Class provides advice

Railroad overcrossing, Gerard said. The new access road will contain a bicycle lane and a pedestrian walkway.

The new entrance is part of a project by the City of San Luis Obispo, the California Division of Highways, and the university which will include extending Highland Drive to Highway 1 and forming a new intersection at the hillside.

This new intersection will include a sophisticated traffic-demand-type signal light and left turn pockets to cut down on the traffic buildup on Highway 1 and reduce accidents.

According to Gerard, after construction begins there will still be access to the farm area but no through traffic will be allowed until the road is completed sometime in November.

The road was financed by $600,000 in State Capital Outlay Funds, according to Gerard, and will be contracted by A.J. Diani, a Santa Maria road moving contractor.

It is hoped the road, which has been in planning for eight years, will help deal with the traffic problem originating from their campus traffic, according to Gerard.

Antivietnam group plans to picket White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the first action of its kind since the Vietnam war began, the antivietnam activists said Friday they would picket the White House to demand a complete U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

Boothermen for the National Peace Action Coalition, one of the nation's largest antivietnam groups, said the picketing would be a symbol of their determination to see the war in Vietnam end and that the country should withdraw from the area.

In addition to demanding a complete withdrawal from Southeast Asia, however, NAPAC said the demonstrators would demand unconditional amnesty for all U.S. prisoners of war, President Nixon for his dismantling of the war on the ground and a total end to all antiwar activities and that they would picket the White House to demand an end to U.S. support for the regime in Saigon.

The accord called for by the Paris peace accord, to the 12-nation peace conference opening in Paris Monday to guarantee the agreement, he said, would be made known after consultations with the French government.

The Paris accord laid down that the two sides set up the neutralization of South Vietnam, Viet Cong and neutrals Council within 90 days. But four weeks were lost as the delegations deliberated over the site of the conference.

Economics talk slated

An expert on Soviet politics and government, and chairman of the Department of Political Science at UC-Davis will give a talk on the problems of the Soviet Union and its economy Thursday in classroom Auditorium at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Dr. Paul E. Zinner will talk on "Possibilities of Reconciliation between U.S. Capitalism and Soviet Communism," according to Capt. Web, Military Science Department.

Zinner was scheduled to lecture here Jan. 10, but he couldn't do it due to illness.

Zinner has lectured and written extensively on Soviet politics. He has authored five books and numerous articles in professional journals and magazines. He is also a regular on several radio programs and is the author of "The World's War" (1965). His latest book, "Secret Soviet Trade" (1970) was written in 1969.
Here is a more realistic advertisement for a second home forest subdivision.

There is a definite need for a more realistic advertisement for a forest subdivision. This subdivision, called High Mountain Club, is located in the National Forest, just 37 miles from LA, and offers a pristine community for mountain men and placers. The subdivision company has opened up High Mountain Club to the public.

Here is a more realistic advertisement.

New construction seen as a 'lost opportunity'

Editor:

This paper carried a front page article on the new School of Architecture building to be constructed this fall. It made reference to an environmental impact study put before the board of council which cleared without the slightest problem. There is one detail, however, which I believe should not be overlooked. The first major structure on campus, the "Old Ag Ed," will be demolished to make room for the new facility.

Normally, of course, the removal of a somewhat sub-standard building would be of little consequence. In this particular case, however, it is clear that we must take a second look. As we are beginning to discover that this country is on the edge of an energy and resource crisis, we must think twice before going through the old cycle of build and destroy, build and destroy.

L.A. County Supervisor Kenneth Hash wrote a letter to the Los Angeles Times, in 1981, a tradition he has kept every year since.

In his first letter, Hash complained that autos were causing smog and that something should be done. Detroit's reply asserted that auto emissions are "disintegrated" into the atmosphere and are not a pollution problem. The statements are directly cut and try, and should be just the same bull.

Do you need information for a term paper on an ecological subject? Feel free to use the Ecology library in Union 110, across from the architecture building. There are several booklets and loose-leaf binders crammed full of information on many ecological topics.

Consumers lose again

Bruce Patroovsky

On a more serious note, Ford Motor Company was recently found guilty of producing cars which fail to meet pollution requirements, and then doctoring up the tests so that the cars "passed." Ford was fined $1 million for this instance of the law. Wow! Of course, this time will just be passed on to the consumer. A fine to a major corporation is nothing.

What was really needed is to put some of the executives of Ford behind bars. If you break the law, that's where you'll be. Why should corporations be any different?

Matmen take 11th title; two Mustangs honored

Mustang wrestlers captured eight of 10 individual titles Friday night to earn their 11th straight CCIA conference championship. In addition to the conference title, 10-pound Larry Morgan was named the tournament's "Most Valuable Wrestler" and Mustang coach Vaughan Hil- dorsch the CCIA's "Coach of the Year."

Morgan posted an easy 11-4 decision over Fuller's Bob Manly in the championship bout. The senior had a pair of pins. The first came over Bakersfield's Doug Porter in 40 seconds and again at the time the second over Pomona's Bob Pederson in just 40 seconds. Morgan posted an easy 11-4 superior decision over Fuller's Greg Hartslar in just 40 seconds and again at the time the second over Pomona's Bob Pederson in just 40 seconds.

A penalty point for stalling proved costly for Fullerton's Mike Finkle. Earlier West won at 114 when Gary Anderson decisioned Glenn McBride over Bakersfield's Doug Porter 11-4 to win the 154-pound championship. Anderson then added a near falls as he dominated the pinning Riverside's Paul Hilliard to win the 154-pound championship. West had built a 7-4 lead for the title. West had built a 7-4 lead for the title.

Frank Barnhart posted a 9-0 decision over Puller's Doug Hillard to win the 114-pound crown. Both grapplers reached the finals by defeating Ramos, for the second straight year to claim the heavyweight title. The score was 7-4.
