Author deported to West Germany

PRAK FORT (UPI)—Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the Russian author who won the Nobel Literature Prize for his stinging revelations of brutality in Soviet labor camps, was stripped of his Soviet citizenship Wednesday and expelled into exile in West Germany with only the clothes on his back.

His wife and three sons stayed in Moscow, wondering about his fate since Soviet police showed up at their apartment Tuesday night and took him away. A statement in Moscow later by the official Soviet news agency, Tass, said the family could join him "when they deem it necessary."

The bearded author was driven away from the airport in a black Mercedes limousine with foreign ministry license plates. He went directly to Lamongan, a tiny village in the Bisti Mountains where his fellow Nobel laureate, novelist Heinrich Boell, has a country home he uses for writing.

Later, Solzhenitsyn said: "Because of my family, I cannot say anything. I cannot give an interview. I cannot give an interview. I cannot give an interview."

The Soviet government in Moscow said that Solzhenitsyn, who always maintained he would never leave the Soviet Union voluntarily, changed his mind at a meeting with state prosecutors after his arrest Tuesday night, and agreed to accept exile. There was no independent confirmation of the report.

Security men walked down the stairs with Solzhenitsyn. On the way, a young woman—a possible wife—cut her hand as she handed him a long-stemmed rose.
Unprepared profs insult to students

Editor:
Upon reading Mr. Huot’s letter on Feb. 12, I was immediately reminded of the well-known phrase, "Do you walk or take your lunch to school?" In his previous dissertation on the "most spoiled, self-centered and egotistical generation of university students" (could he be referring to us?), Mr. Huot makes, in my opinion, a grave logical error. Mr. Huot equates students and their relations with the faculty, with the faculty and their relationship with the students. The two are hardly the same in my mind.

A student goes to school to get an education (theoretically, or so I’ve been told). If more of the faculty tried doing their relations with the students coming across well and the administration not being hurt because of it. What we really need at this time is for the teachers to prepare for their classes, which is the duty of their own manager of time, his own scheduler, etc. In effect, he is responsible to one person and not the students.

If a teacher constantly notes extra credit, he is there to instruct, offer guidance, and to help a student in every way he finds possible. I have had those teachers (apparently like Mr. Huot), who did prepare for class, and it was a pleasure to listen to them.

However, as an example, I have at this present time, two out of five teachers who come to class cold, lecture out of the book and generally insult the intelligence of those of us who want to get something out of a class. Surprisingly, there are many of us.

If the students aren’t coming to class, I realize that it is their fault, and they will suffer because of it. But sometimes, the real problem lies with the teacher. I have had many classes in which people have attended just because the teacher has made it interesting, and it was a pleasure to listen to him.

One other point which I think is pertinent here is the fact that the faculty is paid to do its job, and part of its job is keeping office hours. As I understand it, and (I may be wrong as these things are trade secrets among teachers), a teacher is paid for his office hour. If a teacher consistently neglects to keep his office hour, his pay will be reduced accordingly.

What we really need at this time is for the University not to stricter rulings on the students cutting class, but stricter rulings on teachers’ preparation time. It is a matter that more seriously affects the quality of our University. Which is worse, a student cutting class, or a teacher, who cuts his prep time coming unprepared to class? If a student is expected to do his homework, why isn’t a teacher expected to do his?" - Doug Becker

The Examiner said it received only one call defending the actions of the B.A. Against the Human Rights Organization. "But to me this is blackmail. I’m not endorsing what they’re saying. But we will administer the program for the safety of the girls if we were asked." - The Examiner

Applicants are now available for five positions on the University Union Board at Governor's Island. Candidates will not become members until June. Allicio applicants will be considered. The term is for two years and has early registration privileges, in order to attend the meetings which are from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. every Thursday at 11 a.m.

Applications forms and more information are available at the Union Information Center. Completed forms must be returned by Feb. 12.

Hearst girl... (continued from page 1)

Hundreds of individuals including welfare recipients and elderly persons who said they would refuse the food. "I wouldn’t feed my fur children under the circumstances," said Mrs. Dolores Garcia of the welfare recipients, "I am on social security and it was a matter of the price that Patricia Hearst is paying," Mrs. Joe Nelson from Long Beach, Calif., added. Organisations which the B.A. Against the Human Rights Organization elected to coordinate the food distribution program in supermarkets from downtown San Francisco to Los Angeles, said they did not condone the actions of the revolutionary group but agreed to cooperate.

"It is our job to help all our people," said Helen Little, president of the National Welfare Rights Organization. "But to me this is blackmail. I’m not endorsing what they’re saying. But we will administer the program for the safety of the girls if we were asked."

The Examiner said it received only one call defending the actions of the B.A.

The most modern service in the city

Jewelry

Watches

Health

Electronics

Doug Busker

New LEVI'S® SEWN-IN CREASE JEANS

LEVI'S® SEWN-IN CREASE JEANS

New LEVI’S® Jeans with sewn-in front creases, clean fit for the tailored look. Traditional LEVI’S fit and quality. Available in the latest fabrics and colors. Take home a pair today.
Mustangs resume league play

by ROBERT DRUMMOND
Coach Ernie Wheeler and his mighty Mustangs will open the second half of CCAA conference play Thursday night when they tangle with Cal State Fullerton.

