Assistant Attorney General Roger C. Cramton wanted it would be "frizzily hard" for Congress to enact a bill granting newsman absolute immunity from forced testimony before any court proceedings. Cramton's comment was made to a House Judiciary LOANS AVAILABLE

Disaster area—at last

San Luis Obispo County was declared a disaster area by Pres. Richard Nixon Thursday night despite an Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) recommendation against the classification.

The disaster declaration, which also affects Martin County and the city of South San Francisco, makes homeowners and small businesses eligible for low interest federal loans.

Bulletin board for the Union

A new bulletin board for all university coded or bylawed groups will be established due to the action taken by the University Board of Governors at their recent meeting.

The need for a new bulletin board space was brought to the Board of Governors attention by the Ethnic Programming Board, according to Shari Walter, Chairwoman of the Board of Governors. To facilitate Ethnic Programming Board's needs along with other coded and bylawed groups the Board of Governors voted to place a 414 square foot bulletin board on the wall opposite the Craft Center in the lower level of the Union.

The large board will be divided into sections 8 feet by 5 feet. Mike Walters, Director of Housing and Administration, said that the Board of Governors will establish the procedure for applying for space, and the criteria for choosing applicants. This week the application and procedural guidelines should be completed, and an announcement for application procedures will be made.

Biologists need to learn to write

"Preparing a young biologist in universities and colleges who can write reports decently is a necessity," said George McCammon of the Calif. Dept. of Fish and Game, as he spoke Wednesday evening during Resources Week.

"Many biologists are qualified in researching and solving problems for the Fish and Game Dept. but when it comes to writing out a report to sell our product they just don't do it," said McCammon.

Mccammon cited several basic problems regarding the Fish and Game Dept. Besides lacking qualified biologists now entering the field.

"The first problem is that of money," said McCammon. There are profits to be made off of polluting land and this will always be one of the major problems.

The Fish and Game Dept. does not have enough money to do the job they just can't do it," said McCammon.

Mccammon said several basic problems regarding the Fish and Game Dept. Besides lacking qualified biologists now entering the field.

"People tend to become enamored with a short-term 'easy' thing such as bird life after all, said McCammon. In time their confidence is broken down.

"But what about deer when a reservoir is built in their habitat and they have no place to go," said McCammon. The habitat is even worse when the habitat is permanently disturbed.

"The final problem McCammon stated was the creativity gap between the Fish and Game Dept. and the public.

"People don't tend to believe government agencies anymore, and it is often hard to convince people that we need something when their confidence is broken down," said McCammon.

Student rates won't be rising

State University student fees do not face a drastic increase as had been feared last week. Assemblyman John Vasconcellos (D-Santa Clara County) reported that a recommendation to increase student fees was not part of a recent legislative study of higher education as had been reported earlier this month in a national wire service story.

"There are several areas of confusion. The consultant study, prepared for the Joint Committee on the Master Plan for Higher Education, evaluated several policy alternatives for financing California higher education.

Vasconcellos's statement was in response to a recent wire story which announced that a study on financing of post-secondary education had recommended student fees be increased by as much as $170 per cent at California colleges and universities.

According to Vasconcellos, the study, prepared for the joint Committees by the nonprofit planning agency, lists and evaluates several policy alternatives for financing California higher education.

Vasconcellos said the alternatives include: full-cost pricing, partial-cost pricing, and lower income student charges and variable pricing by level of instruction.

"The study did not recommend any single alternative. Rather it attempted to analyze the probable effectiveness of each approach. It is unfortunate that many newspaper accounts badley misinterpreted this report," Vasconcellos said.

The report stated that the $979 million of this amount would be available for accommodating the 39,000 new students.

According to Vasconcellos, under full-cost pricing, student charges would amount to $64 million in this academic year. The wire service reported that the $979 million would be available for accommodating the 39,000 new students.

"The report suggests that the $979 million would be available for accommodating the 39,000 new students," Vasconcellos said.

