Cuesta theatre will stage play next weekend

"Butterflies Are Free," the Leonard Gerse story which made its film debut last year, will be staged on stage by the Cuesta College Inter-Net Theatre Company June 1, 2, 3 and June 8, 9, 10.

According to company manager Roger Castle, "The Gerse story is about a young man making the break from an overprotective mother to warm, tactful, and delightfully humorous." Members of the cast include: Richard Oates, Roger Smith, Carol Sampiero, Debbie Sanberg, Phyllis String, Anne Waters, and Pauline Ulrich.

Tickets are available at $1 for general admission and $1.50 for students. Purchase from Bookstore. Reservations can be made by calling (805)434-8747 after school hours. Curtain time is 8 p.m. for all performances.

SEC gripes about SAC's budgeting cuts

Disapproval of the Student Affairs Council handling of next year's budget was expressed in the Finance Committee's report at Monday's meeting.

Tim Partch, music board representative, said the band and athletics teams can't be expected to perform competitively when their food allowance is cut. SAC voted to lower the food allocations in budget requests from $1 to $3 per day at their meeting Wednesday night.

Partch went on to say he couldn't see Educational Opportunities Program $50,000 in All funds when they receive money from the state also. He said if the band could also get money from the state he could accept EOP claims for All funds.

During the discussion AIS Pres. Robin Baggett stressed that SAC's authority to veto any part of the budget after SAC has acted on it. An attempt earlier in the semester to limit SAC's veto power to program affairs failed in SAC.

The motion to meet June 1 at 3 p.m. to evaluate the budget after SAC has completed reviewing it.

Before the budget discussion, Baggett said some advisor has been reached with Joe Harper to reduce the number of complimentary passes given to the booster club. Dave Offield, AIS president, said there was a demand for seats not yet acquired but will increase in the next few years, placing a premium on all seats.

SEC approves EOP increase

by ROBERT TERRILL

An amendment to double next year's budget for the Opportunity Program was approved by Student Affairs Council Wednesday night.

The figure was raised to $80,000 following consideration of five separate motions.

Mike Hurtado, an AIS student, said he did not understand the opposition to EOP:

"If we don't have this money, we wouldn't be in this room begging for this damn money. We don't like to beg, but we need this money for survival."

Pence Ruds, who is seeking clarification of moratorium on facility use

A clarification of the university president's standing order on the use of campus facilities was given to the Student Affairs Council Wednesday night.

James Landreth, university director of Business Affairs, explained his assignment from Pres. Robert E. Kennedy to review the policy, procedures, and cost of organizations using state-owned university facilities. Landreth said a committee of administration officials and students are accepting the review and presenting a report to Pres. Kennedy as soon as it is complete.

A moratorium was placed on the use or the commitment to use state-funded building space pending the committee's report to Pres. Kennedy, according to Landreth.

The moratorium affects events for which admission is charged, or a donation is taken in lieu thereof, or in which students here constitute less than 10 per cent of the participants, Landreth said.

Landreth said participants are performers, players, and busi. According to Landreth the moratorium was declared to facilitate the review.

Landreth said there were three events which came to his attention:

- The use of Ratcliff's Stadium in Fresno by an off-campus (Fresno State) organization and the fact that SAC has not approved the Western Programming Committee's moratorium, according to Baggett.

- Uncertainty concerning facilities use fees here next year was another factor discussed by Landreth.

- In considering the increased projection for Athletics Income, Finance Committee Chairman Graham, 8AC representative, said people would be eating anyway and did not see why AIS should pay for it.

Opportunity cut was based on providing adequate meals for athletics and partially reimbursing students participating in AIS activities.

The motion passed.

TRUSTEES MEET

Action stalled

Legislation abolishing mandatory activities fees at the California State University and Colleges was not opposed by the trustees, during their May 25 and 26 meeting.

According to AIS Pres. Robin Baggett, the trustees did not accept the CSUC President's Association opposition to Assembly Bill 189. The trustees only agreed to ask the legislature to postpone action on the bill until the trustees receive a committee report at their November meeting.

"If this passes, it will mean an end to student services," said Baggett.

In other action, the trustees delegated authority to each campus to set differentiated parking fees, according to Baggett.

"As long as we meet an arbitrary figure which the Chancellor sets we can select any opportunity."

In an attempt to free $3000 for athletics, Jon Baggett, director of Business Affairs, previously considered. The file on facility use was based, in part, on the programming motion and political editorialising rules. Dr. George L. Harper, a candidate for supervisor in a local election, alleged that during KRY's October 31 show but chose not to avoid himself of the opportunity.

