POWs to be released on Saturday, hopefully

WASHINGTON (UPI) - U.S. officials said Tuesday they now expect the first group of American prisoners to be freed Saturday — the last day before the initial repatriation deadline.

"We don't have anything definite so far," said one high-ranking Washington official. "But it doesn't look very good for tomorrow, so some time this weekend sounds reasonable.

Officials also said they are uncertain when the first release will take place in North Vietnam or in South Vietnam or in both simultaneously.

The Communists have acknowledged holding 1,200 military and civilian prisoners in South Vietnam, who had been captured at An Loc and perhaps other sites. They have identified 47 POWs in North Vietnam and in Laos, all of whom will be freed in Hanoi.

Washington's uncertainty over the initial release date was echoed in Saigon by the chief of the office of military operations, who said: "There are no definite dates," Michael Gevin, an office staff assistant, explained that comprehensive programs were needed to accommodate the removal of prisoners.

Managua earthquake relief fund to be collected, set by ASI

Managua disaster relief contributions collected at the 18 state universities and colleges will be pooled together here reported ASI Pres. Robin Baggett.

Acting upon a suggestion from three students, Baggett submitted a proposal at a recent CBUC Student Presidents' Association meeting offering ASI as the central coordinator and administrator for relief funds. "The other student presidents liked the idea and a resolution was passed to set up an account here to pool all other funds collected," said Baggett.

Money donated at other university and college campuses will be forwarded to a special account of Student Community Services under the name of "California State Universities and Colleges Managua Disaster Fund."

This university has already raised $100 for relief of earthquake victims in Nicaragua said Rodney Camp, chairman of Student Cititunity Services.

The three students responsible for the idea of consolidating relief funds, Jim Barlow, Hedy Smith and Ernie Evan, have been instrumental in the raising of funds here.

The best avenues of making funds available to the earthquake victims in Managua are now being determined. Help and advice is being sought from faculty members now in Guatemala working on an Agency for International Development mission.
