Nixon orders shakeup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Richard Nixon, given four more years in the White House after the biggest win of his long political career, put his Cabinet and staff on notice Wednesday that he planned extensive changes for his second term.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Reagan said the President wants a formal letter of resignation from all department heads, agency directors and other key appointees before his key Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

He is looking at his East Room sweep, Nixon met for about a half hour earlier with the White House staff and for an hour with the Cabinet before heading for his Key Biscayne, Fla., vacation compound for a long weekend.

Reagan said Nixon would spend four to five days in Florida conferring with his top aides on plans for the new administration, including a massive reorganization of the White House staff and other aspects of the new government.

Reagan said Nixon views the start of the term as a time to ‘reassure his Cabinet and administration and bring to it “new ideas and new thinking.”’ But the press secretary declined to say who would go and who would stay.

The President went to bed at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday morning after spending an hour on the telephone following his nationally televised victory speech on Tuesday. He ‘seemed inspired and happy,’ Reagan said before he walked out of the White House.

The governmental shakeup was approved the start of the term as a time to ‘reassure his Cabinet and administration and bring to it “new ideas and new thinking.”’ But the press secretary declined to say who would go and who would stay.

Harvey’s flicks: No Chi Minh to headhunters

by JOHN TAYLOR

Rich Harvey is a man with many monologues in his past.

First there is the Malayan movie. It is a documentary. American Peace Corps volunteers travel from village to village setting up 4-H clubs.

Then there is a travelling ‘travel’ de force. A 13,000-mile bus tour to 15 countries in Asia, the Middle East, Europe and America.

Harvey is this school’s Peace Corps and VISTA representative. When students start thinking about trying to make the world a better place they go see Harvey.

It would be understating it a bit to say that Harvey knows a little about the world and about making it a better place.

Harvey spent the years 1960 to (continued on page 8)

Bus is bound for downtown

Transportation is available for any student wishing to go to downtown San Luis Obispo Thursday nights.

A bus will depart from Tropicana Village at 7:30 p.m. every Thursday, according to an announcement by the San Luis Obispo Bus Company.

They will be picked up there for the return trip at 9:15 p.m.

According to Lombard, this is the first time a transportation system of this type has been set up in San Luis Obispo.

Lombard said there has been a need for this service for quite some time.

The system is being operated by the University of California Transportation System.

Propositions: winners-losers

by Liane Lucchetta

As San Luis Obispo County goes, so goes the state of California on all but Proposition 18.

A comparison of county tallies from the San Luis Obispo County (A’s) version (with 90 per cent of the votes counted) from UPI in Los Angeles reveals that while Proposition 18, dealing with anti-pollution facilities was defeated here 34,394 to 33,129, it was defeated by 9.7 per cent to 8.1 per cent in the state level.

County measure A, the airport measure was defeated by a total of 27,186 to 19,600.

County measure B dealing with a county ordinance to compel the county to pay its employees a prevailing wage as determined by negotiation or binding arbitration was approved by 23,807 votes while a minority, 19,989, disapproved.

Proposition 7 regarding social services and the presidential primary was approved by a vote of 20,465 versus 15,810 no votes.

On the state level it was approved by 68 per cent to 32 percent. Prop 11 was dropped.

The death penalty, Proposition 17, was defeated by a 51 per cent to 49 percent state margin.

County voters also approved the measure 30,810 to a no vote of 12,461.

Proposition 18, the obscenity question was defeated by 30,777 county voters over 21,947 no votes.

In the state it was defeated by 67.8 per cent of the voters.

State penalties for personal use, cultivation, transportation, or possession of marijuana were not removed. Proposition 19 was defeated by 94.6 per cent of the state voters and 31,279 county voters agreed. Only 17,988 county voters thought that marijuana should be decriminalized.

Proposition 21 to prohibit the coastal zone conservation bill was approved by 31,203 county voters over 21,869 no votes.

In the state it was approved by a 66.3 per cent margin.

Proposition 1 and 2 for bonds to provide for community college health care facilities both passed by an approximate ten thousand margin in the county, Proposition 1 was passed by an 87 per cent of the state voters and Proposition 2 by 80 per cent of the state voters.

There seemed to be little doubt the purpose was to prevent Thieu from introducing the “settlement plan negotiated by the United States without the participation of the Viet Cong” according to the Nixon-Peublicor member La Duc Tho.

Supervisor’s political plans

By Richard Kraus

Superintendent of Public Instruction, speaking about his first direct involvement in politics and his support for the campaign of former professor Ron O’Dell against San Luis Obispo County Supervisor Dan Law.

