote to refuse funds for the above purposes. Such a vote would prohibit the issuance and sale of state bonds for these purposes.

Proposition 1 is among five propositions on the November ballot which do not have arguments against them printed in either the approved Amendments to the Constitution" booklet put out by the legislative counsel and secretary of state. Nor has there been a widespread campaign against the measure.

The proposed law passed the state legislature during its 1973 regular session and is being submitted to California voters in accordance with the state constitution.

There were no dissenting votes in either house of the legislature when the act was passed.

Official projections by the Community Colleges Chancellor's Office and the State Department of Finance show the need for community college campus construction programs totaling about $2.5 billion in the next three years.

State bond matching funds for community college buildings and site acquisition are exhausted, and without additional state bonds the only funds for matching purposes are local property taxes. Approval of the bond act will enable the community college districts to construct educational facilities which are necessary to accommodate 80,000 more full-time equivalent students.

The money from these bond issues will be spent on such projects as buildings to house medical facilities, environmental pollution control devices, and to provide the facilities which are necessary at this time.

By increasing the supply of health care personnel and services in the face of rapidly growing demand, Proposition 1 will help to control spiraling health care costs. It will do so at the cost of just 8 cents per person per year over the life of the bonds and it will bring to California nearly $100,000,000 in federal matching funds to help us achieve this goal.

State Senator Clark L. Bradley (14th District) is opposed to the measure, however, and charges that the basic issue does not justify the size of the bond issue.

"The argument in favor of Proposition 1 states in general terms what everyone agrees with, but still does not go to the basic issue of justifying the huge size of this bond issue divided as it is into two parts.

"It is a fallacy to ask that California's medical and dental schools are forced to turn away 90 to 96 per cent of the students it gets a pollution control unit built, or it will go broke, or move out of state, then the state would have to provide $200 million in additional state bonds for these purposes.

A "No" vote is a vote against granting the legislature such authority.

State Senator John T. Knox (11th District) and State Senator Donald Granum (17th District) are both strong proponents of this measure.

According to the pair of legislators, "pollution control requirements, newly imposed by federal, state, and local government programs, must make it mandatory that private industry construct a wide variety of pollution control facilities to prevent air pollution, water pollution and other environmental contamination."

Proponents of the measure argue that Bradley's argument "has no basis in fact."

The opposition argument to Proposition 3, Knox said, is a typical 'scare' argument. It tries to scare the voter into believing that Proposition 3 will increase his taxes—allegedly because an industry might go broke, or move out of state, then the state would have to 'make good' the pollution control bonds from general tax funds.

Knox said that each industry which leases pollution control facilities can be required to mortgage its properties—even those located outside of California—as security for its lease.

"Proposition 3 provides for a completely self-liquidating bond program," Knox continued, "which will not affect state taxpayers in any way. In this respect it is similar to the self-liquidating veterans' home loan bond program which has been in effect for many years in California."

The Mustang cross country men will be running against some of the toughest competition in the country when they host an open meet here Saturday at 11 a.m. On hand for the event will be the track clubs of West Valley, High Sierra and Santa Barbara.

Some of the best running is expected from the West Valley Track Club that placed second last year in the National AAU cross country finals. The Bay Area club, a couple of veterans of International competition, one being Dan Kardong who placed fifth in the nation last year in the AAU finals. Kardong was in Europe for the tune up meets of the Olympic games and was favored to make the U.S. team in the 10,000 meter run until he acquired mononucleosis.

Another member of club, Bill Clark, has just returned from European competition.

Coach Larry Bridges says his team is a little bit nervous about the meet that will require them to run 6.1 miles. This is about 3 miles over their normal distance. Bridges said, "I am personally looking for guys that respond well to competitive competition. In other words, pressure runners."

The event will take place on the 8 mile jogging course Bridges has his PE classes run. He estimates that will well over 100 cadets have the distance in the last couple of years.

Mustang runners to face top national competition

Boise should be tough

They said Hayward would be good...they weren't. They said Montana State could move the ball with their new I formation...they couldn't. They said Humboldt would shoot the lights out with their passing game...they didn't.

Now Boise State is coming to town and people are talking about their national ranking—19th in the nation the past two weeks. There seems to be little doubt the Broncos will provide the Mustang football team with its toughest test yet this season.

Last year Boise finished with an impressive 10-2 record losing only to Weber State and Idaho State. It was good for a second place finish in the tough Big Sky conference and a berth in the Camellia Bowl where Chico State was downed in the last outing of the season.

Graduation did not hurt the Broncos a great deal as the current season gets underway in August, they had a question mark at quarterback.

The vacancy was filled by Ron Autele, a Junior from Hawaii, who likes to run but has proven himself in the passing department as well. Autele has completed 27 of 46 passes this year for 607 yards and six touchdowns.

He has plenty of receiving talent when it comes to putting the ball in the air, as Big Sky reception leaders A1 Marshall and Don Hutt return from last year's squad. Each is averaging reception leaders. A1 Marshall completed 27 of 49 passes this year for 607 yards and six touchdowns.

The visitors from Idaho will arrive with a 3-0 record, beating the University of Nevada at Las Vegas, Humboldt State and Weber State.

The opening kickoff is scheduled for 1 p.m. in Memorial Stadium, as the Colts open up a treacherous schedule that includes games with teams from UCLA, Stanford and San Jose State, in addition to Cal.

Coach John Crivello's Colts boast some exciting young players, many of whom are destined to lead the varsity green and gold in figure seasons.

Leading a strong defensive front line will be talented freshman ends Mark Futak and Wilford Young. They will be teamed with defensive tackles Greg MacDonald and Dave Armas to form a formidable wall for opposing runners.

The linebacking corps is solid. Anchored by Rocky Shurrum in the middle, the trio includes starters Charles Bobrlnk and Larry Denniston. All three are scrappy and hit hard, according to Crivello.

The defensive backfield is a showcase for four more outstanding first-year players. Pat Manus, Mark Davis, Cliff Garian and Randy Zimmern room the secondary, and they will surely intimidate many a quarterback in future years.

Quarterbacks Cliff Johnson and Mike Coulson head the offense, with Johnson doubling as the number three signal caller on

The varsity, Johnson is a 5-10, 170 pound freshman from Saratoga who was an excellent passer in high school. He'll alternate running the team with JC transfer Coulson.

The Colts boast two strong running backs who appear to be key figures in moving the team. John Henson, a 5-11, 170 pound fullback from Pinole, is a bullish runner and fine blocker, and Bythell Thompson, a 180 pound tailback from Selma, adds quickness and outside speed.

Bill Carvalho, Rick Beatty and Mark Russell give the Colts a trio of quick and capable receivers, and Larry Guttard, Lynn Price, John Hoffman, Kent Leland and Bob Binder compose a gutsy offensive line.

Although Vince Lombardi expounded the virtues of winning on an entire football generation, the main purpose of JV teams is to teach young, green players the basic fundamentals, help to eliminate mental mistakes, and give these young players game experience, valuable for their future college careers.
