SAC slows down in first three meetings

The Student Affairs Council has had the Monday morning bluffs for the first month of classes—and the prognosis doesn't look good for the second month.

Tonight's meeting of SAC at 7:15 p.m. in Rm. 220 in the University Union will be only the third time the council members have assembled to conduct business. According to ASI President Scott Plotkin, there are three reasons the slow-down has occurred.

He says the death of John Holley, his own nine-day illness and the grave concern over the ramifications of AB 3116 have led to a government running at less than its normal speed.

AB 3116 was recently signed in law by Gov. Reagan. It would give the California State Universities and Colleges 25 million and almost certainly revalidate the budgets at each school. The law provides for the money to be spent for "structurally related activities."

The ASI head claims the slowdown will hurt SAC if legislative process doesn't start rolling the next four months. But he adds certain workshops will get under way in the winter quarter because, he feels, they won't take too long to implement. Tonight Plotkin will ask the council to approve a "modified schedule" and set up a Governmental Relations Advisory Group.

The ASI president will call the group to make four main points: Identify the problems, clarify the most difficult problem, list the possible solutions and provide support for student housing has waned, but pointed out that Poly has an annual enrollment situation.

Kennedy said over 3,000 of the 14,000 students attending Poly are married students.

The Kennedy learned from Dr. John P. Malin, director of governmental relations for the American Association of State Colleges and Universities that the federal government had cancelled the college provisions of the HUD program, but that the impounded funds might be used. Kennedy also noted that he was told by Congressman Burt L. Talcott after Talcott spoke to a public meeting on campus.

Kennedy called on Talcott to see if a portion of a reported $100 million in impounded funds could be made available to Cal Poly or to private developers under existing appropriations.

"Talking about that future legislation at this time is impractical," Kennedy told Congressmen Talent.

"We've got a serious problem right now," Kennedy acknowledged that federal funds will come from private sources.

SAC seeks creative copy for publication

Outpost magazine is looking for talented writers and photographers to enter its writing and photography contest.

The magazine is looking for lively articles pertaining to campus affairs. Articles may include "how to" pieces or contain campus information useful to students. Articles may emphasize investigative research into campus or student problems and workable solutions.

Outpost is also looking for photographs to shoot picture stories pertaining to campus life, and suitable for publication in the magazine. Photo stories must be "in black and white and mounted in a 10x20 board."

Judges for the contest will be professional writers and photographers. Entries close on Monday, December 20, 1974.

Ex-insurance salesman now ‘father’ of 84

Three years ago Ted Tanberg was a bachelor selling insurance in Los Angeles. Today, he is married with a family of 84.

Although his wife is the only other Tanberg in the clan, his love and devotion towards the other 84 make it one of the strongest family bonds anyone could imagine. The group housed under an assorted number of roofs, all located at 879 Meckinck St., or, in the directory, as the United Church Care Center.

The 84 "children" at the center all share a common affliction more revered than insurance. Instead of life insurance, "Tanberg," as head of the center, sells self-help skills.

Prof exhibits chemical artistry

Utilizing his artistic abilities to describe the complex intricacies of his chemical research, Poly chemistry instructor Dr. Delbert Venerable opened his painting exhibit "Molecular Expressions" Monday night in the University Union Gallery. Venerable preceded his exhibit, which will run through November 1, with a slide presentation of his works depicting various aspects of his undergraduate research at UCLA and his graduate studies in molecular spectroscopy at the University of Chicago.

To the uninformed eye, Venerable's paintings resemble nurseries, make do it yourself representations, but each explains some specific aspect of studies from salt crystals to benzene rings.

Venerable terms himself an expressionist because "I express what is going on in my mind although I never paint when I'm

California Polytechnic State University

Trailer court for married Poly students?

Married students, don't give up! There is hope for you yet!

Housing in San Luis Obispo is critical for all students. On and off campus Apartments are being rented to single students for greater amounts than married couples can afford.

"We feel we have a need for married student housing that hasn't been met," said E. Douglas Gerard, executive dean. As a result of these problems, an idea is being used as a solution for married students. The idea is to have mobile homes on campus for married students only.

The trailers will be financed as a result of a foundation program. The total investment will be $1 million, said Gerard. This money will come from private sources.

