GEORGE MCGOVERN
Hold Nixon accountable
by KATHLEEN BEASLY
Editor
Calling on Americans to hold Richard Nixon accountable for his actions, Senator George McGovern kept up his attack on the Vietnam war and corruption in government in weekend California campaign stops.

Speaking before 200 supporters in the San Francisco Cow Palace Friday night, McGovern quoted Nixon as saying, "In my campaign for the presidency, I pledged to end this war. If I do not fail to achieve what I have said my plan will not be my goal—to bring the troops home and to end the killing in 60 days."

"While he [Nixon] says there will be no peace without honor, I say there will be no honor for America until we can restore ourselves to peace."

McGovern ended his plea for his supporters to get the people out to vote.

"I've been reading in the press that young people are apathetic about the election. I think we answered that tonight," he said.

Candiates set area platforms
by STEVE GREENBERG

San Luis Obispo residents got another chance Thursday night to listen to and question the people who will be running their government.

Every candidate spoke for himself, except for Don MacGillivray and Gary Hart, from the 39th Assembly District, who were representates at the Speakers' Forum by Rich Sewell and Curtis Haymore.

Julian Camacho, the only speaker from the 12th Congressional District, said the prime concern of the people of San Luis Obispo was tax reform. "We're supposed to have a progressive tax in this country...the more you make, the more you pay. Don't kid yourself. There are 100 people in California making between $40,000 and $50,000 a year who don't pay any state taxes."

"People who make $5,000 to $10,000 a year pay 35 percent of the state tax. It's your dollar and it's your country," he said.

UGLES INVADE CAMPUS FOR PENNIES

George McGovern

It's that time of the year again when all the weird looking characters come out from under their rocks and compete for the title of the Ugly Man On Campus (UMOC).

"The UMOC contest is an annual homecoming event sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega (APO), the national service fraternity. Entered in the competition this year are BKP Hendrson from the Society for the Adventurism of Management and Steve Dittmann from Fremont Hall."

"During the homecoming week the contestants will forth in all of their radiant ugliness amongst the student body workings votes of approval. Each person the ugly man collects is one vote, and there is no limit to the number of times students can cast ballots."

"We encourage stuffing the ballot box," said Nick Sado, APO contest chairman. "And if you're undecided, we suggest voting for both candidates."

"There will be a voting booth in the College Union Plaza today through Friday where students can vote for their favorite deformity. The contest begins today and will last until 6 p.m. Friday. All proceeds from the contest go to APO's service project fund."

The ballots will be counted at last Friday National Hare and the winner will be announced over KCPR radio Friday evening.

UMOC is APO's prime source of revenue for supporting their service projects. "We're a little disappointed with this year's turnout of ugly contestants, only two. Last year we had six, but maybe Skip Hendrson and Dave Dittmann can do the Job of six."

Prices for the contestants have been donated by Stereo West. Jim's Campus Camera, Green Brothers, and Hero's.

Corresponding roughly to the long-existing control over industrial relations throughout the country. This is a basic creation of new state law, complex and detailed, which should have been evolved in the Legislature, but as it was twice amended there, its dissenting proponents are now going to the people.

The proposition would:
1. Pour priorities for farm products of all industries, which are of course illegal in all other industries, and prohibit picketing at the point of sale.
2. Require a secret ballot of farm workers for the selection of a union to represent them, incurring that the election is held at a time when the temporary employees on a farm do not outnumber the permanent employees.
3. Authorize the superior court, in the event of a called strike, to restrain strike action for 60 days; by this means the proposition will not prevent a labor dispute造成 a total loss in a crop just coming on to harvest.

These measures, it seems to me, would reasonably protects the right of farm workers to organize and fight for their economic interests and at the same time protects the right of consumers to buy farm produce without suffering the consequences of picketers and boycotters around the supermarkets where the goods are sold.

Proposition 22 is being frankly characterized as a destructive, antiballot measure, but I think that exaggerated charge, disproved with no great difficulty by comparing this law to our national labor legislation. On balance it is a stabilizing charter for the relations of farm operators and farm workers.

looking out at the predominantly-white audience, "There are five or 6,000 people outside" who couldn't get in.

