RAYMOND BURR WILL DELIVER COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Raymond Burr, who is concluding his seventh season as the paraplegic Chief Ironside on the highly-rated NBC Television series, will gain a new experience credit when he delivers the principal address during Cal Poly's 67th annual commencement. The traditional graduation program is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. on Saturday (June 9) in Mustang Stadium.

Burr, who also starred in the televised dramatic special on the life of Pope John XXIII last year, was chosen by the student commencement committee. Born in Westminster, B.C., Canada, in 1917, he spent his teen years in Vallejo, but later returned to Canada, where, at the age of 19, he launched his professional acting career in Toronto. Subsequently, he went on to repertory work in England.

During the Depression, when acting jobs were few and far between, the 6-1, 275-pound Burr held a series of temporary jobs -- each of which contributed to the amazing background knowledge he has of a great many different fields.

He worked for J.C. Penney, for the U.S. Forestry Service, and as a ranch-hand, salesman, deputy sheriff, and radio performer. A brief stint as a motion picture actor was followed by a move to New York City, where he taught drama at Columbia University and he appeared in the Broadway musical Crazy With the Heat and in the drama The Duke of Darkness.

Awarded Honorary Degree

In 1942, Burr returned to Hollywood, and in addition to teaching drama at the Pasadena Playhouse (which later awarded him an honorary degree) he began a motion picture career which encompasses 90 films, including roles in such films as A Place in the Sun and Alfred Hitchcock's Rear Window.

Following World War II service in the U.S. Navy, Burr resumed his acting career. His interest in the welfare of service personnel led him to record more than 3,000 radio shows for troops, and the U.S. Army credits him with originating the "handshake" tours of Southeast Asia later undertaken by many other major performers.

In 1957 Burr began his nine-year tenure as the star of "Perry Mason" for which he won Emmys in 1959 and 1960 as the "best actor in a leading role." In 1960 and 1961 he won the TV Guide Award as the most popular male personality.

In addition to President Robert E. Kennedy, who will confer the degrees and introduce Burr, others scheduled to take part in the 1973 Commencement program are Academic Vice President Dale W. Andrews, who will present the degree candidates; Raymond L. Bennett and Kurt D. Hoffman, who will represent the degree candidates; and Rev. Melvin Rich and Meyer Fein, who will present the invocation and benediction, respectively.

UNIVERSITY WILL CONFER DEGREES ON 2,705 CANDIDATES

Cal Poly will confer degrees and certificates on 2,705 candidates when it holds its 67th annual Commencement on Saturday (June 9) in Mustang Stadium. That figure includes 246 candidates for master's degrees, 2,396 candidates for bachelor's degrees, and 41 candidates for certificates. Also included in the total are 22 candidates who will receive degrees with double majors.

By specific degrees, candidates to be honored on June 9 include 120 for the Master of Arts Degree, 8 for the Master of Engineering Degree, 94 for the Master of Science Degree, and 24 for the Master of Business Administration Degree. Also included are 1,971 for the Bachelor of Science Degree, 249 for the Bachelor of Arts Degree, 176 for the Bachelor of Architecture Degree, and 41 for the Two-Year Technical Certificate.

When divided among Cal Poly's seven academic schools, the bachelor's degree candidates for 1973 include 433 from Agriculture and Natural Resources, 265 from Architecture and Environmental Design, 389 from Business and Social Sciences, 273 from Communicative Arts and Humanities, 507 from Engineering and Technology, 344 from Human Development and Education, and 185 from Science and Mathematics.

Bennett will receive his bachelor's degree in industrial technology on Saturday and Hoffman will receive his bachelor's degree in business administration. Rev. Rich is the pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in San Luis Obispo, and Fein is director of religious affairs for the Congregation Beth David, San Luis Obispo.

Music for the Commencement program will be provided by the Cal Poly Men's Glee Club under the direction of Harold P. Davidson, who is retiring after having been head of the university's Music Department for the past 37 years, and the Symphonic Band, under the direction of William V. Johnson of the Music faculty.