Clarification of moratorium on facility use

A clarification of the university president's standing order on the use of campus facilities was given to the Student Affairs Council Wednesday night.

James Landreth, university director of Business Affairs, explained his assignment from Pres. Robert E. Kennedy to review the policy, procedures, and cost of organizations using state-owned university facilities. Landreth said a committee of administration officials and students are accepting the review and presenting a report to Pres. Kennedy as soon as it is complete.

A moratorium was placed on the use or the commitment to use state-funded building space pending the committee's report to Pres. Kennedy, according to Landreth.

The moratorium affects events for which admission is charged, or a donation is taken in lieu thereof, or in which students here constitute less than 10 per cent of the participants, Landreth said.

Landreth said participants are performers, players, and busi. According to Landreth the moratorium was declared to facilitate the review.

Landreth said there were three events which came to his attention:

- The use of Ratcliff's Stadium in Fresno by an off-campus (Fresno State) organization and the fact that SAC has not approved the Western Programming Committee's moratorium, according to Baggett.

- Uncertainty concerning facilities use fees here next year was another factor discussed by Landreth.

- In considering the increased projection for Athletics Income, Finance Committee Chairman Graham, 8AC representative, said people would be eating anyway and did not see why AIS should pay for it.

Opportunity cut was based on providing adequate meals for athletics and partially reimbursing students participating in AIS activities.

The motion passed.

SAC approves EOP increase

by ROBERT TERRILL

An amendment to double next year's budget for the Opportunity Program was approved by Student Affairs Council Wednesday night.

The figure was raised to $80,000 following consideration of five separate motions.

Mike Hurtado, an AIS student, said he did not understand the opposition to EOP:

"If we don't have this money, we wouldn't be in this room begging for this damn money. We don't like to beg, but we need this money for survival."

Ponce Ruds, who is seeking clarification of moratorium on facility use

A clarification of the university president's standing order on the use of campus facilities was given to the Student Affairs Council Wednesday night.

James Landreth, university director of Business Affairs, explained his assignment from Pres. Robert E. Kennedy to review the policy, procedures, and cost of organizations using state-owned university facilities. Landreth said a committee of administration officials and students are accepting the review and presenting a report to Pres. Kennedy as soon as it is complete.

A moratorium was placed on the use or the commitment to use state-funded building space pending the committee's report to Pres. Kennedy, according to Landreth.

The moratorium affects events for which admission is charged, or a donation is taken in lieu thereof, or in which students here constitute less than 10 per cent of the participants, Landreth said.

Landreth said participants are performers, players, and busi. According to Landreth the moratorium was declared to facilitate the review.

Landreth said there were three events which came to his attention:

- The use of Ratcliff's Stadium in Fresno by an off-campus (Fresno State) organization and the fact that SAC has not approved the Western Programming Committee's moratorium, according to Baggett.

- Uncertainty concerning facilities use fees here next year was another factor discussed by Landreth.

- In considering the increased projection for Athletics Income, Finance Committee Chairman Graham, 8AC representative, said people would be eating anyway and did not see why AIS should pay for it.

Opportunity cut was based on providing adequate meals for athletics and partially reimbursing students participating in AIS activities.

The motion passed.
Non-Christian says Jesus is more than item

Editor: Petie Evans and T.W. Spowers have expressed personal opinions that may differ from those of their readers.

One of the things I have noticed is that if you are not a Christian, you don't possess the vast knowledge and understanding that will be needed for the remainder of your life.

As far as I know, the statement that Jesus is the son of God is not a reliable one. I'm not sure if my beliefs are realistic, but I do not consider them to be a reliable one.

I am not aware of the numerous claims that no more than a marketable consumer item is Jesus.

As far as I know, the statement that Jesus is the son of God has not been substantiated by any reliable evidence.

I am not aware of the numerous claims that no more than a marketable consumer item is Jesus.

I am not aware of the numerous claims that no more than a marketable consumer item is Jesus.

I am not aware of the numerous claims that no more than a marketable consumer item is Jesus.
If you had been on the corner of Howard and Speer in San Francisco at 10 a.m. last Sunday, you would have thought that a riot was happening. But no, it was 4,000 plus men, women, young and old, running in the San Francisco Examiner's 63rd running of the Bay to Breakers Race.

Thirty-five minutes after the start, Ken Moore of Oregon had finished the 7.8 mile race. For the next 3 1/2 hours, runners of all ages continued to cross the finish line at the Cliff House.

Among the finishers were members of Cal Poly's faculty, cross-country team and wives of the runners.

Top finisher for Cal Poly was Vince Engel, finishing 1st in 29.89 minutes and who's wife, Isabel, finished 31st.

