Charles Lloyd coming

Bringing with him the mysticism of transcendental meditation in his music, saxophonist Charles Lloyd, will appear in the first concert of the season Saturday night at eight, in the Chumsah Auditorium.

Lloyd likes best to perform in a corner hall or a jazz club equally well. His concert will be a combination of both, with the audience bringing in pillows or blankets to sit on the floor in festival style.

According to one critic, "Lloyd has fused avant-garde jazz with rock, contemporary classical techniques and nearly every traditional form of indigenous American music." He is a man who wants to have his music considered as a whole instead of categorized.

Born 17 years ago on March 18 in Memphis, Tennessee, Lloyd was exposed to the town's strong musical heritage, according to a biographical report. He played saxophone by the age of 10 with R&B King and the Baby Blue Band. Beginning his musical career with a saxophone.

In addition to playing with all local as well as famous touring bands, Lloyd was learning about top from pianist, Phineas Newborn. Later, while earning his graduate degree in music from the University of Southern California in the early sixties, he was spending many of his evenings with such West Coast jazz formulators as Harold Land, Eric Dolphy and Buddy Collette.

Lloyd taught school for a while, but finally decided to pursue his musicianship full-time by joining the historic Charles Hamilton Quintet. After four years as Hamilton's "music director," Lloyd joined Cannonball Adderly and finally, a year later, broke on his own.

Backed up by his own rhythm section, Lloyd was the first "jazz" musician to play at the historic Fillmore Auditorium and has the distinction of being the first American invited by the Soviet Union to play behind the Iron Curtain.

Recorded for Atlantic Records, Lloyd enjoyed a small amount of success, later moving to the Kapp label when his option wasn't picked up by Atlantic. Due to poor distribution at Kapp Records, Lloyd began to fail.

During this time he studied the teachings of the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi learning transcendental meditation. He played on occasional jazz sessions with friends and some fellow transcendental meditators, the Beach Boys.

The Beach Boys, Al Jardine, Carl Wilson and Mike Love added him in a comeback of sorts on his latest album on A&M Records, "Majic Ocean," that was picked up by Atlantic.

"Jazz is a form of traditional form of indigenous American music. If transcends the whole universe into a living shining light. It transcends politics. Make one bring the whole universe into a living shining light," Lloyd once said.

His concert tickets are priced at $6.50 for university students and $9.50 for all others. The guide is titled but anyone under the age of 16 is admitted free.

New department head called teaching pioneer

Manuel H. Guerra was recently appointed head of the Foreign Languages Department by university Pres. Robert E. Kennedy.

Dr. Guerra, who has been a visiting professor at Arizona State University for the past year, succeeds Leonard Olgla who resigned in August.

Dr. Guerra is a pioneer in the teaching of Spanish to elementary school children via television.

His initial effort in this area, titled "It's Fun to Learn About Latin America," became the first television series for teaching Spanish to grade school students when it was broadcast by WENF in 1960. That series also had the distinction of being the first educational program ever broadcast in color.

Pres. Kennedy said Dr. Guerra represents one of the top men in the nation in the field of bilingual education. (continued on page 8)

Gas problem reviewed

Congressman Bill Ketchum (R., Plano, Robles) labeled the Cost of Living Council's gasoline program "another colossal mistake in trying to regulate the economy."

Ketchum was referring to the Cost of Living Council's recent decision to freeze retail gasoline prices. He said, "While the Council froze prices for the dealer, it permitted the major companies to increase their prices to the retailer and wholesaler. The dealers are thus forced to subdivide this increase without raising their own costs."

This has created an intolerable situation affecting 166,800 petroleum dealers and 13,000 petroleum wholesalers and must be rectified immediately if we are to save these businesses."

"While I certainly do not advocate bringing our transportation system to a standstill, I honestly do not know what it takes to impress on the Council the gravity of this matter. Price increases on retail petroleum products causes havoc in many sections of the country and from that experience I had hoped the Council had learned a lesson. You simply cannot allow one segment of an industry to increase its prices while freezing another."

