Handicapped children learn to get involved

Because of the efforts of the late Chris N. Jesperson, California assemblyman and educator, San Luis Obispo County has a school set up primarily for orthopedically and physically handicapped students.

The third time may not be the charm—at least for the Student Affairs Council.

After holding only two meetings during the first month of classes, SAC listed only two items on the council agenda Wednesday. The first item was a characteristic slowdown that has plagued SAC by sloveness; delays caused the council.

Pete King’s light-noodle jabs against non-students using Cal Poly tennis courts deserves to be read by the people in power on campus even though the letter has a couple of factual statements.

The bare fact is that a 14,000 student body has the same number of courts (10 back of the gym) that 1,300 students had when the courts were built. This is pretty poor planning. However, it is not too late to take some action if the administration spirit is willing. When the lights are finally installed a definite system of reservations and rules student’s first choice can be one of them can be implemented. Players, whether students or "gastonic locusts," must observe sensible posted rules by giving way to waiting players after a set or a time limit.

Most of all, honor and manners are most effective when someone of authority can be around to keep an eye on the violators (who are in ANY age group). After all, this is and has been the fastest-growing sport in the entire country for years. But when will the athletic or City Recreation administrators and the master planners of the campus recognize it? Pete King has done you a service by calling attention to a problem that can be solved.

Swine unit switch to housing protested

Editor: In the Oct. 23 Mustang Daily, Executive Dean Gerard was quoted as saying the old swine unit area was being considered as a site for married student housing. While I understand the housing difficulty of the married student, I MUST PROTEST! This land is prime levelled farming land that has been used as such, since the swine unit was moved. Land of this quality MUST BE PROTECTED AND USED AS FARM LAND, not housing. Our farm land, America’s greatest natural resource, is being put into housing at an alarming rate. Los Angeles and Orange Counties, some of the best farm land in the state, are already lost.

Because this land is too valuable to be put into housing, may I suggest using the land at Grand Avenue and Black Street for the married student housing area? This land is not level, but it is also not a hillside and is much more suited to housing. Please remember that good farming land is priceless and when it is covered by a city, it is lost forever. We must protect our greatest natural resource, our farm land, so let’s start here at Cal Poly, by saving the old swine unit area for just that purpose.

What major item do you plan to buy after graduation?

Carlos Vee, Journalism, Sophomore:
A ticket to South America. I want to get away from here for a while, besides taking a vacation. I also want to go to Mexico.

Dave Larsen, City and Regional Planning, Sophomore:
I'll get a set of new clothes. Right now that is my greatest material need. I'll get good dress and work clothes.

Kathy Patton, Child Development, Junior:
A sewing machine. I like to sew but I don't like my mother's machine. I have everything else I want.

John Stubbins, Economics, Junior:
A better car. I have a '68 Plymouth Pury now. It gets me where I want to go, but it only gets 15 to 16 miles to the gallon.

Jim Muldooney, Business Administration, Senior:
I'd like to get a couple of acres to build a house on. I'd like to live in Colorado or Canada.

Lynn Murray, Ornamental Horticulture, Junior:
A piano. Other things seem to come easier. I enjoy playing the piano.

John Gerbo, Natural Resources Management, Senior:
A 38-foot sailboat. I'm a sailor and I enjoy sailing. I want a boat to sail in the ocean, lakes and bays.
I'M 4 delays in SAC.

Slowness makes action a support taken by temporary abeyance Plotkin had placed on the EOP money, according to Chandler, was pursued to the actions of a support taken by the Executive Cabinet and SAC."
