CONCERT REVIEW
Crowd exhibits disappointment in Mandel concert last Saturday night

The night started off on the wrong foot. Scheduled to begin at 8:00 p.m., the music, if you could call it that, didn't start until 9:00. This might not have been too bad, if quite a few people hadn't walked out after the first fifteen minutes or so. They must have had a premonition of what was to come.

The problems with the sound system didn't help either. The vocalist of the group Pure Food, Mandel's accompanists, kept requesting the monitors to be turned up for Mandel and just as himself. Nobody seemed to heed him though, and the concert went on. The look of disgust and injection never seemed to leave their faces.

It got to the point where the entertainment coming from the audience was giving Mandel some tough competition. One fellow, one of the few who seemed to enjoy the music, stood up and sang through the whole set. Someone else kept giving such a good impression of a bird that the people were doing the same, and Mandel was looking for an aerial attack.

Looking back on the concert as a whole, it wasn't surprising to find out that the Concert Committee, who sponsored the event, lost money on the investment. A total of 49 tickets were sold, at prices of $6.00 for students and $8.00 for others. An estimate showed that the cost of the event was up a couple of hundred in the red.

If it were my decision, I'd simply forget to pay the group the difference. That's illegal, though.

On the whole, the concert of the crowd was good, taking into account when they had assessed a new concert hall. I really don't think they received the music they expected. The concert was approximately half of what was walked out would seem to testify to that.

Continental Singers will display talents tonight

The Continental Singers and students will present a concert of contemporary Christian music at 4:30 p.m. tonight in Chamar Hall in the Union.

The group will offer an exciting selection of concert anthems, spiritual and folk adaptations, interdenominational and contemporary gospel music. Dally Horton, an 18-year-old soprano at Tabor College in Kansas, will be the featured soloist. A native of Alliance, Kansas, she is an "A" student, as well as a performer in campus arts programs. The current tour is her first with the Continental Singers.

In 1971, Miss Horton was selected as one of six students from her school to be in the All-District Chorus and in 1972, as one of four to be a part of the All State Chorus. A fine soloist as well, she has performed for numerous churches, civic clubs, banquets, and variety shows across the state of Kansas.

Bruce McCallum, who heads the local sponsoring committee for the concert, said the group will feature the area premiere of "The Apostles" a dynamic musical witness on the life and ministry of the Apostle Paul.

The 50 member choir and accompanying 15-piece orchestra are in the midst of a 78 day tour of 30 cities in 17 states, singing at various ground levels throughout the structure. A unique feature will be the structural and electrical elements exposed as part of the architectural design. The architecture is by Burris and Smith of Monterrey.

Summer Mustang ends

This is the last issue of Mustang, the student newspaper for the Summer Quarter 1973. Mustang Daily will resume publication on August 27 to 30, but will be on a bi-weekly schedule for Summer Quarter students and faculty.

Summer grades

Students who want their summer quarter grades mailed by their home address, should send their request to the Registrar's Office, Administration 128 before August 31, 1973.

Apathy at 'straight' school
Karen Fox Olsen

The calendar tells us that soon summer will come to an end but for those of us that have battled this long, dragged out quarter it seems like the partying has hardly begun.
I took the easy route this summer—only 11 units of classes that I hoped would be pure enjoyment. I enjoyed the tranquility, studied my state's history and joyment. I partaked the French Is, Californian. I soon discovered that I hoped would be pure entertainment. Humboldt State was to catch the Redwoods to grow it takes much discouragement and get a heavy case of the summertime blues. I sometimes I've gotten discouraged and get a heavy case of the summertime blues. I had such pleasant and beach-like remarks that occasionally come digressions that happen too frequently. I'm fairly certain that I would have trouble adjusting to a "straight" school anyway. Last year I participated in an innovative, "free" type school which seemed perfectly suited to my style of learning. The program is an experimental part of Humboldt State's way to fulfill general education requirements in a different way. And I had a great time. There was real beauty on the main campus. Let's face it, there is always some every when learning is fun. We went camping, took field trips and held small intriguing classes. The school was only 18 students as I got to know everyone on an intimate basis, and that's what school is all about. I wish you could have seen our garden, our newspaper and the beautiful woodsculptures.

"The people there were sad, but they accepted the fact that this was the way," U.S. Embassy air attaché, Col. David H.E. Opfer after an accidental bombing of Noah Lewis, Cambodia.

