New Community center approved by Chamber

by JUDITH BHERARD

The general concept of a community center to play host to the performing and fine arts, civic functions, conventions and trade shows was endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors April 18.

The proposed structure's main building would contain seating for approximately 1800 people, and according to the Chamber, would be conveniently located, "but outside the San Luis Obispo city limits."

In their statement, the Chamber board said, "A community center that would include the necessary facilities for conventions is one of the most urgently needed civic facilities."

The board also stated that such a facility would allow the city to attract smaller conventions each year, whose delegations create "generous economic benefits." With no undue strain on resources.

The plans for such a community center were presented to the Chamber of Commerce by Jack Fabbrl, the business and financial consultant for the Civic and Fine Arts Association. According to Fabbrl, the concept of the center includes a long-range program of construction to eventually encompass the various functions.

Although the discussions with city and county officials and other entities are merely formalized than in the last several years, Fabbrl stated that the negotiators are in the "preparatory stages only, with definite plans as to the site or construction. Fabbrl said, "This is not to say that a decision will not be made after the April 17 election." But there is nothing decided at this point.

Cuesta College officials have been approached as to the feasibility of coordinating use of a proposed auditorium at the community college for both community and community civic activities. Dr. Martin Eisenhoffer, president of Cuesta College, stated that he had met with Fabbrl to discuss the plans for the auditorium. Eisenhoffer said that he was not aware of any (continued on page 9)

Chopper gun demonstration at Poly Royal

The Industrial-Technology Society will offer Poly Royal visitors a change of pace this spring. The chopper gun Demonstration will be given at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesdays at the University of California Polytechnic Center.

In his "Zarathustra's Prologue," Nietzsche states that the Christian religion and morality inhibits man's creative spirit and forces him to become an uncreative conformist depending on the afterworld for his work motive.

Dr. Rosenthal, before joining the school's faculty, was a high school teacher in the state of Washington where she earned three degrees. She completed a doctorate at the University of San Diego.

The program will be free and open to the public.

Review board on SAC slate

A resolution to abolish the administration's Review Board will be presented to Students, Inc. for approval. The Associated Students have requested that a "Students' Bill of Rights" be included in their slate for the election tonight.

Dr. Bianca Rosenthal will discuss the impact of German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche on Western thought at 11 a.m. Thursday in Room 230 of the Union.

Feminist talks Thursday night about liberation

A multi-talented woman who manages to be a successful generalist in a specialized world will speak at 7 p.m. Thursday in Chumash Auditorium.

A mother and artist, the founder of the Joyful World Press and also a member of the National Organization for Women (NOW), Shirley Borchers will speak on "Sex Roles: Berkeley vs. Human Liberation."

A dedicated proponent of "individualism and the freedom of choice with respect to various lifestyles," she claims that the concept of acceptable options for women is the key to the liberation of men.

The speaker is sponsored by the Department's Forum Committee. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Visiting school will perform symphony here

The Elgin High School Symphony Orchestra will perform at 11 a.m. today in Chumash Auditorium. Admission is free and the public is invited.

The Elgin, Ill., group, directed by John Hiatt, will be here as part of an Easter holiday performance in Southern California. The group has already performed in Austria and Germany.
Early worship on this campus

An inter-denominational service will be held in the auditorium—civic center building Sunday morning.

The contemporary service will include singing and a message by Dr. Mark Hanna of the Philosophy Department of the university. All students are invited to participate in this service.

The jazz-rock duo of Jon Mark and Johnny Almond will perform in the Men's Gym, Saturday, April 26 at 8 p.m.

The two first played together on the John Mayall album "Turning Point." Mayall has been noted for discovering and playing with some of the finest jazz and rock musicians performing today. The band which played on the "Turning Point" album is a good example. Mark and Almond found a common musical ground which has since expanded in the new band.

Before meeting Mayall, Mark had worked with Marianne Faithfull and the Rolling Stones. He wrote many compositions for Miss Faithfull as well as accompanying her on the road. Mark writes most of the music for the new group in addition to playing lead guitar and singing.

Johnny Almond, meanwhile, holds down the Women's Liberationist baritone, tenor, alto, and bass, as well as bari, alto, and oboe flute and viola. In the mid-40's, he established himself as one of England's top session men, playing with many of the top English bands that required a saxophone.

The remainder of the band consists of Dennis Richard on drums, Ken Craddock on keyboards, Colin Gibson playing bass and Geoff Condon on horns.

Women's Rights Almond will be the extra added attraction, highlighting an evening of jazz and rock.

Reserved seats will be $6.50 for students and $4 for the public. General seating will be $3.25 for students and $2 for the public. Tickets may be purchased at Brown's Music Store, King and Queen Street, the University Union Information Desk and all stereo outlet stores. The show is sponsored by the A.S.I. Concert Committee.

Women's Liberationist

Women's rights advocate, Shirley Bocaccio, will speak Thursday, April 18, at 8 p.m. in Chumash Aud. The free presentation is entitled "Sex Roles, Stereotypes vs. Human Liberation."

Mrs. Bocaccio, who terms herself a "rational feminist," joined the National Organization of Women (NOW) two years ago as the result of "a deep feeling that women have to organize" before any ideas can be implemented. Her part in this is to help raise consciousness to make people aware of the attitudes and issues concerned in the movement.

She is also involved in designing and writing books for young children. According to Mrs. Bocaccio, most characters in children literature are victims of sexism. She has written a non-sexist children's book "Penelope and the Mussels" which she calls "A Feminist Children's Book Dedicated to the Liberation of Children."

The Escape

Ever wandering around the U.U. with nothing to do? Do you want to go camping but lack a tent or stove? Do you want to find out where you can go for a day hike in the local area? Any of these questions is reason enough to visit the "Escape Route."

The Escape Route, (U.U. 104) is managed by students wanting to help other students find out what backpacking and the great outdoors is all about. Open weekdays from 10-3 it serves three important purposes. First it provides the students with outdoor equipment at super-reasonable rates so they can get a feeling for the outdoors without spending a fortune. Secondly, the Escape Route has an extensive map and information center covering California and most of the northwestern states. Finally the ER is the trip planning center for Outings Committee, and info on any upcoming trip can be picked up here.

of holding such gatherings,
Bryant said.

Two members of the Cuesta College Governing Board have been appointed to continue the discussions of an auditorium. Bryant said that meetings will begin in the first part of May. Pointing out an economic reality,
Bryant stated that until concrete financial arrangements were made for the construction of an auditorium, "no plans are serious."