Other commencement day activities planned on Saturday include the Senior Brunch, an initiation ceremony for new members of Phi Kappa Phi national honorary society, an ROTC commissioning ceremony, and the Senior Ball.

28 MEN HONORED DURING ROTC CEREMONY

Twenty-eight men were accorded honors during the annual awards ceremony and review of the U.S. Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) at Cal Poly. Held at Poly Field, the ceremony was sponsored by the Military Science Department. Thirty-one awards were given out to the 28 students.

Named winner of the President's Cup, the highest award given by the Cal Poly ROTC, was Barry L. Velarde, a senior mathematics major. Presented by President Robert E. Kennedy, the cup is awarded to the one most outstanding senior in the corps for exceptional excellence in both military science and his academic discipline.

Other awards presented during the ceremony recognized excellence in various areas of military interests.

Tuesday through Friday, June 5-8, will be the examination period for the Spring Quarter.
A A S C U CREDITED FOR HELP WITH STUDENT AID LEGISLATION

The efforts of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities to advise members of Congress of the serious need of the nation's college and university students for financial aid have been credited for the recent appropriation of $872 million for that purpose.

President Robert E. Kennedy described the whirlwind effort of more than 100 college and university chief executives who visited legislators in Washington to urge approval of the 1973 Urgent Supplementary Appropriation Bill and its eventual endorsement by President Richard M. Nixon.

The bill, among other things, appropriates $872 million for continuation of the College Work-Study Program, Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grants and National Direct Student Loans, as well as the newly-developed Basic Educational Opportunity Grants.

President Kennedy, a member of AASCU's 12-member Board of Directors, said the AASCU campaign early in March included briefings with Speaker of the House Carl Albert and House Minority Leader Gerald Ford. The AASCU spokesmen also visited with ranking members of the House Committee on Education and Labor and the House Special Subcommittee on Education, and with their home area congressional delegates.

The approach, according to Dr. Kennedy, was on behalf of university and college students, rather than on behalf of the institutions themselves. "We urged the continued funding of the educational opportunity grants and low cost student loans at a realistic level, and funding of the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants proposed by President Nixon," President Kennedy, who took part in the meetings, reported.

HARIRI NAMED TO HEAD SOCIAL SCIENCES DEPARTMENT

Mahmud Hariri has been appointed head of the Social Sciences Department, according to an announcement from President Robert E. Kennedy. President Kennedy said his appointment of Hariri to the post was based on the unanimous recommendation of a faculty search committee and the recommendation of Owen L. Servatius (Acting Dean of Business and Social Sciences).

The new department head joined the Cal Poly faculty in 1970 after having been a professor and administrator at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies. He became acting head of the Social Sciences Department in January of this year when William M. Alexander, the former head of the department, became head of the newly-formed Political Science Department.

A graduate of both Hobart College and Columbia University, both in New York, Dr. Hariri completed study for his Doctor of Philosophy Degree in sociology at the New School for Social Research in New York City in 1968. At the institute in Monterey, he served as head of the Department of Humanities and Pedagogy and as dean and registrar.

Before that, he served on the faculties of American University and Beirut College for Women in Lebanon, as principal of the Broadview School in Saskatchewan, with the U.S. Department of State, and on the faculty of Monterey Peninsula College.
PLANNING COMMITTEE REFUSES TO SUPPORT AG ED PRESERVATION

Campus controversy over a student campaign to save the Agricultural Education Building reached a conclusion on Friday (June 1). The student committee had a second hearing before the Campus Planning Committee for action on the students' request for university support to preserve the structure.

The planning group voted unanimously to recommend to President Robert E. Kennedy that the request be denied. Earlier in the week Cal Poly's student government organization, the Student Affairs Council, voted 10 to 8 not to support the "Save Ag Ed" movement.

Students had proposed moving Ag Ed to make room for scheduled construction of a new architectural classroom facility. The faculty of the School of Architecture and Environmental Design supported priority for the new architecture building, although some faculty members were assigned to advise students on studies of the proposed relocation of the building.