Release of impounded housing and Urban Development funds was sought today by Dr. Robert E. Kennedy, president of Cal Poly, as a means of alleviating a severe shortage of married student housing.

Kennedy, university administrators, and student officers met specially to discuss the problems of married student housing with Congressman Burt L. Talcott after Talcott spoke to a public meeting on campus.

Kennedy called on Talcott to see if a portion of a reported $100 million in impounded funds could be made available to Cal Poly or to private developers under existing appropriations.

"Talking about that future legislation at this time is impractical," Kennedy told Congressmen Talent.

"We've got a serious problem right now," Kennedy acknowledged that federal funds will come from private sources.

Support for student housing has waned, but pointed out that Poly has an annual enrollment situation.

Kennedy said over 3,000 of the 14,000 students attending Poly are married students.

The Kennedy learned from Dr. John P. Malin, director of governmental relations for the American Association of State Colleges and Universities that the federal government had cancelled the college provisions of the HUD program, but that the impounded funds might be used. Kennedy also noted that he was told by Congressman Burt L. Talcott after Talcott spoke to a public meeting on campus.

Kennedy called on Talcott to see if a portion of a reported $100 million in impounded funds could be made available to Cal Poly or to private developers under existing appropriations.

"Talking about that future legislation at this time is impractical," Kennedy told Congressmen Talent.

"We've got a serious problem right now," Kennedy acknowledged that federal funds will come from private sources.

Support for student housing has waned, but pointed out that Poly has an annual enrollment situation.

Kennedy said over 3,000 of the 14,000 students attending Poly are married students.

The Kennedy learned from Dr. John P. Malin, director of governmental relations for the American Association of State Colleges and Universities that the federal government had cancelled the college provisions of the HUD program, but that the impounded funds might be used. Kennedy also noted that he was told by Congressman Burt L. Talcott after Talcott spoke to a public meeting on campus.

Kennedy called on Talcott to see if a portion of a reported $100 million in impounded funds could be made available to Cal Poly or to private developers under existing appropriations.

"Talking about that future legislation at this time is impractical," Kennedy told Congressmen Talent.

"We've got a serious problem right now," Kennedy acknowledged that federal funds will come from private sources.

Support for student housing has waned, but pointed out that Poly has an annual enrollment situation.

Kennedy said over 3,000 of the 14,000 students attending Poly are married students.

The Kennedy learned from Dr. John P. Malin, director of governmental relations for the American Association of State Colleges and Universities that the federal government had cancelled the college provisions of the HUD program, but that the impounded funds might be used. Kennedy also noted that he was told by Congressman Burt L. Talcott after Talcott spoke to a public meeting on campus.

Kennedy called on Talcott to see if a portion of a reported $100 million in impounded funds could be made available to Cal Poly or to private developers under existing appropriations.

"Talking about that future legislation at this time is impractical," Kennedy told Congressmen Talent.

"We've got a serious problem right now," Kennedy acknowledged that federal funds will come from private sources.

Support for student housing has waned, but pointed out that Poly has an annual enrollment situation.

Kennedy said over 3,000 of the 14,000 students attending Poly are married students.

The Kennedy learned from Dr. John P. Malin, director of governmental relations for the American Association of State Colleges and Universities that the federal government had cancelled the college provisions of the HUD program, but that the impounded funds might be used. Kennedy also noted that he was told by Congressman Burt L. Talcott after Talcott spoke to a public meeting on campus.

Kennedy called on Talcott to see if a portion of a reported $100 million in impounded funds could be made available to Cal Poly or to private developers under existing appropriations.

"Talking about that future legislation at this time is impractical," Kennedy told Congressmen Talent.

"We've got a serious problem right now," Kennedy acknowledged that federal funds will come from private sources.

Support for student housing has waned, but pointed out that Poly has an annual enrollment situation.

Kennedy said over 3,000 of the 14,000 students attending Poly are married students.

The Kennedy learned from Dr. John P. Malin, director of governmental relations for the American Association of State Colleges and Universities that the federal government had cancelled the college provisions of the HUD program, but that the impounded funds might be used. Kennedy also noted that he was told by Congressman Burt L. Talcott after Talcott spoke to a public meeting on campus.

Kennedy called on Talcott to see if a portion of a reported $100 million in impounded funds could be made available to Cal Poly or to private developers under existing appropriations.