According to Vasconcellos, the $979 million is needed to pay the $979 million for students at the University of California and from $189 to $280 at the other public institutions.

Aid for flood victims sought

In the aftermath of the flood, this University is coming to the aid of flood victims. The Student Community Services is sponsoring an emergency relief drive for people in need of clothing, bedding, appliances, and other household goods.

Two collection centers, Union 110 and Graphics Arts 103, will be open from 9 am to 9 pm including weekends. Those people interested in donating articles should take them to one of the centers. Those unable to find time to bring their items to call Ron Kessner, the Student Volunteer, 442-8914, to ask for pick-up.

Reddy Camp, chairman of Student Community Services, said, "In a community as small as ours it is necessary for all of us to help each other. I am confident that San Luis Obispo residents will come to the aid of those damaged by the disaster."
Editor:
Recently AS vice-president Denny Johnson released a list of seventeen programs which in his opinion should be "investigated or discussed." Among them are the Student Community Services, Student Housing, Legal Aid, Fine Arts Committee, E.O.P., and Ethnic Board to name a few.

They are being investigated because Johnson feels that they may be useless or financially wasteful to the AS. A look at the benefits given by groups such as Student Housing Service or Legal Aid will weigh the idea of investigating them to prove them financially wasteful—giving Johnson a mandate to "suggest" to SEC that financial aid be terminated.

Another idea Johnson has developed is handing full authority to SEC in matters of programs, due to wasteful planning on the part of Program Board. What he is presenting is an idea that all AS groups planning activities must turn in a master calendar to SEC at the beginning of the school year. Any additions must be cleared through SEC. This in itself is wasteful—Program Board plans one quarter at a time, to the contrary, at present; and SEC has failed to say over programs anyway. What might be needed here is house-cleaning in Program Board, not full authority in the hands of SEC.

What is being done is a restructuring of the student government's control of student finance, and finance is what makes the world, and the AS go round. Since Baggett and Take two years off this summer.

With the Army ROTC Two-Year Program.

Army ROTC usually takes four years of college. But you can do it in two.
If, for example, you couldn't take Army ROTC during your first two years of college.
Or if you just didn't want to take Army ROTC before.
But now you recognize the benefits.
You start the Two-Year Program by going to our six-week Basic Camp the summer following your sophomore year.
Camp—a little classroom work; some challenging physical training—replaces the Basic Course you would have taken during your first two years of college. You're well-paid for this six-week catch-up.
Then, after camp, you complete your Advanced Course during your junior and senior years.
Maybe you'll decide that the chance to get real management experience earlier than most people will be worth a lot later on.
Maybe you can use the $100 per month subsistence allowance you will get for up to 10 months of each school year.
Maybe qualifying for two careers simultaneously—military or civilian—is insurance against job uncertainties.
Or, maybe the opportunity for an Army ROTC scholarship is exciting.
The Army ROTC Two-Year Program is another chance for a better career, through Army ROTC.
Talk over the Two-Year Program with the Professor of Military Science at your school.

Mustangs top Runners; earn 80-67 upset win

Playing with the quality expected of them, the Mustang basketball squad ridged Cal State-Bakersfield Friday, 80-67 in the Man’s Gym. The cagers traveled 14 hours later to UC Santa Barbara to drop a 97-75 verdict to the Gauchos.

Despite leading the Bakersfield club both at and under 13 minutes in the second half, the Mustangs had to hang on until victory was secured in the final two minutes. The Road Runners fought from a 17-point deficit with 12 and one-half minutes left in the game to trail by four with just over five minutes left in the game, 78-74. But the Mustangs retaliated with John Parker and Joe Lin cnattack, 80-74.

The cagers came out cold in the second half and watched the Mustangs build a 14-point lead within a five-minute span to put the game away. The Mustangs trailed by just two at the half, 39-37.

Friday was a good night for the Colt cagers as they breesed to victory with Parker hitting baskets and Linnemann’s two free throws to secure In the final two minutes.