Relocation and renovation estimates on the student proposal ranged to over $200,000. Students had suggested seeking contributions from the community and on campus to make possible their project. Senator Donald Grunsky had indicated that he would personally support legislation that might be required provided that the new construction would not be delayed, the funds could be raised by students, and the Cal Poly community would support the project.

Proponents admitted to the planners that their proposal had failed to get support from sufficient students and faculty to demonstrate that they had the campus community behind them.

The demolition of the building will probably occur in August, according to University officials. Bids for construction of the $3.5 million architecture building are scheduled to be opened late July, 1973.

"Our emphasis was on the need for quick action on the 1973 supplemental appropriations bill, which was needed so that students would know in advance just what kind of financial aid would be available to them this fall. I think it is clear at this point," Dr. Kennedy said, "that the concentrated effort put forth by the presidents who represented the more than 300 AASCU member institutions resulted in action that has relieved what was rapidly becoming an emergency situation of many of the nation's university students."

President Kennedy cautioned college and university students about what he foresees as another, related emergency, however. "The recently-approved appropriations bill only assures funding for the student loan and grant programs for the 1973-74 academic year," he said. "The need for monies to cover them during the 1974-75 year still exists and will be every bit as much an emergency if it is not taken care of soon."

He urged students and others who are concerned about the needs of university and college students for financial assistance from federal sources to communicate their concern to their Congressional representatives.
NEW YORK MAN NAMED TO HEAD GRAPHIC COMMUNICATIONS

Appointment of John B. Wordeman of Pittsford, N.Y., as head of the Graphic Communications Department at Cal Poly has been announced by the President, Robert E. Kennedy. Wordeman, who will begin his new assignment on September 1, is currently a member of the faculty and staff chairman of the management division in the School of Printing at Rochester Institute of Technology (N.Y.).

The appointment was recommended by a search committee composed of members of the Graphic Communications Department faculty and by Jon M. Ericson, dean of the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities, which includes the department.

Wordeman holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in printing management from Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh, Pa., and a Master of Science Degree in liberal and applied studies from University of Rochester, and is currently involved in additional graduate study in labor relations and management theory.

He was previously employed by Herbick and Held Printing Company (Pittsburgh) in sales and customer service work, William G. Johnston Company (Pittsburgh) as a production supervisor, and with Metropolitan Life Insurance Company (New York City) as a typographer.

A member of the Rochester Institute faculty since 1966, Wordeman is the author of a number of articles on printing management and has been honored by the International Association of Printing House Craftsmen, and the In-Plant Printing Management Association for his outstanding contributions to the programs of those groups.

Wordeman will succeed Guy H. Thomas, Jr., who has been acting head of the department for the past two years. A member of the Cal Poly faculty since 1968, Thomas will return to full-time duties as a member of the department's faculty in September.

William H. Brown (Director, Architecture and Environmental Design) represented Cal Poly at the annual meeting of the Associated Schools of Construction in Gainesville, Fla., recently. Brown presented a report on Cal Poly's construction engineering degree program and served as a panel and committee member during the four-day conference.

James R. Emmel (Head, Speech Communication), Keith Nielsen (also Speech Communication), and Curtis Gerald (Computer Science and Statistics) participated in a seminar on interdisciplinary "Computer-Based Simulation of Dynamic Systems," which took place early last month in Sacramento. Drs. Emmel and Nielsen are both involved in research to develop computer programming in speech communication.

Maria E. Ortiz (Biological Sciences) has recently learned that she has successfully completed all requirements for her Doctor of Philosophy Degree in radiation biology. The degree was conferred during commencement exercises at Texas Women's University on May 19. Dr. Ortiz has been a member of the Cal Poly faculty since September, 1972.

George Hasslein (Dean, Architecture and Environmental Design) took part in a preliminary meeting of the National Architecture Accrediting Board in Los Angeles and two important professional gatherings in San Francisco last month. While attending the conference of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture, Dean Hasslein was accompanied by Handel Evans (also Architecture and Environmental Design). George Baumgarten (also Architecture and Environmental Design) joined him for the annual convention of the American Institute of Architects.