"Talking about that future legislation at this time is impractical," Kennedy told Congressmen Talent.

"We've got a serious problem right now," Kennedy acknowledged that federal funds will come from private sources.
Vegetarianism, again

Editor:
I was interested in Terre Rigali's reason for becoming vegetarian. Not all the claims she has to have found it unnecessary to take a life in order to continue her own. She is wrong.

I am not a vegetarian, but I have a respect for life—not just human beings, but for all forms of life. This includes plants and animals. We are all the product of the same evolutionary process.

Therefore, why is it better to kill a plant than an animal? The fact remains, however, that human beings can survive only by killing other organisms. We, like many other animals, are, by nature, carnivorous. It is for this reason, and because I like it, that I shall continue to eat meat. If Terre Rigali wishes to remain a vegetarian, she better come up with a better reason.

Tim Hicks

Time change

Editor

The television show "Jeopardy" may be in trouble. To put it bluntly, if the ratings do not improve, the program could be kicked off the air.

"Jeopardy" has been on television for more than 15 years and has long been a favorite of viewers around the country. It is one of the few programs that stimulates the intelligence of its viewers.

Unfortunately, the success of a show is measured in numbers and not quality. When "Jeopardy" was first introduced, the ratings remained high. Once switched to 10-10 a.m., many of the shows regular viewers were lost to morning classes.

We think students in particular, were they to learn of this, would continue to support "Jeopardy" and help bring those ratings up.

Troy M. Schwartz, Associate to the President, UCLA, and Company, Inc.

We must go on, yet remember

Editorial

It's been a depressing two weeks in the Mustang Daily office. As day-to-day, active members of the media, we are more than most students to news events on and off campus. As a journalist, I suppose one learns to handle these errors as well as pleased ones, get stories out before deadline, and accept printers errors with a patient smile.

But I wonder if even the most experienced writer can ever objectively cover a death story. In the last two weeks I have written five obituaries—one as the result of an accident, two because of heart conditions and two suicides.

All the "whys" that the events of the last two weeks have raised in my mind remain unanswered. I try to understand, and find it impossible.

I suppose death always has been hard for youth to understand. And it is even more difficult when the extinction of life is brought about by the inactivity of our own. Death is too far away—to unrelated to my living, breathing existence for me to fully realize WHAT it is, and why it happens.

None of the five people who died in these past two weeks were older than 29—none had lived even one-half of their expected lives open, some not more than one-third. It is in such cases that we find sorrow in death.

For an older person, handicapped by the deteriorating and aging of his body, death can be a release, a welcome guest. It is merely a time for moving on, for entering another realm.

But for people so young, it seems an abrupt, unfair ending to a relatively unfulfilled lives. Maybe there's a reason somewhere—a reason to be learned. Maybe we should step back and look at or lives.

Are we wasting all our time and energy to live the way we want to live? Are we letting problems flood out to the things that make life worth living? Are we showing people that we love them?

In the last two weeks, Cal Poly has lost five valuable, energy-priceless lives.

Tod. M. Schwartz, Associate to the President, UCLA, and Company, Inc.

Grants to be tapped soon

Editor

Two scholarships for the 1974-75 school year have been available to women wishing to earn a teaching credential.

Titled the Delta Kappa Gamma—Epsilon Delta Chapter Scholarship, this grant is offered to prospective female teachers who have a minimum GPA of 3.0 and can claim financial need.

Applications for the grant may be obtained at the Financial Aid Office in Room 107 of the Administration Building. Applicants must file before Nov. 1.
Student braves commuter hassle

by MARK GODBEY

The service station attendant, with the "College Exams" sticker on the front of his grease stained, blue shirt, shakes his head saying: "We have to replace the rocker assembly, the push rod, the lifter, and a gasket or two. You're lucky you got here so soon, could have cost you a lot more than that.

So what do I say to a 80 repair job and an opportunist who has his gas station close to the freeway? "Fix it, I gotta have this thing running.

What else can I say when I have to drive 14 miles to get to school? Either I have a car which runs or I utilize a Polypointed thumb and an early-morning smile — whichever of which comes easy.

However, just because my car is beginning to lose me up a little (the rumble, a lot), and I'm paying my fair share of foreign aid to the Arab nations via the gas pump, doesn't mean all my problems with commuting are financial.