The night silence of San Luis Obispo has been interrupted by detonations and choppers flying by. It is a minimized Vietnam war, sense death.

The war is over, for us. What have we gained? A war that has lost one president, has become the property of another. It has taken a combined force of the congressional and judiciary broken arms of our government to end this madman and his secret war.

There is no reason for him to remain in office (or his statue). He has shown no integrity, little honor (a word that he is made secret use of). Investigations by the government that have been closed (Kent State) are reopened, explored in the true judicial light for their closure is still a question. The world has been turned upside-down, as one would add, by America and we owe one man. God save him.

Engineer need

EARTH NEWS—Only 5 years ago America college students began attending engineering careers in droves. That was because of all layoffs in engineering firms and the widespread belief that this action had an overwhelming wave of engineers. But now, chiefly because of that reaction, the country is facing a dire shortage of engineers within the next years.

For those of us that have battled this long, dragged out quarter it seems like the partying has hardly begun.

Students help nomads

Relief for famine-starved nomads of Western Africa is being provided by members of an African History class.

The 31 students in African History 282 are conducting campaigns on campus and in town to collect relief money. The money will be given to Afrilore, a non-profit organization providing rural health services in Africa.

On campus the class will operate a booth in the Union plaza to collect money. It will operate from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. this week and during noon hour next week, during finals.

Half of the class is working in the booth and the other half is working with businesses downtown and with the media to publicize the fate of the Africans.

The donations are deductible and may be made payable to "Afrilore's Famine Relief Fund" and may be sent to Student Community Services.

"Rock-O-Rama in Morro Bay"

The annual Labor Day Rock-O-Rama celebration is being formulated by the Morro Bay Chamber of Commerce for September 1, 2 and 3.

The highlight of the festival will be a parade down Morro Bay Boulevard at 11 a.m. Saturday.

The Morro Bay Centennial Players will present two performances of "The Drunkard" Friday and Saturday evenings. Other festival events include:

- A three day outdoor arts and crafts show
- Chinese, beef rib and top sirloin of beef barbecue
- Golf and hole in one tournament
- Vintage automobile displays
- Donkey baseball games
- Hours of folk dancing
- Coast Guard Cutter Cape Hodge

Leary files suit

EARTH NEWS—Cr. Timothy Leary, the imprisoned LSD advocate and self proclaimed "Ringo-Ged," has filed a class action suit seeking to close down the California state prison system.

Congressman Ketchum gives support to pipeline

Fiscal responsibility means a lot to Congressman William Ketchum. And to show how much it means, he said he would "out the president's throat" if he signed the Minimum Wage Bill which Ketchum said is inflationary.

Ketchum made these remarks at a luncheon August 18, and added he feels the president will veto the bill.

Ketchum recounted his first six months as congressman of the 38th District in California. One instruction he must keep in mind is the high degree of control that a congressional committee chairman has over bills.

"If your bill goes to a committee whose chairman is not interested in it, you won't see it very soon, and perhaps not at all," said Ketchum.

Ketchum said he is in favor of the Alaska Pipeline, and recounted the pipeline bill's history. Ketchum said he was hopeful construction could begin next February with completion sometime in 1977. The nation loses $10 million in the balance of payments each day this petroleum is not being pumped to where it can be used, according to Ketchum.

The early retirement of Reconstruction gets his support which is an ordinary expense of operation, spent within income.

Leary, a self proclaimed "guru" of psychedelic drug experimentation, filed suit August 18, concerning Watergate, Ketchum said he was, "not overly impressed with the episode," but also,"I did not know what I was doing.

Cruising the Park Scene

I like to hike Ballona Creek, a stream that runs through Los Angeles, but I'm not a hiker. Instead, I like to walk along the banks of the creek and watch the world go by. The creek is a concrete pipe, but it's still a beautiful place. The trees are tall and green, and the water is crystal clear. It's a great place to relax and enjoy the beauty of nature.

The park is big, and it's a great place to take a walk. There are many trails to choose from, and you can find something for everyone. The park is also a great place to see wildlife, including birds, rabbits, and deer. It's a perfect place to escape the hustle and bustle of the city.

The park is also a great place to play sports, such as basketball, volleyball, and soccer. There's a large soccer field, and you can play as long as you want. The park is also a great place to have a picnic, with many tables and grills available.

The park is open from dawn to dusk, and it's a great place to take a walk or just to sit and enjoy the scenery. It's a beautiful place, and I'm always glad to spend some time there.
