Ellsberg wins small victory

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Daniel Ellsberg won a small victory at the Pentagon Papers trial Wednesday when the court inferred a sketchy record of the espionage against him.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne ruled yesterday the key volumes of the secret documents introduced in evidence by prosecution are too scattered to exonerate Ellsberg of the accusation its release could have endangered national security.

The court action, however, still left 14 other counts remaining in the indictment of Ellsberg and co-defendant Anthony J. Russo, Jr., who are charged with espionage, theft of government documents and conspiracy.

Byrne denied a motion by defense attorneys which would have stripped all the testimony by Brig. Gen. Paul F. Gorman, witness for the government so far in the trial.

Defense Lawyer Leonard Boudin contended that Gorman had been induced by his Army superiors and advised by prosecutor David Niesen not to talk to defense lawyers before he testified. Boudin said that was contrary to the legal code.

Questioned by Byrne, Gorman said he had made the decision not to be interviewed by 30 lawyers on his own volition although he had discussed the matter with Niesen and the Defense Department.

In refusing to strike out Gorman's testimony to the jury that many sections of the Pentagon Papers could endanger national security, Byrne noted there was no precedent for such an order.

"No, there may be no precedent," Boudin said. "But there is no precedent that says the government can't call people who are not in the defense and have not picked up their permanent ID card while they are on the rolls.

The salary range is $800 to $1200 per month. The amount of time which the job requires varies. A minimum amount is four hours deck duty, three nights per week in the Hall, and two out of three weekends on campus.

Robert Bozich, director of housing, says "the experience is very valuable for the student and has enabled past Resident Advisors to secure better and higher paying jobs after graduation".

The center, a Ralph Nader supported consumer group, has charged the federal government provides fines up to $10,000 and two years in prison for tampering with the odometer of a used car — a practice called "dipping the clock."
I am writing to give all intelligent students of Cal Poly some information about our program called Bhagwat Dharma Discourses. These Discourses are today and Friday, 1-2 p.m. lunch program in College Union Council Chambers, and 7-9 dinner program in Union 211.

The point of it is to gradually develop our full potential; to know ourselves, and to experience pleasure. In the material condition of life, despite so much advancement, we are actually suffering, and we are hardly ever completely free from anxiety.

Also, in modern times, relationships between people have become strained and we become frustrated by our own impatience. All of the above unhappy symptoms are due to a lack of Krishna consciousness. Krishna consciousness means, simply, our original healthy blissful consciousness. Even modern psychological technology has failed to restore people to this natural joyful condition, what to speak of gross material advancements which are always filled with problems.

We do not mean to paint a pessimistic picture because actually every one of us can very easily become purified of those unwanted perplexities of mind, but a little participation in Krishna consciousness, or Bhagwat Dharma Discourses.

There is no need to change our activities or career, or to artificially renounce our possessions. We need simply to perform our regular duties and activities, but in sublime consciousness, full of tangible love and satisfaction.

There is an awesome system of logic, or philosophy behind the Discourses, coming from the famous Vedic literature of India. It is impossible to cover that adequately here but the important thing, I felt, was that students and faculty understand the opportunity of these Discourses.

In the meetings, which I am holding on behalf of my spiritual Master, the full philosophy in depth will be explored, so we invite people to come and be actually happy.

Is this any way to treat a woman?

There are many places that women feel at home. For Susan Bailey, a 5' 5" senior industrial arts major, home is the drafting room and the metal and wood shops. She will graduate this summer, but will stay on to pursue a teaching credential in industrial arts and music.

Her main interests are guitar, flute, piano, sailing, horseback riding, and hardball baseball. What does a female industrial arts major do besides teach? Susan plans to use her training to build her own home someday.

Some days she's not herself.

Square hole cutting.

Ripping a piece of wood.

Surfacing wood.

Hand grinding metal.

Then there are days you can.

New committee to study purpose of student fees

Two members of the Board of Trustees, two members of the Chancellor’s staff, two university presidents and two student body presidents have been recently appointed to form a committee to study the level and purpose of student body organization fees. At the last Board of Trustees meeting in Los Angeles, Jan. 30 and 31, Committee on Finance chairman Robert Horsey formed an investigative committee to study the authorisation of fees as well as the overall validity of student government in California.

Appointed by Willis Edwards, chairman of California State University and Colleges Student Presidents’ Association, were Robert Turner, Associated Student President at California State University, San Francisco, and Robin Baggett, ASI president at this university.

Also appointed from the Trustees were Roy Brenden, president of a university in 1941, and Mrs. Louise Lancaster.

In comparison to student governments operating on other campuses in California, I feel ours represents one where the funding on the whole seems to moot with the approval of most students,” said Baggett.

“I feel, because of the campus I represent, my input will be positive and helpful to justify the work of student government in the state,” he said.

The first meeting of this committee will be within the next few weeks.

Mentor named to ruling body

Vaughn Hitchcock, who has headed up an outstanding collegiate wrestling program at this university for the past 11 years, has been added to the membership of the NCAA Wrestling rules committee.

Hitchcock’s three-year term on the 15-man body begins immediately. He was added to the group as an at-large member. Resignation of high school members from the rules committee created a second at-large opening.

No Californian has served on the prestigious body since 1961 when the late Henry Bone, former coach at U.C. Berkeley, held membership on the rules committee.

Hitchcock’s selection was made at the NCAA meeting in Chicago last month and was announced in Kansas City by the organization.

As a member of the rules group, Hitchcock also will serve on the seeding committee at the NCAA University championships.

in addition to working on the rules and interpretations of them.

For the past six years Hitchcock, a former president of the NCAA College Division Wrestling Coaches Association, has served on the College Division seeding committee. He has guided his Mustangs to five straight College Division championships and six crowns in the past seven years.

In full seasons at the helm of the university’s wrestling program he has guided teams to a dual meet record of 166 wins, 85 losses and 3 ties for an 88.2 winning percentage. His teams have captured 10 straight California Collegiate Athletic Association titles and compiled a record of 108 straight wins over California opponents. His teams have never lost to an in-state rival.

This year his Mustangs currently are ranked No. 1 in the nation in the College Division, a berth that has been a perennial assignment in recent years.
