This year's Homecoming Queen finalists are Anna, Sally Robinson, and Sandy Chaves.

Queen finalists selected

by DEBBIE PIEDRAFITA

"I just wish this was over with - tonight was one of the constantia beackgrounds before the beginning of the Queen's Pageant held Tuesday night. Within the hour, she had gotten her wish and the five Homecoming Queen finalists had been announced.

The finalists who were announced by Jim Larine, master of ceremonies, were Sandy Chaves, 19, a junior Home Economics major from Monterey sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 19, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Osos sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 19, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Osos sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 19, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Osos sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 19, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Osos sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 19, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Osos sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 19, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Osos sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 19, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Osos sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 19, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Osos sponsored by the Rally Club.

The girls were judged on poise, appearance, personality and their responses to questions. The panel of judges which made the decision consisted of Alan Ross, KWEC Radio; Tom Brown, Brown's Shoe Co.; Terry Calamoneri, The Camera; Kathy Frinid, Poly Instructor; and Edward Barker, Dean of Business and Social Science.

Each contestant was introduced at the beginning of the pageant and appeared again later to answer a question pertaining to past experiences, major, or hobbies. Many of the questions, which ranged from child psychology to horse shows, brought laughter from the audience.

The World Famous Majors and Minors entertained the audience with sweet harmony while the judges scores were tabulated. The small audience consisted of enthusiastic supporters for the various candidates who were waiting anxiously for the results of the judging.

For the finalists, a week of campaigning lies ahead before the student body election which will be held Oct. 15.

One of Swift Aire's most worrying aspects is the "element" on the campus which is feared to be an environmental threat. This "element" is a 100 to 200 year old blue oak located at 1099 Palm St. Coffee and donuts will be served.

Visitors are invited to the Democratic headquarters at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, October 14 to ask questions of special guest Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin. Lucey was a floor leader and contender for the vice presidency at the Democratic convention. He has been campaigning for Sen. George McGovern since the beginning of his bid for the presidency.

McGovern will also be appearing at the Cow Palace in San Francisco Saturday Oct. 13 beginning at 7 p.m. Admission is free.

Election day is less than a month away and many people are still undecided about the candidates for Assembly. The usual comment is "I don't know enough about the candidates," or "I don't understand his position." The real reason is that people don't give a damn.

There are plenty of ways to find out about a candidate if a person will just look for them and ask questions.

Shunshui Kamimura

They give it a new air

by MARILYN WHITE

The Japanese flower art of Ikebana was on display here Tuesday as part of Asian Week festivities.

Shunshui Kamimura, an expert in Ikebana from Los Angeles, demonstrated to a drowsy audience, the art of flower arranging.

Mrs. Kamimura explained that there are many kinds of displays and arranging techniques used in Japan.

Each represents a school of arranging, Angustu, common in the United States, the Kikyo style which embodies a triangular shape and Ikebana, the most formal.

Flower arranging in Japan is a necessary part of every girl's upbringing. This training is not for the sake of a vocation, but rather, for stimulation of the mind. A young girl must sit and arrange the flowers over and over again until she appear right to her and to her parents.

Flower arranging requires a great deal of control and patience.

The art of flower arranging started 3,000 years ago as an offering to Buddha in a religious ceremony. Five hundred years ago, it became more organized, and today it is part of every female's life.

The Asian week festivities come to an end at 5 p.m. Saturday, with an Asian Cultural Show in the Little Theater.

Open Channel

Members of the campus community will have a chance to question AHE Director Robin Baggett and Vice President Danny Johnson when KCPM presents "Open Channel" at 6:00 p.m.

Steve Reeves will moderate the program, which is a regular feature of the station. Students are invited to call in and voice their opinions on current AHE issues.

Little Theater piano concert

Dr. and Mrs. Donald Smith, accomplished local concert artists, will be featured in the Cal Poly Theater during the 11 a.m. College Hour today. Admission for students and the public is free. The Music Department is presenting the Smiths as the first of this year's series of College Hour concerts.

The series presents both faculty and guest artists in a variety of programs. Smith and his wife Patricia will present a duo-piano concert of the works of Brahms, Bach, and Beethoven.

Quickly they forget

The scoreboard clock showed six minutes to play in the first quarter and Boise State was sitting on a 14-0 lead. The visitors had simply walked down the field and into the end zone. Twice.

The general attitude of those spectators tightly packed together in the student section was reflected in their comments: "What happened to our defense?"

I can understand these guys from Boise weren't supposed to be good, but they're making us look sick.

Well, look at the size of their offensive line. That quarterback could eat us alive right now."

But they're making us look sick.

Even when one of the Boise State backs would charge through a gaping hole the punt was so quick they could usually be scored on going down under at least seven tacklers.

After a while the Boise pace was slowed considerably, and a few (very few) diehard rooters said we still had a chance.

terback Ron Autele was directing a drive for his team that found him conveniently stretched before the entire student rooting section.

This time, when the Mustangs began their final drive of the evening, a hungry Cal Lutheran JV quarterback for the young Mustangs, Steve Smolen and Tommy Parker, and three first year bowlers, Dave Sedmak, Phil Davie, and Glenn Carroll. The Mustang team sports a team average of 966 with Smolen as their number one bowler with a 310 average.
