SAC discusses
GSU litigation
Meets behind closed doors to review possible lawsuits

by FRED VULC

Any meetings with a body's legal counsel concerning possible litigation pendants anticipated are not required to be open to the general public. The SAC General Counsel is meeting behind closed doors to review possible lawsuits that the GSU might be involved in. The SAC believes that this is necessary to protect the university and its students from potential legal problems. The meeting is not open to the public, and SAC members are not required to be present except in special circumstances.

The SAC will consider filing a lawsuit against the GSU, as SAC representatives believe that the GSU has violated the Brown Act. The SAC is meeting to discuss the merits of this lawsuit and to decide whether to proceed with it.

The SAC has decided not to file a lawsuit against the GSU, as SAC representatives believe that the Brown Act does not apply to the GSU. The SAC will continue to monitor the situation and may take further action if necessary.
by BOB MCNTEE

It was a year and a half in the making, and now after raven 81,000 passenger mark. 52,000 plus now making, and now after raven 81,000 passenger mark. According to Wayne Peterson, assistant director of public works, surveys were distributed throughout the area, trying to find out how many people would need the new system. Half of those questioned two years ago said they had a car available to them and 70 per cent said they held drivers license. In a survey done recently, the figures dropped to 8 and 60 per cent in the two categories, meaning that more people are riding the bus who have no other means of transportation. Peterson said that 81 per cent of the riders are Cal Poly students. The next most frequent riders are employed persons and grade school and high school students. Senior citizens and retired persons make up the smallest amount of daily riders. The system operates seven days a week from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. except Thursday when service is extended to 10 p.m. Service will be extended evenings, Monday through Friday, two weeks prior to Christmas for the convenience of shoppers.

The fares are 80 cents with a free transfer. On Thursday evenings and all Sunday the fare is 10 cents. Peterson said that there is a proposal before the City Council to allow all-day passes for 80 cents.

Girl Scouts sell calendars

A fund raising calendar sale, sponsored by the Tree Condado Girl Scout Council of San Luis Obispo and Morro Bay, will be held from November 18 to December 1. The calendar is printed on high grade glossy paper, and is priced at $1.00. Proceeds will help support educational and character building programs. Tree Condados serves girls ages six through 17 years of age.

For further information, contact these numbers: 944-7882, 543-4840, 773-9897, 480-1439, and 480-1199.

Problem of GSU get secret look...

Bob Walters of the Activities Planning Center suggested a section F be added to the article membership. The section, approved by SAC, reads, "There shall be no additional membership requirements." After this was resolved, SAC Chief Justice Greg Fowler questioned two additional sections dealing with assurances that members would not violate any laws. Fowler pointed out California law makes a homosexual act illegal.

To answer this, Mary Anne Crawford from the School of Business and Social Sciences said the council homosexuality is not illegal in this state—merely a homosexual act. She referred to a statement Carras had made during the executive session—the only reference to the special meeting all night.

After the debate had dragged on until almost 11:30 p.m. Matt Loudon of the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources made a motion to delay the vote until the Dec. 4 meeting.

Loudon cited the Veteran's Day holiday as one reason various members did not get together to discuss the bylaws and another reason to delay any action on the GSU bylaws. The other reason, according to Loudon, was to give time for individuals to "gather evidence pertinent to these bylaws.

SAC chairman Mike Hurtado, asked after the meeting about the questions of the bylaws, claimed they were receiving a more critical review because they represented the governing laws of the controversial group.

According to the SAC chairman, "It's a matter of everybody's constitutional rights being violated.

Kubrick film to be shown

"A Clockwork Orange" will be shown by the ASI Films Committee on Saturday night, Nov. 17, in Chumash Auditorium. Produced by Stanley Kubrick, whose films include "Dr. Strangelove" and "2001: A Space Odyssey." "A Clockwork Orange" envisions a near future where life is dominated by violence and government repression. The film will be shown at 7:00 and 9:45 p.m. Admission price is 75 cents.

John Stewart will perform

John Stewart, purveyor of western rock, will be appearing in concert Sunday at 8 p.m. in the University Union. Seating for the concert will be festival style. Tickets bought in advance are 80 cents for students and 80.30 for non-students. At the door student tickets will be 80 and 80.3 for non-students. Tickets are available at the Information desk in the University Union.

The concert is co-sponsored by the ASI Concert Committee and the Special Events Committee.
John Gordon

Inmates discover crafts

"We're learning a trade for the street," says jewelry maker Ron Stephenson. Stephenson, as the other inmates call him, lives at the California Men's Colony. He explains a program for the prisoners that provides a constructive learning tool and a personal satisfaction that is hard to achieve in a prison.

Known as hobby to the prisoners, the program is voluntary and is done on the inmates' free time. Woodcraft, ceramics, painting, leatherwork, and jewelry making are among the crafts learned by the men.

Another inmate, Don McDowell, explained that the self-motivation by the men in the program is its greatest benefit.

"People want help, someone to show them the finer points they haven't picked up on their own," Steph explained. "It should be, amongst the other Inmates, waiting list to use the tools and someone at Cal Poly to share ideas in design and technical aspects of jewelry making. Steph reasoned that it was due to his inability to communicate that he landed in prison. "It hasn't been until I've got into jewelry that I've been able to communicate," said the convict, who is serving time for first degree murder.