Though the crowd was one of the best for a Cow Palace open house, the arena was only 1/2 over half full at 8 p.m. when the rally was scheduled to begin.

Editor:
We have heard much concerning the opposition to Proposition 22, and so I would like to present the truth as I see it. Proposition 22 at the coming election proposes to regulate and define fair and unfair labor practices in California's agricultural industry in a manner corresponding roughly to the National Labor Relations Act's long-existing control over industrial relations throughout the country. This is a basic creation of new state law, complex and detailed, which should have been evolved in the Legislature, but as it was twice amended there, its dissenting proponents are now going to the people.

The proposition would:
1. Provide secondary boycotts of farm products, which are of course illegal in all other industries, and prohibit picketing at the point of sale.
2. Require a secret ballot of farm workers for the selection of a union to represent them, incurring that the election is held at a time when the temporary employees on a farm do not outnumber the permanent employees.
3. Authorize the superior court, in the event of a called strike, to restrain strike action for 60 days; by this means the proposition will not prevent a labor dispute causing a total loss in a crop just coming on to harvest.

These measures, it seems to me, would reasonably protect the right of farm workers to organize and fight for their economic interests and at the same time protect the right of consumers to buy farm produce without suffering the consequences of picketers and boycotters around the supermarkets where the goods are sold.

Sometimes it's hard to distinguish myth from reality... and that's precisely why there exists a program which gives the citizens of San Luis Obispo a chance to get to know and understand the events in a day of the life of an average policeman.

Talks are to be given by Police Chief Robert Baggett who will call the program "Ride with a Cop." and is highly in favor of it as an important step toward better community relations.

Anybody who is over 16 can ride for four to six hours with any member of the San Luis Obispo Police Department. However the 4 to 12 p.m. watch is the most difficult one to get on because it's the busiest.

Applications are now available at the police department. Completed ones will be sent to the police department and they will call the applicant when there is an opening.

Baggett encouraged students to take an active interest in the program, "In the four years I've been here, I've never heard of anyone who's been hassled by a cop," he said. "They've been very understanding with the youth and we should treat them with the same respect."

Park on glass

(2NB) Ceramic students at the University of Missouri have devised a new way to recycle bottles. At the suggestion of the ceramic students, the Robert Corporation of Windsor, Connecticut, took half-a-million bottles and jars and ground them up; they then mixed the ground glass with asphalt and made a giant parking lot out of the material. The glass was used to replace limestone aggregate in the asphalt mixture. The students call their invention "Glasphalt."

SPECIAL THIS WEEK ONLY in the Cal Poly Stereo West Store:
WE HAVE A SELECTION OF NEW, POPULAR L.P.'S FOR JUST $1.00 (ONE). [limited selection - non-returnable]
The game went down to the wire, then stayed there, and the Mustangs football team left Fresno Saturday night with a 24–24 tie, their first even-finish game in 11 years.

A tie football game is said to be a little like a kiss from your sister, but the cliché would not do justice to the hard-fought contest between two teams so evenly matched. The 14,300 people jammed into Fresno's Mackenzie Stadium got more than their share of excitement.

The score in the game literally bounced back and forth as the Bulldogs and Mustangs moved primarily on the ground while Fresno State relied on its passing game. It was taken that Bulldog aerial attack that was the key to the contest.

Mike Thomas is hit by Fresno State defensive end Dwayne Westphal after a short gain, picked up 49 yards near the goal line. The hard-driving fullback then steam-rolled one man at the one and had six more points.

With 2:30 showing on the clock, and plenty of time yet to play, Fresno State moved into Mustang territory in the first four down situation. The score was tied, 17–17.

Guerra made his kick to put Fresno up 20–17, but Petty's 55-yard punt was boomed back into Mustang territory, and the Bulldogs drove deep in the second quarter. It was Mike Thomas who picked up 99 yards.

The statement for the 1971-72 fiscal year is now available at the office of the Foundation Executive Director in C.U. 212.
