Community project creates gardens from unused lands

by Mika Poo

Our purpose is to turn idle land in the community into productive gardens. Free land is plentiful throughout our community. There are empty lots that grow healthy weeds, but nothing else. Through our gardens, we hope to stimulate a v i d i d i v i d u a l concern and appreciation for our environment.

There are many people in the San Luis Obispo area who are in need of the basics of life, but lack the knowledge to improve their situation. That's where the concerned Cal Poly student fit in. The Cal Poly community has a wealth of knowledge, experience, and energy which could be put to productive use through the Community Gardens Project. If you are a student in one of the agricultural sciences, this project offers a great opportunity for you to make productive use of what you've learned in the classroom. Those students unfamiliar with the many aspects of gardening will have the opportunity to learn the correct way of maintaining a garden.

We hope to initiate Community Gardens with a donated section of land and a small group of interested students. Lab work, lab notes, and student members of our community. Fifty percent of the produce grown in the community gardens will be divided among those students working in the gardens. The other 50 percent of the produce will go to certain non-profit community agency or to family facing an emergency situation. Those students recently burned out of income and are new without food or shelter.

If you can donate idle land, or know someone who can provide tools, fencing, seeds, suggestions, classroom and members of your community.

The existing Science Bldg, will be remodeled to contain present facilities for use by the physical sciences and chemistry programs. Eventually, the veterinary and soil science programs will be moved to an improved agriculture building, leaving physics and chemistry the sole occupant of the Science Bldg.

Construction of the new facility is scheduled to begin until early 1975. Once completed, the building will house three classrooms, 18 laboratories, and a goal of 15 faculty office space.

Services held today for David Sexton

David Arthur Sexton, a Cal Poly student, was killed Thursday, when his lost control of his motorcycle in the 700 block of Grand Avenue.

Sexton, 24, was exceeding the speed limit when his bike hit the guardrail according to the county coroner. He was taken to French Hospital, where he died a half hour later.

A Long Beach resident, Sexton was a third-year Poly Electronic Engineering student. Sexton was survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sexton of Long Beach.

Eagles, Young rock concert on... maybe

Rock is coming to Cal Poly...maybe.

That is again, of again rock concert at the Cal Poly student union, according to Bob Neighbors and Joie Mitchell.

Arturo Aleman, chairman of the Cal Poly Student Activities Organization, announced the possibility at the board's meeting Thursday night.

Joe Bumgarner, a representative of the Cal Poly Student Activities Organization, was trying to arrange the concert for Nov. 14 in the Campus Gym.

The concert, which would benefit the Red Wind Foundation, had been originally scheduled for Oct. 18 in Mustang Stadium. The Facilities Use Committee denied the request to use the stadium, which is reserved for student. A new date had been arranged for the concert.

In his second bid for the district congressional seat, Camacho CAMAC 1975 campaign announced the proposal because the AIF sponsored Arlo concert scheduled for Oct. 10.

A majority of members of that committee told Messana Daily, "Our proposal was the very thing the AIF was against, that's why we asked them to hold the event, and it was turned down."

Camacho says federal spending should be ended all foreign aid to military

Lexington, 2007,

Democritical congressional candidate Julian Camacho released the seven point plan for campaign and congressional reform in suspense remarks at the Lions Club Thursday, saying, "I have found an economic structure which is the need of the people."

Camacho's seven point plan includes:

1. Public campaign financing program in order to make public officials more responsive to the people.
2. Major overhaul of the seniority system in Congress.
3. Restoration of the Equal Rights Amendment by the states, so women can have equal access to political and economic institutions.
4. A direct national presidential election.
5. Federal voter registration, similar to the Canadian system, eliminating partisan access and making it easier for citizens to register.
6. A permanent office of the Special Prosecutor to bring swift action against government and campaign violations.
7. "The political system as we see it today would revolve around Jefferson, James Madison, or John Adams. It's time. We need a change to restore trust in the government."

Camacho said students should vote for him.

"We have a situation today where infatuation is wreaking havoc on the system. Burt Tolton, supported by certain non-profit community agency or to family facing an emergency situation. Those students recently burned out of income and are new without food or shelter."

"Burt Tolton was named a member of the "Dirty Dozen" and![...]

On the economy, Camacho says federal spending should be ended all foreign aid to military democrats. He proposes bringing troops home from Korea, Japan, and other areas of the world.

Camacho underscores "vigorous" military spending and opposition to opening defense plants that tax out for lower and middle income Americans, as well as pledging to support "a strong economy with five million new jobs which they "pay their fair share."

Camacho said there was a "great record of opposition to the destruction of our fragile coasts. I am strongly opposed to the exportation of nuclear waste to Europe. I am against the burning of coal, and don't see the need for a proliferation of nuclear power plants on the West Coast.

Camacho says more money should be put into research and development for other fuel resources and solar energy.

Ford has a better (?) idea with WIN button

Dear President Ford:

I was glad to hear your speech on inflation last week. I was particularly pleased to know you've decided to make the Whip Inflation Now (WIN) button the sound board (or your outboard) in any political campaign where you've decided to make the Whip Inflation Now (WIN) button the sound board (or your outboard) In any political campaign.

I'm glad a man of your intelligence has decided buttons are going to be one of the most effective ways of fighting inflation. The housewife, the underpaid teacher and the unemployed factory worker all appreciate the effort that was put into your economic summit. Words cannot express how happy inflation in no time. My only regret is other Presidents should have used this tactic in the past. Consider Mr. Johnson and the Vietnam war, what a difference buttons would have made there.