Mac McRobbie (Head, Industrial Technology) and Laurence F. Talbott (also Industrial Technology) were elected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, during the recent meetings of the California Association of Industrial Technology in Long Beach. A state-wide organization, CAIT includes teacher-educators, university students, and industry representatives interested in the advancement of industrial technology as an aspect of technical management.

Arthur Frietzache (English) represented Cal Poly at the Northern California Renaissance Conference which took place in Santa Clara on May 12. The conference included readings by British Shakespearian scholars Hugh and Velma Richmond, as well as a panel on teaching Renaissance materials.

Robert L. Hoover and Frederick F. Schantz (both Social Sciences) attended the annual Krober Anthropological Society meetings held on May 12 in Berkeley. Schantz presented a paper titled "The California Indian--Anthropological Relationship: A Problem of Communication" during the conference.

Donald P. Grant (Architecture and Environmental Design) presented a paper titled "User Participation in Housing Location Patterns" at the International Housing Symposium, which took place on May 7-9 in Detroit.

William L. Hendricks (Aeronautical Engineering) has been chosen to participate in two programs in engineering and engineering education during the coming summer months. He will deliver a paper on "Maintaining the Interest of the Engineer in His Freshman Year" at the national convention of the American Society for Engineering Education in Ames, Iowa late this month and attend a joint ASEE-National Aeronautics and Space Administration research program in Huntsville, Ala., from June 11 through Aug. 17.

REVISED GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES FOR FACULTY ANNOUNCED

Copies of revised grievance procedures for academic personnel have been distributed to holders of the Campus Administrative Manual as Administrative Bulletin 73-3 according to Larry Voss (Director of Personnel Relations).

The revised procedures were issued recently as Executive Order No. 176 by the Chancellor's Office and became effective on May 16, 1973. One of the revisions provides for a hearing procedure utilizing an off-campus hearing officer in those cases where the grievant has a representative. For those grievants not desiring representation, the hearing is held by a three-member faculty committee.

Additional copies of the new procedures are available for review in the Faculty Reading Room of the Library or a copy may be obtained in the Personnel Office, Adm-110.

SUMMER SCHEDULE FOR "CAL POLY REPORT" WILL BEGIN JUNE 19

This (June 5) edition of Cal Poly Report will be the last regularly scheduled edition of the 1972-73 university year under a publication schedule announced this week by the Information Services Office. Current plans provide for publication every two weeks during the Summer Quarter beginning June 19 and continuing through Aug. 28.

A "back to campus" issue is being planned for Sept. 14, and resumption of the regular weekly publication schedule for the Fall Quarter is planned Sept. 25.

Deadlines for receipt of information for Cal Poly Report will continue to be 12 noon on the Friday before publication during the summer months. Suggested copy, which may be mailed or taken to the Information Services Office, Adm-210, should be typewritten, double-spaced, and bear the name and telephone number of the person providing the information. Information for articles is not taken by telephone.

RECORDS OFFICE WILL REMAIN OPEN ON SATURDAY MORNING

The Records Office will be open until 12 noon on Saturday (June 9) to accept grades for the 1973 Spring Quarter, according to Gerald N. Punches (Registrar). "Although grades are not due until June 12, receiving them as early as practicable before that date will be most helpful," Punches added. Grades should not be sent by mail, but delivered personally by the faculty member concerned.

CORRECTION ON PAYCHECK INSURANCE PLAN ANNOUNCEMENT

The May 29 issue of Cal Poly Report indicated that a special paycheck insurance for clerical employees (SPICE) plan had been made available to university clerical and allied services personnel. Upon checking with California State Employees Association representatives, the Personnel Office has been advised that this plan is not now available to the state university and college employees. Inquiries regarding this matter should be directed to Mrs. Jean Weaver (Insurance Representative, Personnel Office) Adm-110, 546-2236.

Registration for Summer Quarter classes will take place in the Men's Gymnasium on Monday, June 18.