Commuting doesn't fit into my concept of going to a university in a smaller town to begin with. The more word "commute" connotes than you can breathe, and a shot of whiskey when you finally get home.

But commuting from Grover City (which is miles south of San Luis Obispo) to school on Highway 101 is a little more open and free wheeling — like a trans am course with four lanes, huge trucks, and a gazillion heavy drivers. On an average day, my fellow drivers take the course in a competitive spirit. I see them weaving smoothly between the elderly entrees and dodging an occasional Greyhound bus. However, our spirit is dampered a bit with the appearance of an ominous sedan with the huge red eyes on top. I've concluded everyone likes this fellow because they all slow down and look at him with that "er, hi there buddy" expression.

STAFF COMMENT

Naturally the driver of the two-toned sedan keeps a perfect poker face — seemingly afraid to catch someone speeding. Yet confident he will. Brodrick Crawford would be proud of this fellow. Once I get near San Luis, the threat of a roadside chat with this Joe Friday-type fades and the real threat of an accident returns. Picture it:

An auto (the type made by Ford which would look more appropriate with three wheels and pedals) is trying to enter the freeway from the Olive St. off-ramp. Another auto (the type made by Chevrolet which had more horses than Santa Anita) is following so close to the first auto that they are on a first name basis.

With the kindred spirit, we hit the gas and hope the freeway divider is unoccupied.

Somehow, through a combination of my chicken instinct and dumb luck, I make it to the freeway and proceed to the parking lot. Getting to the parking lot is a field of discipline which is closely being studied. The closer I study the more bent fingers I get.

But traveling in the parking lot is like being on the magical mystery tour. I never know where a car will pop next. Finally, frustrated, emasculated, and a little nauseated, I find a muddy little patch of parking space and pull my eight-cylinder chariot to a halt. The 11:00 a.m. rush is over for today.

I lean against the steering wheel and after a few silent prayers of thanks, reach for my books. I begin thinking of my first class when it hits me — my first class isn't until 9:30.

Assemblyman to visit Poly

Assemblyman Robert Nimmo will be on campus Oct. 25 to address the local chapter of the California Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Nimmo will speak at 1:30 p.m. in Room 308 of the University Union.

LEISURE ARTS

ZIPATONE (paratipe)
Permanant Pigments
Winsor-Newton oils and water colors

D'archea water color paper — Bristol Bluehaze Illustration & Mat Board Pre-Cut Mate - all sizes

Frames - Custom All standard sizes In stock

1466 Los Osos Valley Rd.
San Luis Obispo, Ca.
93401
(near Madonna Plaza)
905-544-1223

MOUNTAIN SPORTS

INVITES YOU TO ATTEND
THE CAL POLY SKI CLUB
WARREN MILLER FILM
"THE COLOR OF SKIING"
AND FASHION SHOW

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24th - 7:30 PM
CHUMASH AUDITORIUM - CAL POLY
$2.00 GEN. ADMISSION $1.50 STUDENT

MEET WITH MOUNTAIN SPORTS REPRESENTATIVES ON:

THE SKI
OLIN
ROSSIGNOL
KLEISS
KNEISSL
HEXCEL
MEDALION
SALOMON
NORDICA
HANSON

544-7141 858 HIGUERA ST. S.L.O.

Page 1
Wed students to get a housing project?...

...marshmallows and bullets in every mouth and a swimming pool in every backyard.

...continued from page 1

donations and from borrowing loans.

"I have authorized a survey of a potential site in the old a nine unit area on the southern side of Highland Drive entrance road," said Gerard. "We will have to start in February or March if we want it to be completed next fall."

It is still too early to say how much the mobile homes will rent for but Gerard said they would cost around $600-$700 a month and this probably would include utilities.

There are 2700 spaces for single students on campus now and because of this the trailers would not be rented to single students.

"Single and married students living in one area doesn't really work out too well," said Gerard.

At this time the plan is to have 100 units in the trailer park. They will be two bedroom trailers. There will also be green areas and play areas for children to enhance the property. "We want it to be a permanent installation," said Gerard.

In the 1960's there were mobile homes on the campus. There were around 350 of them but none were equipped with toilet facilities. Central bath facilities were built for the students living in them. The trailer site was called "Silver City" because all the homes were painted that color. A name has not been picked for the new trailers yet.

