Parking fee tops SAC

A resolution opposing an increase in parking fees on this campus will be introduced as a business item at tonight's Student Senate meeting. The resolution says SAC and individual students on this campus are fighting increased ticket fees and increased fines for violations of parking regulations. The resolution opposes a 10 percent increase in parking fees for the current year and states that it should go into an "administrative student parking fee fund".

The resolution endorses the concept of "locally administering funds derived from parking fees levied on students of an individual campus.' The other stated business item is a request by Trudy Burdick, former United States and Puerto Rican Olympic coach, for student support in his attempts to create a women's track club in the community.

Vietnam culture to be presented

Both Vietnamese students on this campus are presenting a program on the culture of their country Friday, at 8:30 p.m. in Times Lounge. Native costumes will be worn and refreshments typical of the medium will be served for the students to enjoy and learn about Vietnamese culture. Future programs will include folklore, music, and other cultural events.

North Vietnam will recover slowly

Washington (UPI) - Harold Brown, secretary of defense, said today that North Vietnam would recover slowly from the devastation caused by the war between the two countries. The North Vietnamese population has suffered much during the war, he said, and the country will continue to suffer as a result.

Refined inner-tube ride results in police search

A student from this campus decided to ride down the Santa Ana Creek in an inner-tube Tuesday and the San Luis Obispo Fire Department spent the rest of the day looking for him without success.

The unidentified Bannen Glen resident donned an inner tube and jumped into the creek at about 2:30 p.m. and was immediately swept away by the current. On-lookers threw ropes to the victim, but the rushing water either sped the student under. If the latter occurred, the family was strung along the intervals of the creek between Stenner Glen and Prado Hall, the Department deployed. After receiving the call, said Hall, the Department deployed a mandatory meeting of student and faculty members from the college.

The search, the teams then did run across a surfer who had jumped in at Brook Street and rode the current down to Prado Road. The Department finally pulled him out.

The surf was the only person the rescue teams found, though.

The student might have gotten out of the creek and wandered off in a date, but he doubts it. We'll probably have to wait until the water goes down before we find him," he said.

Retired colonel blasts military

The Colonel stressed that while the army moved to decrease the number of black combat soldiers has grown, the number of blacks in the officer corps has fallen to about three percent.

"The only way a black gets into the military, a black gets to go to the officer's rank," he said. "Those who try to get promoted that way to the officer's rank, are most often the whites, not the black race, but the human ones who determined the outcome of the war."
Cambria outing planned for student-faculty rap

Beach cabin sleeping will be one of the events scheduled this weekend at Camp Ocean Pines in Cambria. Thursday, 10 students and 10 faculty members will be taking the week-end trek.

They plan to spend Saturday and Sunday holding inter-disciplinary "tongue" seminars on science and society, group cooking, scenic cabin sleeping, and partaking in ocean walks.

The departure time is 10 a.m. Saturday in front of the student cafeteria. Those persons wishing to attend the activities need only be present at departure time Saturday morning with 80 and a sleeping bag. For further information contact Dave Halfenstein in Science C-10.

Pay more, park less

The increase in the parking fee is due to the construction of such multi-story cars lots at other campuses, according to Robin Basset: "A new law returning half of all campus parking ticket fines to the university system will increase parking spaces. Despairing hunters settle for hunting license. The small print says that the value is decreasing as the cost rises.

Every quarter students dole out 89 for a hunting license. The small print says that the green or red sticker entitles the bearer to join 5,199 others jockeying for a position in one of 3,800 student parking spaces. Despairing hunters settle for green, blue, yellow and red zones, knowing that a $2 fine will be waiting when they return.

It's an old story, though the figures change each quarter. More and more care join the struggle to find fewer and fewer parking spaces.

And at their next meeting the trustees are planning to change one more figure in the numbers game: The 99 fee will jump to $10 per quarter.

That's a small increase when one considers that the fee has remained the same since its beginning several years ago. But, then, each year the 99 sticker has lost some of its ability to assure the student a short hike to his classes. It hardly seems fair to raise a fee without improving service.