It was a tough battle, but"
"King John"—who, what, where and why?

Background for the Speech Department's upcoming production of "King John" by William Shakespeare, will be discussed by the director before the first performance.

Robin Lake, director and member of the speech faculty, will address interested students on aspects of the play in a talk to be held at 11 a.m. today in room 220 of the College Union. The three areas of discussion will be: why King John at all? Who and what is King John? and how will the play be presented?

Performance are scheduled for 8 p.m. today, Friday and Saturday in the University Theater. Tickets are $1 for students and $1.50 for the general public and are available at the theater box office on the night of the performance.

Tales of Peace Corps told by Rich Harvey...

1967 in Malaysia as a 6-H organizer. Working with natives only two decades removed from head hunting days, his efforts were essential to agricultural development in an area where 70 per cent of the population worked in agriculture. But it wasn't all work and no play for Harvey. One of Harvey's friends wound up being more than just a friend. Contrary to religious and parental objections he and his wife Sarha were married upon his return to Malaysia two years after his work there was completed.

Harvey spent a year in Laos serving in the International Volunteer Service, an alternative service required as a result of his conscientious objector status. "After Laos," said Harvey, "Malaysia looked beautiful." Three IVS volunteers were killed in communist ambushes while Harvey was there.

"There weren't that many of us in the area so we knew each other pretty well. IVS volunteers were the American connection to the Laotians and the communists couldn't go for it." There were other circumstances to the Laos movie that might make one wonder about the safety of CO status.

"Our houses used to shake at night when they bombed the Ho Chi Minh Trail, but after a while we got used to it." Of his six month, 22,000 mile motorcycle tour of most of the world Harvey speaks in nostalgic euphoria.

"Everyday was a matter of going as far as I wanted to go in any direction I chose. It was beautiful."

Harvey plans to return to Malaysia when he finishes school in June. He maintains his work with the Peace Corps and VIETA on campus manages to keep him active. "While my studies might not be as interesting as some of the work I've done in the past, the people here are as interesting as those in my past."

The New York Camerata, a three-piece group performing contemporary music in the classical tradition, will perform at 4 p.m., Friday in Chumash Auditorium.

Students will be admitted for $1.50 and the general public will pay $2.50. The program is sponsored by the ART Fine Arts Committee. The trio consists of Paula Hatcher on flute, recorder and ethnic flute, Charles Hatcher on cello and electric bass, and Glenn Jacobson on piano, harpsichord and table. All three individuals have very impressive credentials in the music field. Hatcher is a recent candidate for the Kennedy Conservatory in Baltimore, Forbes studied cello and conducted at the Manhattan School of Music and Jacobson studied at Oberlin Conservatory.

Dear Mr. Silva:
I have heard so many stories about rip-offs by Jewelers that I find myself very much on the defensive when it comes to buying jewelry. How can a person be sure he is being treated fairly? How can he possibly tell when he's being told the truth?

Mary D.

Dear Mary,
Psychologists will offer some help here. Your own sixth sense will indicate a warning to you if you will heed it. But, in addition to that, there are ways to check on the ethical character of any given piece of business. Ask around! Check with your fellow students, your local adult friends, your professional acquaintances. Checking on professional and ethical qualifications is a prudent business move in many other areas of interest and concern in your life, e.g. when seeking legal or medical help. Ask not the same when...
That's right, UC Riverside's football team is in first place of the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA).

UC Riverside? I always thought that Cal Poly Pomona—the school everybody likes to beat up. But Riverside wins! Despite losing at Cal Poly, Riverside is at the top with a 4-0 conference record. They are a force to be reckoned with.

Riverside's first conference victory was a 24-18 surprise win. The Titans are an underdog by a different atmosphere. The Conference Association reveals the possibility of a season looking right over the top of their conference table with a wail. Unthinkable! The Titans may not have turned one more non-conference game.

This will be the Mustangs' last weekend outing. But Riveraide presently awaits on the conference table. Two teams don't play each other, so you probably thought this was so.

According to Wayne Wall, CCAA publicity director, Riverside will be on the Mustangs' schedule next season and in following years. As for this season, rest assured that the grinch will not steal the title. Season records are not the sole determinant of the conference champion.

Since all the teams don't play each other, coaches in the conference get together at the end of the year and determine the number one team on the basis of the caliber of schedule. Don't expect UCR—their games this year have been with Whittier, Redlands, Simon Fraser and others.

Besides, there's no way they can beat Northridge Saturday.