Gerard also said that President Kennedy is behind the project "all the way." He said Kennedy is the major impetus behind it.

SAC to meet...

...continued from page 1

financial aide for International students, leasing of temporary structures and the possibility of selling alcohol on campus.

Plotkin feels one of the most important bills the association will try to lobby for will be an amendment to the state Education Code in reference to the final decision of spending student funds on campus. The president of each university now holds the ultimate power in making those decisions.

It Sounds Incredible

BUT EVELYN WOOD GRADUATES CAN READ

THE EXORCIST IN 58 MINUTES

At That Speed, The 403 Pages Come Across With More Impact Than The Movie.

You can do it, too. So far over 980,000 other people have done it. People who have different jobs, different IQ's, different interests, different abilities have completed the course. Our graduates are people from all walks of life. These people have all taken a course developed by Evelyn Wood, a prominent educator. Practically all of them at least triple their reading speed with equal or better comprehension. Most have increased it even more.

This is a moment of what that means. All of them—over the slowest—now read an average speed in less than two hours. They read an entire book of Time or Newsweek in 35 minutes. They don't skip or skim. They read every word. They use no machines. Instead, they let the material they're reading determine how fast they read. And mark this well: they actually understand more, remember more, and enjoy more when they read slowly. That's right. They understand more. They remember more. They enjoy more. You can do the same thing—learn more about it if it is a free speed reading lesson.

This is the same course President Kennedy had his Joint Chiefs of Staff take. The staff of President Nixon completed this course in June 1970. The same one Senators and Congressmen have taken.

Come to a Mini-Lesson and find out. It is free to you and you will leave with a better understanding of why it works. One thing that might bother you about your reading speed is that someone might find out how slow it is. The instructors at the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Free Speed Reading lessons will let you keep your secret. It's true we practice the first step to improved reading at a Mini-Lesson and we will increase your reading speed on the spot, but the results will be small ones. Plan on attending a Free Mini-Lesson and learn that it is possible to read 3-4 times faster, with complete comprehension.

SCHEDULE OF FREE MINI-LESSONS

You'll increase your reading speed 50 to 100% on the spot!

Wednesday, Oct. 23rd

4:00 p.m. & 8:00 p.m.

Veteran's Memorial Building
801 Grand Ave.

EVELYN WOOD READING DYNAMICS
Queen Pageant: changes due

Selection of the 1974 Homecoming Queen will take place at the Queen's Pageant on Thursday evening in the Cal Poly Theater, preceded by a style Bop Contest at 7 p.m.

According to Pageant Chairman Mark Huntley, "We're trying to get away from the beauty pageant image and utilize pageants for promotional work in promoting Homecoming."

From among a field of 10 contestants sponsored by various clubs and organizations on campus, judges will narrow the competition to five finalists based on poise, personality and appearance. Judges for the pageant are All President Scott Probst, Eta Chi Opportunity Program Director Geri Walts, student director Lori Lee Silvaggio, 1968 Homecoming Queen Mary Jo Kerr and last year's first woman graduate Elizabeth Hanlon. Each of the five finalists will be questioned as to her personal philosophy and attitude toward the university and San Luis Obispo before the final vote is taken.

Crowning of the queen will take place at a reception following the pageant in the University Union Theater.

Coupled entered in the Bop Contest will rock 'n roll to the Homecoming Barbeque.

Open to the public at wholesale prices

TV-RADIO-StereO-HI FI PARTS

At Mid-State we have all the parts you need to build or repair any electronic equipment.

We have two tube checkers. Our test meters and meters of every variety. Our prices are wholesale.

Mid-State's batteries are fresh...

Fresh because we order frequently and in small quantities.

For all your electronic needs come to Mid-State Electronics.

MID STATE Electronic Supply Inc.

Statute needs to be revised

Should the revenue and investment value of the state constitution be revised?

This measure is part of the continuing process of updating and reconvening the state constitution, in order to create a document containing basic principles and being clearly worded.

Proposition 8 would remove outdated material, transfer some specific details to statutory law and clearly wording. In addition, Proposition 8 proposes several changes including:

- equalization of benefits for disabled veterans
- placing the present minimum homeowners' exemption above full market value into the constitution
- extending exemptions to cover some additional property used for religious and charitable purposes
- permitting some changes in the method of assessing timberland

It's obvious who the kids adore, but "Tanberg simply replies, "Anyone would be adored if they gave these kids some affection."

