Promotions given to faculty members

If faculty members have prevailed in the Fall Quarter 1974, President Robert E. Kennedy has announced.

Fifty-six faculty members were promoted to the rank of associate or professor, and 37 to the ranks of principal associate or professor.

The School of Agriculture and Natural Resources had 13 members promoted to the rank of associate or professor of agriculture and environmental design, business and life sciences; 8 communicators.

An owner and operator of a Los Angeles firm will be here today to give a speech on the Child Development Club and Child Development class 801. (The Teleprinters, the second child.)

A program called "Crops for People's Future," an idea presented by the Crops Club. The program is very outstanding, especially the photography. The presentation will consist of three projects and the lecture which will be covering the future of crops on the farm in agriculture on the community.

Feltman says that the Crops Club, an inter-departmental club, has a desire to tell the public that agriculture is all about and that the child receives all the concepts possible for his cognitive development.

Feltman is the chairman of several books to be aired in the Hand Start Program as well as a guide for Directors of Hand Start and Regional Pre-School Programs for the State of California.

KCPR to go to 2000 watts

From 1:50 to 5:00 watts within six years, KCPR-FM, the campus radio station, will double its broadcast to 2000 watts next Wednesday, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The opening ceremony will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the KCPR Radio Studio, followed by a program sponsored by the Crops Club. The program will be followed by a program of slides by the CALIFORNIA POLYTECHNIC STATE UNIVERSITY.

KCPR will be broadcasting at 2000 watts at 11 a.m. with a broadcast from University Press.

Robert E. Kennedy, the station will be off the air from the 13th floor of the building, which is being constructed.

The new transmitter was given to KCPR by SPARTA Electronics. The antenna system was donated by JAMPRO, Antenna Company Sacramento, and the MAC Electronics provided engineering assistance to KCPR engineers who also received the antennas from the Electronic Engineering Department. Pacific Telephone donated the telephone pole on which the antenna is mounted. The engineers will be on display at the station.

During the five min, the format will be listener experienced. The programming will be broadcast at 7:35 p.m. Thursday and on a Whip-in-the-air show.

The Club is planning to broadcast at 2000 watts at 1:50 a.m. with a broadcast from University Press.

Faithful listeners will be asked to call in and say how they are enjoying the new broadcast.

Candidates air varied opinions

In preparation for the June 4 primary election the League of Women Voters of San Luis Obispo and the Associated Broadcast Inc. of Cal Poly hosted the candidates for district attorney, sheriff-counsel and district attorney in a Candidate's Night last Tuesday in Chumash Auditorium.

Candidate's Night allows each candidate to give his views on why he feels he should be elected. It also allows the audience to ask questions to the candidates.

Running for district attorney are incumbent Robert N. Tait, the county attorney, and his assistant, Warren Conklin, who has been affiliated with the district attorney's office for the past 14 years, first as assistant district attorney, and as the district attorney for the last four, and a half years.

As assistant district attorney, Tait, traveling throughout California in an effort to study procedures in other offices, found that the law enforcement agencies needed to be adaptable to other districts.

Tait claims that his staff supports him in his work. He added that he is dedicated to excellence in the practice of law.

Tait has served as the county counsel and has acted as an appointment for the county.

Barry Hammer is the City Attorney for San Luis Obispo. Barry Hammer previously worked seven years for the San Luis Obispo developer's office, leaving in 1971. Hammer had a private practice for three years and is presently a partner in civil and estate attorneys.

Hammerson claims he has two offices, one in San Luis Obispo and the other in Los Angeles.

Senator Johnson claims he has two offices, one in San Luis Obispo and the other in Los Angeles.

Johnson feels he has more experience than Barry Hammer, who is seeking this office for the first time as an attorney for San Luis Obispo.

Johnson feels he is the more experienced of the two.

Warren Conklin has served as an assistant district attorney for seven years. He also served as an assistant district attorney for the county, and served as an assistant district attorney for seven years.

Conklin was appointed as an assistant district attorney in 1957. He was in the position of county attorney in 1967 and re-elected in 1975.

Conklin has served on the California Judicial Council, and on the Judicial Education and Research Committee of the Judicial Council in the state election.

Even, equal justice for all

Candidates of the top four

The candidates for sheriff-office are: Barry Hammer, Robert N. Tait, Warren Conklin and Richard Pare, "Jerry" Pare.