If this university were in Los Angeles or some other ultra-urban area, it might receive its due share of parking fee revenue and find multi-level parking structures mushrooming to meet the parking demands. But this is San Luis Obispo and such facilities, even if offered, would seem out of place.

The trustees meet Jan. 23 and 24 in Los Angeles. They will vote to raise the parking fee to $10 unless they are stopped. Pres. Robert Kennedy has taken a stand against the increase. Desperately, he has joined other university student body presidents in protesting the increase.

Tonight Student Affairs Council is likely to pass a resolution against the increase.

What can you do about it?

Write to Karl L. Wente, chairman of the trustees (8670 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, 90036), and tell him what you think of the proposed increase.

Send copies of the letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan and student lobbyist Joe Hay (6000 J St., Sacramento, 95819) to let them know how you feel.

Or drop by the Mustang Daily office (GA 226) and sign a copy of the Student Affairs Council resolution.

Kennedy has said there are few other actions than a parking fee raise that would unite the students, faculty and staff. It is time to show the trustees a united determination against paying more for something that is of curious value at a $9 price.

Leary arrested in Afghanistan

WASHINGTON (UPI)-Dr. Timothy Leary, former Harvard professor who escaped from a California prison in 1972 while serving a sentence for narco-poetry, has been arrested in Afghanistan, the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs said Tuesday.

From simplicity blooms poetry

"I try to capture the richness and beauty of the little things all of us go through in everyday life." This is Dr. John Kerr's explanation of his poetry which will be discussed Thursday at 11 o'clock in room 230 of the College Union. His lecture is the beginning of the Arts and Humanities series for the winter quarter.

An English professor here on campus, Kerr will discuss the poetry he has written between 1966 and the present, along with the concept of voice poetry. "I'm attempting to do away with conventional ornamentation and yet keep the intensity of a distinctly American voice.

Kerr has taught on campus since 1967. A graduate of the University of Michigan and his doctorate at University of Texas. He previously taught at Westminster College in Missouri, University of Missouri, University of Texas, and Louisiana State University.

Kerr's presentation is one of a series in the Arts and Humanities 75-76 which is sponsored by the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities.

He said that a big step forward against military injustice was the recent Supreme Court ruling that it was unconstitutional to force
military cadets to attend church.

"The importance comes from the portion of the ruling that says
it is unconstitutional to make a serviceman commit another unconstitutional act," he said. "If this is so, then it is unconstitutional to hold a ser-
viceeman up to military justice.

Herbert said that the army
often admits that its practices
are unconstitutional, but stresses that they are necessary for discipline.

"The records show that
military discipline is the worst it ever been," he said. "You don't need discipline in a computer-
war. Everything is push-button."

He said that Pres. Nixon is trying to convince the nation that all the dissidents against the war
are just "disturbed individuals."

"Nixon got some enlisted man
who runs a swiftboat up and down
a river all day long to tell everyone he has never seen a war
atrocity," said Herbert. "Hail, I never saw a goddamn swiftboat

But Herbert said that we have all seen the picture of the little

ing terror-stricken down the road. He said we have all seen picture of South Vietnamese officers casually blowing the brains out of captured suspected Viet Cong. And he said we have all let it happen.

Looking back, Herbert said
that if the army had been smart,
they would have kept him
working his last year in the service.

"Instead they put me in a corner in some xerox shop with nothing to do," he said. "So what the hell did I do? What alas? I wrote a book about the military injustice and made copies of it with their own xerox machine. I could have never done it without Westmoreland."

Frosh cagers host Taft

The Colt basketball squad hosts Taft Junior College tonight in a non-league game.

It will be the second meeting of the year between the two clubs, with Mark Humann’s Colts victorious in the first at Taft, 86-85.

Currently riding on top of CCAA play with a perfect 4-0 won by Chris Blake and will be sorely missed by the absence of injured Chris Simmons, Gale League, Riverside.

In stretching their record to 8-3 this past weekend, the Colts defeated UC Riverside and Cal Pomona with little trouble. Riverside fell 78-58, while the Broncos dropped a 64-60 decision.