P. W. W.}

Artist shows intricacies of research

(continued from page 1)

created over a ten-year span, his paintings form a commentary on the universe from a molecular viewpoint. His interest in molecular studies in art was sparked by a painting that was the result of a desire to include a visual accompaniment to his concluding research study following his graduate work in Chicago.

The instructor has attained wide recognition among his colleagues in the chemistry field and has done commissioned works for noted chemistry professors in universities around the country. Several of his unique paintings belong to prominent European chemists, such as Nobel Prize winner Ernst Fischl of Germany, presented as gifts by American university professors.

In addition to his artistic endeavors, Venerable is spending his second year at Poly involved in a "functional education" research study funded by an $18,000 grant from the state college and university system. The research is intended to develop testing to determine a student's weaknesses and strengths in the learning process so that instructors can prescribe proper teaching exercises for each individual student.

Venerable will present again his slide presentation at 8 p.m. on October 28 in the Galerie, sponsored by the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship. Venerable in achieving that rare combination of the exacting precision of science with the free-flowing creativity of art, has brought the complex findings of the research chemist to a layman's level.
Insanity is regularly promoted on this campus. It is regulated by ASI, sponsored by a campus club and funded from students' pockets. The organization: Cal Poly Sports Car Club.

The first opportunity of the year to let loose was provided by the club on Sunday, October 13, on the baseball parking lot. Poly students and San Luis Obispo residents alike battled their car and driving skill against the pylons-lined course.

In the day of the professional, money-making sportsman, autocrossing has become a clenched fist symbol for amateurs—one of few chances for empty pockets, equal competition.

An autocross course, although relatively slow, is a driving challenge from the green flag to the checkered, and with the challenge comes heady excitement.

The next day of insanity is scheduled for Nov. 10, so preserve your lead foot until then.

photos by Jerry Hernandez
Feliciano: an exclusive interview

by RICK GOULART

Musasag Dally: You've written and recorded Jose, the title song for NBC's new series "Chico and the Man," in which the star of the show Freddie Primm and yourself are both of Puerto Rican descent. What are your thoughts on the show? It's a renaissance for Latinos to be seen, isn't it? It's a lot of them as up this as it's important. Are you working with Rock Orba as well? I think it represents a cross-section of Latin life. We all basically have the same problems and emotions. There, of course, are some differences, but the same. I've seen Chicano working in a lot of them have realized that the show is a good role. Some of them, of course, are probably upright because they wanted a Chicano, I guess, to do the show. But a few Chicano actors were tanned for the role and they found that Freddie Primm was the best suited. It wasn't a question of losing Chicano from the series.

As for the Chicanos being upset, I don't really think that a lot of them are upset as it's leading to the bizarre birthday celebration have never been there before. On both sides of the Atlantic. "Sandburg-Stechen: Brothetres in Law," an original work based around the life, you'll always get a mental job that is not truly representative of your interest. But you have to take those kind of things sometimes.

Musasag Dally: You've just finished, I understand, a segment of NBC's "McKellar and Gill?"

Editor's Note: Last week the Mustang Daily was granted an exclusive interview with singer-guitarist Jose Feliciano who will be appearing in concert Nov. 8 and 9 at the San Luis Obispo Veterans' Memorial Building. The following is an excerpt from that interview.

Musasag Dally:

which you play a classical guitarist whose expertise on the guitar helps Rock Hudson to solve a murder. How did you like it and did you have any problems in acting?

Feliciano: I really enjoyed it, because acting is something I want to get into someday. I don't have aspirations of becoming a big movie superstar but that isn't what I was cut out to do. But I hope I can continue acting, hopefully in a stronger, bigger part.

I enjoyed working with Rock Hudson. You know it's a good thing that I don't read the Hollywood gossip columns. Hollywood magazines are always full of true, you know, about actors and what not. I found Rock Hudson to be a normal, straight, good person, you know. He's a great actor and a great teacher.

He really helped me with the part and gave me some coaching on my acting. I can't say anything negative about the man. I think he's a fantastic person.

