San Clemente, Calif. UPI—A White House spokesman, signaling an end of "Operation Candor," said Wednesday that Nixon now feels he has laid to rest all Watergate-related charges against him.

"We are confident that would be the case," Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said. "That was the intent of the release of the information...we feel it will lay to rest the allegations against the President."

Warren also left the clear impression that there are no plans now to put out any more "white papers" like those issued Tuesday in response to charges that Nixon was influenced by promises of political contributions in 1971 when he intervened in the ITT antitrust case and ordered an increase in federal price supports for milk products.

The presidential spokesman said, "We are going to be providing information in the proper forum...we will continue to cooperate with the special Watergate prosecutor." He added there is a "possibility" that Nixon would have more to say on Watergate "in the future."

"But we are not going to say anything here or release anything that would interfere with the judicial process...potential judicial that was the intent of Warren said.

In addition to the ITT and milk fund disclosures, Nixon has released a detailed account of his personal finances since becoming President in an effort to make good on his promise of "full disclosure" of information about Watergate-related matters.

But White House aides said previously that information also would be provided on the "plumbers," a secret surveillance operation set up in the White House in 1971, the circumstances surrounding a wiretap placed on the telephone of Donald Nixon, the President's brother, and the $100,000 which Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Nixon's closest friend, has said he received from Howard Hughes.

Richard G. Kleindienst has threatened "Operation Candor" will be "terminated" if Nixon told him in April, 1971, to halt court appeal of the government's anti-trust case against ITT. The White House statements made no mention of that, although Kleindienst has said that is what happened. Similarly, Warren refused to comment when asked how the White House position squared.

"But when a troika of itinerant actors arrived, and he heard the flowers start to fall, and saw the siren cry of players in his ears, and he determined to himself that it meant life away from home, family, comfort and security."

The play will be performed February 21-23 in the Cal Poly Theatre. Murray Smith will direct.

The true blues of staff parking

Editor:

As I was sitting in my car at the intersection of Foothill and California yesterday morning, I felt very proud of myself because I had been able to get to campus 50 minutes before my first class. I was only 10 minutes away from my classroom and I would have 10 minutes left to do my homework—it was perfect! Little did I know that I wouldn't arrive in class until minutes and many hassles later.

My first hassle was the pick-up of cars on California waiting to get to the parking lots. I finally reached the parking lot with 15 minutes left to run to class and skip over my assignment—impossible at all. However, I had another hassle. It seems that someone spilled too much blue paint in the parking lot—I wonder who that was!! Every time my roommate and I spotted a space, it was BLU! Over 50 per cent of the blue parking spaces remained empty at 9:00 that morning.

I continued my search for a parking space recalling every objectionable word in my vocabulary. I finally found a space near the Aero hangar, but it was too late—class had started.

It was 10 minutes later when I came face to face with my instructor and fellow classmates dripping from head to toe. During my long journey in the pouring rain, a car had unnecessarily splashed through a huge puddle leaving me and the worth of books soaking wet! That did it. I was steaming!!

It took me quite a while, but I overcame my contempt of all of those dry, warm, and comfortable individuals who obtain their parking stickers free of charge—compliments of the university. It was then I wondered how I could become a "staff" member so I obviously don't qualify as an instructor.

Well, I can't qualify as a staff member because there are no vacancies. So, I have only one alternative—write a letter of complaint in protest of blue parking spaces. This brings me to that same old question—why are there so many faculty and staff parking spaces when they are not being used?

I have one solution to the parking problem. Since the university system is a type of business, why not run it like one? In other words, have the employees (faculty and staff) park in the far parking lots leaving the spaces close to the place of business (the university) for "complimentary customer parking" for the customers (students) of the university—after all, we DO pay $8 per quarter for our parking stickers!

Beat the high cost of eating

Eat with us

At Stenner Glen we serve a lot of people. And we do it three times a day. With the high cost of food today it really pays to feed a lot of people at the same time—each person can eat a whole lot more for a whole lot less.

Come by and have a meal. Remember—it's all you can eat at Stenner Glen.

Lower birth rate suggested in film

The limiting of births to two per family has been one of the many suggestions of those interested in suppressing population growth.

On Thursday, January 10, Sierra Club will stage a film report of the Commission on Population Growth and the American Future. Released in 1971, the report of the commission, both filmed and written, recommended that the United States limit family size to two per family. This is one of the many suggestions of those interested in suppressing population growth.

The meeting will be at 7:10 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Methodist Church, 1111 Fredericks St., BLD. Refreshments will be served. The public is cordially invited.

Cuesta to stage opera

A special bonus for opera-goers at Cuesta College this Saturday, January 19, at 8 p.m. has been announced by Dr. Jim Greathouse, Director of Cuesta College Community Services.

The performance of "The Turn of the Screw" by the Western Opera Theater, the travelling company of the San Francisco Opera, will be accompanied by a full orchestra instead of the two-piano accompaniment of past years.

"This is a delightful surprise," said Dr. Greathouse, as he described the scheduling that has made the fuller orchestration possible. He said the college has not had the opera company orchestras in the past because it adds over $1,000 to the cost of the presentation.

Now due to the scheduling of performances of the Western Opera Theater in other parts of the state, the full orchestra is travelling with the group and will appear at the Cuesta College program as a bonus and without additional charge.

The "Turn of the Screw" is the famous 1886 Henry James story of apparitions and evil, as set to music by British composer Benjamin Britten. The production by the San Francisco Opera has been highly acclaimed by critics.

Admission is $6 for adults and $1 for children, with tickets available at Gaby Book Store and Server's Music in San Luis Obispo, Alesandro Pharmacy, Arroyo Drug Company, or the Cuesta College Community Services Office.
