Money for new students

The Office of Education is announcing a new student financial aid program which is available to financial, full-time students for the current school year.

The new Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program is popularly known as Basic Grants. It is designed to assist eligible students planning to enroll colleges, universities, community colleges, approved vocational and technical schools, and hospital schools of nursing.

The amount of the grant is dependent upon the student's eligibility and the experience of the student and the student's family. The maximum amount of the Basic Grant is determined on the basis of a formula developed by the Office of Education and applied consistently to all students who apply.

The Office of Education also announced five new short course beginning at the College in October. These are in addition to the regular short course offerings in the areas of art, science, and business.

Holley elected to preside over colleges' funds

John Holley, ASI President, was recently elected Finance Controller for the California State University and College Student President's Association, which represents the 17 student governments in the California State University and College system.

The first regular meeting of the organization was held at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, recently and included plans to elect a new executive committee, according to Holley. As Finance Controller he will also head the Finance Committee, which is currently preparing a budget in excess of $200,000.

Holley explained this money pays the salaries of the CRICPA legislative advisors, Jim Hey, and the Senior to the Chancellor of the California State University and College system. The CRICPA represents over 200,000 university and college students, and the student governments pay dues to CRICPA, based on enrollment.

Also on the agenda was the position taken by the student presidents' on Reagan's tax initiatives and Assemblyman巽man's Bills AB 1576 and AB 2729, which would change the legal drinking age to 18 years.

Holley added that the August meeting was held in San Bernardino. The student presidents' on Reagan's tax initiatives and Assemblyman巽man's Bills AB 1576 and AB 2729, which would change the legal drinking age to 18 years.

No one really knows how the first people in love knew the idea, since the ingredients are such a far cry from the end product. All we can say is that the idea really came either, especially on Friday afternoon in San Luis Obispo.

The perceived TD has long been a source of aid and comfort to thousands of students here, but just as long it has been a thorn in the side of the local police department and a righteous pain in the rear for the community at large. Just about every time one of these get-togethers occurs, police receive various complaints from residents nearby. Most of these concern the noise factor from the band and the parking hassle caused by the vehicles of the partiers.

Inter-Frataternity Council President Jim Larson has had discussions with the police department and found them "bending over backwards" to be accommodating about the beer parties. The noise level can be kept down and the parking problem overlapped for a few hours, but the lawmen are still somewhat upset by attendance of those under college age and definitely bashed by the problem of public urination.

There have been numerous reports of indecent exposure (public urination actually) and at least one infamous account of a drunk fellow who defecated while sitting on a curb, a stunt always in questionable taste.

Juvenile and even vicious behavior by a few have contributed to the very poor reputation of TGs held by the locals. Two years ago I attended a Human Relations Commission meeting as a reporter when TG violence and obnoxiousness had brought the issue to the point where the city was considering banning them all together. The commission was readying a recommendation for the City Council, and Police Chief Ervin Rodger at one point shouted, "Cal Poly be damned! The law is the law and I'm going to enforce it!"

The Chief was upset about the underground parking at TGs, and justifiably so. TGs disappeared for a while last year but only making a strong comeback this fall. Last June, Robert Rodger, mayor of San Luis Obispo, had basically a bunch of good Joes in the house as a reporter when TGs was basically a bunch of good Joes and the "Professor" they had that, "Problems arise after a few of the 'good Joes' have their Larson put It, 'M these people."

The issue is a precarious one still, with the university administration being what the Human Relations Commission had no knowledge of the self-policing program was fragmented. Larson and many others would like to see the area where the Greeks will attempt to keep these affairs low-key, but they can't really handle several hundred people much better than the police department.

All restraint is going to have to come from the partiers themselves. The point here is that all of us are happy for having no TGs period, or the other way around.

The lawman are at odds somewhat mooting as a reporter when TD basioally a bunch of good Joes all of us are happy for having no TGs period, or the other way around.

Dear Editor,

The time has come when someone must speak out on behalf of the tennis buffs at this University.

A condition has existed for some time that makes play on the courts of this school something less than enjoyable. I speak in reference to the insane practice of having down the tennis courts, behind the Man’s Gym, on Sunday mornings. Why must these courts be inundated under three inches of water during the peak playing hours of the weekend; the only time that a vast majority of the staff and students have an opportunity to use them? Wouldn’t it make more sense to perform court maintenance and clean-up at a more opportune time, perhaps in the early morning hours of some weekday.

I realize that planning has never been the forte in some departments of this school but, perhaps, with a little effort and cooperation, we can hurdle this problem. Anything less will not do.

Before closing, I must add that the frequent watering of the courts not only takes place on weekends but even on overcast week-ends. It is on such cloudy days that the courts will not dry off until well past noon, thus effectively destroying a major portion of playing time.

I sincerely hope, as do many others with whom I have conversed, that this ridiculous situation is soon alleviated.

Yours sincerely,

The harriers have a tough and tight team this year, but they are still looking for that fifth and sixth man. Still, that warm Saturday run proved beyond any doubt that as those allegations peak, more records will fall.