In a direct appeal to C.O.L.C. Director John Dunlop, Ketchum urged that the former small business exemptions be restored or that the May 16 date used by refiners to calculate their mark-up be applied to retailers.

The California Republicains continued, "On January 19, which is the mark-up date for small retailers, approximately 90 percent of all dealers and wholesalers were in price war situations and are now being deprived of this disastrously profitable status. If we are to salvage a mark-up, at least let us place a date that won't further the economic hardship facing retailers."

Ketchum concluded with, "This is a clear example of how the Cost of Living Council operates in both its disastrous profit status. If we are to salvage a mark-up, at least let us place a date that won't further the economic hardship facing retailers."

"While I certainly do not advocate bringing our transportation system to a standstill, I honestly do not know what it takes to impress on the Council the gravity of this matter. Price increases on retail petroleum products causes havoc in many sections of the country and from that experience I had hoped the Council had learned a lesson. You simply cannot allow one segment of an industry to increase its prices while freezing another."

In a direct appeal to C.O.L.C. Director John Dunlop, Ketchum urged that the former small business exemptions be restored or that the May 16 date used by refiners to calculate their mark-up be applied to retailers.

The California Republican continued, "On January 19, which is the mark-up date for small retailers, approximately 90 percent of all dealers and wholesalers were in price war situations and are now being deprived of this disastrously profitable status. If we are to salvage a mark-up, at least let us place a date that won't further the economic hardship facing retailers."

Ketchum concluded with, "This is a clear example of how the Cost of Living Council operates in both its disastrous profit status. If we are to salvage a mark-up, at least let us place a date that won't further the economic hardship facing retailers."

"While I certainly do not advocate bringing our transportation system to a standstill, I honestly do not know what it takes to impress on the Council the gravity of this matter. Price increases on retail petroleum products causes havoc in many sections of the country and from that experience I had hoped the Council had learned a lesson. You simply cannot allow one segment of an industry to increase its prices while freezing another."

In a direct appeal to C.O.L.C. Director John Dunlop, Ketchum urged that the former small business exemptions be restored or that the May 16 date used by refiners to calculate their mark-up be applied to retailers.

The California Republican continued, "On January 19, which is the mark-up date for small retailers, approximately 90 percent of all dealers and wholesalers were in price war situations and are now being deprived of this disastrously profitable status. If we are to salvage a mark-up, at least let us place a date that won't further the economic hardship facing retailers."

Ketchum concluded with, "This is a clear example of how the Cost of Living Council operates in both its disastrous profit status. If we are to salvage a mark-up, at least let us place a date that won't further the economic hardship facing retailers."

"While I certainly do not advocate bringing our transportation system to a standstill, I honestly do not know what it takes to impress on the Council the gravity of this matter. Price increases on retail petroleum products causes havoc in many sections of the country and from that experience I had hoped the Council had learned a lesson. You simply cannot allow one segment of an industry to increase its prices while freezing another."

In a direct appeal to C.O.L.C. Director John Dunlop, Ketchum urged that the former small business exemptions be restored or that the May 16 date used by refiners to calculate their mark-up be applied to retailers.

The California Republican continued, "On January 19, which is the mark-up date for small retailers, approximately 90 percent of all dealers and wholesalers were in price war situations and are now being deprived of this disastrously profitable status. If we are to salvage a mark-up, at least let us place a date that won't further the economic hardship facing retailers."

Ketchum concluded with, "This is a clear example of how the Cost of Living Council operates in both its disastrous profit status. If we are to salvage a mark-up, at least let us place a date that won't further the economic hardship facing retailers."

Astronauts come home

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — The three Skylab astronauts returned to their native soil Wednesday in surprisingly good condition after their record stay in space.

The astronauts, Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, and their spacecraft were plucked from the skies last mile southwest of here by a few minutes after their splashdown today.

The astronauts experienced slight nausea after they were taken aboard the New Orleans based ship but added it may have been caused by the rolling of the ship in bally rough seas.