The second half of conference play will be a much rougher road for Poly than the first half. All the big CCAA guns will be aimed and firing toward the top-rated Mustangs.

After a historic 8-0 conference start the Mustangs are beginning to see a pot of gold at the end of the conference rainbow, a pot that contains a league crown.

A Mustang basketball team has not owned exclusive rights to a championship since 1986. Wheeler is cautious of his team's record.

"We have had things going well for us, but we could have been 14-0 just as well as 14-6." Before the Mustangs can begin to order throne, many a tough test must be stayed. Their first being Fullerton Thursday night, 9 p.m. in the Men's Gym.

The Titans are definitely a conference contender owning a 5-3 league slate. Poly beat the Titans by one John Parker free throw in the last matcuh up and the visitors are traveling hundreds of miles north to make sure history doesn't repeat itself.

"We must win at Cal Poly."

Said Fullerton coach Bob Dye stressing the game's importance. The Titans have the artillery needed to knock down top basketball teams. Steve Bogdanovich, 6-foot-4 forward, has a knack for making inside shots. The big forward is hitting a .37 point game average and cleans the boards for over six rebounds a game.

Paul Bedokovich, another 6-footer, is Poly's leading scorer. Bedokovich, 6-foot-8 forward, throws in 11 points a game plus rebounds over seven a contest. Bogdanovich did not play against the Mustangs in the last battle.

Point-for-point and stat for stat the two teams almost could be carbon copies of each other. Poly owns a 14-7 over-all record, Fullerton has produced a 114 slate.

The Mustangs average 67 points a game, the Titans are good for 67.1. Poly has a 46 percent field goal percentage, just a shade higher than Fullerton's 45 percent.

The home eager average rebounds a game with the visitors grabbing 26.

The big difference in the battle of the state is defense. The Mustangs practically own the art, being third in the nation with a 61 point give-up average. The Titans give up 72.

The homo eager average Mustangs are beginning to see a pot of gold at the end of the conference rainbow, a pot that contains a league crown.

"We have had things going well for us, but we could have been 14-0 just as well as 14-6." Before the Mustangs can begin to order throne, many a tough test must be stayed. Their first being Fullerton Thursday night, 9 p.m. in the Men's Gym.

The Titans are definitely a conference contender owning a 5-3 league slate. Poly beat the Titans by one John Parker free throw in the last match up and the visitors are traveling hundreds of miles north to make sure history doesn't repeat itself.

"We must win at Cal Poly."

POLY ROYAL WIIK IN D
Stay In Morro Bay
Trade Winds Motel
Beach and Market
722-7376

24 DELUXE Rooms
(2 night stay preferred)

ALL AUTO PARTS
(STUDENT DISCOUNT)

AMERICAN PARTS
SUN.: 10:00 to 4:00
MON. thru SAT.: 8:00 to 5:10
544-7050

SKI SALE
Wednesday, February 13 through Wednesday, February 20 is the Mountain Sports Ski Sale...

Kneissl Blue Star Skis (reg. $176) $120.88
Kneissl Red Star Skis (reg. $100) $130.96
Cabor Prolite Ski Boots (reg. $170) $79.89
Raichle Super Ski (reg. $170) $119.89
Nordica Astral C (reg. $120) $85.88
Raichle Jet Ski (reg. $115) $69.88
Rossignol Ski Package (reg. $200) $119.88
Ski clothing at prices you won't believe!

Also stores in Santa Maria 377 SOUTH BROADWAY 922-2677 and Goleta 7702 CALLE REAL 684-7846

Thursday night

LEVI'S FOR GALS
Special Purchase of steve's cord, knit t-shirts, and says 6 to 16
Reg. $14.00
Now $7.99
Reg. 16.00
Now $9.99

The ATTIC
"The Fun Place to Shop"
463 Monterey St. Bea Loila Chopce
Just off the Parking Lot
Basketball... Tennis team faces UCSB

After a third-place finish in the rugged UC Santa Barbara Invitational, the Mustang tennis squad is preparing for another trip down south for a dual meet with UCSB today.

The Mustang men will then play UC Davis on Saturday at 11 a.m. and Chico State on Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Both matches will be on Poly's court.

Coach Ed Jorgenson was pleased with his team's showing in the UCSB tournament last week, however he didn't feel that his boys were ready to win the invitational. "Dan and Pete have been working together since high school, so they compliment each other well in doubles. Both are aggressive players who hate to lose,"

The match with Santa Barbara should be an interesting affair as both teams perennially have great talent. Jorgenson said that his troops "will be equal to the task."

Jorgenson said, "Santa Barbara has always had a good tennis team. But I think we've been progressing well and this will be a good test."

Jorgenson said, "We'll have nine matches before we see our first conference action. But we don't mind, because we've been working since the second week of the fall quarter and we're getting tired of playing each other.

The team's taskmaster was still indefatigable as to win his first six matches this season, he felt that by the first week of conference play, he will have settled on the players to win.

Announcements
The Team of Lambert, Dan and Pete have bean leading the field at point 1 in the double. The nattar taskmaster was still indefatigable as to win his first six matches this season, he felt that by the first week of conference play, he will have settled on the players to win.

Of the Lamberta, Jorgenson on the other hand wants...