Mrs. Cheryl Bridges finished first in the women's for the second year in a row in 18:31.

John Beaton of Cal Poly was just barely defeated by Bill Clark to finish 37th.

Photos and Story by David Esposto

Travel expenses furnished by Readers Digest Travel Research Grant

Mrs. Cheryl Bridges was first woman to finish and 181st overall. Mrs. Bridges is the wife of Cal Poly Coach Larry Bridges.

Vince Engel finished first for Cal Poly and 1st overall.

For those who didn't make it to the end, the Red Cross was always near.
Ever wonder who owns those personalized license plates that are becoming evermore popular, and why?

While driving around the campus and community last week, I discovered some rather interesting plates, belonging to some rather interesting owners.

Assuring them that I was a reporter for the GLASS EYE and not an undercover agent for the sheriffs Dept. looking for subversive license plates, I found some unique answers and subjects for my questions and probing camera.

Steve Stagnaro (right) explains that his plates were a birthday present from his parents. He says “S STAG” is also his own personal ego trip.

Jeff (Grobo) Weaver, who is a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity and resides up at 1761 Monterey St., says that “YITBOS” is a secret fraternity word which he is not at liberty to explain.
The Spanish word for wolf is “lobo”; hence “LOBO 1” for Suzanne Wolfe (right) who says she now has no trouble remembering her license number. Her husband’s car says “LOBO 2.”

So... even though some people may be too to remember their own number, there must be some to the whole idea, because now I want one on Fame and fortune. Or "just gettin' my kicks."

Sometimes it seems that these are the only things that motivate people anymore. The highly tangible rewards of money and success, or the sensual rewards of the more hedonistic life, often tend to become the sole yardsticks by which we gauge our achievement.

Yet every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 11 o'clock a handful of volunteers find seemingly immeasurable rewards by giving a little of their time and care.

It's during that hour that handicapped children from the Chris Jepson School in San Luis Obispo receive swimming therapy in Poly's Crandall Pool under the careful supervision of these volunteers.

The program was started in March 1972 as the Senior Project of a Poly student, John Rutherford, and at that time was run on a volunteer-only basis. Now the program has gained a boost with the addition of students from the PS 189 classes who use it as a lab.

But each year a new volunteer has stepped in to head the program and keep it running. This year the program has been headed by Mike Virgil.

What motivates these people to give of their free time, and what keeps them coming back?

"I really like it. I like working with kids, and I teach swimming in the summer," says Gayle Braun, a volunteer with the program for about a year now.

"The kids are really receptive; they appreciate the fact that we're trying to help. And they always remember your name. As long as the kids come, I'll be here."

That's what it's all about. Giving the gift of giving; and look at these rewards.

"As long as the kids come, I'll be here."

Casey Dunham, with Gary in tow, stops to give Cody a helping hand.

Stephanie Karr gives Tony some reassurance.

Mutual trust is important in getting a positive response.

"With open arms, Mary Hunt encourages Cody to swim with the aid of a life preserver."

"Joseph Barnes guides Joey as he pushes a swim board under his own power: big smiles for a job well done."

Story and Photos by Mike Hodgson
Ag Ed’s fate still unknown

Administration support to help save the Ag Education Building was sought by the Ad Hoc Committee to save Ag Ed.

The Ad Hoc committee presented a revised proposal last Thursday to the Campus Planning Committee in hopes of gaining their support. The Planning Committee postponed final action till their June 1 meeting.

The revised proposal which saves the new building in its original location and moves the Ag Ed building, was presented by Guillermo Ariscorreta and Bruce Dallal. The original proposal was a move both the Ag Ed building of the planned site of the new architecture structure by a few feet.

According to Ariscorreta, this new proposal removes any suggestion that saving Ag Ed would delay the construction of the new building.

Ariscorreta said, “in no way are we opposed to the new building. Not even to any delays in its construction.”

The Ad Hoc proposal was basically to move the Ag Ed building to a new temporary site till a new foundation could be built. The cost of moving the building according to Ariscorreta, was $14,700. The cost of construction of a new foundation would be $38,000.

The Atlanta House Movers in Hayward estimated the moving cost and the foundation estimate was given to Ariscorreta by Peter R. Phillips, Facility Planner for the campus.

The Ad Hoc Committee was given a half hour at the Planning Committee meeting to present their proposal. Following the presentation, President Kennedy related to the group what efforts he had made in trying to get private funding for a museum on the campus.

At the meeting, Wallace Arendt, the Master Plan Consultant Architect, said he felt the Ag Ed building was not worth saving. It was his professional opinion that the building has no particular merit.

The members of the Ad Hoc Committee feel that the school can have both buildings and that the added lab space alone would justify moving Ag Ed.