Musasag Dally: You played here, just last October. Were you happy with the response you got here? Why are you returning here in such a short time?

Feliciano: Yes, we were happy with the concert response. San Luis Obispo is really a nice place to play, because there's a lot of college people, a lot of regular people, a lot of movie industry people, and a lot of good wine connoisseurs. I'm glad I'm going to be playing there and I'm really looking forward to it.

Fremont Theater

Opens 8:45 PM
7 p.m. - 10:30 p.m.
Sat. Night
Midnight Show

KING OF HEARTS

In an isolated central goald of World War II, the British and Russains are locked in a bitter, costly but protracted war. Few men have courage, few have the sense of the local people love their land. The realities of war are hard to accept, but the sense of the local people love their land. The realities of war are hard to accept, but the sense of the local people love their land.

Kodak Film

Philco Konstest Fall Night
2 Block Features 82.00 all seats

Spotlight

Hancock drama season ready

by FRANK NOLAN

Hancock drama season ready

by FRANK NOLAN

A production schedule for the 1972-73 season is available at the Performing Arts center Theatre, located on the campus of Allan Hancock College at Santa Maria, has been announced by Donovan Marley, conservatory director.

"Godspell," one of the most exciting musical interventions of the 1970s, will lead off season. The play will run Oct. 23 through Nov. 2. "Godspell" begins with color, rhythm and excitement of rediscovering the Gospel according to St. Matthew in contemporary terms.

"The Love," scheduled Dec. 4 through 14, is Jean Nothil's perceptive view of the martyrdom of St. Matthew. The play combines our 20th century perceptive view of the martydom through 14, is Jean Nnouilh's portrait of the maid henelf.

College In Santa Maria, has been compiled by Randall Mylar. In season. The play will run Oct. 23 through Nov. 2. "Sandburg-Stechen: Brothers in Law," "The Beau's Stratagem," Fascinating and exotic. The musical is an original work baaed around the genius of two Pulitzer Prize winners, poet Carl Sandburg and Pulitzer-winner Edward Steichen.

Steichen: Brothers and the American Dream, now playing at the Philharmonic Center in Los Angeles is done In Los Angeles is a cross-section of Latin life. We all basically have the same problems and emotions. There, of course, are some differences, but the same. I've seen Chicano working in a lot of them have realized that the show is a good role. Some of them, of course, are probably upright because they wanted a Chicano, I guess, to do the role. But a few Chicano actors were tanned for the role and they found that Freddie Primm was the best suited. It wasn't a question of losing Chicano from the series.

As for the Chicanos being upset, I don't really think that a lot of them are upset as it's leading to the bizarre birthday celebration have never been there before. On both sides of the Atlantic. "Sandburg-Stechen: Brothers in Law," an original work based around the life, you'll always get a mental job that is not truly representative of your interest. But you have to take those kind of things sometimes.

Musasag Dally: You've just finished, I understand, a segment of NBC's "McKellar and Gill?"
Sign says ‘students’

by PETER KING

It is only right that the $60,444 needed to light the tennis courts south of the Physical Education Fund probably watch while non-students play the Cal Poly tennis courts are the San Luis Obispo tennis courts.

But it means little: they’re aced off courts.

College Dormitory Construction

And always the train shall mean at least until some people learn how to read.

No once have I gone to the courts and been able to get on half an hour, while the over-the-which aaya In plain tennisese, “Cal Poly students have priority such high-powered literature plays every day of the week and twice as much on Sundays, when there are no students waiting to play (which is usually)

Students here don’t take tennis etiquette seriously. They’re kids just ruin it for everyone.

Well anyway, until something is done, I’m going to keep my tennis body card and sit on the list of necessary tennis stuff.

Mustang Classifieds

Advertisements

SHARP RETURN TO THE DISTRIBUTORS

OPEN 24 HOURS

1431 F ST.

457-1214

BUYLEX, COLUMBIA, MARYLAND

OFFICE: 240-972-1440

FACsimile: 240-972-1441

RMS OFFICE: 240-972-1441

FACsimile: 240-972-1441

LOW CAR INSURANCE RATES

For Students

* Who have no more than 2 traffic tickets

* Who have had their California Drivers License for 3 years

* Who have had no accidents

Low Car Insurance Rates

For Students

1124 Nipomo

543-2539

Strand-Murrell Agency