Most of the men in the handicraft program have a lower education, says Steph, but those inmates are not involved in this type of program.

An arts and crafts show is usually held during the month of August, but wasn't held this year because of declining response in the past and a fear that the economy and fuel shortages might be attributed to the low percentage for the Inmate Welfare Fund that goes to purchase athletic equipment, TV's, etc.

Hotline
544-6162

Copies 3 per

Terra cotta plant co.

"the indoor plant people"

quality plants at budget prices

ceramic planters
macrame hangers

978 foothill across from the B of A open 10-6 Mon.-Sat.

Inmate Don McDowell at the decoupaged print and frame program, which includes ceramics and leatherwork.

Steph believes that corresponding with someone who knows about his craft might provide for him a way of solving technical problems, as well as finding out about new clothing fads that would be important to his designs.

"We're learning a trade for the street," says jewelry maker Ron Stephenson.

Sierra Club

The Sierra Club will hold a hike leader orientation outing at the Morro Bay State Park Natural History Museum on Saturday at 10 a.m. Lloyd Dunkel and Park Ranger Dave Duncan will give instruction concerning resources in San Luis Obispo County. Dunkel will give a slide presentation to orient the group to Morro Bay, followed by a tour through the museum.

John Stewart in Concert

This Sunday, November 17 8pm
Chumash Auditorium
Advance tickets on sale now
Students $2 General $3
At door price goes up 50c-get your tickets early!!
Friday, November 11, 1971

Poly to play Friday. November 11, 1971. Poly to play and are playing red-hot football.

The Mustang football team will invade the home arena of Idaho State University Saturday. The Mustangs will travel to Pocatello, Idaho to meet the Bengals in their Mini-dome an indoor stadium with artificial turf.

The game would be a hot one even if it were played outside in the Idaho cold. Both teams got off to slow starts. Both teams have reversed those dismal beginnings just once. The University of Nevada-Reno, with a wild one—37-33 win over Idaho State has definite 'stangs talent in their backfield. Both teams have won three straight games to even the Idaho record at 6-4. In the Mini-dome, both teams have lost just once. Mustang coach Joe Harper is keeping a wary eye on Idaho. "I think Idaho State has definite momentum going with three straight wins," I was impressed the way the team hung in there in some very adverse situations and came back to beat Montana (8-5)."

Harper added that Idaho's strong points are its overall size and speed, the Rocket's effective running game, and the Rocket's ability to be effective in both running and passing defenses. Trying to stop offense that offensive backfield quickness will be a Cal Poly defensive problem. The Rocket will be steadily improved throughout the season.

After giving Boise State an out-of-season Christmas present—56 yards in the season opener—the Idaho State offense has slowed down to spellinger ways. Cal Poly now is giving an average of 20.1 yards a game.

Horse show team will begin season

The registration fee is $3 for cars.

For $8.00 per skier under 14, the 9100 will cover ski lessons, equipment rental, portraits or live TV, skis or snowboards, and other extra charges. These rates require three years verified driving experience, not more than one minor violation, and a valid driver's license. These rates are not met.

This includes special motorcycle packages available to members of the West Coast Intercollegiate Horse Show Association. Last season Fresno State won the high-point team award, with Cal Poly coming in second.

The show will include English classes, Western classes, showmanship and Kindergarten classes. There will also be a Novice class for the horse that can not walk more than three first places in a certain event.

Friday, a high-price and trainer from Woodside, will judge the above.

Silver awards will be given to first place winners and ribbons will be awarded all other placers down to sixth place. Entries are $1 a car to play Idaho this. Entries close Nov. 14. Entry blanks for horse show action will kickoff tomorrow night. The rally will be sponsored by the Mustang Baseball Diamond (8-10). Registration will be held at the Mustang Parking Lot by the Horse Show Office at 6:30 p.m. A beginners meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. A beginners meeting will be held at 8:00 p.m. The rally will be divided into three classes: beginners, novices and experts. Trophies will be awarded to the winners.

The show would be a hot one even if it were played outside in the Idaho cold. Both teams got off to slow starts. Both teams have reversed those dismal beginnings just once. The University of Nevada-Reno, with a wild one—37-33 win over Idaho State has definite 'stangs talent in their backfield. Both teams have won three straight games to even the Idaho record at 6-4. In the Mini-dome, both teams have lost just once. Mustang coach Joe Harper is keeping a wary eye on Idaho. "I think Idaho State has definite momentum going with three straight wins," I was impressed the way the team hung in there in some very adverse situations and came back to beat Montana (8-5)."

Harper added that Idaho's strong points are its overall size and speed, the Rocket's effective running game, and the Rocket's ability to be effective in both running and passing defenses. Trying to stop offense that offensive backfield quickness will be a Cal Poly defensive problem. The Rocket will be steadily improved throughout the season.

After giving Boise State an out-of-season Christmas present—56 yards in the season opener—the Idaho State offense has slowed down to spellinger ways. Cal Poly now is giving an average of 20.1 yards a game.