The astronauts will remain in quarantine for one week but will be allowed to see their wives and families sooner.

"We don't have everything that's happened to their immune responses," said the Skylab crew doctor. "We're not in a position to add that the crew of the astronauts had been invited to make certain they were in excellent shape."

The astronauts appeared in surprisingly good condition after their record stay in space.
A proposed educational project in Afghanistan, which could have involved a $50 million contract, has been shelved due to the recent political unrest in that country.

University officials have been advised that the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID), which had invited proposals from American universities, has withdrawn the project from consideration by the government of Afghanistan.

Robert McCurtis, director of International Education, said the University of California at Los Angeles was in Afghanistan during the coup on July 17, told the university it was disappointed at the withdrawal of the project proposal. He pointed out, however, that the decision means Cal Poly is still in the running for other proposals, should the political situation in Afghanistan encourage proposals at a later date.

"Afghanistan is a country which could greatly benefit from Cal Poly's work in agricultural education, technical instruction and university administrative procedures," Wilson said. He said there are similarities between Afghanistan and other countries in which Cal Poly has conducted overseas programs, such as Guatemala, Thailand, Tanzania and Zambia.

Promoted the decision to remove the proposal.

President Harold O. Woolen, who was in Afghanistan during the coup on July 17, said the university is disappointed at the withdrawal of the project proposal. He pointed out, however, that the decision means Cal Poly is still in the running for other proposals, should the political situation in Afghanistan encourage proposals at a later date.

"University proposal will be set aside following confirmation from AID that the change in government in Afghanistan had prompted the decision to remove the proposal.

Cal Poly Administrative Vice President Harold O. Wilson, who was in Afghanistan during the coup on July 17, said the university is disappointed at the withdrawal of the project proposal. He pointed out, however, that the decision means Cal Poly is still in the running for other proposals, should the political situation in Afghanistan encourage proposals at a later date.

"Afghanistan is a country which could greatly benefit from Cal Poly's work in agricultural education, technical instruction and university administrative procedures," Wilson said. He said there are similarities between Afghanistan and other countries in which Cal Poly has conducted overseas programs, such as Guatemala, Thailand, Tanzania and Zambia.

"Afghanistan is a country which could greatly benefit from Cal Poly's work in agricultural education, technical instruction and university administrative procedures," Wilson said. He said there are similarities between Afghanistan and other countries in which Cal Poly has conducted overseas programs, such as Guatemala, Thailand, Tanzania and Zambia.

"Afghanistan is a country which could greatly benefit from Cal Poly's work in agricultural education, technical instruction and university administrative procedures," Wilson said. He said there are similarities between Afghanistan and other countries in which Cal Poly has conducted overseas programs, such as Guatemala, Thailand, Tanzania and Zambia.

"Afghanistan is a country which could greatly benefit from Cal Poly's work in agricultural education, technical instruction and university administrative procedures," Wilson said. He said there are similarities between Afghanistan and other countries in which Cal Poly has conducted overseas programs, such as Guatemala, Thailand, Tanzania and Zambia.
Student living...
(continued from page 1)

Social Security, AII and credit card deals can't count...

San Luis Obispo, it is good to be back, and I appreciate your words of welcome and wel-wishing. But the next time someone asks me that question, I'll grab my own lunch in the cafeteria, I hope you'll forgive me if I say, 'No, I collect brash.'

Correction...

For all those fans who are ready to rush down and see the Mustangs play Riverside on Friday, they had better stop. The game is on Saturday night at 7:10, not Friday night as erroneously reported yesterday's Mustang Daily.

New head...

(continued from page 1)

and English as a second language.

Dr. Guerra is the author of numerous articles written for professional journals, several books, a television series for children, and a series of textbooks for use with the television series.

San Luis Obispo, it is good to be back, and I appreciate your words of welcome and well- language.

"He won the National Educational Television Award from Ohio State University in 1966 and his research in bilingual education won a bronze medal and citation from Pres. Lyndon Johnson in 1966.