Richard Pare*, O.C. "Jerry" Pare, was born in San Luis Obispo and has been in the practice of law for 11 years. He has practiced in both the criminal and civil cases.

Pare is the son of a trial judge and was in the courtroom with his parents.

Pare feels that he is uniquely qualified for the position.

A current issue of concern lately has been the Social Science faculty's recent fight for fair treatment. It is aiming to represent the best interests of the students in Social Science classes, several of whom are student representatives from the Social Science Department. A group of students has been participating in trying to amend what we feel was an unfair decision in favor of our department. This included circulating a petition, holding a peaceful demonstration, and meeting with both Prof. Kennedy and Acting Dean Owen Sarvatiua to present the petition and discuss the matter. A Notice of Grievance has been delivered to Prof. Kennedy, and we are awaiting a prompt response on the situation.

Just recently, a newly formed group of students has been referred to as the "New Student Rights Union" has been proposing to become active in the Social Science faculty council. The clarification we wish to make here is that statements appearing in Monday's Newsage Daily referring to "Mark Bout well and his group" (the CPSRU) should not be taken to mean the group of representatives that has up to this time been active "in the negotiations with the administration." We have discussed the activities proposed by this group, and while we recognizes that the situation is unfair and that something needs to be done, we feel that the proposed actions are AT THIS TIME premature.

Prof to attend chem meeting

The "impossible job," that of department head, will be the subject of a conference to be attended by Dr. William Langworthy, head of the Chemistry Department. Langworthy will be a participant in the conference in Pens Clear, Alabama, July 16-18.

Designing to change the nature of the job of department head, the conference is open to those working in the area of physics, chemistry, or biology, who wish to be ready to assume the responsibility of being department heads for two years or less.

The position of department head has been termed "impossible" because department heads have not been able to function as department heads and one foot in administration, as has been seen in other universities. A position is being regarded as a kind of transitional job for the person who either is ready to assume the responsibility or has been department heads for two years or less.

Dear "WIRE"

Browning
Ray Bradbury
Science-fiction wizard

He took his shirt off and washed it in his hands. He was covered with illustrations from the blue tattooed ring about his neck to his belt line. "It keeps right on going," he said, guessing my thought, "All of me is illustrated. Look." He opened his hand. On his palm was a rose, freshly out, with drops of crystal water among the soft pink petals. I put my hand out to touch it, but it was only an illustration. As for the rest of him, I cannot say here I set and stared; for he was a riot of rose petals and fountains and people, in such intricate detail and color that you could hear the voices murmuring small and muted, from the crowds that inhabited his body. When his face twisted, the tiny mouth flowered, the tiny green-and-gold eyes winked, the tiny pink hands gestures.

"FEVER DREAM"—He was thirteen, Charlie was. It was mid-September, with the land beginning to burn with autumn. He lay in the bed for three days before the terror overcame him. His hand began to change. His right hand. He looked at it and it was hot and sweating there on the counterpane alone. It fluttered, it moved a bit. Then it lay there, changing color.

"THE GREAT COLLISION OF MONDAY LAST"—The man staggered through the flung wide doors of Heber Finn's pub as if struck by lightning. Reeling, blood on his face, coat and torn pants, his moan tore every customer at the bar. For a time you heard only the soft foam popping in the lacy mugs, as the customers turned, some faces pale, some pink, some veined and wattle-red. Every eyelid drew a blink.

"DARK THEY WERE, AND GOLDEN-EYED"—The rocket metal cooled in the meadow winds. Its lid gave a bulging pop. From its clock hung a man, a woman, and three children. The other passengers whispered away across the Martian meadow, leaving the man alone among his family. The man felt his hair flutter and the tissues of his body draw tight as he were standing at the center of a vacuum. His wife, before him, seemed almost to whirl away in smoke. The children, small seeds, might at any instant be blown to all the Martian dunes, the wind blew as if to flake away their identities. At any moment the Martian air might draw his soul from him, as marrow comes from a white bone. He felt submerged in a chemical that could dissolve intellect and burn away his past.

Gary G. Fowler has also had an extensive career in law enforcement. He served with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. He has also served with the Highway Patrol in San Francisco, Southern California, Four Robles and San Luis Obispo.

Fowler feels the issues in the campaign are young people, serious citizens, service to the county, and protection of the county.

He claims that changes haven't been made in the department in the last four years and a person from the outside is needed to make those changes. Fowler says he won't treat people as second class citizens if elected to the office.
