Difficulties and solutions associated with local pets will cost less.

In an effort to motivate people to spay or neuter their pets to aid the local animal shelters, a special discount will be offered to those who come to the clinic which could run from $20 to $30 because of a good idea and some money collected at the shelter.

The shelter also offers a new option for those who want to adopt animals. They can pay for the adoption fee in two installments or pay the full amount. This is an especially good idea for those who cannot afford the full amount at once.

The shelter is open on weekends from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Veterans receive more assistance

Qualified student veterans are offered access to funds.

There is still more money available to veterans beyond G.I. Bill entitlements, according to an announcement from the Veterans Affairs Office.

Eligible veterans may apply for educational payments of up to a $1,000/month for a year under a new veterans educational program signed into law recently by Governor Ronald Reagan.

To qualify for the program, veterans must have exhausted their entitlement, attended school full-time (11 units or more) and have received federal veteran education benefits within the last four years.

In addition, veterans who served during the months of October, November or December 1973 must be in good health. Service-related disabilities will be waived.

Applications now are available at the Veterans Affairs Office, Room 108 in the Union, for a new Veterans group life insurance program, according to Veterans Rep. Jim McKinley.

The five-year non-renewable life insurance sold for $34.95 a month. The policy is available for veterans discharged after Aug. 1, 1984. Up to $100,000 coverage is available at a top premium rate of $38.50 per month for veterans aged 15 and under and $38.50 per month for those 16 and over. Lesser coverage amounts also are offered.

Eligible veterans must apply before Aug. 1, 1976. They must be in good health. Service-related disabilities will be waived.

Legal aid for students

Have you ever received an eviction notice from your landlord or been sued for a traffic violation? You might be eligible for Legal Aid. The Legal Aid Services office, Room 108 in the University Union, is available to help you with your problem. This referral service is provided by a team of attorneys specializing in various areas of law such as consumer law, family law, landlord-tenant disputes, employment problems, etc. The office is staffed by students who volunteer their time.

This service is in desperate need of volunteers. If you can volunteer an hour or more of your time please contact Ron Fink, Director of Legal Aid Services,

New breakfast idea: Kennedy a la prayer

It looks like that old time religion might be coming to Poly. The first-ever Presidential Prayer Breakfast is scheduled for Oct. 18 at 7 a.m. The location for this historic event will be the staff dining room. President Kennedy will address all non-faculty staff and faculty.

Price for the Prayer Breakfast is $1.00. Just think: a fortunate few will be able to pray with Kennedy and rub elbows with the bigwigs on campus. Lots of people complain that it’s next to impossible to talk with Kennedy on the phone—much less pray with the man.

UP: That’s a very good question. You see, it stems from my last by doing what I do best. What do I do best? I provide spiritual guidance in times of tribulation.

UP: No, not at all. You see, once you get in a position like, uh, well like myself for example, you’ve got to try different things to attain the fruits of life. Now, I can’t go out there and say that this is a poorly run university that includes a faculty of liberal professors that should be locked out.

UP: R: But students aren’t talking! What about all the liberal professors attending? If you’ve got in a position like, uh, well like myself for example, you’ll have to talk with the students in the same liberal ideas—subverting my learn by doing philosophy. We’ve got to dig into the belly of those professor-liberal professors are to be learned, of course.

UP: R: But what does that have to do with prayer breakfasts?

UP: Once people find out that liberal professors are attending, at least being invited to prayer breakfasts, they’ll have a little more to say to the university. Don’t you see? Any faculty that would let one of these exquisite breakfasts on campus couldn’t possibly inject liberal ideas into the minds of our blind students.

R: So your real aim then is to ask for spiritual guidance in times of tribulation.

Mustang Daily tenders initiative for harmony

Today we’re going downtown.

For the first time in its 38-year history, Mustang Daily will be regularly distributed downtown to major Daily advertisers.

Circulation has been increased from 8000 to 8000, and the paper will be delivered promptly to downtown San Luis Obispo after its distribution on campus.

Why?