Dr. Guerra's work with the Bilingual Amigos television series won the National Educational Television Award from Ohio State University in 1966 and his research in bilingual education won a bronze medal and citation from Pres. Lyndon Johnson in 1966.

Correction...

For all those fans who are ready to rush down and see the Mustangs play Riverside on Friday, they had better stop. The game is on Saturday night at 7:10, not Friday night as erroneously reported yesterday's Mustang Daily.

Student living...
(continued from page 1)

Social Security, AII and credit card deals can't count...

San Luis Obispo, it is good to be back, and I appreciate your words of welcome and wel-wishing. But the next time someone asks me that question, I'll grab my own lunch in the cafeteria, I hope you'll forgive me if I say, 'No, I collect brash.'

Correction...

For all those fans who are ready to rush down and see the Mustangs play Riverside on Friday, they had better stop. The game is on Saturday night at 7:10, not Friday night as erroneously reported yesterday's Mustang Daily.

New head...

(continued from page 1)

and English as a second language.

Dr. Guerra is the author of numerous articles written for professional journals, several books, a television series for children, and a series of textbooks for use with the television series.

San Luis Obispo, it is good to be back, and I appreciate your words of welcome and well- language.

"He won the National Educational Television Award from Ohio State University in 1966 and his research in bilingual education won a bronze medal and citation from Pres. Lyndon Johnson in 1966.

Dr. Guerra's work with the Bilingual Amigos television series won the National Educational Television Award from Ohio State University in 1966 and his research in bilingual education won a bronze medal and citation from Pres. Lyndon Johnson in 1966.

Correction...

For all those fans who are ready to rush down and see the Mustangs play Riverside on Friday, they had better stop. The game is on Saturday night at 7:10, not Friday night as erroneously reported yesterday's Mustang Daily.
Coulson, Nominni tabbed as outstanding players

Mustang quarterback Mike Coulson, who at one time thought of quitting football in frustration, and left defensive tackle, Rich Nominni, who was ruled ineligible for last year's Camellia Bowl, were named offensive and defensive players of the week for their efforts in last week's 30-10 victory over Idaho State.

Coulson, who completed 18 or 28 passes for 361 yards in the victory, is one of the main reasons for the Mustangs renewed interest in passing. He was also honored as the California Collegiate Athletic Association offensive player of the week. Coulson probably couldn't have believed all this would have happened two years ago. Then he redshirted as a sophomore because there was an experienced quarterback playing in front of him. In '75 he injured his right shoulder in the spring and his left shoulder in the fall.

Nominni made 11 assisted tackles, one unassisted and made two stops behind the line of scrimmage to score 10 points in the grading of game films by the coaching staff. Nominni was disappointed last year when he was ruled ineligible for the Camellia Bowl due to a transfer technicality.

Soccer takes opener; Hosts St. Patrick's Sat.

Coming off a 6-4 season opening victory over Fresno Pacific last week, the Mustang soccer team, with eight returners for starters, entertain St. Patrick's on Saturday in a non-conference match.

New head coach Carmen Banco, who was elevated to the head job after serving as assistant coach under Tom Hinkle last season, is enthusiastic about this year, only the team's second in existence.

"Our defense looks strong, and the offense needs work. It's a matter of getting our ball control back and learning to anticipate our teammate's moves. If we can do this, we'll have a cohesive unit." The eight returning starters include: Bobby Antiyar, sophomore fullback; Eric Rees, junior halfback; Tony Fino, senior forward; Juan Acosta, junior forward; sophomore halfbacks Tom Nelson, Ray Webber, and Manuel Castellon, and fullback Rick Klarzewski.

WATERPOLO — vs. California State University, Hayward, 5 p.m., Men's Pool, free.

MUSTANG CLASSIFIEDS

Beat the high cost of eating

Eat with us

At Stenner Glen we serve a lot of people. And we do it three times a day. With the high cost of food today it really pays to feed a lot of people at the same time — each person can eat a whole lot more for a whole lot less.

Come by, and have a meal. Remember — it's all you can eat at Stenner Glen.