Just think what a WIN (Wagenerland And Nagapi) button could've done for his foreign policy. I think that kind of button could've had a great potential on our college campuses. It's also a pity you didn't think of the button when the news came out about the $20 million that was spent to help overthrow the Allende government in Chile. Those buttons could have been called CIA (Covert Infiltration of Allende). But we can't cry over past events so I guess I'll have to be happy with your buttons on inflation.

Before you came out with these buttons, a lot of people were worried you wouldn't do anything serious about inflation. Mr. President, you sure showed them who plays football without a helmet! I've overjoyed you didn't mention another way to help the fight against inflation would be to stop all financial support of all the military dictatorships that are our friends. The control of millions of peasant lives is more important than just a few million dollars of our tax money.

Another part of your speech that was great was the one place where you talked about coal burning instead of oil burning for power plants. Some advice Mr. President, don't let people give you the old line that coal burning causes air pollution. There's little evidence to back up the accusation. Americans must choose between clean air (and a bad economy) or a healthy money picture with plenty of power, not just the inexpensive television sets and lights necessary to play football games.

But the buttons that have really enthused us. Before you other Presidents would try to stir the country with a speech like, "The Only Thing I Fear..." and "What I Can Do for My Country..." But not you Mr. President. Who needs idle rhetoric when we can have shiny buttons that have "WIN" painted on them? But, Mr. President, don't think I've said enough. I just wanted to say how happy inflation. I really think the economy will get better if everyone uses your WIN buttons. I really think the economy will get better if everyone uses your WIN buttons.

The rise of inflation got worse and worse with the guy who was President a few months ago. He didn't have any buttons. In fact, the only thing he wore on his lapel was a cheap piece of red, white and blue plastic. Sincerely yours, Fred Vulin Holley's death: did he leave us with honor?

Editors:

Like most Cal Poly students, I was surprised to read about the death of John Holley, a Mustang Daily editor and respect to his fellow students the only thing he wore on his lapel was a cheap piece of red, white and blue plastic. Sincerely yours, Fred Vulin

Tell it like it is
by Mary Anne Lapointe

Should Nixon testify at Watergate trial?

Dale Duke, Industrial Arts, Junior:
No. It would be bad for the American image. We proved we could get Nixon out of office. We should leave it at that.

Kevin Langhorne, History, Junior:
If he got the chance to testify, he would never make it to the witness stand. Before he got there he would create a diversion that he was dying. He shows he lacks in confidence.

Jean Niel, Biological Sciences, Junior:
Yes. There's been too much doubt about where he stands. It should be cleared up about what went on. All those reports from his doctors sound like excuses.

With honor...

are people around, maybe at Cal Poly, whose personal situation is much worse than that of John Holley's at the time of his death. It would be a time-consuming effort in trivial historical knowledge to point out examples of past figures who overcame personal obstacles and achieved greatness. I will go so far as to say this is (or should be) one of the reasons that we are at Cal Poly: to gain access to knowledge, plus the socialisation process that automatically occurs to solve not only our problems, but those of others.

Certainly, there must be some other way of showing our respect to John Holley, a way that not only shows respect to him and his family at his death, but in a way that shows respect to the personal who have the courage to face their problems head-on.

Harriers top Sac to State in league run

The Mustang cross-country team responded to the challenge brought to them by the Bearcats of Boise State University this past Saturday, discovering the visitors to be more formidable than they had anticipated.

In cross-country, a seven-man team comprised of the five runners scoring in the scoring with the remaining two acting as spoilers.

With four runners in, the Mustangs (1st, 2nd, 4th, and 6th places) The Bearcats had their point edge on the Hornets (2nd, 4th, 8th, and 9th places). The Hornet placed of the runners in the overall competition, and run a time of 10 min. 10 sec.

Fourth man for the Mustangs was Bob Lyons who was a sur­prise for the Mustangs as well as the Hornet. Coach Ed Coleman stated, "the surprise was that Lyons wasn't a member of the starting team and had been of the team for the past couple of weeks." Lyons ran a lifetime best of 15 min. 30 sec.

Poll for the Mustangs was Steve Bisco, who ran 9th overall, while lifetime best of 15 min. 30 sec.

Coleman has run a sub-three minute mile this summer. With such a time Coleman says that "Coleman would be a premier cross-country runner in any university."

Chess league to begin play

Under the leadership of Cal Poly math instructor George M. Lewis, the newly founded Central Coast Chess League (CCCL) will begin play in mid-October. Lewis got the idea of forming the league during a summer tournament at the California Men's Colony. He thought the tournament was so good, he decided to form a league of his own.

There are six teams in the CCCL, P, L, P Poly has two representatives: Cal Poly, and L.O.C.

Cal Poly consists of students, L.O.C. has faculty members and non-students.

Poly kickers top Northrop

Cal Poly kicked its sister last Saturday night.

The disadvantage of every game, especially schools Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo and Cal Poly, was in a 14-14 tie before a packed house at Pomona's Kissing Field.

It was an even game. As even as you'd expect when Cal Poly plays, well, Cal Poly.

The Mustangs scored once in the first quarter and once in the third, while the Broncos scored twice in the second and third periods.

In the last period, the Mustangs twice had opportunity knocking at their door, but both times they scored it off with a penalty.

A five-yard penalty took away a fourth and short situation for the Mustangs midway through the quarter and forced kicker John Leoes to try a 50-yard field goal. He missed. It was one of five long tries that Luana missed in the game.

But with 1:16 left in the game the Mustangs were up by 14-14. Since that time, Leoes was the high boot. Rich Robbins of Cal Poly carried the ball over the goal line for a first down and what looked to be an almost sure score. But a clipping penalty took the kick away.