Clarity of freeze...

(continued from page 1)

The Clarification of freeze, needed use fee. Certain economically disadvantaged children are being admitted free on the basis of scholarship, and the profits will go to a widows and orphans fund.

Questions from SAC members concerned placing a moratorium on the University Union as an answer to Pres. Kennedy’s request. The moratorium was raised.

Shari Walters, chairwoman of the University Union Board of Governors, said that in the final analysis the Union belongs to the state, and board thought this action would not be in the best interests of the ASI.

Film portrays 130th birthday of Bahai Faith

On May 31, 1844 in Tehran, Iran, a young man by the name of Bab announced his mission as a prophet of God and told of a new age for mankind. His revelation marked the birth of the Bahai Faith.

To commemorate the 130th anniversary of the birth of the Bahai Faith, the Bahai Club will present a film Friday, in Union Hall during the college hour. The film presentation will last throughout the day.

Admission is free and campus members of the Bahai Faith will be present during the entire day to answer questions and to pass out information.

Year-end music concert set to culminate quarter

An ensemble recital of varied music will be performed by several brass groups, woodwind groups and vocalists May 29 at 11 a.m. in Music Speech and Drama Hall.

The short concert is a culmination of the College Hour Music Program of free concerts. The performance will last about 40 minutes. A 14th century Tenorata will begin the program with two brass quintets in different corners of the room alternately playing so they may talk back and forth.

Other groups performing include the Clarinet Quartet performing Interlude, the Bruck Quartet doing Variations on a Negra folk song, two women singing Alma Dei-Cora and Gianini Schiachi, Two Impressions for Horns performed by the French Horn Ensemble, the Party Quartet playing Grand Quartet and the Bruck Quintet performing Symphony for French Choir.

This is the only recital this year and is the culmination of the quarter’s activities for many of the small groups in the Music Department. All of the members of the small groups are also involved with the larger groups of the department.

Experienced teachers of English as a second language are being sought for a special summer program in San Luis Obispo, July 23 - August 20. Qualified applicants will be interviewed by program director, Saturday, May 26 and Sunday, May 27, 10:00 a.m. to noon at Stoner Glenn, 1080 Foothill Blvd. Or contact Charles Brody, English Language Services, West Los Angeles, C.A. 90024, (213) 474-6547.
Spikers go to Modesto for California Relays

Selected members of the Mustang track team will line-up for the NCAA college division track and field championships set for Tuesday when they travel to Modesto Saturday for the California Relays.

Competing in the Relays will be 800 man Neil Kahle; high jumper Raynaldo Brown, coming off a first place finish in last week's California Collegiate Athletic Association championships; Dave Hamer in the pole vault, who will try and come charging with Beaton are coaches Jim Crabbe (left) and Larry Bridges (right) along with second-place finisher Mike Brittain (90.8). A total of 10 competitors braved the early-morning cold.

John Beaton (white shirt) catches his breath after winning the eight-mile Poly Loop (7 Thursday morning with a time of 47:18. Chatting with Beaton are coaches Jim Crabbe (left) and Larry Bridges (right) along with second-place finisher Mike Brittain (90.8). A total of 10 competitors braved the early-morning cold.

Sports

TRACK—at California Relays, Saturday, all day, Modesto, at Von's meet, Sunday, Los Angeles Coliseum.

CONCOURS D'ELEGANCE—Concours d'Elegance, Sunday, 10 a.m., Santa Rosa Park, sponsored by the El Camino Foreign Car Club.

CONCOURS D'ELEGANCE

Exotic cars displayed

Pierce-Arrows and Cordes may sound like men's shirt and paint ensemble, but to members of the El Camino Car Club, these words are names of vintage cars to be displayed in its car exhibition at Santa Rosa Park.

Beginning at 11 a.m., Concours d'Elegance car show will exhibit imported and domestic, classic antique, sedan or unusual cars to be judged by their condition and degree of restoration.

Concours chairman John Davis said that the show provides an excellent opportunity for him to display his 1973 Saab sedan with modified heavy duty suspension.

According to Davis, Concours d'Elegance, or its English translation, course of elegance, originated in Paris in the 1900's. Cars would be displayed on the green lawns in the middle of France's finest race tracks. In case the cars fail to hold the women viewers' interest, a summerwear fashion show will take place at 6 p.m. on the display grounds.

An entry fee of $7.00 will be charged for each restored car to be displayed while un-restored car owners will pay $6 to enter.

MUSTANG CLASSIFIEDS

Wheels

mustang classifieds

MUSTANG CLASSIFIEDS

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds

Wheels

mustang classifieds