HOME COMING
Queen finalists selected

by DEBBIE PIEDRAFITA

"I just wish this was over with," said one of the contestants backstage before the beginning of the Queen's Pageant held Tuesday night. Within the hour, she had gotten her wish and the five Homecoming Queen finalists had been announced.

The finalists who were announced by Jim Laruen, master of ceremonies, were Sandy Chaves, 19, a junior Home Economics major from Monterey sponsored by the Rally Club; Candice Smith, 18, a sophomore Environmental Engineering major from Los Altos sponsored by the Camara Club; Sally Robinson, 19, a senior Child Development major from Ventura, sponsored by the Camera Club; Tom Brown, 18, a senior Speech major from San Luis Obispo sponsored by Block "P".

The other contestants and their sponsors were Nancy Stevens, Gov. Lucy visits SLO

Visitors are invited to the Democratic headquarters at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, October 14 to ask questions of special guest Gov. Patrick Lucy of Wisconsin. Lucy was a floor leader and contender for the vice presidency at the Democratic convention. He has been campaigning for Sen. George McGovern since the beginning of his bid for the presidency. McGovern will also be appearing at the Cow Palace in San Francisco this Wednesday, October 13 beginning at 7 p.m. Admission is free.

The Democratic headquarters is located at 1070 Palm St. Coffee and donuts will be served.

One of Swift Air's newest-dedicated think there is "an "element" on the campus which is giving one-sided information in favor of Proposition A. If passed, Proposition A would require a county election to make any changes to the existing airport in San Luis Obispo.

The management of the commuter airline based in San Luis Obispo presented its arguments against Proposition A, the Airport Initiative. "They're appealing strictly to emotions," said stewardess Donna Boultas, referring to "the element" on campus. "We (Swift Air) invite students to give us a call and make an appointment. If they want to ask us any questions." At the press conference, held Wednesday, at the Madonna Inn, Swift Air Pres. Charles Wlaweli said the airline leases Proposition A because its passage would make it difficult or impossible to have an instrument landing system (ILS) installed at the airport. As the system will be required by the FAA for scheduled flights in three to four years, Swift Air would be forced to cease operations then if the ILS has not been installed. This would return San Luis Obispo to 1964, in terms of air transportation, according to Wlaweli. In that year, Pacific Airliners, Hughes Air West, terminated air service to San Luis Obispo.

The other improvement which the airline is seeking is a 1,000-foot extension of the present runway. Wlaweli said that fears of Swift Aire using jets in the near future are completely unfounded simply because the airline cannot afford jet engines now or any time in the next five years. He said Proposition A would preclude jets or county elections to permit them.

By 1975, federal regulations will require jet engines to produce no more than 82 decibels. By contrast, Wlaweli said the freeway next to the Madonna Inn is legally permitted to produce 92 decibels. He concluded that when and if Swift Air could go to jets, he feels they are more efficient and less polluting, they would be prevented from doing so by Proposition A mandates.

Financing for the airport improvements would not raise taxes, according to airline spokesmen. The ILS would be virtually 100 percent financed by state agencies, leaving 18 percent to be paid by the county. The county, in turn, would finance the quarter of the cost already exists, say the airline representatives. The money for the federal fund is raised through an eight percent tax on tickets and charter flights.

Flower arranger shows Ikebana art

The Japanese flower art of Ikebana was on display here Tuesday as part of Asian Week festivities.

Shunshui Kamimura, an expert in Ikebana from Los Angeles, demonstrated to a dozens in audience, the art of flower arranging.

Mrs. Kamimura explained that there are many kinds of displays and arranging techniques used in Japan.

Each represents a school of arranging. Junyku, common in the United States, the Roza style which embodies a triangular shape and Ikebana, the most formal.

Flower arranging in Japan is a necessary part of every girl's upbringing. This training is not for the sake of a vocation, but rather, for stimulation of the mind. A young girl must sit and arrange the flowers over and over again until they appear right to her and to her parents. Flower arranging requires a great deal of control and patience.

The art of flower arranging started 3,000 years ago as an offering to Buddha in a religious ceremony. Five hundred years ago, it became more organized, and today it is part of every female's life.

The Asian week festivities come to an end 1 p.m. Saturday, with an Asian Cultural Show in the Little Theater.

Open Channel

Members of the campus community will have a chance to question ASI President Robin Baggett and Vice President Nancy Johnson when KCPR presents "Open Channel" at 6:30 p.m.

Steve Reeves will moderate the program, which is a regular feature of the station. Students are invited to call in and voice their opinions on current ASI issues.

"THE MODERN PICTURE MUST BE SEEN BY EVERY MAN AND WOMAN"
The scoreboard clock showed six minutes to play in the first quarter and Boise State was sitting on a 14-0 lead. The visitors had simply walked down the field and into the endzone twice. Twice.

"We look at the size of their offensive line. That quarterback could eat dinner back there."

"What did you say the campus movie is tonight? I'm ready to leave when you are."

"You're a white horse as far as I'm concerned."

"I can understand these guys from Boise were supposed to be good, but they're making us look sick."

"Well, it's not going to be the same old fight this time."

"Going down under at least seven tacklers."

"What's happened to our defense?"

Even when one of the Boise State backs would charge through a (very few) diehard rooters said we still had a chance.

"And Boise Stats was sitting on a 144 lead. The visitors had simply walked down the field and into the endzone once. Twice. Twice.

But it did, and the ever-flickle fan was quick to confess, "I knew they were going to win."

The trip to Fresno was once again a man in green stepped in and wrote his name on it. ___

"Quickly they forget."

Fortunately, the guys on the field were not ready to give up so easily. Even when one of the Boise State backs would charge through a gaping hole the pursuit was so quick they could usually be assured of going down under at least seven tacklers."
