Carving pumpkins delight to children

Tina Raymond and Petya Ford work on an appropriately ghoulish expression for his jack-o-lantern at the Delta Sigma Phi annual pumpkin carve.

Frightening films to be presented

Halloween arrives here a day early for the Mustang Daily staff as the Department of Student Activities presents "Fright Night." Admission is only 50 cents.
Sheriff candidate's skills doubted

Editor:

I am a taxpayer and registered voter in San Luis Obispo County and have much interest in the coming election. Therefore, I attended the candidates' night, Oct. 23, put on by the League of Women Voters in San Luis Obispo. Something I heard there and something I later read in my sample ballot "qualifications statement" made me wonder about the honesty of Jerry Pearce. Sheriff—Coroner candidate.

Wednesday evening he stated that he did not possess his intermediate P.O.B.T. certificates. In fact he stated that certificates were not very important to him. When I read his statement of qualifications in my sample ballot he stated that he has all the necessary certificates of his position and they were too numerous to list there. This may seem like a small discrepancy to some people, but I feel if a man can't be honest concerning his qualifications, is he really going to run a clean, honest department?

I want a Sheriff who will continue running the fine department we have presently and make it even better. I plan to vote for Undersheriff John H. Pierce for Sheriff—Coroner, because that's what he is doing right now!

Rich farmland likely locale for housing

Dear Editor:

It is distressing to note that the Administration again seems to be acting more in haste than in thought. I am referring to the proposal to locate married student housing on some of the finest intensive-farming land in the nation. While not in opposition to the housing program, it seems to me that the administration of this university (containing one of the largest and best schools of agriculture in the nation) should be more aware of the implications of replacing that prime land and the food it can produce for you and I, with asphalt driveways, cement plazas, and walls to wall housing. This is a time when most people are newly waking up to the realities of agriculture and its limitations.

People are beginning to realize the problems involved in not only feeding the rest of the world but ourselves as well. Southern Calif. exists in the fact that while the best farm land also makes the easiest land to build on, it is not always desirable to take that option. Look at the freeways, the high-rise, and tract house, and then try to imagine the food that has been lost because the best land was the land demised for the sake of progress. We are paying the price for our short sightedness in our food bills and food shortages.

Is Cal Poly really a leader in the community? If it is, then what are we advocating for ourselves? Can Cal Poly's motto "Learn by Doing" be fine but shouldn't we also learn by observing the mistakes of the past? Surely in a campus of over 6000 acres we can find a location that will provide housing without destroying that especially valuable natural resource. Ability to help feed you and I.

Believe death a part of life, yet both very ‘special things’

Editor:
I can understand the reason for your editorial on death and feel that the fact that you used the word ‘special’ in an explanation indicates something about us. Animals experience pain but don’t ask why. I think, too, that contrary to your statement, what bothers us about death is that it is far away. (one breath, one step) and death is related to living. Is death related to what we experience at death or is it not?

Human life has a super value to me because Jesus (God) is the maker of it, and all life would end without Him. He stepped down. The ‘priceless’ value of life, however, comes in its relation to the creator, without which it is a faint reflection of genius. The great thing about a Rembrandt is the painting, but that it is the expression of a personality who really exists.

Without him we have no art, without God we have no ‘life’.

At a risk of some prejudice (just what I’d expect a Jesus freak to say) I would like to refer to Him. Jesus said that He contained the essence of life. That is either ‘heavy’ or lie. He did not deny religion, or Christian religion contained that, but that He did. He said that if I believe in His payment for all (wrong) I would have an abundant life now, life above circumstances, and eternal life.

Cal Poly accused of undemocratic attitude

Editor:
I am sure you will agree the California Polytechnic State University as an institution is supposed to be an example of the American democratic theme. In other words CPSPU is supposed to represent the theme of democracy. I find that CPSPU does not, my senses do not lie to me.

After coming to Cal Poly, I see that the institution expresses majority rule and disregards the minority. I must express confusion, distrust, alienation and anger. I protest, why isn’t there a larger ethnic array of musical entertainment and films?

Saturdays plague girl volleyballers

by PETE KING

Like for most other students here, those Saturday mornings following wild Friday nights are just pure murder for the women on the Cal Poly women's volleyball team.

Once again, the Mustangs suffered their last Friday against Long Beach but then fell to UC Irvine in a Saturday morning game.

It's been that all season.

 according to volleyball coach Ann Windolph. She said Cal Poly is the only school in the five-team Southern Women's Intramural Athletic Conference that has to play back-to-back games.

The other schools, all located in the Los Angeles area, play one game in the middle of the week and one game in the weekend. Cal Poly can't do that because of the distance between this school and the other league teams.

Those teams are Long Beach, Irvine, Cal State Fullerton and Whittier.

The win and loss over the weekend pushed the Mustang's league record to 1-1 with five league contests remaining. Had Cal Poly beaten Irvine, however, it would have been in first place.

But it wasn't even close. Irvine needed two games to win the best-of-three match. The scores were 15-13 and 15-0.

Miss Windolph said that the two games were closer than the listed scores indicate. She added that neither team played very well at all and had Cal Poly not had a game the previous night, the Mustangs could have beaten the Anteaters.

"The team as a whole played better body," Miss Windolph said of her Mustangs. "As usual, we had trouble getting ready for the second game of the weekend. Our skills are good and compared well with the other team's, but Irvine was fresh and rainin' to go.

"Irvine didn't play that well," she said.

Windolph added that when Cal Poly plays Irvine, there will be a file from Cal Poly.

The Mustangs won 10-15, 15-9, 15-0 Friday night against Long Beach, in a big win for Cal Poly. The Mustang players regarded the 9-15 Saturday night loss more as a better team than Irvine. Indeed, Miss Windolph said that Long Beach played better volleyball than Irvine.

Despite the opposite outcome of the two matches.

The coach said, however, that Long Beach will be super-ready when Cal Poly travels south to face the Irvine in November. She said the Long Beach coach was upset with the loss and that the Long Beach players didn't think the Mustangs had much of a volleyball program.

Rivalry with Miss Windolph for outstanding play over the weekend went to Glad Lucius, whose trickly serves gained Cal Poly 11 points in the Long Beach match. Cindy Cichon who played well at all and had Cal Poly not been that neither team played .

The Cal Poly record is 1-2 in league play and 3-1 overall.