It is no secret that ‘student’ is a bad word in this town.

We are discriminated against, cheated by landlords and businessmen, and live, for the most part, on the wrong side of the tracks.

In spite of the fact that we literally support this town with our money, we are inevitably treated as second-class citizens. Mustang should help call attention to our presence.

It is automatically assumed that all students write bad checks, rear ground corners on two-wheels, and drink their heads off at local bars.

The fact that many students stay to live and work here during summers and after graduation is usually ignored, as is our support of local business and events.

Hopefully, circulating Mustang Daily downtown will be one step on the long road to unity between campus and community. We BOTH need it.

The paper should become a link to the residents of San Luis—a contact sheet of campus activities and student opinions.

For the most part, townpeople treat the campus as a third-party in a two-party conversation, and Mustang should help call attention to our presence.

Yes, it’s costing a little extra to increase circulation.

But for us, from an advertising as well as a public relations standpoint, it should be worth it.

Somehow this campus community has got to become part of the San Luis Obispo community. Somehow we’ve got to make people realize that we are just as much in love with this town and this area as they are, and are not here to take advantage of anything and anyone we see.

At Mustang Daily we hope we’re moving in the right direction.

But someone has to move in our direction as well.

Maybe, Just maybe, we’ll meet.

Mustangs kick the dog around

by PETER KING

Like Hungry Dumpty and his wall, the Mustangs tried to eat on their head in the second half of the Fresno State game last Saturday night in Fresno. They nearly took a fall.

Taking full advantage of a rash of Fresno turnovers in the first half, Cal Poly took it to the Dogs for a 1-0 margin. But in the second half, Coach Joe Harper, with help from the Fresno defense, put the parking brake on the Green Machine. The result was a 19-12, second, saved only by Cal Poly free safety Mark Davis' interception on the Fresno gound with 38 seconds left in the game.

The Mustangs apparently left their passing attack on the sideline in the first half. Quarterback Rich Robbins went to the air only five times in the second stanza and the first half he had thrown for 94 yards and four first downs.

The Bulldog defense then managed to put the bite on the Cal Poly running attack, as the Mustangs failed to mount a sustained drive in the second half.

For most of the half the spotty Bulldog offense failed to do much better.

But in the last period, Fresno quarterback Neil Corrier nearly passed his team into an Indian giver roll. The Bulldogs came just 11 yards short of winning their first game of the season and taking away a win that had so painstakingly handed the needy Mustangs.

Corrier hit on 16 and 19-yard touchdowns passes to bring Fresno to a 1-0 lead in the game.

After a failed Cal Poly drive, the Broncos had the ball on the Cal Poly 4 with a little over two minutes remaining on the clock. But the Bulldogs pushed down to the Fresno 19 via a fumble recovery by Bill McDicken who along with Mike Poling and Randy Smith replaced injured starters in the defensive backfield.

Cal Poly's punt, which had just one more than the Mustang total, Robbins led the Mustang's defensive attack by throwing for 110 yards and scrambling for 44 more. Bob Trudeau was the top rusher for Cal Poly with 47 yards on nine carries. Most of his yardage came in the second half. The win was Cal Poly's first of the season and turned their record to a 1-4 mark. For Fresno, it was just another loss—their fourth.

Rich Weden, one of three Fresno quarterbacks to see action, started it all for Cal Poly. The sophomore floated a sideline pass to the wide side of the field and watched in horror as Mustang defensive back Randy Smith dashed in front of the Fresno receiver to pick the ball off. Fresno had it an easy 20-yard sprint to the first points of the game.

Cal Poly's next tally came two minutes later when placekicker John Lacko sliced the corner of the goalpost with a 30-yard field goal. Cal Poly had gone the half via a fumble recovery by Bill McDicken who along with Mike Poling and Randy Smith replaced injured starters in the defensive backfield.

Cal Poly's final score came on a one-yard plunge by Gary Davis. That yard was the last of an 85-yard scoring drive. The push was started by a McDicken interception on the Cal Poly 15. Those three mistakes were the difference in a statistically close game.
